THE MASSACHUSETTS CONGREGATIONAL CONFERENCE

MINUTES OF THE ONE HUNDRED TWENTY-FOURTH ANNUAL MEETING

---

WITH THE STATISTICS

DORCHESTER, MAY 17, 18, 19

THE JORDAN & MORE PRESS
BOSTON

EDITOR'S NOTE.

This final page of the 1926 volume is penned on June 26, an earlier date than for more than a dozen years, and the book will reach most of its readers before their summer vacation begins. The Year Book tables and addresses of ministers are revised as nearly as may be to July 1, and in some cases, by anticipation, to September 1.

There are several cases of ministers without address, the local scribes confessing ignorance and the state secretary unable to surpass them in these cases. The note on page 62 of the statistics is meant for every minister to read, and, if necessary, to act thereon.

Next January is so far away that the usual exhortation to promptness in Year Book reporting next winter will be omitted, lest we forget.

I. That the Massachusetts Congregational Conference continue its Committee on Missions and Apportionment on the present basis, under which the Committee is made up of nine members elected from the state at large, of whom three are chosen annually, each for a three-year term; that this Committee represent the Conference in its relations with the national Commission on Missions, particularly in the following respects:

a. In bringing before the Conference the amount proposed by the Commission on Missions as the total objective under the apportionment plan with a recommendation as to the fair share to be assumed by the Massachusetts churches.

b. In approving percentages for the distribution of Massachusetts contributions among the national societies and for work within the state.

c. In subdividing the total amounts recommended by the Massachusetts State Conference to be raised for the designated purposes and referring the amounts to the local associations and the individual churches for their acceptance.

II. That a field secretary be appointed by the Massachusetts Congregational Conference on nomination of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, concurred in by the Committee on Missions and Apportionment of the Conference.

III. That a field secretary have his office with the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society and cooperate as one of the group of workers in that society with the understanding that the officers and employees of that society will give him such cooperation as will enable him to devote his time and energy to field work both educational and promotional, in so far as this may be necessary in furthering missionary interests of the denominations.

IV. That the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society assume the salary and other expenses connected with this position of field secretary and make any necessary adjustments on this account with the Survey Committee of the Commission on Missions.

V. That the Committee on Missions and Apportionment of the Massachusetts Congregational Conference should include among its duties:

a. Cooperating with the field secretary and with the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society in the forming and carrying out of plans for the promotional work.

b. Reviewing the work of the field secretary.

c. Reporting to the Conference.

d. Acting as a check and balance in relation to the work and position of the field secretary.

VI. That the Conference recognizes and approves the existing practice by which the President of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society has represented the missionary interests of the State Conference in the national and missionary agencies and in meetings of state superintendents and authorizes the President to continue so to act.

A resolution regarding the appointment of a committee to consider the reorganization of the Conference was referred to the Business Committee.

Business Session at 4.25

The Conference assembled at the close of the meeting of the Home Missionary Society for a business session.

The reports of the Committees on Missions and Apportionment and of Inter-relation which had been considered at an earlier session were approved as a whole.

The Business Committee made the following recommendations which were adopted:

(1) The Business Committee learns with satisfaction that a meeting of the Board of Trustees of Andover Seminary has been called for the near future and that the Board of Visitors have been invited to sit with the Trustees at that meeting in a joint effort to take steps towards the solution of the problems of the Andover trusts. The Committee also learns from the Visitors that they welcome this invitation and plan to accept it.

Because this Andover situation is essentially a case for the Supreme Court, involving as it does so much of intricacy that it would be difficult for the Conference to secure a clear understanding upon which to base action, the Business Committee recommends:

1. That this Conference commend the efforts of both the Trustees and the Visitors in this very difficult responsibility; and

2. That no further action be taken on the overture of the Suffolk North Association.

(2) By reason of the changes now so rapidly transpiring in our denomination, a serious situation has risen with reference to church building in Massachusetts.

The Conference therefore recommends:

1. That in order to clear the situation for 1928 any interested groups within our state confer with the Home Missionary Society, that the President, whom we have commissioned to act for us, may present to the Survey Committee at its meeting next January a full and adequate statement of our state askings.

2. That to meet a special need present during the remainder of this year, 1926, and through 1927, the National Church Building Society be urged to increase its appropriations for work in Massachusetts.

3. That the amounts to be asked of the Church Building Society be determined in Conference between the interested groups and the Home Missionary Society.

(3) In view of the fact that there is a considerable number of delinquent pledges to the Pilgrim Memorial Fund from Massachusetts, Voted, that the Conference recommends to the Congregational churches of Massachusetts that they make earnest endeavors to secure payment of such pledges where this course seems warranted.

(4) Resolved, that the members of the Massachusetts Conference of Congregational Churches earnestly urge the observance and the strict enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment and of the laws enacted in support of it.

(5) We place ourselves on record as opposed to the pending initiative measure which has a tendency to weaken Sunday observance by permitting commercialized sports on that day, and we urgently appeal to the people of our churches to defeat the measure.

(6) Recognizing the importance to our whole denomination of having a strong, free evangelical church in the Nation's Capital to represent the broad spirit of Congregationalism, and recognizing the splendid work historically done and now being carried on by First Congregational Church, Washington, D. C., to great congregations, and approving the action of our National Congregational Council in its determination, with the cooperation of such individuals and churches as will respond, to make successful the campaign for a new and much needed building and supporting funds for an enlarged ministry in this great center:

Therefore, this Conference hereby records its hearty sympathy with and endorsement of this project, and bespeaks the earnest support of our Congregational constituency that success may crown the endeavor.

(7) Voted, that a representative committee be appointed to consider and report to the 1927 meeting what changes if any are necessary in the organization of the State Conference to meet new conditions that have arisen in recent years.

(8) The Massachusetts Congregational Conference recommends to the associations of the state that in view of the national plan of missionary reorganization and especially the urgent need of taking advantage of the splendid organization of the women in the Woman's Board and Branches and the Massachusetts Home Missionary Union and Alliances, the reorganization of the Associations be considered with a view of utilizing women to a greater extent and broadening the scope of the Association activities. The Conference suggests the establishment in the Associations of regular committees on (1) Missions, (2) Religious Education, (3) Social Relations, and (4) Young People, as well as an Executive Committee.

We recommend that the Nominating Committee of the Conference be requested to nominate five persons to act as representatives of the Conference, to consult on this matter with the Committee of seven appointed by the Woman's Board and the Massachusetts Home Missionary Union for a similar purpose.

(9) The success of every Conference rests in no small measure upon the convenience of its setting and the generosity of its welcoming host. This Conference of 1926 has been blessed with a most helpful hospitality. Our own Pilgrim Church has been assisted by two sister institutions, the Baker Memorial Methodist Episcopal Church and the Stoughton Street Baptist Church. To those who have assisted and to the Pastor and people of this church who have given so unstintedly of their building and of themselves we give this expression of our hearty appreciation.

REPORT OF THE SECRETARY

The traditional impulse of Congregationalism is independence, a centrifugal force. Perhaps that is why this Conference so seldom comes to the Hub. With 25 per cent of our membership in the three Suffolk Associations, we have met in Suffolk County but four times since 1858 when we last met in Dorchester. Very fittingly do we today exhibit the newer centripetal force of our denomination by seeking the Hub. What a change there has been in Massachusetts Congregationalism since that day, 68 years ago, when this body last met in this town, nine years before it became a part of Boston, and nine years also before this Pilgrim Church was born! Thirty per cent of our churches today, 183, were not in existence then, and our membership was less than 70,000 as compared with almost 160,000 today. Then there were but three churches with as many as 600 members; today there are 69.

Our church roll in the Year Book carries 603 names, the same as last year, the Scandinavian of Lynn having withdrawn and Union of Springfield entered. Anticipating next year's report it may be added that within a fortnight two other churches in Springfield have come into our fellowship through Hampden Association,—Memorial, an undenominational church in splendid isolation for 60 years, but Congregational when its women talked missions, and the new church in East Springfield.

Eight churches made no reply to repeated requests for annual statistics. The Home Missionary Society furnished partial reports for Malden, Swedish, New Boston and Sherborn; but Hyannis, Fall River First, Orleans, Seekonk and Islington maintained an imperturbable silence. The Fourth of Haverhill, reduced to five women, maintains no active organization, but those women do their bit for missions, so that the church is credited with more in the apportionment totals than 46 other churches combined with a membership of 3,561. Four of the 46 gave $1 each; the Haverhill church gave $5.

Our church membership has reached a total of 158,131, a net gain of 2,862. While not as large an increase as in some recent years it is one-third larger than the average in the experience of your present statistician; and it might have been more this year had not three large churches taken occasion simultaneously to prune their membership, Boston Park Street cutting off 340; Springfield First, 273, and Malden First 259. Other churches swelled the column of roll revision to a total of 2,820, 23 per cent larger than ever before. Additions on confession, 6,536, and total additions, 10,509, are each second best; but additions by letter, 3,973, fall below the figures of the five preceding years. On the other hand, removals by death, 1,979, and by letter, 2,848, are well below the average of recent years. Among the district associations Middlesex Union leads in relative gain, over 5 per cent; while four, Barnstable, Berkshire South, Hampshire East and Worcester North, show trifling losses aggregating 50. Roll revision in one Berkshire church would account four times over for the net loss, and one in Worcester, North, five times over.

Aside from the five churches not reporting, 110 had no additions, and 152, an unusually small number, had no additions on confession. This shows that the other churches averaged almost 15 on confession. Only 195 churches showed a net loss in membership as compared with 212 the year before. Adult baptisms, 2,457, are the most in eight years, and infant baptisms jump to a new high record of 3,981.

The Missionary and Apportionment Committee has already put into your hands a study of our benevolences for the past year, the apportionment total being $17,000 above the previous year and about $5,000 better than ever. But our per capita giving, $4.38, was only 3 cents larger than in 1924, and 15 cents smaller than in 1923. Aside from apportionment, undenominational gifts show a gain of $52,000, special Congregational contributions a loss of $46,000, and the Pilgrim Memorial Fund a drop of $80,000. This last is not surprising; the five-year pledges have for the most part been paid in. Out total benevolences stand at $1,057,715, a drop of $57,394. On the other hand we paid $44,365 more than ever for home expenses, the total being $3,645,282, with 50 churches not reporting; and the value of our property increased well over $1,000,000 to a total of over $29,000,000. Just a quarter of our increased home expenses reappears in the salary column, the average pastor getting a boost of $23 from $2,083 to $2,106.

For the first time in history Massachusetts sent a full quota of delegates to the National Council at Washington. At Springfield in 1923, the quota was filled by creating a few new delegates on the spot to fill vacancies; at Washington the whole group of 76 brought official credentials from home. Let us try to do as well at Omaha next spring.

The obituary list for the conference year carries 20 names, to which should be added three others in the preceding year not listed here before. Only two of the 23 were ordained since 1900, while seven date back 50 years or more, the senior being Henry A. Stevens, ordained in 1861, and the average life of all since ordination being 41 years. Six times the active pastorate was invaded by death, and two more were emeritus pastors; while two of the 11 listed as retired had only within the year left the pastorate. Two had missionary oversight of districts on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts, and one was employment secretary of a great industrial corporation. The 40 days just before Lent were filled with tragedy. On January 6, Burke F. Leavitt was killed by an automobile in Brookline. Two days later M. A. Dougherty was similarly killed in Cambridge and George H. Tilton died. On January 28, Newton M. Hall dropped dead in a Boston subway.

On February 6 and 11, W. W. Dornan and C. P. Marshall, both ex-pastors of Plymouth, ended their bitter fight with cancer. On the 8th news came of the passing of Fred Rouse on sick leave in Florida, and on the 14th Edward A. Chase was suddenly snatched away. Let me very briefly call the roll, regretting that this occasion forbids me opportunity for more than the barest hint concerning the quality and influence of this score of brethren who have won earlier promotion than we to the consummation of our hopes.

Charles B. Atwood spent 40 years with a dozen Vermont churches and then came to Georgetown in 1917 to spend his retiring years. Andrew Campbell was 26 years with our churches in Deerfield, Webster, Groveland and Orange, and was just beginning an auspicious pastorate in Peterboro, N. H., when his work was suddenly stopped. Edward A. Chase had been 41 years in Hampden, Lawrence, Wollaston and Beverly, and only within the year had retired from the pastorate. Will S. Coleman was in his first year's work at Montello, having come from one previous Congregational pastorate at Kennebunk, Me. Marshall M. Cutter was one of my predecessors as conference secretary. He had been pastor at Ashland and West Medford 14 years, was district secretary of the American Tract Society for a time, and was in business after 1886. His term as conference secretary was from 1881 to 1888. William W. Dornan, trained at Bangor and Yale, had his first pastorate with the United Presbyterians, coming back to us in 1902, for service at Holbrook, Plymouth and Whitman.

Michael Angelo Dougherty held a roving commission, with a number of brief pastorates, the longest of 5 years at West Newbury and the latest at Canton, 1897–99. Lincoln B. Goodrich was 25 years at Marlboro and Taunton. In 1921, he became an apostle of our Home Missionary Society to the weak churches of southeastern Massachusetts in the Old Colony and on the Cape, a pastor at large with fruitful ministry to both clergy and laity. A sudden illness of a day or two removed him all too soon. Newton M. Hall was a preacher. For 22 years he was pastor of the North Church in Springfield and 4 years emeritus, worthily following the late President Seelye and Washington Gladden there. Separately, and jointly with Prof. Irving Wood, he was author of several popular books on the Bible. Wilfred D. Harrison, youngest on the list, had only 11 years of ministry, being in our churches at Dracut, Romsey in Dorchester, and North Chelmsford since 1917. Stephen B. Jacobian had rendered home missionary service to the Armenians of Boston and Fresno, Calif. Frederick I. Kelley, 15 years at Pigeon Cove, Peabody and Dracut, kept his fellowship with Essex, South, although pastor at East Derry, N. H., since 1904.

Burke F. Leavitt had pastorates in Portland, Me., and Chicago before coming back to his native state for service at Melrose Highlands, Belmont, and East Boston, his active ministry covering 49 years. Carl A. Lundgren was another absentee from Essex, South, his service to Swedish brethren in our state covering a dozen years up to 1902 with pastorates at Pigeon Cove and Waltham. Charles P. Marshall came from Maine in 1900 and for a score of years preached in Lawrence, Westford, Quincy and Plymouth. Then he practiced the gospel as employment manager of the Plymouth Cordage Co., touching the whole force and the whole community for good. Archibald McCord was two years in Taunton and 10 in Randolph, after earlier ministries in Keene and Providence. Ebenezer N. Pierce had been for 29 years in another denomination before he began at North Falmouth in 1910. Thenceforth he was numbered with us, so that "his last days were his best days," spent in partial service and partial retirement. Frederick T. Rouse had been with Pilgrim Church, Worcester, six years, but back of that was a record of forceful ministry across the continent and touching Hawaii, his longest pastorates being in Appleton, Wis., and Omaha. Henry A. Stevens was 20 years at Melrose, Brockton and Brighton from 1861; then 20 years out of the state, and back in 1901 to serve at Georgetown and Rochester until he retired in 1913 at the age of 77, living on to 89. George H. Tilton was 40 years a pastor, up to 1914, all but a few years being spent at Rehoboth and North Woburn. Cyrus L. D. Younkin, more than half a century in service, gave 35 years to the North End Mission in Boston, and later, still zealous to serve, was pastor at Byfield and Wayland. Thomas A. Emerson, ordained in 1869, was 12 years at Braintree and seven at Hadley, besides a 15-year pastorate at Clinton, Conn. He retired in 1910 and died last month. Today was held the funeral of Silas P. Cook, emeritus county missionary of the Berkshires. More than half of his 56 years of ministry was given to the little churches among the Berkshire hills, and he held pastorates in Chelsea and Northfield besides earlier service in other states.

And so I pause. "I come to bury Cæsar, not to praise him." These names recall to you memories more eloquent than any necrologist could hope to depict.

REPORT OF THE AUDITING COMMITTEE

I have examined the accounts of Ernest L. Miller, Treasurer, for the year ending April 30, 1926, and find them correct to the best of my knowledge and belief.

He reports $17,747.71 as collected from the different Associations, which, with the balance of $4,247.11 at the beginning of the year, makes a total of $21,994.82 to account for. Payments amounting to $20,261.67 were made, which were approved by H. L. Packard.

The balance at the end of the year amounting to $1,733.15 was found to agree with the amount on deposit with the Beacon Trust Company to the credit of the Conference.

A bond of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts for the sum of $500.00 and in the name of the Conference is in the keeping of the Treasurer.

REPORT OF THE CONGREGATIONAL BOARD OF PASTORAL SUPPLY

REV. ARTHUR J. COVELL, SECRETARY

BOSTON, MASS., April 1, 1926.

The eleventh Annual Report of the Congregational Board of Pastoral Supply to the Congregational Conferences of New England is herewith respectfully presented.

The work of Pastoral Supply this past year has reflected all its varied phases without manifesting any new dominant tendency. Statistically we show an improvement over last year in eight of the ten points at which comparison has been made. Spiritually we have striven to realize constantly that the quality of the work is of supreme importance to the best life of our churches. Practically the different types of churches and ministers have shown themselves in about their usual proportions. The number of vacant churches is not large, judged by past standards, particularly if we consider only those with adequate fields and a sufficient salary. Churches as a whole are learning the wisdom of carefully looking up a man's past record before issuing a call. Indiscriminate candidating is still practised, although less freely than formerly. There have been conspicuous instances in the year of churches following the methods continually emphasized in our work as ideal in securing a pastor, and the assurance is borne in upon us that wise ways of securing a minister are increasingly prevailing. And then faith is shaken when the man who wants more candidates, and who can always be found, is able to upset the careful conviction of a careful committee, and commit the congregation to a long period of candidating. The candidating fever then must run its course, and when it wanes a pastor will be called. But there might have been a saving of power and a wiser conclusion if the fever had not been developed. In spite of discouraging exceptions, however, the careful method of testing men by their real fitness rather than by limiting the decision to the pulpit impression is prevailing, and our Congregational Churches are steadily learning wisdom, through experience, in the matter of pastoral supply.

In response to requests for aid in securing pastors we have rendered service this past year to 304 churches, 19 more than in the preceding year. In view of the fact that we are the official organ of the New England Conferences, it is natural that the greater portion of these churches should be from the New England states. They are, however, from 21 states and 2 districts. Of these churches there were in Maine, 33; in New Hampshire, 28; in Vermont, 24; in Massachusetts, 123; in Rhode Island, 1; in Connecticut, 30; in New York, 21; in Illinois, 6; in Minnesota, 5; in New Jersey, 5; in Florida, 4; in Wisconsin, 4; in Michigan, 3; in Ohio, 3; in the District of Columbia, 2; in Kansas, 2; in Louisiana, 2; in Missouri, 2; in Nebraska, 2; in the Canal Zone, 1; in Iowa, 1; in Oregon, 1; and in South Carolina, 1.

In this statement of service rendered we have not included the furnishing of occasional or temporary supplies nor commendations for positions outside the pastorate.

So far as information has come to the office, the number of pastoral settlements in which the Board had an important part was 90. In this statement we have not taken account of arrangements with ministers for less than six months, nor of successful commendations for positions kindred to but outside the pastorate. It is frequently true, especially with churches at a distance, that a settlement is made without notification being sent to us.

Of the Churches conferring with the Board this past year about pastoral settlement, 48 had less than 100 members; 156 had from 100 to 300 members; while 100 had more than 300 members. Of these same churches 93 paid a salary of less than $1,200 and parsonage; 120 paid from $1,200 to 2,000 and parsonage; while 91 paid more than $2,000 and parsonage. The number of churches with the larger membership and paying the larger salary increased during the year.

During the year opportunities for preaching were furnished 260 men, of whom 118 were candidates for settlement. In most cases repeated opportunities were given.

The Secretary has travelled on Board business during the year more than 6,800 miles.

The number of letters sent out from the office this past year was 6,105, several hundred more than for the preceding year.

The number of occasional supplies and the total number of appointments made for the year are larger than for some years past.

The Treasurer's account, with the Auditor's statement, will be found in the appendix.

The office fees are larger than for two years past. The amount received for the Secretary's preaching is the largest for any year in the history of the Board, with the exception of one year when the amount was less than $17.00 larger than in the present year.

The Treasurer's report from the constituent New England Conferences indicates the following:
Maine: Paid in full for 1925.
New Hampshire: Paid in full for 1925.
Vermont: Paid in full for 1925, and $71.13 for 1926.
Massachusetts: Paid in full to April 30, 1926.
Rhode Island: Paid in full to March 31, 1926.
Connecticut: Paid in full for 1925, and $850.00 for 1926.

Since there are variations in the times and methods of payment of the different states it may save confusion to report specifically. Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, and Connecticut begin their year January 1, and compute the 1 5/6c per member from the Year Book at hand at the beginning of the calendar year. Massachusetts begins her year January 1, but changes her basis of computation May 1, taking the figures of the new Year Book for the balance of the year. Rhode Island's year begins April 1, and the figures of the Year Book issued January 1 are used by this state.

Interest in the work of Pastoral Supply is shown by inquiries received each year concerning our methods. These inquiries come from different denominations and sometimes from other countries. Some years ago one of the County Congregational Associations of England put into practice a modified form of our work. A few years ago we had extended correspondence with Baptist officials who proposed to model closely after our Board. A Baptist book has referred to our work as the most successful effort yet known to meet the needs of Congregationally governed churches in securing pastors. This past year we have had rather full correspondence with a Bishop of one of the Methodist denominations.

In the past few months there has been formed in our own fellowship the Mid-West Bureau of Ministerial Information (Congregational), with Illinois, Missouri, Nebraska, No. Dakota, and Wisconsin as co-operating state conferences. While this work will be carried on differently from ours, yet it is in harmony with three principles which we have steadily advocated in the past ten or twelve years in conference with the Secretaries and Committees of the National Council and in gatherings of the state Secretaries and Superintendents. First, our Directors have reached the clear conviction that sectional boards, developed in accordance with the ideals of their constituency, would prove most effective. On the one hand the state agency is not a large enough unit, and on the other hand a national agency is open to the two-fold objection of concentrating too much authority in itself, and of becoming formal and bureaucratic through lack of sufficiently close contact with ministers and churches. We are convinced, too, that there is advantage in having the form of organization and the methods of work in harmony with the ideals and methods of the churches in a particular section. Second, we are convinced that the most effective method is the careful one of forming a smaller board in a compact Congregational territory and letting it enlarge as it demonstrates vitality. Third, it would be most in harmony with our order, and most responsive to actual needs, if financed and directed by state conferences.

In the different annual reports an effort has been made each year to set forth the methods of the Board. It might be of interest and profit this year if some account be given of the details of the office work. One of our pastors, who has been closely acquainted with New England missionary work, found his ideas of the work of an organization kindred to ours revolutionized when he himself became a Secretary. Some new ideas as to the detailed work done and the responsibilities borne in the office would be begotten in the mind of anyone who might be summoned to the position of Secretary of the Board of Pastoral Supply.

The primary object of the Board as stated in the by-laws is "to secure for the Congregational churches the most effective pastoral service." This is our fundamental task and involves doing all that may be needful for this end. In his suggestions to his successor the Secretary of the original Massachusetts Board wrote this first of all: "The first business of the office is the gathering of information respecting ministers, which may be furnished to representaives of churches asking for it and having a right to its possession. Knowledge of the churches is also very desirable. Information should be gathered diligently and in every possible way. It is a distinction of our office that it has such a store of information much more full than is anywhere else to be found. This distinction should by no means be lost. This part of the work is urgent and endless." We now have discriminating reports about the large majority of our Congregational ministry whether in this country or on the foreign field, and knowledge of practically all the Congregational ministers of New England. To follow intelligently the development of our ministers, and to know the changing life of the churches as well, is no small task.

In carrying out the work it is needful that there be extended conferences with churches and men, as well as extensive correspondence. Many of the letters sent require special care and mature consideration.

Men from other denominations are constantly knocking at the doors of our Denomination, especially in recent years when controversial questions are troubling a number of the larger denominations. While the Board does not assume the function of inducting such men into our fellowship, always realizing that this belongs properly with Councils and Associations of Churches and Ministers, and perhaps in some cases with missionary Superintendents and Secretaries, yet these men are continually coming to our Board. Probably we have some information about as large a number of ministers outside our fellowship as about Congregational ministers.

Careful copies are made of all descriptive letters, so that we may know exactly what has been said. It is realized that our letters are not private epistles but are open to official inspection.

A record is kept of all the places that have been supplied through the agency of the Board, with the exact dates of such supplies.

Likewise a record is made of the places where each individual minister has supplied and of the dates of such supplies.

The correspondence is carefully indexed so that we may quickly turn to any particular letter.

The visits of the Secretary to the theological seminaries each year have been very fruitful. In this way the office is brought into close touch with the newer men entering the ministry and with their instructors. It is of interest and profit to learn the special problems with which the theological students are concerned at different times. In the war period pacifism was often a burning issue. A few years later economic reconstruction and a living wage for the ministers were vital themes. This year psycho-analysis, behaviorism, and kindred themes are in the minds of the theological students studying in proximity to universities, and are modifying and shaping conclusions.

The conferences of the Directors and Advisers of the different states in connection with the annual meetings of the State Conferences have been of marked value in removing misunderstandings, bringing the Secretary and Directors into close contact with the real situation in the different parts of New England, and in developing new suggestions about the work.

Of great value in making the work vital and definitely helpful in specific cases have been the visits of the Secretary to pastorless churches and his supply of the pulpit. To see the congregation, preach to them, and have full conference with a committee is better than any possible long range methods of working.

The by-products of our work are numerous and important. Closely allied with our main work are kindred activities.

Our office is one of the busy places in the Congregational House. There are times when different activities converge and we are unusually busy, but there is always work. Callers at the office who ask that question of the Secretary, "Are you busy?" may not realize that we are rarely anything but busy. There have been years in succession when the work was never fully cleared up, and probably in no year of the last twelve or thirteen have there been more than a dozen times when the work could be said to be outwardly finished.

The privileges and rewards of the ministry have been emphasized by the Secretary on occasion but merit attention in this Report.

There are burdens and limitations in the ministry. To right wrongs and better conditions is the constant task of the layman as well as of the minister, and although the leader has special responsibility, yet the moral imperative for high achievement is laid upon the occupants of the pews as well as upon the man in the pulpit. Every calling has its problems, and life itself is the great adventure.

In this hurried age few people realize the multiplicity of demands upon the minister's time. Too many share the conception of the Massachusetts deacon's son who asked his father what salary their minister received. The father reported a modest but fair salary. The boy thought a moment and then said: "If he could only find something to do between Sundays he would have a pretty good thing, wouldn't he?" The "between Sunday" things are so numerous and insistent that ministers are often in a desperate plight. And yet, after all is said, the minister has more control of his time than most of the men of other professions who are in his congregation. The fact that he is in demand is but an expression of the conviction that he is vital to human activities. Every pastor realizes what heart burnings come to many people because of lack of social standing. There is a heartlessness in social life that casts a constant blight upon a great multitude. The minister, however, does not have to seek recognition in the community, for it comes to him in a natural way; not as conspicuously as in the past, but it comes.

The material rewards of the minister have increased somewhat in the last year or so. The tendency to raise salaries up to a better, fairer level has continued. Now and then there has been an instance where a backward church has not seen its way to recognize financially the great increase in living expenses, but there have been many more cases where generous increases have been made. And we may hope that in the years to come the minister will have a more adequate financial support.

But the rewards of the ministry are not in dollars and cents. It might be unfortunate if it were so. The minister's satisfactions are of a more permanent and enduring type. His highest rewards are in the imponderables. They are not altogether visible to the worldly minded, yet they are very real and pertain to the essential values of human life. In practical experience with the men in the ministry to-day we find clear indications that these men have food to eat that the hireling knoweth not of. These rewards are not limited to the men of genius who have such insight, compassion, and power of expression that the multitude always hears them gladly, but are the possession of the more ordinary men who consecrate what gifts they have to their Master's service. The instinct that drove the Christian from the troubled world of the early centuries into the monastic life still survives, but shows itself in other ways. The young man in college wonders whether his ideals will long survive in the atmosphere of the present-day business world. Many have realized the advantage of having the framework of one's calling ministering to the soul, and have realized that their best chance to be a good man was through the profession of the ministry. To have the privilege of being a spiritual refuge to men in their times of deepest distress makes it possible for right minded men to become rooted and grounded in the faith. Our modern psychology lays emphasis upon the unconscious mind, and we have much to do in the way of eliminating and sublimating and in transforming our stumbling blocks into stepping stones. The Christian ministry, seriously accepted and sacrificially followed, marvelously helps in this process. Likewise there is the reward that comes from building one's self into an institution. Our specific effort may not bring the expected result, but we are only very small parts in a larger whole. A leader in our denominational work once had a very tempting offer to take up a worthy task outside specific Christian activities. The outward rewards were very great. But he declined on the ground that there was not a sustaining moral motive in the work that would keep him steadfastly in that activity. The minister may go but the work continues. The specific church itself may pass but the Kingdom extends. One plants, another watereth, but God giveth the increase.

The greatest reward is doubtless in the attainment of the type of spiritual life which the minister discovers in his fellowship with God and man, and tries to establish in his parishes. But there are signs and promises on the way to cheer and sustain the minister in his time of weariness. The choice associations developed and the multitude of personal friendships formed in the ministry are a rare reward, and these friendships are often born in connection with life's most sacred experiences and they endure. When the bonds between minister and people are so close that a minister cannot consider a field with a triple salary in a splendid New England Church because the sacrifices of his own people for him, and their need of him at that juncture, is so great, there is a kind of riches that moth and rust doth not corrupt. If a man is in some hill town parish, and has a few words one day with a young man who chanced to be there temporarily, and years after is sought out by that same young man and assured that the word spoken in season, and wellnigh forgotten by the speaker, marked the turning point in his life and sent him out to large achievement for the Kingdom, that shows the value of seed sown by the wayside. And if a minister preaches in behalf of world-wide Christianity to his congregation of very limited means, and a score of years later some great bequest for missions comes from that preaching, that is altogether heartening. And if he longs for more of this world's goods, and his successful laymen tell him in all humility their increasing regret that they had not given their lives to the more spiritual worthwhile things, that too cheers the ministerial pilgrim on his way. In the time of awakened social consciousness it is reassuring to hear the calm, and deliberate statement of one of our leaders: "The social gospel is just as clear and authoritative to me as it was in the beginning, and the mystic and spiritual side is vastly deeper and more filled with music. I have had absolute freedom of utterance and have received personal loyalties, financial backing, and hallowed friendships far beyond the deserts of any man."

The work of the Executive Officer of the Board of Pastoral Supply has its burdens, but it also has rewards in being linked up closely with the work of the pastor. Our Board is called upon to deal with vital human interests. We are concerned with spiritual relationships. We are striving for more effective spiritual leadership, and nothing is more important in the life of our churches.

REPORT OF THE BOARD OF MINISTERIAL AID

The Board of Ministerial Aid, designated by the Conference as its agent "in the work of aiding ministers and their families," has ministered to 99 through its regular grants during the year ending December 31, 1925. Of that number, 41 were ministers, 53 were the widows, the remainder the sons or daughters of ministers. To 6 of these, and to 6 others not on the rolls, special assistance was given through emergency grants in times of stress.

More than one-half of the total number to whom the Board has ministered reside within this Commonwealth; the others are in all parts of the country, from Maine to the Pacific Coast, but represent service rendered in the churches of Massachusetts. The Congregational Board of Ministerial Relief and other state organizations have shared with the Massachusetts Board in the ministry to about one-third of the total number, because of their service in other states.

The total amount distributed in regular grants was $20,807.01. and in emergency grants $2,100. By the generous response made to the appeal for the Christmas Fund, this Board, in cooperation with the Congregational Board of Ministerial Relief, was able to send Christmas cheer to every home represented in its fellowship, the average gift being $40.00. The balance of the Christmas Fund, received after the distribution was made, has been set apart for the emergency needs of this year.

The contributions received by the treasurer of the Board from churches, organizations and individuals amounted to $9,161.62; the income from invested funds was $3,335.47, the receipts from other sources $300. By agreement with the Congregational Board of Ministerial Relief, commonly called the National Board, these receipts were paid over to that Board, which in turn honored the requirements of the Massachusetts Board for the payment of its grants of aid, $20,793.01 being provided for that purpose.

We cannot too strongly urge the importance of this ministry of helpfulness, which goes far beyond the payment of grants into the field of personal ministries of counsel and consolation and the care for those who are unable to care for themselves. We are confident that our churches desire to maintain this ministry adequately and will furnish the funds required.

F. E. EMRICH,
Chairman of the Executive Committee.

REPORT OF THE BOSTON SEAMAN'S FRIEND SOCIETY

Four years ago the six New England Congregational Conferences voted to assume the administrative and financial responsibility for the work of the Boston Seaman's Friend Society. More than $200,000 in real estate, bonds and cash were turned over to the reincorporated Society. The forty-two representatives chosen by the six state bodies to manage the affairs of the Society have been faithful in their attendance at the meetings of the Board of Managers and in the discharge of their several duties.

One result of the new order is that in our churches today there is a more general knowledge of and a far keener interest in this Society's work for the social, moral and religious welfare of the men of the sea than ever before. Another result obtained has been an increase of contributions from the churches from $6,152.77 in 1922 to $10,649.89 in 1925. The number of contributing churches has been increased during the same period from 179 to 705. Of the total amount contributed by the churches for the past year, Massachusetts gave $6,910.70 from 366 churches.

The annual cost of maintaining this work for seamen is $36,000. The churches provide less than one-third of the required amount. Gifts from individuals have for several years exceeded the receipts from churches. Individual gifts in 1925 totaled $11,207.22. The balance required to meet our financial obligations is received from the store rentals of the Hanover Street building and the income from invested funds.

The usual activities of the Society have been carried on during the year with good results. Between 25,000 and 26,000 sailors have attended the Society's free entertainments on Tuesday and Friday evenings. Something in excess of 19,000 have attended our religious services and profited thereby. 1,975 Bibles, New Testaments and Scripture portions have been given away. Dormitory privileges were provided for 8,201 men. Refreshments have been served to 30,101 men. Due to unfavorable shipping conditions, there has been a good deal of destitution among seamen during the past winter which the Society has been privileged to help relieve.

Plans have been approved for a much needed new building to replace our present outworn and inadequate structure at 287 Hanover Street, Boston. The new edifice will cost about $250,000. It is hoped that this new Sailor's Rest will be erected and ready for use during 1927, which is our centennial year. The building has been planned by experienced architects after a careful study of similar buildings in other cities and will be in every respect one of the best of its kind.

The Society has recently entered into an arrangement with the Church House, Providence, R. I., for the inauguration of work for seamen in that city. At the request of the Directors of the Church House, two of the members of our Board of Managers have been chosen to serve with them in the proposed enlargement of the work which they have been doing.

The Woman's Seaman's Friend Society, with a membership of 800, has been doing its usual good work during the year. At the Marine Hospital, Chelsea, this organization maintains a hut for the men which is in charge of a very capable and sympathetic woman, who does many things for the sick and injured sailor lads. At Christmas time the ladies made and filled 525 comfort bags for distribution by the Boston Seaman's Friend Society at the Sailor's Rest, Boston, and at our Bethel at Vineyard Haven, Martha's Vineyard. Monthly entertainments have been provided by the Woman's Society for the benefit of the sailors who come to our building at 287 Hanover Street.

We were all very proud, recently, of the heroism of Capt. Fried and his crew of the United States S. S. "President Roosevelt" in saving the men of the British freighter "Antinoe." In the four days of effort before success was achieved, the "Roosevelt" lost two members of its crew and six boats. The best traditions of the sea were exemplified by this act of valor and self-sacrifice. Such men deserve well at the hands of all who love their fellowmen.

The Boston Seaman's Friend Society by the distinctiveness of its service to thousands of lonely and tempted sailors surely merits the support of every one of our Congregational Churches.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON MISSIONS AND APPORTIONMENT

There has been very little variation during recent years in the totals given by Massachusetts churches to missionary work with apportionment credit. The gifts in 1925 were, however, the highest in any year and $17,001 larger than in 1924. This gain contrast, with a disheartening decline in other denominations. The totals during the past five years were as follows:

|---|---|
| 1921 | $677,240 |
| 1922 | 656,891 |
| 1923 | 688,903 |
| 1924 | 676,633 |
| 1925 | 693,634 |

These have been the gifts under an allotment to Massachusetts of $1,087,500 of the total of $5,000,000 sought. In 1924 we adopted the policy of asking the churches and associations to consider their own resources and obligations in connection with the needs of the missionary work and requested each association to assume its own quota with the hope of enlisting the determination of the associations and churches to provide an accepted budget. The associations assumed totals aggregating $821,239 to be raised in 1926. This new scheme is therefore now in operation for the first time, but as many as twenty-one of the associations have already made much progress toward the new goals. The committee aims to co-operate in an earnest endeavor to reach these goals. The following table indicates the old apportionment quotas, the amounts given in 1923, 1924, and 1925, and the new totals assumed by the associations for 1926.

* These figures may be amended somewhat as the Undesignated total of $57,625 has been pro-rated to the associations.

During the past years, Mr. Cooper worked along previously developed lines in an endeavor to have an effective Every Member Canvass in as many churches as possible, but stressing missionary education as the surest foundation for giving. The feature of the work during the past season was a series of association and district meetings addressed by two different missionary teams. This work was most effective, and probably had considerable influence upon the giving in preventing curtailment. The work of these teams was considered by many to be the most effective promotional work done in the state for many years.

At the meeting of the National Council in Washington during October, 1925, a report on Missionary organization was adopted. This report is referred to and summarized in the report to the Conference of your Committee on Inter-relations. Following the action in Washington, the Commission on Missions decided to discontinue all state agents with the intent that the work be taken over by the states. Mr. Cooper has accordingly resigned and gone into other work, leaving this work as of March 31, 1926. The Committee on Inter-relations deals with this whole situation and makes specific recommendations in respect to the organization and work of this committee and proposes cooperation of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society in this work in the future. We concur most heartily in these recommendations.

In connection with the reorganization of the national missionary societies under the adopted plan of the Committee of Twelve, there are many things to be worked out; we hope that much thought will be given to (1), the relation of religious education and promotion, (2), the development of the Regional Committees, (3), the organization and affiliations of the Promotional Council, and (4), the organization of women under the new order. We have arranged for at least a preliminary discussion of these things at this Conference.

At the meeting of the National Council in Washington, the American Board brought forward the fact that for several years the giving by the churches had been practically stationary, and that the work in the field had been inadequately supported in many instances, so much so that to maintain the work at the going level, several societies including the American Board had incurred some debt. The American Board took the position that it was not prepared to incur further debt, but would curtail its work in certain mission fields during 1926, unless provision which could be relied upon should be made to provide additional revenue. Quite similar presentations were made by some of the other boards. These resulted in the National Council authorizing the raising of a special fund on or before September 1, 1926, of $200,000; $115,000 for the American Board and smaller amounts for some of the other societies. The enterprise has been turned over to the Laymen's Advisory Committee. A sub-committee for Massachusetts has been formed, which is endeavoring to raise $54,000 in this state. It is hoped to procure this sum through individual gifts without making a general appeal to the churches. These gifts are to be in addition to regular apportionment giving. Neverthless, they are being given apportionment credit. A pamphlet headed "An Appeal to Congregationalists, Massachusetts Edition," presents this matter in full.

Attention of the churches of the state is called to the needs of city missionary societies and other local enterprises which are not provided for under the apportionment. No scheme can be all-embracing. The Apportionment Plan is a pooling of all nation-wide and state-wide missionary enterprises. Local needs where they exist should be taken care of locally. The City Missionary Society of Boston is one of our oldest and most honorable enterprises, but its support by the churches has seemingly been adversely affected by the apportionment plan, the rate of giving during recent years being approximately the same as twenty years ago. During this period the work has grown through income from individuals given for relief and recreation work and through bequests, but there is a pressing need for greater contact with this work on the part of churches of Greater Boston. The Society is maintaining some thirty missionaries in the more needy churches of Boston. This work is of the highest value. Local work of this kind should be considered by the churches of a community as having a preferred claim similar to that of necessary home expenses. However, this is not true of every local charitable enterprise, many of which should not properly receive direct support from the churches. We commend the City Missionary Society of Boston to the three Suffolk Associations and the Woburn Association for more liberal support than in the past. Similar situations exist in Springfield, Worcester, Pittsfield and other cities.

The plan of missionary reorganization adopted by the National Council provides that the churches of each state shall be requested to divide their benevolences in three parts: one for work within the state, another for work of the foreign boards and the third for the work of the home boards. The Commission on Missions has recommended certain percentages for adoption by each of the states. Our recommendation below, is, approximately, in conformity with the recommendation of the Commission on Missions.

The allotment for work in Massachusetts covers work of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society and the Boston Seaman's Friend Society, the latter having approximately one per cent of the total. The division of the assignment to the home and foreign boards between the various branches of the work has been left for 1927 to the Executive Committee of the Commission on Missions.

We make the following recommendations for the year 1927:

I. That the assignment of $1,087,500 by the Commission on Missions be recognized as Massachusetts' fair share of the $5,000,000 goal and that efforts be made to raise the full sum, with a determined effort to raise at least $821,239, the amount assumed by the churches.

II. That the gifts collected and not designated by the donors to specific objects, be divided between the societies on the following basis:

| Home Boards | 44% |
| Foreign Boards | 42% |
| | 100% |

and that the church treasurers be requested to remit to the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, 14 Beacon Street, Boston, for such division.

III. We ask for an appropriation of $500, for expenses of the Committee to be used if needed.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON FEDERATION OF CHURCHES AND COOPERATION WITH OTHER DENOMINATIONS

Interdenominational cooperation has maintained its steady progress throughout the year. It is our privilege to report the increase of such cooperation within our Commonwealth.

1. Many of the federations in our cities and larger towns are maintaining strong programs of service. There are now forty-eight such federations, of various types; the oldest of these is the Christian League of Methuen, organized in 1888.

2. Our federated churches also increase in number, and proposals for such combinations are being considered in other places. This method of cooperation has been studied by a special investigator of the Institute for Religious Research; 350 such combinations throughout the country were surveyed. It was found that very few, if they had been continued five years, were afterward disssolved; that while the total membership in such churches is not always maintained without loss, local budgets have averaged an increase of 50% and benevolences an increase of 150%; and needless and wasteful competition has been eliminated.

3. The Massachusetts Federation, as the agent of all the churches, has continued its work effectively under the skilled leadership of Secretary Root. In its annual meeting, held in New Bedford, two new denominational bodies were represented: The Advent Christian churches and the Greek Orthodox Church; the bishop of the latter church accepted election as vice-president of the Federation. The new department of rural work has proved its usefulness in the work of the country churches. The ministry to the sick in Rutland is continued with good results; the chaplain's parish includes about 450 patients and 300 in the personnel of the institutions.

The most significant event of the year in the field of interdenominational cooperation has been the Stockholm Conference on Life and Work. Professor Brown of Union Seminary has said, quoting others: "The most wonderful thing about the Stockholm Conference was the fact that it took place." That meeting officially represented more than one hundred independent communions, including in their membership three hundred million covenanted followers of the Christ, three-fifths of the total number that bear the Christian name. The Conference registered in the following declaration its essential unity of spirit and purpose: "The Conference has deepened and purified our devotion to the Captain of our Salvation. Responding to His call, 'Follow me,' we have in the presence of the Cross accepted the urgent duty of applying His gospel in all realms of human life — industrial, social, political, and international." Thus is manifested the deepening sympathy among the great Christian communions and their increasing cooperation in the greater matters of the Kingdom of God.

In all such work within our own sphere of service this Conference surely desires to be represented. We therefore present the following recommendations:

I. That a committee on federation of churches and cooperation with other denominations be appointed to serve for the next Conference year, that this committee consist of five members, and that it be empowered to appoint the representatives of this Conference in the voting membership of the Massachusetts Federation of Churches for the year.

II. That the sum of $1,809 be appropriated for the support of the Federation for the next Conference year.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON RURAL CONDITIONS

We recognize the need of a re-grouping and reorganization of the rural field, as has been done here and there, in some favored places. We feel however, that here and now such an attempt would be unavailing, because of unwillingness or unreadiness of Churches to join in the plan. But possible and helpful, now and always is a Visitation Program. Let some of the ministers and laymen from the larger Churches visit the smaller parishes in the country. The people in the small parishes need to see men of affairs who are Churchmen. They need the touch of men of power who are earnest and effective Christians. Let the "pep" and drive of the larger centers be felt, once a year, at least, by the people who feed that vigorous life and make it possible. There is a reciprocal benefit. They will not come back empty. "All who near to God abide are just a little countrified."

> "What man would read and read the selfsame faces?
> And like the marbles which the windmill grinds
> Rub smooth forever with the same smooth minds?"

Such a visitation was arranged in Hampden County, a few years ago, with marked benefit. Twenty men, with automobiles, might tour the Cape. There are human values there capable of an immensely greater increase even than Cape Cod real estate. Let a general Laymen's Visitation be arranged during the year, in the fall, October, November or December. The rural churches might be asked to set apart a day and ask for speakers. Let the initiative come from the Church inviting. A bugler might announce the meeting. The Visitation may be arranged on a Sunday, or on a Mid-Week evening, as may be most expedient under the circumstances.

Let the Fellowship Committee of each District Association be charged with the work of carrying this Visitation into effect.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

In addition to its routine work through individual members and the Secretaries of the Congregational Education Society in interesting the churches in the work of religious education, your committee would respectfully submit the following list of activities for the past year:

1. State Young People's Conference. As a part of the Annual Meeting of our Massachusetts Congregational Churches a Young People's Conference was held on Tuesday evening, May 19, 1925, at Grace Church, Holyoke. Supper was served at 6.30 P.M., and this was followed by singing, cheers and a short period of fellowship. The conference adjourned to the church auditorium where the following program was carried out as arranged by the young people. The general theme was "What should the Congregational Church Program for Young People Be?" This was discussed by a committee of young people consisting of Alden W. Miller, Medford; Laura Pearl, Campello; George C. Shepherd, Jr., Dorchester; Ellen C. Peterson, Hyde Park and William J. Hendrick, Auburndale. A discussion of this report by the young people was led by Professor Herbert C. Mayer of Boston University. The closing address on "The Challenge of Congregational Young People" was given by Rev. Harry T. Stock, Young People's and Student Secretary, Congregational Education Society. The work of the young people was well done, the addresses were of a high order and the attendance was large.

Conference of Local Association Committees on Religious Education

2. One significant feature of the work of your committee for the year was the Conference on Religious Education held at Worcester on November 10. The purpose of this conference was to bring together the committees of the several associations on religious education to ascertain their needs in order to minister more effectively unto them. Some twelve associations of the state were represented during these sessions. This conference was held at the Y. W. C. A. The morning session opened at 10.30 with the devotions in charge of Rev. Shepherd Knapp, D.D. From 10.45 to 11.30, there was a conference period on the needs of the local associations. Rev. George E. Brown of Leominster presided. Some of the problems discussed were: teacher training, curriculum, inspiration of the worker, local cooperation and the problem of later adolescence. Following this discussion was an address by Dr. A. J. W. Myers of Hartford, Conn. The discussion continued during the lunch hour which was presided over by Dr. Fred G. Morecombe of Mittineague. The afternoon session was in charge of Rev. George W. Owen of Hyde Park. Two general problems were discussed:

I. The problem of arousing the local church to entertain the modern program of Religious Education. The following suggestions were unanimously adopted:

1. Exhibits compiled by the State Committee on Religious Education should be sent to the various association meetings.

2. Time should be provided on the association programs for addresses on and discussion of Religious Education.

3. The State Committee (at once) get in touch with State Committee on program for the next Conference.

4. The State Committee be urged to make a thorough survey of all fields, and the blanks of C. E. S. be used.

5. Strongly urged to get Sunday School Superintendents together as conveniently and as often as possible.

6. A letter be sent to each Superintendent in the Association strengthening him in his work and also to send him suitable printing matter.

II. The Problem of Teacher Training:

1. Standard Community Training Schools were endorsed and urged to be established wherever possible.

2. It was also suggested that the mid-week meeting be used for a course in Religious Education.

The final address was given by Mr. Gilbert H. Roehrig, of the Boston Y. M. C. A. Much interest was manifested by those who attended the conference. Your committee sent a synopsis of the findings of the Worcester Conference to every member of the Religious Education Committees of the local associations. We desire to call attention to the importance of the work done in the field of Religious Education by the committees appointed by the several associations for this purpose. Your state committee feels that it can render its best services by working with the committees of the local associations. As an example of what may be done in this field, attention is called to the work of Rev. Eugene G. Bewkes, of Norwood, Rev. Charles C. Keith, of Eliot Church, Roxbury, and Mrs. W. H. Bailey of Hyde Park, serving on the committee for the Suffolk South Association. This Committee has made a careful survey of the churches of this association by means of a questionnaire and is rendering valuable help on the basis of this study. The Woburn Association has for its general topic at the spring session "Christian Education for Young People."

3. Denominational Rally at the Springfield State Convention of the International Council of Religious Education. Rev. L. S. Beardslee, of Westboro, made an address and conducted the discussion period for Congregational Workers. Miss Lorna G. Townsend of Brockton also took part. About 100 were present.

4. Young People's Sessions at National Council in Washington. While not assuming full responsibility for the young people of the churches who attended the Young People's Conference in connection with the Annual Council held in Washington, the several members of your Committee encouraged individuals to attend, and Massachusetts was represented.

5. Report on Association Committees. In closing, your committee would strongly urge that those associations which have not yet appointed committees on Religious Education, according to the vote passed in Holyoke, would do so at their earliest convenience. To date thirteen associations have acted, leaving eleven yet to hear from. Those who have appointed these district committees are convinced of their value. Your State Committee stands ready to work with and through the committees of the local associations.

6. Appropriation. We would recommend that an appropriation of two hundred and fifty dollars ($250) be made for the coming year.

Pastors, Directors of Religious Education, Church School Officers and Teachers are urged to avail themselves of the agencies and advisers in the state office of our denomination and to write to the members of this committee concerning suggestions and help.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON MORAL AND SOCIAL WELFARE

The Committee on Moral and Social Welfare urges ministers and laymen of our Congregational Churches to read widely on the social problems of the time, to be familiar with "The Survey," and with "The Nation" for a more radical point of view. They can also learn much from "Industrial Management" and certain magazines published for the bankers of this country. The Journal of the American Federation of Labor will give the labor viewpoint. Among the new books which our ministers ought to read is one by Stuart Chase, entitled "The Tragedy of Waste," which etches in broad lines some of our economic weaknesses. For a very optimistic and reassuring account of our economic progress there is no better book than the one by Professor Carver, entitled "Economic Revolution of the United States."

A fair examination of the facts shows that there is a distinct trend in industry upwards. The Golden Rule is becoming less of an abstract principle and more of a real program. The Christian spirit of service much talked about, is also being actually practiced. In Massachusetts, men like E. A. Filene, Howard Coonley, Henry Dennison and Harry Kendall, and many others with similar ideals, are proving that it is good business to indulge in the "square deal" and treat the workers as human beings. In the United States many of our largest corporations, like the Browning Company, the International Harvester Company, Swift & Company, and Hart, Shaffner and Marx, are witnesses to the fact that justice and fair dealing are possible in industry, that strikes are not necessary, and that all disputes between management of capital and labor can be adjusted by open-minded and sympathetic conferences. Noteworthy among these experiments in good-will and worthy of a study of our ministers is that of the Dutchess Bleachery at Wappinger Falls, and of Mr. Arthur Nash and his clothing factory in Cincinnati. The success of these endeavors toward democracy in industry should be closely watched.

We recommend that the Committee on Social Welfare be authorized by the State Conference to express, in behalf of the Conference, our appreciation of the efforts which men and corporations within the Commonwealth are making to solve industrial difficulties in the spirit of the Golden Rule, and to write to these men and organizations in the name of the State Conference wherever it is evident that justice, the "square deal," and the spirit of Jesus are manifest. The committee on Social Welfare asks that pastors and laymen send to them the names of individuals or of corporations who they believe are entitled to such recognition, with the facts and reasons for such belief.

The Committee on Social Welfare has been asked by the Department of Social Relations of our Congregational Churches, to secure from every Church in the Commonwealth, the name of one man and one woman other than a minister who is particularly interested in Social Service, or Social Relations, that the Department of Social Relations may have persons with whom they can communicate directly. The Social Welfare Committee would be willing to undertake the preparation of such a list if the State Conference deems it advisable and backs it with its approval of this plan. It would require considerable correspondence and detailed work. Therefore, your Committee, would recommend for the purpose of arranging for the Social and Industrial Conference in Boston, and also for obtaining the suggested list, that the Conference vote to them an appropriation of One Hundred Fifty Dollars ($150).

We recommend that the Social Welfare Committee of the State Conference cooperate with the Social Relations Commission of the National Council in setting up a social and industrial conference in Boston some time during the coming winter, and that the ministers of the state be invited to join in such conference to be addressed by representative leaders of abor and of management and of social agencies.

Regarding Military Training and Propaganda

Congregationalists have ever been numbered among the most patriotic of citizens of the land. The history of New England for the first two hundred years is largely a history of events as shaped by men of Congregational affiliation, and during the past one hundred years since the population has become more diverse, Congregationalists have maintained the honorable record which was established by their ancestors.

As Christian patriots, however, we look with apprehension upon the efforts being made to direct the thought and life of our youth into military channels and we deprecate the tendency to introduce military training into our High Schools and compulsory military training into our colleges.

We believe that the world needs at present constructive leadership in ways of peace and in the development of international good-will. Christian statesmanship, with good-will as the animating principle, is needed far more than a swashbuckling policy which irritates and provokes. Therefore we look with disfavor upon all efforts to set up a Mobilization Day whether called by this name or by some more euphemistic term and we disapprove the efforts being made to introduce into our educational system military training and propaganda.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON THE RELATION OF THE COLLEGES AND THE CHURCHES

Pastors and lay leaders of our churches may well spend thought upon the conditions existing in our colleges for the light which such thought throws upon church necessities; the necessity of ennobled public worship; the necessity of a new Christian apologetic able to withstand the cold blasts of materialism; the necessity of obtaining a moral excellence capable of winning the respect of even the students from Oriental lands; the necessity that we abate the scandal of sectarianism; and the necessity that we build toward world wide brotherhood; in short, that our churches become more Christian. America has the largest enrollment of foreign students in the world. Eight thousand of them are in four hundred colleges and universities, and six thousand more are in our secondary schools. Many of them are studying in Massachusetts. Dr. Robert E. Speer speaks wisely when he says:

> "American life and the Christian Church have never met a more severe test than in the presence of these foreign students. They will not carry back what they do not get, and they will not get what we cannot and do not give."

This does not take into account the evil that they learn. Moreover, all students prompt us, of the church, to a profound recital of the General Confession. Were there no chance for us to give direct assistance to the colleges, study of their condition throws searching light upon our own needs.

President Mary E. Woolley of Mt. Holyoke College for twenty-five years, living as the shadow of a great rock in a weary educational age, is reported to have said in a recent address at New Haven:

> "Women's colleges in general dread the aftermath of the short vacation, when the college infirmary is too small to accomodate the daughters who are recovering from the two weeks' 'rest' at home. Parents wonder why college will so overwork their girls."

Homes and home churches should face mercilessly the question as to what they are doing toward diminishing, or toward increasing the physical, moral, and spiritual resources needed if one is to be immersed in modern New England college life. The academic preparation for college is likely to crowd to the wall any adequate moral and religious preparation, and though one can solve all problems raised in a comprehensive examination, it will profit him nothing unless somewhere and somehow he has become prepared to recognize, and honor, and gain, and use the true wisdom. As George A. Coe puts it:

> "What ails the parents, then? Their religion? A respectable sincere piety that is not without good fruits, yet not the determining motive or principle where life is most active, most new, most a struggle, most swift in its movement; a religion that saves many individuals from many a thing that is evil, and to many a thing that is godly; but a religion that, though it contains a germ of infinite possibilities, is not yet developed into a form that could produce a Christlike society."

Conferences

During the past year, your Committee has not held any conference. We hoped to arrange a Conference where selected professors would meet with selected ministers. We will mention three conferences held under other auspices, and it must be added that whatever older people may do, the students themselves arrange frequent conferences, where they free their minds in regard to religion and the church.

In February, nineteen colleges held a four-day conference at Springfield College. The National Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. sponsored the affair. The "Republican" reported it to be the sense of the Conference that:

> "A college man who practices Christianity would be unpopular on the campus. A real Christian is one who lives as Christ would. Not more than one-half of one per cent of those calling themselves Christians are trying to live the life of Christ. It can, however, be done. A student who would attempt to be a Christian would be regarded as queer."

It was decided that prayer is answered if it represents "A soul's sincere desire expressed through effort to accomplish or achieve some worthwhile end." It was the general opinion that the honor system is being disregarded by the students. Neverthless, it was considered as an ideal that should not be given up. Holy Communion was celebrated, and the rector of Grace Church, Amherst, the Reverend Arthur Kinsolving, gave a talk on "Can one be a Christian on the College Campus?"

The Connecticut Valley Annual Intercollegiate Missionary Union

The twenty-fourth Annual Conference of the Connecticut Valley Intercollegiate Missionary Union was held in March, a three-day session at the Massachusetts Agricultural College. One hundred and eighty-four delegates were present. The spirit of the conference is suggested by the following newspaper clipping:

"Dr. Daniel J. Fleming, in his address on 'Mission Work in Lands of Ancient Cultures' stressed again and again the importance of the missionary of to-day having a thorough education and being prepared on the first furlough to continue studies for a higher degree. To work with the intelligentia in lands of advanced culture is to be in need of the finest education obtainable. A missionary should be in touch with the currents of thought. Missions are just beginning. It is more of an exchange of thoughts, culture, and experience; and an attitude of receptivity has supplanted the former attitude of giving, establishing a relationship of mutuality. Each country has a different psychological aspect and there are even to-day vast unoccupied areas for pioneer work in missions. The East judges the West by its own Christian standards. The demand to-day is for the missionary who can train someone to take his place. Each country is desirous of having its own people as leaders. Spiritual influence, not evangelical fervor characterizes the worker in the foreign field, whether he be a Y. M. C. A. secretary, a medical missionary, or a teacher.

"Miss Jean Dickinson, a college professor in China, told her audience that the Orient wanted trained leaders in education and sociology among their own people and that they were impatient of 'churchianity' and desired Christianity.

"Rev. Charles Hurrey spoke of the allurement of South America to the educators, engineers, tradesmen and reformers and said that he believed exchange professorships would do more to aid in cultural cooperation with these proud patriotic nationalists of this great continent than out and out missionaries."

The Evanston Conference

This important Interdenominational Student Conference was reported admirably by our Mr. Stock in The Congregationalist of January 14, under the title "Youth Has Its Say." We are proud to note that Mr. Stock is one of the six secretaries chosen to serve with fifteen students on the Continuation Committee. Nine hundred student delegates gathered, representing about twenty denominations; and almost two hundred colleges, universities, technical schools, and seminaries were represented.

"Jesus reigned at Evanston. Denominationalism was regarded as the chief curse of Protestantism. Christianity can only be restored to its original power as we have contact with Oriental people and the American Church will save itself through humble fellowship in services with those of other races."

A delegate declared:

"When you gentlemen of the press play up to the fact that the majority of us have not taken the complete pacifist stand, be fair enough to say that all of us mean business on the war question. We are out to kill war."

These students demanded adequate religious education (in their minds the concept is a vast one) and they expressed a craving for the presence in their lives of real communion with God, which neither the home nor the church is doing much to cultivate, but which must be their support if they are to achieve mightily in a world which worships other gods than the Father of Jesus Christ.

Dr. Fitch offers this judgment in regard to the delegates:

"They did not think clearly and deeply, but they were moved by high intentions and by impressions of ideas."

This statement will be appreciated by any mature person that has listened to the talk at almost any student conference.

The New Freedom

These conferences illustrate the fact that the modern educational trend is in the direction of complete freedom of choice and thought and action on the part of students. There is a decided departure from the idea that faculty members lead the minds of youth toward conclusions in which they themselves believe, or even toward conclusions which society has accepted as necessary to a well ordered common life. Stress is laid upon the truth that students need to think for themselves, and not to try to get along on second-hand truth. We do not quarrel with the general principle, but as the new principle is working out, unhappy results and even tragic results are all too evident. We live in a real world, not in an ideal one, and we are coming to see that where a college does little to help students to appreciate the Christian way of life, the result too often is no real thinking, no conclusions personally wrought out, no high ideals, no philosophy of life, except a lazy fatalism.

Where there is no positive Christian influence on the part of the admistration or of the faculty, it must be clear that the advantage is all on the side of the materialists, the cynics, the hedonists, even though the number of such faculty members be small. The new and the negative make their appeal easily, especially where they seem to give an intellectual justification for low moral ideals. The teacher who presents a "new view" whether it emphasize "Nordic supremacy"; the impossibility of making any room for God in a scientific scheme of life; or the advisability of substituting "self-expression" for self-control, such a teacher will create a stir. A recently won Ph.D. degree is no proof of wisdom. Cleverness in some branch of science is no proof that one is fitted to speak the final word of God or of man. As a rule, students that applaud such teachers do it as superficially as they denounce many of the teachings of earlier days. Their dogmatism may surpass the dogmatism of those that support outworn teachings. The student is not getting a square deal when he is exposed to flippant teaching uttered by some popular young teacher, unless constructive, intelligent, thoroughly modern religious instruction is also presented by faculty members of rich personality. If the student welcomes the unturned cakes served him by an amateur in the wisdom of life, he is just as likely after a few years of life as an alumnus to swallow other unturned cakes, but this time from the conservative instead of the radical kitchen and perhaps equally unnourishing. Moreover, the college itself becomes unfairly judged by the adult public. In the absence of a sympathetic and tolerant Christian emphasis the reputation of a college comes to be made by the few professors whose opinions make sensational newspaper copy.

The editor of "The Congregationalist" deserves commendation for his thoughtful treatment of many of the problems of the college and church. In quantity as well as in quality of copy, "The Congregationalist" has revealed its understanding of the need for a more Christian type of higher education; has given us much constructive material; and has reported student gatherings with intelligence and sympathy.

If one may judge from the press, the live issues in Massachusetts college circles during the past conference year have been those of compulsory chapel and church attendance; and of the advisability of allowing women students to smoke while under the jurisdiction of the college. Officers of administration have stumbled over the query on the part of women students, "If my mother smokes and professors smoke, why shouldn't I smoke?"

Suggestions for Reading.

Anyone that proposes to study the moral conditions now existing in our colleges will find food for reflection in reading Chapter X, with the title "President of Harvard" in "Edward Everett, Orator and Statesman," by Paul Revere Frothingham. President Everett was inaugurated on August 20, 1846. An indictment for malicious childishness could be readily sustained against his student body. Our problem is very serious. So was the problem of eighty years ago. His journal for February 6, 1838, contains this entry:

> "President Quincy (his predecessor) passed half an hour with me explaining the case relative to the recent explosion in the chapel. He stated also the circumstance of the providential discovery of a most outrageous attempt to blow off the roof of the library."

This is the incident to which Thomas Wentworth Higginson refers in his diary:

> "What a sight the chapel presented at prayers this morning! About two hundred panes of glass blown up, the hands of the clock taken off and the dial stove in, the front panels of the lower part of the pulpit removed and all the damask between the pillars torn away, and 'a bone for old Quin to pick' written on the wall."

Another entry in the diary gives this information:

"A meeting of the Corporation in the evening. I brought before them the subject of the thefts frequently committed in the college and the appearance of prostitutes in the college yard — recommending the appointment of a patrol."

The professors as a rule did not attend chapel. The services lasted only so long as was necessary for the markers to do their work. The conduct of worship had fallen into a disgraceful condition of disorder and general lethargy. President Everett took the stand that where there was compulsory chapel for the students, there should also be compulsory chapel for "the officers of instruction and government." In 1847 by a supreme effort he secured the restoration of the seal which contains the words "Christo et Ecclesiae."

"Men, Women and Colleges" by Dean LeBaron Russell Briggs of Harvard is a little book to be commended in no uncertain terms.

In the chapter entitled "Leading One's Own Life" are these words:

"We know what the Founder of Christianity would think of the doctrine of 'self development' as it is preached to-day. We know how far from practising it he himself was. And whose self development has approached his?"

As one reads this book, so sane, so Christian, with the delicious humor of deep insight and understanding love, one cannot but wish that men living in the spirit of this book were available for distribution among the faculties of Massachusetts.

"What Ails Our Youth," by Coe, is another small but valuable book.

"It strikes straight at the heart of the deepest problem of present day civilization, — the problem of making the world fit for its young people and of making its young people fit for the world."

In "The Congregationalist" of December 3, 1925, there is a thoughtful editorial on the book "Ruth Talks It Over." This is the type of book which Y. W. C. A. secretaries might well study with their boards of directors; and which the leaders of our church guilds might study to their profit; as well as mothers with their daughters of high school age. The editorial to which we make reference includes these sentences:

"The one defect of the book from our standpoint is that it does not seem to think quite deep enough in the matter of moral foundations." To the lofty, able, and largely convincing conversations of this book, one would like to add that penetrative saying of Sir John Seeley in "Ecce Homo" that "No virtue is safe that is not passionate."

There is such a thing as scholastic malpractice on youth. As a suggestion of the proper attitude of college leaders toward religion, we include these important words by Dean Herbert Hawkes of Columbia College:

"One frequently hears that there has recently been a marked decline in the interest shown by college students in religious matters. Those who are most intimately in contact with college men for the most part do not share this feeling. It is true that the effective method of approach to religious questions for college students has shifted materially during the past twenty-five years. In the old days religion was a college activity, like the dramatic and literary organizations. The newer approach to the subject of religion is not so much in the direction of affording an opportunity for the expression of the religious life of the individual as it is a means for analyzing and studying the religious life of man in as objective a manner as anyone would study any other human trait.

"For many years most colleges have offered a few courses in the literature of the Bible and have left the rest to student religious organizations. This is good so far as it goes, but it does not recognize the whole problem. The activities of these organizations continue the social and religious interests which the student brings with him to college. They tend to preserve such religious nurture as the home training has afforded, and to give adequate opportunity for the exercise of the various types of service that are associated with these organizations.

"It is commonly believed that college tends to upset the religious faith. Just how far this is true it is impossible to say. Statistics on such questions are almost valueless, since they are usually based upon terms which are not, and often cannot be, defined. In this connection 'atheist,' 'agnostic,' 'infidel,' are used freely, often meaning little more than a divergence in opinion on matters of doctrine from the critic. But after all, anyone who has come in close contact with many students realizes that the college experience almost inevitably causes, or at any rate accompanies, a readjustment of feeling toward religious matters. In many cases the roots of religious faith are intimately intertwined about alleged facts of science, history, or philosophy which modern scholarship finds to be without foundation. It is natural that as the student feels the disturbance around the roots of his faith he should mistake the sensation for an injury to the faith itself. In the course of time, frequently after graduation from a college, the matter is readjusted on a firmer and finer basis than the old one, but often not without serious agitation and distress. It can hardly be expected that the various college instructors, who have replaced the erroneous dogmas of science by something better, should themselves always be able to pause to adjust any religious feeling that may have been disturbed. Often no one but the person himself knows of the disturbance. It is, however, a part of the responsibility of the college to afford abundant opportunity for wise and reverent advice, consistent with modern scholarship, to students who feel that the learning experience has interfered with the life of the spirit.

"The colleges are awakening to their responsibilities in this direction. Even now there are more able students looking foward to the ministry than five or ten years ago. If the church can so manage its affairs as to make it possible for a person who has any interest or regard for the integrity of the mind to do the work of the church, the future is by no means dark. If however, a man must take leave of his intellect and regard for scientific truth in order to take up ecclesiastical work, the church can expect very little support from the younger generation."

On the Wednesday morning of the State Conference, nearly two hours will be given to the consideration of the relation of the Colleges and of the Churches of Massachusetts. Three-quarters of an hour has been reserved for thoughtful consideration of questions, which we trust will be sent in generous number to Rev. Harry Thomas Stock, 14 Beacon St., Boston, Mass. As this report goes to press, the first of such questions has arrived. It is from a pastor in a small town with a daughter nearly ready for college. He asks, — "Would I do better for the moral and religious interests of my daughter were I to influence her toward Oberlin, rather than toward any one of the women's colleges in New England?"

We recommend that the Committee be continued for another year; and that the State Conference authorize the same budget as in the past years.

REPORT OF THE SPECIAL COMMITTEE ON INTER-RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN MISSIONARY SOCIETIES

This Committee was created by a vote passed by the Massachusetts Congregational Conference at its meeting at Brockton, on May 20, 1924. The Committee submitted a report to the Conference at Holyoke in 1925, which is printed in the Minutes of that Conference. The Conference adopted a number of the recommendations of the Committee and continued the Committee and recommitted its report for the following purposes:

1. For the purpose of taking such steps as might be advisable in co-operation with all the several organizations concerned, in order to carry into effect those recommendations contained in the report which had been adopted by the Conference.

2. For further consideration of the recommendations of the Committee in respect to the President of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, except as already acted on by the Conference.

The Committee was also requested in the course of the discussion upon its report to consider further whether any recommendations should be made concerning the relationship between local missionary societies in Springfield and Worcester and the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, although no formal vote was passed upon this subject.

The Committee submits the following report:

The extent to which recommendations already adopted have been carried into effect

Two major recommendations by the Committee which required action by various missionary societies in order to carry them into effect were adopted by the Conference. These were:

a. The creation by the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, the City Missionary Society, and the Congregational Church Union of an Advisory Committee for the Greater Boston district.

b. Making the President of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society a full time salaried officer to perform such duties with respect to the affairs of the Society as its Trustees might determine.

Both these recommendations have been carried into effect by all the societies concerned. The Advisory Committee for the Greater Boston district was duly constituted and has been in active operation since August, 1925. It has acted upon a number of special problems, including the building of a new church at Medford Hillside (now under construction) and the proposed new church edifice at Hough's Neck. It has also started, through the President of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, an inquiry into the problems relating to the St. Mark Church in Boston, and has made suggestions in a number of other cases where the interests of more than one missionary society were involved.

The recommendation concerning the President of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society has also been put into effect by the Trustees of that Society. The Rev. Frederick H. Page, D.D., of Waltham, was elected as President of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society on July 27, 1925, and assumed his duties on November 1, 1925. He has been made by the Trustees the executive head of the Society. His duties involve the determination, subject to the approval of the Trustees, of general questions of policy for the Society and the investigation of particular problems which require special study. He has also been called upon, in consequence of the reorganization which is taking place in the national Congregational missionary societies, to act as the Massachusetts representative at meetings in which other states having organized conferences were represented by state superintendents or secretaries. This aspect of the work of the President of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society is more fully discussed later in this report. The Committee is satisfied that the change in the character of the office of President of that society and the appointment of Dr. Page have been of great importance to the work. The finest kind of cooperation has existed between the President, the Secretary, and the Treasurer of the Society, and already some problems have been solved and the solution of others promoted through this additional service afforded by the office of President.

Local Societies in Springfield and Worcester

The Committee is of opinion as a result of its own investigation and of conferences with the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society that no action by the Conference is advisable concerning these local societies. Helpful relations exist between these societies and the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society and it is felt that any changes which may from time to time prove advisable can be worked out by the joint action of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society and these local societies.

Recommendation concerning the Committee of the State Conference on Missions and Apportionment

The recommendation of your Committee as adopted by the State Conference at Holyoke concerning the Committee on Missions and Apportionment was that beginning with the year 1927, the Committee on Missions and Apportionment now consisting of nine members, consist of seven members to be chosen annually by the State Conference, two on the nomination of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, two on the nomination of the Trustees of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society and three to be chosen as members at large. This recommendation was made in view of the then existing relationships of the agencies engaged in promoting the missionary program. The field work was carried on by a state representative, Rev. Francis L. Cooper, whose salary and expenses were paid by the national Commission on Missions. Mr. Cooper worked under the direction of the state Committee on Missions and Apportionment. Part of the expense of Mr. Cooper's work was met by a contribution from the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society to the Commission on Missions.

Your Committee was of the opinion that under this method of organization the Massachusetts field secretary had no adequate reinforcement through association with other workers, and that he needed additional cooperation from executives and representatives of the foreign and home missionary work. Your Committee felt that by giving the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions and the Trustees of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society direct representation on the Apportionment Committee, the executives of those societies could be called upon for assistance to Mr. Cooper in many ways.

Since the Committee's report was made the situation has changed completely. This change has grown out of the adoption of the plan of reorganization of the work of the national societies at the meeting of the National Council at Washington last October. The Commission on Missions has voted to discontinue state offices, including the office in Massachusetts. The responsibility for promotional work in Massachusetts is therefore now placed squarely upon the Congregationalists of the state. In consequence, the whole ground work upon which the previous recommendation of this Committee with reference to the constitution of the Committee on Missions and Apportionment of the State Conference was based, has been swept away, and an entirely new method must be found in the state for carrying on the work as a whole. Under these circumstances, your Committee would recommend that the vote passed at the last Conference by which the Conference Committee on Missions and Apportionment was to be reorganized, be rescinded, and that the following plan which has been formulated by members of the State Committee on Missions and Apportionment be adopted.

The Committee on Missions and Apportionment and the promotional work under its direction

Recommendations:

I. That the Massachusetts Congregational Conference continue its Committee on Missions and Apportionment on the present basis, under which the Committee is made up of nine members elected from the state at large, of whom three are chosen annually, each for a three-year term; that this Committee represent the Conference in its relations with the national Commission on Missions, particularly in the following respects:

a. In bringing before the Conference the amount proposed by the Commission on Missions as the total objective under the apportionment plan with a recommendation as to the fair share to be assumed by the Massachusetts churches.

b. In approving percentages for the distribution of Massachusetts contributions among the national societies and for work within the state.

c. In subdividing the total amounts recommended by the Massachusetts State Conference to be raised for the designated purposes and referring the amounts to the local associations and the individual churches for their acceptance.

II. That a field secretary be appointed by the Massachusetts Congregational Conference on nomination of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, concurred in by the Committee on Missions and Apportionment of the Conference.

III. That a field secretary have his office with the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society and cooperate as one of the group of workers in that society with the understanding that the officers and employees of that society will give him such cooperation as will enable him to devote his time and energy to field work both educational and promotional, in so far as this may be necessary in furthering missionary interests of the denominations.

IV. That the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society assume the salary and other expenses connected with this position of field secretary and make any necessary adjustments on this account with the Survey Committee of the Commission on Missions.

V. That the Committee on Missions and Apportionment of the Massachusetts Congregational Conference should include among its duties:

a. Cooperating with the field secretary and with the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society in the forming and carrying out of plans for the promotional work.

b. Reviewing the work of the field secretary.

c. Reporting to the Conference.

d. Acting as a check and balance in relation to the work and position of the field secretary.

The trustees of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society are ready to cooperate in the plan. In order to prevent promotional work from being stopped in the interval between the giving up of the field secretary's office which has been maintained and the action of the State Conference on this subject, the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society has temporarily undertaken to carry on some of the work under the general direction of the state Committee on Missions and Apportionment.

As the State Conference has no executive head giving his full time to administrative work, and as the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society is controlled by the vote of the representatives of the churches, who, as members of the Conference, are also voting members of the Society, and its President, Secretary and Board of Trustees are, in fact, elected by the vote of the churches through their delegates, it seems to the Committee that the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society is the best existing agency to undertake this work permanently. The proposed plan will make for increased efficiency on account of the fact that the work of the field secretary is, to some extent, seasonal. At certain times he could profitably use additional assistance, if it were available. The Massachusetts Home Missionary Society will be in a position to give him such help.

It may be urged against this plan that the appeal for all the societies should not be made by one who is in such close relation to a single society. Under the present circumstances, however, the Committee does not feel that this objection is valid. The plan for the reorganization of the work of the national societies contemplates that appeals by the several societies shall be discontinued and that the money for the work of all the societies shall be raised by one appeal. This is to be done under the general supervision of the reconstituted Commission on Missions. The actual raising of the money is to be entrusted principally to the state agencies with the assistance of the new Promotional Council. The appeal to the churches is to be presented as an appeal for all the missionary work of the denomination, and the normal way in which any particular missionary society may expect to profit from it is by receiving its proportion of the total gifts.

Individuals may, of course, continue to give to particular societies in which they are interested. The predominant interest of every society however, will be to increase the contributions of the churches to the general fund and thereby to increase the amount to be received under the percentage apportionment by each society.

Bearing in mind that the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society is in reality a representative body of delegates of the churches, that the field secretary is to act under the general supervision of the Committee on Missions and Apportionment chosen by the Conference; and that the interest of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society itself, as has been pointed out, will be best served by increasing the total gifts available for distribution, it seems to the Committee that the plan is not open to the objection which has been discussed and that it presents obvious advantages over any other plan which has been suggested. This plan seems also to be consistent with the general promotional plans which are being carried out under the vote of the National Council. These plans are described more fully in this report in connection with the recommendation of your Committee with respect to the duties of the President of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society.

The office of President of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society

The Committee is of opinion that the plan for the reorganization of the work of the national societies, which has been adopted since the Conference at Holyoke, emphasizes the importance of having someone who should be regarded as the executive head of Congregational missionary and extension work in the state and as representing the cooperating churches of the state in that aspect of their work. This reorganization relates itself in an important way both to the recommendations already made in this report as to the Committee on Missions and Apportionment and to your Committee's recommendation in its last report as to the office of the President of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society. The principal features of the plan which need to be borne in mind in considering the relation of this reorganization to the questions under discussion are stated below.

The National Council at Washington on October 26, 1925, took action which involved far reaching changes in the organization, work, and methods of promotion of most of the Congregational national societies. A complete statement of the plan is too long to be included in this report. Certain aspects of it, however, should be clearly understood in order that the Massachusetts churches and societies may cooperate effectively in carrying out this plan. These are as follows:

The organization of the societies themselves. The new plan provides for the administration of the foreign work and of the home work of the denomination by two managing boards of 36 members each. The managing board for foreign work is to be the Prudential Committee of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions serving in effect as a Board of Directors. The work of the three regional woman's boards is to be completely unified with that of the American Board and one-third of the Prudential Committee of the American Board are to be women.

The home societies are to be linked together in the first instance by electing identical boards of directors for each of the home societies included in the plan. This brings the following organizations under identical management:

The American Missionary Association
The Congregational Home Missionary Society
The Congregational Church Building Society
The Congregational Sunday School Extension Society
The Congregational Publishing Society
The Congregational Education Society
The Congregational Foundation for Education
The Congregational Board of Ministerial Relief

The plan contemplates the eventual consolidation of all the societies themselves, so far as this can be done legally and consistently with the faithful carrying out of the trusts imposed upon the funds held by the several societies. The plan does not depend, however, upon any such complete merger of the societies. It is based on the belief that even though it may be found advisable to continue the corporate existence of the societies, they can be administered as departments of the work of the Congregational Home Board, which is a collective name to be applied to the entire home work as administered by the identical board of directors.

The support of the national societies. The new plan provides for a reorganized Commission on Missions which is to consist of 81 members, 36 of whom are the members of the Prudential Committee of the American Board, 36 the Board of Directors of the Home Board and 9 are appointed at large by the National Council. The Commission on Missions is to have general charge of the raising of funds for the support of all the societies, and of the apportionment among the societies of the amounts raised. This Commission is to have an Executive Committee and a Survey Committee.

The administrative work relating to the raising of funds for the support of the national societies is to be placed in charge of a Joint Promotional Council which is to represent the two national Boards directly, and to have charge of all solicitation of funds for the entire program of benevolences. The plan contemplates that each national society shall cease to maintain promotional secretaries for the purpose of soliciting funds directly for that society. This does not mean, however, that the work of individual societies is not to be emphasized or that gifts are not to be accepted from individuals for particular objects in which they may be interested. On the contrary, it is expected that the Promotional Council will be able to augment the number of those who are willing to respond to such appeals. This council is to consist of 16 members, including five persons chosen by each of the two national Boards, three chosen by the body of state superintendents, the General Secretary of the National Council, the Promotional Secretary and the Secretary of the Laymen's Advisory Committee. It is an administrative, not an authoritative body. The Commission on Missions and ad interim its Executive Committee authoritatively represent the Boards.

The general administrative head of the Promotional Council is to be a Promotional Secretary elected by the two national Boards on nomination of the Commission on Missions.

In order to provide for the fullest contact of the Promotional Council with state organizations and the churches, Regional Committees are to be appointed composed of volunteer workers. These Regional Committees are to work through the existing organizations. The country has been divided into five regional districts, the first of which consists of the New England States, with Boston as a center. Each Regional Committee is a joint branch of the two national Boards. Its members are to be appointed by the two Boards sitting jointly. Regional secretaries, state superintendents and persons doing similar promotional work in states not having organized conferences are to be members of the Regional Committee in their territory without vote. These Regional Committees are not intended to affect any existing direct relations between the state organizations and the national Boards and the Commission on Missions. They are expected to be of assistance in the entire promotional program in the churches by helping to create interest in the objects of the work and securing support for it.

The Congregational Woman's Home Missionary Federation, which is composed of many units in various state organizations, is not to be consolidated with the Home Board, but the work carried on by the Federation is to be assumed by the Promotional Council and the Regional Committees. The existing local organizations of women for the purpose of support of missionary enterprises are probably to be encouraged and will function in connection with the Promotional Council and the Regional Committees. The details of this plan have not yet been fully worked out.

A provisional Regional Committee in New England has been formed. The President of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society has been chosen as its temporary chairman.

Relations of state and national organizations. The recommendations which were adopted by the National Council include a statement of general principles with respect to the responsibility of the churches of a conference for missionary and extension work within its borders. This recommendation is as follows:

> "We recommend that the directors of the Home Boards, whenever it seems to them advisable and as speedily as possible, commit the execution of all local work now done by the extension boards, the Education Society and the American Missionary Association to the State Conferences. This recommendation of commitment of executive work does not include any suggestion that the national societies should not make appropriations for state work. This commitment of work should be made not alone where the Conference is now self-supporting but also where it is sufficiently strong to contribute, under the total apportionment, amounts equal to the needs of the state budget, including provision for the work turned over; arrangements being made so that part of the benevolent fund of the churches of the state may be paid to the national societies, somewhat under the terms of the present plan for Co-operating States in the constitution of The Congregational Home Missionary Society. This would grant the states autonomy in administration with fraternal advice as well as financial assistance."

The National Council also recommends that state organizations consider the advisability of inviting representatives of the national Foreign and Home Boards to sit regularly with them and that the national Boards reciprocate, and also that state organizations consult with the national societies to secure harmony and cooperation.

State percentages. In view of the simplification of percentages through the proposed plan, the National Council suggests that in the future the Survey Committee of the Commission on Missions, after conference with representatives from the states and the Home and Foreign Boards, shall present at the midwinter conference recommendations as to three percentages for each state, — one for state work, one for foreign work and one for home work, and arrange with the Home Board for subdivision of its apportionment.

It is to be noted that under this plan, the initiative with respect to turning over to state conferences work previously carried on by the national societies is expected to come from the Directors of the Home Board. They are to commit the execution of local work to the state conferences "whenever it seems to them advisable and as speedily as possible."

The taking over of work of any magnitude, if it is to be done without injury to the local work or to the national societies, evidently requires (a) a state organization able and willing to do the work, and (b) a readjustment of the percentages in the apportionment within the state so as to provide funds for the work. This will also involve a readjustment as between national societies of the percentage from that state which goes for national work, corresponding in some measure to the relief which is given to the treasury of the national society by the taking over of the work by the state organization. As this percentage is determined at the midwinter conference which is usually held at Chicago, it is advisable that the changes which are contemplated should be made carefully and with full cooperation on both sides.

The foregoing summary of the chief features of the national plan has been made not for the purpose of passing on the merits of any particular portion of it, but in order to furnish a better understanding of its relation to the State Committee on Missions and Apportionment and to the office of President of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society.

The office of President of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society considered in relation to the reorganization of the national work. The plan for the national work which has been summarized is based on the fact that Congregational churches are as a rule organized into state conferences with state superintendents as executive officers of the conferences.

The plan also contains these features which call for a representative of each state: (a) three members of the Promotional Council are to be chosen by the body of state superintendents; (b) state superintendents are to be members, ex officiis, of the Regional Committee in their territory; (c) the suggestion is made that state organizations invite representatives of the national Boards to sit regularly with them and that the national Boards reciprocate.

It is also to be noted that the state superintendents meet regularly at Chicago at the midwinter meeting of the various missionary executives and that it is at this meeting that the Survey Committee expects to get much of its information on which to base its recommendations as to state percentages.

The Congregational churches in all the states, except Connecticut and Massachusetts, are organized into conferences with a state superintendent or secretary as an executive head. For some time it has been the practice of the Commission on Missions and other national organizations to consult the President or the Secretary of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society on questions on which in other states they would consult the state superintendents. The President of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society has since his appointment been invited to attend the meetings of the state superintendents, and there is a general tendency, without any action on the part of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society or its President to that end, to treat the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society as if it were the organization of the Massachusetts State Conference and its chief executive as if he were the actual head of the organization of the Massachusetts Congregational churches. This has been done for the sake of convenience in passing on information and in order that Massachusetts may be represented at gatherings of state superintendents and also at meetings of representatives of the National Council and other national officials where representatives of state organizations are expected to be present.

The President of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society has stated in such gatherings that he acted without state authority, but his disclaimer has been politely waved aside and he has been extended the same courtesy and privileges as though he were an official representative of the Massachusetts churches. Substantially the same course has been followed with respect to Connecticut.

Your Committee recommends that the State Conference should recognize the existing situation and should authorize the President of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society to act as its representative in meetings with state superintendents.

Your Committee recognizes that we are in the midst of very important changes in the organization of all work which is carried on by the cooperation of the various churches. We think it would be unwise to prophesy the changes which are to come in the future, or to attempt to anticipate them. For this reason, we confine our recommendations in this report to those which we have already made.

We believe that Massachusetts is fortunate in having agencies which readily lend themselves to the carrying out of any plan which may be made in cooperation with the national program. Until that program is further developed, we believe that the recommendations which are made in this report as to the work of the state Committee on Missions and Apportionment and as to the duties of the office of President of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society are sufficient.

REPORT OF THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

The Executive Committee met early in June for the transaction of routine business and has not held a formal session since then.

The Treasurer's bond of $5,000 was renewed and Rev. H. L. Packard and A. J. Crockett were elected Finance Committee for the year. The resignation of C. E. Kelsey as Auditor was accepted and W. H. Abbott of Newtonville was elected to the vacancy.

It was voted to recommend that the Committee on Federation of Churches consist hereafter of five members instead of the fifty-one who have been named as our quota of delegates to the State Federation of churches, and that the committee of five be authorized to appoint such delegates.

The Secretary was instructed to print and distribute the usual number (1800) of copies of the Minutes for 1925. He was also authorized to fill all vacancies during the year. Vacancies occurred in the delegation to the National Council, and the list of alternates elected by the Conference was exactly sufficient to insure a 100 per cent representation of Massachusetts in the Council at Washington.

The Secretary was instructed to use such means as might seem wise to impress upon churches and ministers the importance of their attendance at the meetings of Conference, in the endeavor to secure a much larger representation throughout the state. He was also instructed to secure such assistance as may be needed by the Registrars at Dorchester in the matter of wider publicity of the doings of the Conference.

FRANCIS J. MARSH,
Secretary of the Committee.

OVERTURE OF THE SUFFOLK NORTH ASSOCIATION TO THE MASSACHUSETTS CONFERENCE

Whereas: by a recent decision of the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts, it has been declared that the so-called Creed of Andover Theological Seminary (given in full below) must be affirmed by the Professors and by the several members of the Board of Visitors strictly in accordance with its literal terms, and in the meaning at the time the Creed was originally written, and

Whereas: this decision of the Supreme Court puts an end to the practice which has grown up during many years past, in which the Creed has been taken with various expressed reservations believed to have been permissible, as for example: "According to the best light that God shall give me," or "for substance of doctrine," or as by one believing himself to be "in the historic succession of Orthodox Trinitarian Congregational ministers," and

Whereas: this Creed now made mandatory in its original meaning on all Professors and the several members of the Board of Visitors, contains statements of doctrine which have not been held or affirmed by orthodox Congregational churches for a great number of years, but on the contrary, would be inadmissible in statements of faith or in creeds commonly held by orthodox Congregational churches, and

Whereas: by the decision of the Supreme Court such statements of the Creed must not only be affirmed by Professors and Visitors, but must be taught the students, and the Visitors must remove professors who do not so believe and teach, and

Whereas: students so taught, if such could be found willing to accept such teaching, would not be acceptable in orthodox Congregational churches, therefore be it

Resolved: by the Suffolk North Association of Congregational Churches that the State Conference of Congregational Churches of Massachusetts, soon to be in annual session at Pilgrim Congregational Church, Dorchester, be memorialized to take such action as shall make it plain that the so-called Andover Creed was never required of orthodox Congregational churches, and does not prevail among them; and that if it were to be taken literally by the Professors and the Visitors of Andover Theological Seminary, the usefulness of Andover Theological Seminary to the orthodox Congregational churches of Massachusetts would be at an end.

ASSOCIATE STATUTES 1808
ARTICLE II

"I believe that there is one, and but one living and true God; that the word of God, contained in the Scriptures of the Old and New Testament, is the only perfect rule of faith and practice; that agreeably to those Scriptures God is a Spirit, infinite, eternal, and unchangeable in His being, wisdom, power. holiness, justice, goodness and truth; that in the Godhead are three Persons, the Father, the Son, and the Holy Ghost; and that these Three are One God, the same in substance, equal in power and glory; that God created man after His own image, in knowledge, righteousness, and holiness; that the glory of God is man's chief end, the enjoyment of God his supreme happiness; that this enjoyment is derived solely from conformity of heart to the moral character and will of God; that Adam, the federal head and representative of the human race, was placed in a state of probation, and that in consequence of his disobedience, all his descendants were constituted sinners; that by nature every man is personally depraved, destitute of holiness, unlike and opposed to God; and that previously to the renewing agency of the Divine Spirit, all his moral actions are adverse to the character and glory of God; that being morally incapable of recovering the image of his Creator, which was lost in Adam, every man is justly exposed to eternal damnation; so that, except a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God; that God, of his mere good pleasure, from all eternity elected some to everlasting life; and that he entered into a covenant of grace, to deliver them out of this state of sin and misery by a Redeemer; that the only Redeemer of the elect is the eternal Son of God, who for this purpose became man, and continues to be God and man in two distinct natures and one person forever; that Christ, as our Redeemer, executeth the office of a Prophet, Priest, and King; that, agreeably to the covenant of redemption, the Son of God, and he alone, by his suffering and death, has made atonement for the sins of all men; that repentance, faith, and holiness are the personal requisites in the Gospel scheme of salvation; that the righteousness of Christ is the only ground of a sinner's justification; that this righteousness is received through faith; and that this faith is the gift of God; so that our salvation is wholly of grace; that no means whatever can change the heart of a sinner, and make it holy; that regeneration and sanctification are effects of the creating and renewing agency of the Holy Spirit, and that supreme love to God constitutes the essential difference between saints and sinners, that by convincing us of our sin and misery, enlightening our minds, working faith in us, and renewing our wills, the Holy Spirit makes us partakers of the benefits of redemption; and that the ordinary means, by which these benefits are communicated to us, are the word, sacraments and prayers; that repentance unto life, faith to feed upon Christ, love to God, and new obedience, are the appropriate qualifications for the Lord's Supper; and that a Christian Church ought to admit no person to its holy communion, before he exhibit credible evidence of his godly sincerity; that perseverance in holiness is the only method of making our calling and election sure; and that the final perseverance of saints, though it is the effect of the special operation of God on their hearts, yet necessarily implies their own watchful diligence; that they, who are effectually called, do in this life partake of justification, adoption, and sanctification, and the several benefits, which do either accompany or flow from them; that the souls of believers are at their death made perfect in holiness, and do immediately pass into glory; that their bodies, being still united to Christ, will at the resurrection be raised up to glory, and the saints will be made perfectly blessed in the full enjoyment of God to all eternity; but that the wicked will awake to shame and everlasting contempt, and with devils be plunged into the lake, that burneth with fire and brimstone forever and ever. I moreover believe that God, according to the counsel of his own will, and for his own glory, hath foreordained whatsoever comes to pass, and that all beings, actions, and events, both in the natural and moral world, are under his providential direction; that God's decrees perfectly consist with human liberty; God's universal agency with the agency of man; and man's dependence with his accountability; that man has understanding and corporeal strength to do all that God require of him; so that nothing, but the sinner's aversion to holiness, prevents his salvation; that it is the prerogative of God to bring good out of evil, and that he will cause the wrath and rage of wicked men and devils to praise Him; and that all the evil which has existed, and which will forever exist in the moral system, will eventually be made to promote a most important purpose under the wise and perfect administration of that Almighty Being, who will cause all things to work for his own glory, and thus fulfill all his pleasure. — And furthermore I do solemnly promise, that I will open and explain the Scriptures to my pupils with integrity and faithfulness; that I will maintain and inculcate the Christian faith, as expressed in the Creed by me now repeated, together with all the other doctrines and duties of our Holy Religion, so far as may appertain to my office, according to the best light God shall give me, and in opposition, not only to Atheists and Infidels, but to Jews, Papists, Mahometans, Arians, Pelagians, Antinomians, Arminians, Socinians, Sabellians, Unitarians, and Universalists; and to all other heresies and errors, ancient or modern, which may be opposed to the Gospel of Christ, or hazardous to the souls of men; that by my instruction, counsel, and example, I will endeavor to promote true Piety and Godliness; that I will consult the good of this institution, and the peace of the Churches of our Lord Jesus Christ on all occasions; and that I will religiously conform to the Constitution and Laws of this Seminary and to the Statutes of this Foundation."

ARTICLE III

The preceding Creed and Declaration shall be repeated by every professor on this Foundation at the expiration of every successive period of five years; and no man shall be continued a Professor on said Foundation, who shall not continue to approve himself a man of sound and orthodox principles in Divinity agreeably to the aforesaid Creed.

STATISTICAL TABLES

EXPLANATORY

The tables which follow comprise:

1. The statistics of the churches, giving the ministers, church membership, additions, removals, baptisms, Sunday schools and families; the statistics of the Young People's Societies; the amount of benevolences and expenses. These tables, in accordance with the vote of the Conference, in 1887, are made to conform to those in the Year-Book; but names in the pastoral column are changed according to the latest information before going to press.

2. The Associations of the churches, with the names of officers and the times of meeting.

3. The Ministerial Standing, giving the date of ordination of each minister, the date of membership, the residence and his "employment." "P. C." means pastor by council; "P.," pastor otherwise; "W. C." means without church; "Prof." means professor; "C. M.," city missionary; "T.," teacher; other abbreviations are self-evident. "W. C.," however, includes many who have retired from active service, and some who are in business.

4. The Ministerial Record, containing lists of ordinations, installations, dismissals, and deaths.

The tables of the first part contain the names of all the Congregational churches in Massachusetts, the towns and cities being arranged alphabetically; churches in each town according to age. If the post office name of the church and the town name differ, a foot note on the page where the post office name would naturally be found will direct the reader to the town name.

Church members and families are reported as numbered January 1, 1926. Admissions, removals and baptisms cover the year 1925. "Absent" are not additional to "males," "females" and "total," but included in them. "Sunday school" includes total membership of officers, teachers and scholars, January 1, 1926, or when the school is in operation (if not at that date), covering "branch schools," "mission schools" and "home departments," so far as maintained by the reporting church.

The months and days in the dates of the organization of churches are omitted. They will be found in the publications of 1873, those of churches since organized being given in the "Minutes" of each year Also the months and days in the dates of ordination and installation of ministers are omitted. The former may be found in the lists of the local Associations which follow the tables.

"Ordained" denotes the date on which the person was originally set apart to the ministry by the "laying-on of hands." "Commenced" denotes the date of the beginning of his present pastorate.

In accordance with the recommendation of the National Council, in the Statistical Tables pastors installed are marked "i."; pastors recognized by a council called for that purpose are marked "r."; pastors duly called by their churches, but not installed or recognized by council, are not marked.

Blanks in any column of figures are never equivalent to "none," but mean "no report"; but blanks in the column of ministers do mean that the church has no pastor or acting pastor, and the blank is left for the convenience of those who note changes.

Under Sunday Schools, "c" denotes cradle roll, "h" home department, "e" both cradle roll and home department, and "m" a mission or branch school.

Note. — The "year" means what changes were comprised in the twelve months preceding January 1 of the year mentioned. The table was begun in 1866, all preceding years now given being compiled from past "Minutes," — the number of churches in some years varying from the "Minutes" as they were to what they should have been.

The changes in list of churches, ordinations, installations, etc., for the past year, condensed in the above table, are given in detail in their proper place.

* Prior to 1876 "acting pastors" are included in "others" in columns of deaths of ministers.

ALPHABETICAL LIST OF MINISTERS

This list gives the names of pastors, or acting pastors, and of all Congregational ministers who are members of the Associations or Conferences that guard ministerial standing.

Ministers who are not reported as having ministerial standing in this state, and who have not been installed by council, are designated by a star (*). This does NOT mean that the man has no ministerial standing.

The first column of figures gives the page on which names may be found of all in pastoral service. A blank in the first column signifies that the person is not reported as being in pastoral service in this state.

The second column of figures gives the page on which ministerial standing is recorded.

The post-office addresses as given below often differ from the places named in the tables, and are supposed to be correct in this list.

An alphabetical list of licentiates follows this list.

SPECIAL NOTICE.—IF your name is not correctly printed in the preceding tables, IF one Christian name is not given in full, IF your ordination is not correct or is not in its proper place, IF your post-office is wrong, or IF before you receive the next Year-Book your post-office is changed, or IF your name is omitted from this list, the needed change or correction should be reported at once to the Rev. Henry Lincoln Bailey, Longmeadow, Mass., Secretary of the Massachusetts Congregational Conference.

MINUTES OF THE ONE HUNDRED TWENTY-FIFTH ANNUAL MEETING

---

WORCESTER, MAY 16, 17, 18

THE JORDAN & MORE PRESS

EDITORIAL NOTE

This final page of the 1927 volume is written on June 14, the earliest on record, and it is hoped that the book will be distributed in June. While statistics are dated January 1, the tables of ministers' names and addresses are revised as nearly as possible to July 1.

By a clerical error, $200 of benevolences from the church in Sutton (p.o. Millbury) was reported to the secretary as coming from the Second Church in Millbury, and is so printed in the Year-Book and these Minutes.

At the meeting in Worcester two amendments were offered to Article V of the Rules, to be acted upon next year. These are printed on pages 19 and 20, and the secretary hereby calls the attention of the churches to the same.

By the courtesy of Rev. John J. Walker, secretary of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, correspondence concerning Conference matters may be addressed to him while Secretary Bailey is in Europe until November 8.

APPORTIONMENT OF EXPENSES

The churches are requested to contribute through the treasurers of their associations for the expenses of the Conference a sum equivalent to thirteen cents for each member, based upon the total membership of January 1, 1927, and the treasurers of the associations are requested to forward the amounts as soon as possible to the treasurer, Mr. Ernest L. Miller, 20 Woodside Road, Newtonville.

DIRECTORY FOR BENEVOLENT CONTRIBUTIONS

Because of the merger of our many societies into two boards, home and foreign, with a definite part of the apportionment allotted to state work, this Directory assumes this year a much simpler form. It is recommended that all contributions be sent to the new Conference Treasurer of Benevolences, Rev. Oliver D. Sewall, 14 Beacon St., Boston. Unless contributions are designated as for some special work, Mr. Sewall will apportion them on the standard percentage for Massachusetts, as follows:

|---|---|
| American Board, for foreign work, | 42 per cent. |
| National Home Boards, | 42¾ per cent. |
| Massachusetts work, | 15¼ per cent. |

Frederick A. Gaskins, Treasurer, 14 Beacon St., Boston, and its national home missionary contributions to

Charles H. Baker, Treasurer, 105 East 22 St., New York City.

It is further recommended that church treasurers remit quarterly such funds as are in hand, and that the final remittance for each calendar year be sent before January 10, if credit is desired in the next Year-Book.

Rev. F. A. MacDonald, pastor of the entertaining church, welcomed the Conference. Response was made by the Moderator.

The Treasurer, E. L. Miller, Newtonville, made his annual report. The report of the Auditing Committee was read by the Secretary. These reports were accepted and referred to the Budget Committee.

Rev. A. J. Covell, Secretary of the Board of Pastoral Supply, made the report of that organization. The report was accepted and placed on file.

The report of the Boston Seaman's Friend Society was given by Rev. F. A. Poole, South Weymouth. The report was accepted and the recommendations were referred to the Budget Committee.

Rev. E. M. Halliday, Executive Secretary of the Extension Boards, gave an address on "Church Extension in the National Field."

The report of the Committee on Conference Organization was made by the Chairman, H. K. Hyde, Ware. An informal discussion followed in which there was general participation.

The following recommendations were informally adopted, final action to be taken on Tuesday:

1. That the Conference recognize the Congregational Woman's Missionary Society of Massachusetts as an agency of the Conference for promoting the missionary program of the denomination; that a place be made in the annual Conference program for this society and that an addition be made to the rules of the Conference as follows:

"ARTICLE XII. Congregational Woman's Missionary Society

The Congregational Woman's Missionary Society of Massachusetts shall be the agent of the Conference for promoting the missionary program of the denomination among women in the Commonwealth and a place for the society shall be made in the program of the annual meeting."

2. That the Conference authorize the payment of the salaries of the secretaries and the other expenses of the Congregational Woman's Missionary Society of Massachusetts from that part of the money raised in the State under the apportionment plan which is allocated to state work as is now done with respect to the salary and expenses of the Field Secretary of the Committee on Missions and Apportionment; and that the budget of the Woman's Missionary Society be subject to the approval of the Committee on Missions and Apportionment.

3. That the Conference, without making any rule on the subject, adopt the practice of placing upon its several committees, including the Program Committee, one or more women selected with a view to representing the Congregational Woman's Missionary Society of Massachusetts, and that in general, but without making any arbitrary rule, at least one-third of the membership of the committees should be women.

4. That the Conference adopt an arrangement already approved by the Congregational Woman's Missionary Society of Massachusetts by which the officers and directors of the Woman's Missionary Society shall be elected by the women members of the Conference together with such delegates, not exceeding five, from each district of the Woman's Missionary Society, as that Society shall by its by-laws provide.

The following change in Article V was proposed, action to be taken next year:

"1. Each evangelical Congregational Church and Association in this Commonwealth may choose two delegates, of whom, it is suggested, one shall be a woman, and these delegates, together with the pastor or pastors of each church (who shall be members ex officio), the officers and committee members of this body, two delegates from the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, two from the Congregational Woman's Missionary Society of Massachusetts, one from the Board of Ministerial Aid, one from the Boston Seaman's Friend Society, one from Andover Theological Seminary, and one from the Board of Pastoral Supply, shall constitute the Conference."

It was voted regarding the first recommendation:

If this change is adopted, the present Article XII of the Rules of the Conference should be renumbered XIII and the succeeding articles renumbered in their present order.

The following changes in the Rules were proposed, action to be taken Tuesday:

1. That paragraph 1 of Article VI of the Rules of the Conference be amended by inserting at the end of the first sentence the words "and a Treasurer of Benevolences" and by striking out the word "and" after the words "Assistant Registrar"; also by inserting the words "and Treasurer of Benevolences" after the words "Vice-Moderator" in the third sentence of said paragraph, so that the said paragraph shall read:

"1. The officers shall be a Moderator, a Vice-Moderator, a Secretary, a Registrar, an Assistant Registrar, a Treasurer and a Treasurer of Benevolences. All members of Congregational churches in this Commonwealth shall be eligible to any of these offices. The officers shall be elected by ballot, the Moderator and Vice-Moderator and Treasurer of Benevolences each to serve one year, the other officers each to serve three years and until the election of their successors. The terms of all officers, save when chosen to fill vacancies, shall begin at the close of the meeting at which they are elected."

2. That said Article VI of the Rules of the Conference be amended by renumbering paragraphs 8 and 9 as 9 and 10 respectively, and by inserting the following as paragraph 8:

"8. The Treasurer of Benevolences shall receive all contributions for benevolences sent to him by the churches of the Commonwealth and shall disburse the same in accordance with the instructions of the respective contributing churches. He shall give such bonds as the Executive Committee may require."

After several informal votes it was voted formally:

That a committee of five be named by the Nominating Committee and elected at this meeting of the Conference, and that this Committee be instructed to devise a plan for the use of the charter of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society for the joint purposes of the Conference and the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, and to take the necessary steps to carry this plan into effect.

Rev. H. L. Bailey proposed the following amendment to the Rules:

That in section 1 of Article V, the fifth, sixth and seventh words, "Conference and Association" be omitted. This amendment is not in conflict with, but in addition to, that proposed to the same section by the Committee on Organization.

1. That the Conference recognize the Congregational Woman's Missionary Society of Massachusetts as an agency of the Conference for promoting the missionary program of the denomination; that a place be made in the annual Conference program for this society and that an addition be made to the rules of the Conference as follows:

2. That the present Article XII of the Rules of the Conference should be renumbered XIII and the succeeding articles renumbered in their present order.

3. 7. That said Article VI of the Rules of the Conference be amended by renumbering paragraphs 8 and 9 as 9 and 10 respectively, and by inserting the following as paragraph 8:

He shall give such bonds as the Executive Committee may require."

The Committee on Federation of Churches presented its report by Rev. J. J. Walker, Boston.

The report was accepted and the recommendation was adopted,

That a Committee on Federation of Churches and Co-operation with other Denominations be appointed to serve for the next Conference year, that this committee consist of five members, and that it be empowered to appoint the representatives of this Conference in the voting membership of the Massachusetts Federation of Churches for the year.

The recommendation that $1,809 be appropriated for the support of the Massachusetts Federation for the next Conference year was referred to the Budget Committee.

Rev. H. L. Bailey, Longmeadow, presented the report of the Executive Committee. The report was accepted.

The report of the Committee on Religious Education was presented by Rev. G. W. Owen, Hyde Park. The following recommendations proposed by the Committee and endorsed by the Business Committee were voted:

Whereas there is need of definite co-operation with the young people of the state in planning and conducting the rally for young people at the State Conference and other rallies during the year;

And whereas the interest and co-operation of the Congregational young people of Massachusetts is desired and needed in connection with the following organizations:

a. The State Committee on Religious Education,

b. The Congregational Education Society both in its regional work and its national outreach,

c. The various district associations,

And whereas there is need in our state not simply of fellowship among Congregational young people, but of a means for the exchange of progressive ideas and experiments in carrying on some of our young people's work in its various forms; therefore we make the following recommendations:

1. The present group of young people representing the district associations shall be known as the State Committee of Congregational Young People. (This name seems best because it does not imply elaborate organization.)

2. The State Committee of Congregational Young People shall be composed of representatives from the district associations, chosen in one of the following ways:

a. Delegates shall be nominated by the young people at a young people's rally in connection with a district association and the election shall be made by the regular association meeting of the churches. For the first year two delegates shall be appointed, one for a term of two years, and one for a term of one year. Thereafter one delegate shall be elected each year for a term of two years.

Or b. Delegates shall be appointed by the district association officers or by the Religious Education Committee of an association.

Or c. Delegates shall be appointed by the State Committee of Religious Education in case of failure of methods a and b.

It is understood that these three ways are enumerated in the order of preference.

3. The State Committee of Congregational Young People shall be recognized by the Massachusetts Congregational Conference as the Congregational agency for young people.

4. The State Committee of Congregational Young People shall be under the supervision of the Religious Education Committee of the conference, and this supervision shall be effected in the two following ways:

a. Two members of the Religious Education Committee shall serve ex officiis as members of the State Committee of Congregational Young People.

b. All action of the State Committee of Congregational Young People shall be subject to review and approval by the Religious Education Committee.

5. The Massachusetts Congregational Conference shall authorize the Religious Education Committee to subsidize the State Committee of Congregational Young People by paying such a portion of the expenses of that committee as may seem to be necessary for carrying on its work.

6. Further details of organization and relationship of the State Committee of Congregational Young People may be worked out by that committee in consultation with the committee on Religious Education.

The recommendation that an appropriation of $300 be made for the use of the Committee was referred to the Budget Committee.

It was voted that Rev. E. T. Root, of the Massachusetts Federation of Churches, and Rev. B. A. Dumm, of the Conference of Faith and Order, be given the time after 10.45, before the address of the morning.

Rev. H. W. Kimball, Needham, presented the report of the Committee on Moral and Social Welfare.

The following recommendations made by the Committee were adopted, its report accepted and the request for an appropriation of $150 was referred to the Budget Committee:

1. Resolved: That we approve the recommendation of the Committee of Moral and Social Welfare that an Industrial Conference be held the coming year in association with the Social Service Commission of the National Council and that the Budget Committee be asked to appropriate $150 for the use of the committee that this conference may be held.

2. Believing that the development of an intelligent and virtuous type of life and character is the chief glory of a Commonwealth, and realizing that the right use of the Lord's Day is an important factor in this development, and

Whereas, the utter loss of this day is threatened by the steady and insistent demands of short-sighted people who clamor for the substitution of Sunday sports, Sunday pleasure seeking and Sunday profit making for the sane type of family and religious life which have had so large a part in making Massachusetts a noted Commonwealth, famed as the dwelling place of a people devout in spirit and virtuous in character, and

Whereas, the growing practice of seeking sport and financial profit on the Lord's Day is producing effects fraught with danger to our Commonwealth, now therefore be it

Resolved, by the members of the Massachusetts Congregational Conference in annual meeting assembled, that we call upon the Governor and the members of the Legislature to refuse the demands of those who aim to substitute sport, work and profit for the religious influences and practices which have made our Commonwealth strong in the past, and that we call upon thoughtful people of every walk in life to perpetuate the sacred nature of the day of rest and worship by abstaining from practices which lessen the place of religion in life, and to set before the young both sound teaching and inspiring example of godly life and character, to the end that the chief glory of a commonwealth may be realized.

3. Whereas there exists a strongly organized and highly paid propaganda against the Volstead Act and the 18th amendment, therefore, the Massachusetts Conference of Congregational Churches hereby strongly affirms these convictions:

1. That the Volstead Act and the 18th amendment can be as reasonably enforced as other laws, and that the churches should bring all possible legitimate influence to bear upon the local authorities in their respective communities to this end.
2. That we strongly commend the Massachusetts Anti-Saloon League to the moral and financial support of the churches, suggesting that it be included in their benevolence budgets, as an indispensable and effective agency of the churches in maintaining prohibition.
3. That we urge upon the churches the vital importance of carrying on educational efforts regarding the evils of the alcoholic traffic and of alcoholic drinking and the benefits of prohibition in their own programs and in those of the public schools.

4. We, the Committee on Moral and Social Welfare, move the adoption of the following resolution:

Whereas, our denomination has no established standard governing the transfer of membership when our constituents move from one community to another, and the denomination in general and the local churches in particular suffer a loss by the negligence of our members to transfer their membership within a reasonable length of time, therefore, be it resolved, that this matter be referred to the Moral and Social Welfare Committee of the Conference for study, to report at the meeting one year from this time.

5. Resolved: That the Conference of the Congregational Churches of Massachusetts urge our people to study the present trends in the activities of various organizations seeking to use and direct the time and strength of our youth today, and ask them to adopt measures which will safeguard Sunday as a day for the religious education and spiritual inspiration of the young people of our churches.

6. Resolved: That this Conference heartily approves the attitude of Arthur K. Reading, the Attorney General of our Commonwealth, in his efforts to enforce the laws of the state against gamblers, especially the laws forbidding lotteries.

The report for the Committee on Missions and Apportionment was presented by F. E. Rowe, Winchester. Rev. O. D. Sewall, Treasurer of Benevolences, Boston, and Rev. A. M. Parker, Secretary of Promotion, Boston, were introduced. The report was accepted, the request for an appropriation of $500 was referred to the Budget Committee, and the following recommendations were adopted:

I. That the assignment of $1,087,500 by the Commission on Missions be recognized as Massachusetts's fair share of the $5,000,000 goal and that a determined effort be made to raise the amount assumed by the churches.

II. That the gifts collected and not designated by the donors for specific objects be divided between the societies on the following basis: American Board 42%; Congregational Home Board 42¾%; state work 15¼%; total, 100%, and that church treasurers be requested to remit quarterly to Oliver D. Sewall, treasurer, 14 Beacon Street, Boston, for such division.

The Business Committee made the following report which was adopted:

1. We recommend that the invitation of the Second Church in Greenfield to hold the Conference of 1928 with that church be accepted.

2. That actions and recommendations of the Conference which are of general or special interest to the churches be printed by the Secretary and copies be sent to the churches requesting that such be read from the pulpit or printed in the calendar.

3. We recognize the need of a new building and equipment for the Boston Seaman's Friend Society and the Conference recommends that the Society submit to the Conference Committee on Missions and Apportionment for approval and co-operation the plans of the Society for the proposed financial drive.

4. Recognizing the growing need for church buildings and additional church equipment within the state, Voted, that the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, now practically acting for the Conference, make stronger appeals to the Congregational Church Building Society for larger grants of funds to be expended in Massachusetts.

That we reaffirm the action of the Conference in 1926 that the amounts to be asked of the Church Building Society be determined in conference between the interested groups and the Home Missionary Society.

That a copy of these actions be forwarded officially by the Conference Secretary to the Church Building Society.

5. That the Conference approve the efforts of the Massachusetts Federation of Churches as it seeks to place church papers in every church home.

6. That the Conference appoint a committee of five to study the worship program of the entire Conference and suggest ways and means of magnifying and improving the devotional spirit; and that the committee co-operate with the Program Committee of our next Conference.

7. Memories carried away from our Conference meetings are colored in no small degree by the preparations made, cordiality extended and generosity shown by the entertaining church. On arrival we found everything made ready for our convenience. Hospitality has been unstinted during our three days in Worcester. Before returning home we desire to express our deep appreciation to the pastor, committees and members of First Church, Old South; and to the members of the co-operating churches, Piedmont Congregational, First Presbyterian and First Baptist and the other Congregational churches of the city. They have all helped to make the 1927 meeting memorable.

The Nominating Committee made the following nominations and they were elected:

Committee on Auditing: J. B. Robson, Newtonville.

Committee on Organization: (in place of H. K. Hyde, resigned) Rev. Raymond Calkins, Cambridge.

Committee on Conference Worship: Rev. R. R. Wicks, Holyoke; Rev. W. H. Spence, Salem; Rev. H. O. Hannum, Newburyport; Rev. S. R. Fisher, Wellesley; Rev. E. M. Noyes, Newton Centre.

Worcester and the State Conference are mutual friends. This is the ninth time we have come here. Boston has an equal record, but only because it has Dorchester and Roxbury to help it with their ancient records of hospitality. It is, however, almost a half century since the Old South has welcomed us to Worcester, Plymouth, Central and Piedmont having entertained the Conference at intervals since 1879. Within that period two-thirds of Worcester's eighteen Congregational churches have come into existence and the membership has more than trebled, standing now above 7,700.

The churches on the roll number 603, the same as last year, three additions being balanced by three removals. Harvard of Dorchester and Shirley Point of Winthrop have disbanded, the greater part of their active membership being transferred to neighboring Congregational churches. Hyannis, after arranging a local federation, has chosen to become an independent church. On the other hand, two independent churches, Memorial of Springfield and Immanuel of Pittsfield, have chosen to come into our denominational fellowship; and one new church, the East of Springfield, a lusty infant with 279 members, completes the roll. By anticipation it may be said that another independent church will be on next year's roll, the Free Evangelical of Concord having just been admitted to the Middlesex Union Association.

With large credit due to the three new churches, we record a net gain of 3,583 members last year, the largest growth on record except as reported in 1918 and 1878. Our total is now 161,714, and while the men form only 35 per cent of the membership, their rate of increase is double that of the women. Never have the churches received so many new members, 11,517, never so many by letter, and only once a larger number on confession than 6,627. But never have church clerks been so busy removing names, especially by roll revision which jumps to a new high mark of 3,065; deaths and letters out are many but have occasionally been exceeded, and the total removals number 7,934. One remarkable result of roll revision deserves mention. The church at North Adams has discovered that it has 71 more members than it thought it had. Nine times in previous reports I have announced a new high record of infant baptisms. Again the figures climb almost 100 to a total of 4,073. One association scribe having deplored the drop in Sunday school enrolment in his district, the source of the drop of 731 in the state was sought. Eight associations, scattered all over the state, gained 1,238, an average of 155; while sixteen lost 1,969, an average of 123. In the matter of membership in young people's societies, the associations divided evenly, twelve reporting an average gain of 107, and twelve an average loss of 78, the net gain being 343. In church membership only five associations failed to gain, the causes being heavy roll revision or the loss of whole churches. Benevolences on apportionment are presented in print in the Missionary Committee's report, showing a loss of $14,562. Yet eight associations gained $12,993, so that the other sixteen must have fallen off $27,555. Meanwhile we have increased our home expenses more than $200,000 to a total of nearly $4,000,000, and our property valuation has jumped almost two and a half millions to $31,482,406 plus an indeterminate amount from several prominent churches which prefer not to report the value of their equipment. While much of the increase in local budgets is due to building and repairs, it is gratifying to note that ministerial salaries have also been enlarging, modestly to be sure, yet on the average enough for new shoes for everybody in the parsonage.

Some day, when, too weary to tabulate your statistics any longer, I sing my official swan song, I shall put on the loud speaker and let you hear the static that roars from the creaking of the machine. But today I shall simply report that after the usual number of second, third and fourth appeals reports were secured from every church except the North of Newton; and that the Massachusetts schedule, unduly delayed by New York missionary treasurers, was sent to the Year Book several days earlier than last year.

The obituary list for the conference year has 20 names, to which should be added three more not listed here before. The list is unusual in being one of veterans, the youngest being 63 and the oldest nearly 90. Their dates of ordination range from 1867 to 1892, with an average career since ordination of over 46 years. The list is unusual also in containing five names of men who have served in foreign fields under the American Board, one of them, Henry Fairbank, dying at his post in India. Four were pastors emeriti, five were in the active pastorate, and two others had within the year retired from their final pastorates. More than half were in other states when death overtook them, two each in California and New York, and the others in Maine, New Hampshire, Connecticut, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Florida, Scotland and India. All but one of these were residing outside Massachusetts but retained their ministerial standing in local associations. Concerning some of these brethren departed I could speak at length; others to me have been merely names; and I lack even the sources of information about a few. Let not the brevity of comment on even the most deserving be construed as other than an effort to conform to the exigencies of a crowded program.

Edwin A. Adams was the senior on the list. He had come back to Walpole near his birthplace after a long missionary service that included 10 years in Prague and more than a score of years among the Bohemians in Chicago. He had a four-year pastorate in Connecticut and a shorter one with our Northboro church. Israel Ainsworth will be greatly missed in our state meetings. He was always here, on guard against the encroachments of episcopacy upon Congregationalism. Two short pastorates in Boylston and Peabody were followed by 16 years in Rockport and almost 20 in Beachmont, and since 1914 he had also been scribe of Suffolk North Association. On his way to the Boston Ministers' meeting in January, "God's finger touched him and he slept." Fred H. Allen was an art editor and connoisseur. For many years he had been director of the art galleries of the Hotel Majestic in New York. At intervals for a quarter century before 1902 he ministered briefly to several churches in and near Boston, the last for seven years at Rockland. Andrew W. Archibald had four pastorates in Iowa before his five years at Hyde Park and seven at Porter Church, Brockton, at the turn of the century. He is also credited with founding our churches at Cliftondale and Waban. Since 1905 he had no settled pastorate.

James A. Anderson was more than half way through his 85 years when he entered Bangor Seminary. From 1895 to 1910 he served three of our churches at West Peabody, Somerset and Seekonk, returning then to Portland, Me., where he had since lived. Harry L. Brickett gave 44 years to three Massachusetts parishes including the two Lynnfield churches 12 years, Marion 19 and Southbridge 13. A sudden attack of heart disease ended his career while on his vacation last summer. George W. Christie served four Maine churches, three in New Hampshire and three in Massachusetts, Three Rivers, Amesbury and Berkley, before retiring at 71 to spend his last 15 years in serenity at South Coventry, Conn. Suffolk West Association has carried the name of John M. Duncan since 1910, but latterly has kept it on the retired list until his death in April, 1926. Hugh Elder joined what is now the Essex South Association in 1868, the year that he was ordained and began a 16-year pastorate at Crombie St. church in Salem. Thirty years ago he returned to his native Scotland, but retained his connection with Essex South which now reports him dead.

Henry Fairbank, born in India, went back there in 1886 for his life work. He was esteemed as one of the American Board's rarest personalities and noblest missionaries, whose loss after 40 years of service is a severe blow to the Marathi mission. George H. Gutterson was another missionary to India. He spent ten years in the Madura mission, and when family interests made his first furlough permanent, the American Missionary Association gladly annexed him as its New England representative and for nearly 30 years he served it notably. Edmond C. Ingalls had two brief pastorates in Minnesota and two in Maine before he came to Brookfield in 1888 for seven years. Then for 15 years he was pastor at Colchester, Conn., and supply pastor of our South Dennis church three years before retiring to North Reading for the autumn time of his 49-year ministry.

Herbert G. Mank was the youngest on the list this year. His career included only two pastorates, 10 years at New Gloucester, Me., and 27 at United church in Lawrence, besides his final year as pastor emeritus, a year marked by failing health which had compelled his retirement when only 62. George R. Merrill joined our Massachusetts fellowship a dozen years ago when after 46 years of strenuous service he came to Romsey church in Dorchester for a three-year term. His most notable work was done in Minneapolis as a pastor for a dozen years and as home missionary superintendent for almost a dozen more.

Charles H. Oliphant had just passed the semi-centennial of his ordination when his last call came. Except for two pastorates of three and six years in New Jersey and Connecticut, he was pastor of the Methuen church, retiring ten years ago as pastor emeritus. Charles A. Ratcliffe spent almost the whole of his ministerial career in our Conference, three years at Mattapoisett, five at Trinity, North Attleboro, 16 at Norton and nine at Nantucket where he died in office in February. Thomas B. Scott was both clergyman and physician and served as medical missionary in Ceylon for 22 years. The American Board then made him superintendent of the missionary home at Auburndale and he ministered to the saints there for 11 years. William W. Sleeper was another missionary, whose five years in Bulgaria were not enough to satisfy him, so that after a lapse of 33 years spent in Worcester, Stoneham, Beloit, Wis., and Wellesley, he undertook at 65 the task with which East Boston and Maverick church challenge each other. Five years he stayed there and spent a year in the Rutland church until ill health forced him a year ago to retire to Wellesley where he had been pastor 18 years.

George E. Soper came from a varied career stretching from Maine to California to be pastor of Prospect Hill church in Somerville in 1917. Five years later he went back to California but kept his standing with us and was pastor emeritus of the Somerville church. A church on the coast kept him still serving and he died in the harness. Franklin M. Sprague retained his standing with Hampden Association although residing in Florida for 30 years. He served Carlisle, Indian Orchard and Agawam before 1891, and after 1897 was for a time pastor at Tampa, Fla. Walter P. Taylor was for three years pastor at Westminster a generation ago and had a New Hampshire pastorate of six years. Then he devoted himself to studying and teaching elocution as a pulpit art, his service being rendered chiefly in the South. John P. Trowbridge was more than half a century in active service, one pastorate in Maine and three in Connecticut preceding his coming into this state in 1901. He gave loving service to North Rochester, West Groton and Interlaken for 25 years, and was in his first year of relaxation when he passed from earth. Once more, on the eve of our meeting, another pastor has been called away. Prentice A. Canada, 67, came from the Christian denomination to our Wellfleet churches in 1911 and after a Rhode Island pastorate of six years came to Immanuel church in West Pittsfield in 1920. He had the joy of seeing the church come into our fellowship before his work was ended. And so for all these veterans of the Cross

> "The golden evening brightens in the west;
> Soon, soon to faithful warriors comes the rest;
> Sweet is the calm of Paradise the blest. Alleluia."

ERNEST L. MILLER, Treasurer.

To THE MASSACHUSETTS CONGREGATIONAL CONFERENCE:

I have examined the accounts of Ernest L. Miller, Treasurer of the Conference, for the year ending April 30, 1927, and find them correct to the best of my knowledge and belief.

The income appears to be properly accounted for and the payments have all been approved by H. L. Packard and endorsed checks therefor returned through the bank.

The balance on hand at the end of the year agrees with the balance as shown by the bank statement.

The Treasurer also holds a bond of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts in the name of the Conference, for five hundred dollars ($500.00) belonging to the permanent fund, which I have been shown.

Respectfully submitted,

BOSTON, May 9, 1927. CHARLES F. ALLEN, Auditor.

REPORT OF THE CONGREGATIONAL BOARD OF PASTORAL SUPPLY

REV. ARTHUR J. COVELL, SECRETARY

BOSTON, MASS., April 1, 1927.

The twelfth Annual Report of the Congregational Board of Pastoral Supply to the Congregational Conferences of New England is herewith respectfully presented.

There is always variety in the work of pastoral supply. Each year differs from its predecessors. Each church has its own peculiar needs and opportunities. Each minister has his specific intellectual attainments, his spiritual triumphs and failures, his methods of work developed by practical experience. And both ministers and church committees pass through a period of illumination and often of discipline before they reach their goal. Great expectations, disillusionment, and final adjustment mark succeeding stages. Or, differently stated, hope, hope deferred, and hope attained follow each other. So that the differences between the work of one year compared with that of another are slight when contrasted with the differences that appear in the work itself.

Nevertheless, each year has its distinctive emphasis. There are two outstanding features of the work this past year. One is that in an unusual number of cases happy solutions have been found for most difficult situations. Perhaps problem churches have been multiplying, perhaps the seriousness of problems has made church committees more open to seek and to follow advice from those in the best position to aid them, perhaps the work of our Board has increasingly commended itself to responsible and discriminating laymen. Whatever the cause, or causes, it is true that the Secretary of the Board recalls no year when so many ideal settlements seem to have been made in fields that offered the greatest apparent difficulties.

Another outstanding feature of the year is the growing regard for the rights of other churches. The church committee in its eager quest for the right man is bound to regard the best interests of other churches and of ministers themselves. Our Board has had an important part in the development of this ethical sense. It was a surprising revelation years ago to learn the danger of saying to a church committee that a certain young man was so excellently meeting the needs of the field which he was serving that he ought not, both for the sake of the work and for his own good as well, be tempted just then with a summons to another field. That kind of truth telling has been sometimes the very incentive to precipitate a call. But in the experience of this past year more than in any preceding year has the question been asked and been fairly answered, whether we have a right, in view of the brevity of this successfully developing pastorate, to summon this man just now to our church. Evidently it is being realized that the word of the Apostle, "so we, being many, are one body in Christ, and every one members one of another" has its application to churches as well as to individuals.

We have rendered service this past year in response to requests for aid in securing pastors to 321 churches, 17 more than in the preceding year, and exceeding the number in any one of the last five years. Naturally the greater number of these churches are from New England, since our Board is maintained by the six New England State Conferences. The churches served were, however, from 25 states and one district. Of these churches there were located in Maine, 27; in New Hampshire, 33; in Vermont, 18; in Massachusetts, 144; in Rhode Island, 6; in Connecticut, 29; in New York, 21; in Illinois, 6; in Florida, 5; in Ohio, 4; in Wisconsin, 4; in Michigan, 3; in Minnesota, 3; 2 each in Colorado, the District of Columbia, Missouri, New Jersey, and No. Carolina; 1 each in Georgia, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Nebraska, So. Dakota, Texas and Washington.

We have omitted from this statement of service rendered the furnishing of occasional and temporary supplies and commendations for positions outside the pastorate.

We have been accustomed in each Annual Report to indicate the numerical and financial strength of the churches conferring with us. Of the churches with which we dealt last year 43 had less than 100 members; 170 had from 100 to 300 members; while 108 had more than 300 members. Of these same churches 93 paid a salary of less than $1,200 and parsonage; 127 paid from $1,200 to $2,000 and parsonage; while 101 paid more than $2,000 and parsonage. The proportion of churches paying the larger salaries and conferring with the Board has shown an increase each year for some time.

So far as information has come to the office the number of settlements in which the Board had an important part was 95. This is more than in the previous year. We have not enumerated in this statement arrangement with ministers for less than six months nor commendations for teaching or executive positions.

Opportunities for preaching were furnished during the year to 273 men, of whom 138 were candidates for settlement. In the large majority of cases repeated appointments were made. The number of men served and of candidates sent out is larger than for some years past. This indicates but a part of the service rendered, since many churches ask for commendations of men and make their own arrangements with them.

The Secretary has travelled on Board business during the year more than 5,300 miles.

The number of letters sent out from the office this past year was 5,806.

The Treasurer's account, with the Auditor's statement, will be found in the Appendix.

The office fees are larger than in any year since 1922. The amount received for the Secretary's preaching has been exceeded but once and then by less than $5.

The Treasurer's report from the constituent New England Conferences indicates the following:

Maine: Paid in full for 1926.
New Hampshire: Paid in full for 1926.
Vermont: Paid in full for 1926.
Massachusetts: Paid in full to April 30, 1927.
Rhode Island: Paid in full to March 31, 1927.
Connecticut: Paid in full for 1926 and $875 for 1927.

Since there are variations in the times and methods of payment of the different states it may save confusion to report specifically. Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, and Connecticut begin their year January 1, and compute the 1 5/6c per member from the Year Book at hand at the beginning of the calendar year. Massachusetts begins her year January 1 but changes her basis of computation May 1, taking the figures of the new Year Book for the balance of the year. Rhode Island's year begins April 1, and the figures of the Year Book issued January 1 are used by this state.

In one of the special state reports within the year the Secretary called attention to an extract from the annual address of the Moderator of the Congregational Union of England and Wales, reënforcing what we are constantly trying to set forth through our office. The message reads: "There are churches still where a long list of names is collected, and a procession of men occupy the pulpit without previous inquiry of any kind having been made, each man cancelling the impression created by the last. There are churches which still insist on placing several names before the church meeting simultaneously. It is good to know that these instances become less frequent. Too much consideration cannot be given to the first steps in facing the filling of a vacancy, and if it is now a well-worn word of advice, it is still worth speaking, that no church meeting should have presented to it more than one name at any given time, so that a decision, affirmative or negative, may be given on a clear issue. Any other plan must carry serious danger of division and disagreement in the Church, and it subjects ministers to an unseemly competition in which no minister would willingly take part."

The correspondence of the office is varied and has to do with many interests allied to the cause of pastoral supply. Recently when advice was sought concerning a secretarial position with somewhat kindred duties to those of our office, the Secretary replied: "What constitutes the best training for a Secretary? This cannot be answered offhand. The finest native qualifications need the training and discipline of experience. Nevertheless, my conviction is deepened that personality is fundamental, and that the best training for a Congregational secretaryship is to spend twenty years in the active pastorate. The man thus equipped has gained indispensable knowledge of human nature, has learned the real needs of the churches and understands from the inside the problems of the minister. If he is the kind of man who ought to be a Secretary he has been in touch with the larger movements enough so that he will, with only a limited number of mistakes, gain the needed technique. We do well in the main to recruit secretaries from successful pastorates. There are exceptions, of course, both in secretaryships and in men. The Secretary may do a wider work, but the Pastor's work is the more vital, and the Secretary needs from experience to appreciate this fact."

A different situation was that of an Advisor of our Board, unfamiliar with the work and concerned about the opinion of one minister in his association. The Secretary replied in some detail and wrote: "As to the suggestion that the Board is unduly concerned with its function as a detective agency: It is true that our primary purpose is 'to aid the churches to secure the most effective pastoral service.' I have tried to be true to that, but also have felt that, as a minister, knowing the burdens placed upon ministers and the false accusations sometimes made, I must retain sympathy for those in the ministry and must sacredly guard ministers' reputations. I have felt that ministers ought to have the benefit of the doubt until the case was fairly clear. I have assumed, and I believe rightly, that to have had a different attitude and to have encouraged the spirit of suspicion would have immediately unfitted me for this office. I do not call certain cases of misplaced confidence mistakes in the large sense. The more generous attitude was the Christian attitude and on the whole the saving attitude, even though in certain conspicuous cases confidence was misplaced.

As to individual ministers, they are first of all asked to give the names of those whom they consider best fitted to speak of their worth and work in the ministry. Inquiry letters are sent to all their own references. Additional inquiries may be sent to others but not always. An unjust accusation may be made against a man, but we have assumed that there was wisdom in a multitude of counselors, and if there be six men, we will say, who report certain good qualifications of a man and another man contradicts and makes report of something counter, we consider this a freak report.

In our Annual Reports a large portion of every Report for the last thirteen years has been taken up with the details of the methods of work of the Board, in order that so far as possible the methods should be clearly understood. The Secretary speaks at Association meetings with this in mind. The appointment of Advisors was partly for this purpose, in order that in the Advisors' gatherings in connection with the State Conferences there might be full and free discussion of any and every phase of the Board's work.

We aim to protect churches and do so to their lasting benefit. We also aim to protect ministers from scandalous attacks, and have been able to save ministers from the results of unjust accusations."

A letter of a different nature, from the chairman of a church committee concerning their pastor, who had been introduced to them by the Board, reads thus: "I wish to say that, in every respect, he seems to be just the man we needed to meet our situation, which, as you know, is a difficult one. He has taken hold of the work in splendid fashion. I sincerely believe that your visit to us marked a turning point in our church life."

In our work in the past year distinct reassurance has come concerning two classes in the ministry. On the one hand the value of age and tested experience has appeared in a more distinct light. A writer speaks of a certain reappraisement of age and says: "In the scientific spirit he takes note, along with the bald pate, the bent shoulders and the shambling step, of certain notable psychic qualities; a reduced pugnacity, a moderated partisanship, an increase of generosity, toleration and sympathy; a riper knowledge, a more balanced judgment." In our work it has appeared recently that only such men as could pass these tests were suited for the problem churches, and they have taken them with fine devotion and with manifest success. Although the problems are new and have sprung rather directly out of post-war conditions, yet the pre-war ministers were the ones who could best meet them. This is not surprising, although wise men recognized the testing time for the men who had reached their full maturity in 1914. At that time thoughtful men of middle life foresaw that special power of adaptation would be required in the coming years for men of their generation if they made the most helpful contribution to their times. An ample number have continued to render the constructive leadership which the new times required.

But reassurance has also come in the opposite quarter. How far has the younger generation justified their right to leadership in the time which they and their sponsors claim for themselves? In society as a whole how far has the new generation demonstrated special emphasis upon the things that make for finer manhood and nobler womanhood? And how far has the new doctrine of self-expression only merited the apostolic exhortation to the Galatians, "Brethren, ye have been called into liberty; only use not liberty for an occasion to the flesh, but by love serve one another." In due time history will record her full verdict. In the work of the ministry cheering signs have appeared, and in the past year or so there has been increasing ground for the conviction that the new generation of ministers will prove adequate to their task. This seems particularly the case with those who have come from the seminaries in the last five or six years. The young man who has faced fairly a very modern issue which great political parties dare not face, and has done so with such fine recognition of the rights of all that no schism has been developed in his church and all spiritual forces have been quickened in his community, has demonstrated that moral idealism is worth while. The modest but brilliant scholar, who prefers a small field but of the type where he can best serve quietly, will unquestionably be summoned by his Master to come up higher. The man fresh from the seminary, who places the amount of salary to be received from his first church in the second or third place, knows why he has entered the ministry and gives heart to ministers of an earlier generation. The one interesting himself in all the present-day feelings and aspirations of the new generation and yet interpreting all life in terms of faith in Christ, will do a transforming work in a most important field. The one fresh from seminary, who turns from a flattering city call to unify the work of a country town where religious forces have been divided for a half century, will lay broad and deep the foundation of an effective ministry. The young man with peculiarly attractive qualities, who has the grace and wisdom not to listen to the approaches of far larger and more important churches until the time comes when he has fairly established the work intrusted to him in his first parish, is a workman that needeth not to be ashamed. These are types in our younger ministry that make us all thank God and take courage.

A topic treated in some detail in the last Annual Report was: "The Privileges and Rewards of the Ministry." An equally pertinent theme is: "The Trials and Rewards of Church Committees Seeking Pastors." In Congregationally governed churches the responsibility for the work and the privilege of serving is not limited to any class but belongs to the church as a whole. And the reason why we have been able to contribute so much to the leadership of so many great causes is due to this distributed responsibility. No impassable gulf separates ministers and laymen in our churches. The minister shares in the life of the congregation, and the laymen at times must assume real spiritual leadership.

The committee on pastor of a pastorless church has no small task, and upon its wisdom and devotion much depends. The members of the committee face a situation not of their own creation. Diplomacy of the better type is called for. The triumphs of Briand of France and of Stresemman of Germany are fresh in our minds. These men have counterparts in our parishes in their work of constructive service in the midst of troublesome conditions. Far-sighted idealism, like that of John Hay and W. E. Gladstone, is not lacking in church adjustments.

Behind the members of the committee is the church with its inherited life, its present constituency and its changing field. Comparatively speaking, what does the church need? It would be a pity to sacrifice the assets accumulated in the life of the people by the strength of the last minister; it is a necessity to try to develop the resources that the previous minister did not succeed in evolving. The committee ought to heed those who have been trained along certain lines and see that there be continuity in the life of the church. They must not disregard those who would develop the untouched latent resources of the congregation. In a sizable church in a cultured community there will be those who are anxious that the new minister reflect in his preaching the latest phase in literature and life. How far is adaptation to the time spirit to determine the choice of a minister? In any spiritually effective church there will be those who realize that personality, insight, sympathy, training in the school of life, and love to God and man are enduring qualities in the ministry. How far shall the choice be determined by foundation qualifications? Here are considerations that may well be in the background of the action of a thoughtful and capable committee. Conclusions in harmony with such conditions call for statemanship of a high order and indicate the folly of decisions based on surface traits and trivial adaptations.

Besides this more permanent background of the needs of the church there are the temporary demands from different people that affect the committee. There are likely to be in every church some who expect the perfect man to be found and who place impossible demands upon the committee. They feel that the new man should have all widsom but it must be incarnate in the physical charm of youth. And when the fittest man appears there is quite certain to be a call for more candidates to make perfectly sure that there is no better one.

And in the foreground the committee is at once faced with the question of the method of its search. To throw the entire decision back upon the congregation by indiscriminate candidating evades responsibility and courts disaster. To rely wholly upon credentials which a minister may have secured for himself and which he furnishes himself has led many a church into needless tragedy. Discrimination must be exercised even in testimonials that the committee itself secures, since in the ministry, as elsewhere, interested advocates are often more concerned to help their friends than to serve the cause of those who are seeking help. A summary statement sent out by the Board in leaflet form concerning right procedure reads: "Indiscriminate candidating is humiliating to the minister and demoralizing to the church. Yet our system, properly modified, tends to efficiency and contentment. Ministers wish to see the field and test the atmosphere of a congregation before committing themselves to a church, and churches have the right to test a man before committing themselves. Increasingly the custom prevails among our larger churches of having the preliminary selection of a man made through a representative committee. This committee follows its lines of investigation, and not only hears a man in the pulpit, but learns of his effectiveness in those other ways so essential in these days. When the committee is satisfied that it has found the man for the place, he is invited to preach before the congregation. If the impression made is a mutually happy one, a call may result; if not, the committee continues its search. No minister need object to this modified form of candidating."

But when the task is rightly finished there is great reward not unlike that which the minister himself receives. In his recent book Bishop Lawrence gave it as his fixed conviction that there is no more essential talent of a bishop, next to high character and personal piety, than that of correctly estimating the abilities and character of the ministers he must help to locate. The members of the committee on pastor have been brought to realize more fully than before the real needs of their own fields, and are in a position to further the cause of their Master as never before. The illumination that comes from such service shines far out on the heavenly way. It is this privilege of unhindered responsibility for Christian life and service that makes the ideal Congregational church preëminent among churches. Given right spiritual leadership, what is more powerful in developing the highest type of individual Christian life and right community welfare than one of our churches? One of our British periodicals recently spoke thus of the work of a right-minded preacher: "He will find that the world is oppressed and dejected by the problems of living. It can do a great many things, but it cannot manage itself. It cannot replace bitterness with brotherhood, it fails to put co-operation in front of competitive greed, it seeks in vain for durable satisfactions, it cannot save its own soul. Here is the opportunity for the preacher to show that religion is life and power and joy and liberation, that it enables man to handle and tame his basest instincts, that it reveals to him the possibility of a larger life and the power to live it victoriously." What layman can make a larger contribution toward ushering in "new heavens and a new earth wherein dwelleth righteousness" into his community than the wise and faithful member of the committee on pastor?

REPORT OF THE BOARD OF MINISTERIAL AID

Like the house of Stephanus in ancient Corinth, our fathers of this Conference "set themselves to minister unto the saints." Since 1869 it has been the privilege of the Board of Ministerial Aid to fulfil this ministry in behalf of the Conference.

On January 1, 1926, eighty-six names were on our rolls, fifty-one women and thirty-five men. Eleven died during the year and two withdrew, not needing further assistance. Seven have been added to the roll, making the enrollment, December 31, fifty women and thirty men, a total of eighty, a net reduction of six.

For several years it has been the custom to set apart the surplus of the Christmas fund, received after the Christmas distribution has been made, as a fund on which we may draw for special emergencies in the experiences of those in our fellowship. In this way we have ministered to thirteen on our rolls and to eight others.

The following is the report of Charles L. Ziegler, Treasurer:

At the annual meeting of the Board, January 27, 1927, Mr. Charles L. Ziegler, after sixteen years of devoted and most sympathetic service as treasurer, declined re-election. The vacancy was filled by the election of Rev. Oliver D. Sewall.

The Board has had the hearty co-operation of the executive officers of the Congregational Board of Ministerial Relief. By the agreement between the two Boards, all its receipts from contributions and income from invested funds (except so much as shall be required for expenses) are paid by the Massachusetts Board to the National Board. That Board remits to our treasurer the amount required for our grants, and our pro rate share in the distribution of the Christmas fund.

REPORT OF THE BOSTON SEAMAN'S FRIEND SOCIETY, INC.

It was on the thirteenth day of December, 1827, that a group of Congregational ministers and laymen met together in Dr. Lyman Beecher's church in Boston and organized the Boston Seaman's Friend Society, Inc. This year, 1927, is therefore the one hundredth year of this Society's activities on behalf of sea-faring men. Its history, if written, would record an unbroken service of countless deeds of helpfulness rendered to a class of men whose lives are constantly filled with deprivation, hardship, peril and death.

During the past year the Society has, as usual, served the physical, social and religious needs of more than 40,000 seamen who came to Boston from many lands. Nearly 29,000 men of the sea attended the Society's free concerts and entertainments on Tuesday and Friday evenings. Over 21,000 of these men came to our religious services and profited thereby. Bibles, New Testaments, and Scripture portions were given away to 795 persons. Sleeping accommodations were provided for 10,952 men. Refreshments were served to 29,031 individuals. As always, there have been many sick, destitute and shipwrecked sailors whom the Society has been glad to aid.

The cost of maintaining this work for these 40,000 seamen for 1926 was $36,000. The New England churches contributed $10,453.16. Of this amount Massachusetts supplied $6,883.07 from 393 churches. Individual gifts during 1926 were $11,849.20. The balance required to meet the Society's financial obligations was received from the store rentals of the Hanover street building and the income from invested funds.

The Woman's Seaman's Friend Society, with a membership of 800, has been doing its usual good work during the year, and in October celebrated the Fiftieth Anniversary of its founding. At the Marine Hospital, Chelsea, this organization maintains a hut for seamen which is in charge of a very capable and sympathetic woman, who does many things for the sick and injured sailor lads. At Christmas time the ladies made and filled 550 comfort bags for distribution by the Boston Seaman's Friend Society, Inc., at the Sailor's Rest, Boston, and at our Bethel at Vineyard Haven, Martha's Vineyard. Monthly entertainments have been provided by the Woman's Society for the benefit of the sailors who come to our building at 287 Hanover Street.

This century-old Congregational Society is as actively engaged in its religious and welfare work for the sailor lads to-day as at any time in its entire history. Its supreme purpose, as always in the past, is to lead sailors to Jesus Christ. In this work of evangelism for seamen we need and believe we will have the whole-hearted support of every one of the Congregational churches of New England.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON MISSIONS AND APPORTIONMENT

The year 1926 was not characterized by the kind of progress that can be represented statistically. It has been a year of reorganization and reconsideration of the whole matter of methods and objectives and the means of attaining these objectives. The matter of reorganizing the National Missionary Societies has been under way during the entire period and will quite plainly require much additional time but simplification and co-ordination is being accomplished. Methods are being worked out and we are laying the foundation for a more united and comprehensive effort in the future. It is the cause of great rejoicing that during this period of grappling with the innumerable business details of a great enterprise and when many personal changes and adjustments have been necessary, there has arisen among us an almost universal demand that the matter of gaining support for missions must in the future be less a mechanical drive for funds and more a creation of living interest based upon actual contacts with and knowledge of the missionaries and their work. The swing has been from promotion to education; to till and water the ground in order to produce a luxuriant growth of fruit rather than to shake the tree in an insistent demand for immediate returns.

In this nothing can be more vital than the co-ordinating of the work of the women and the men. Under the plan of missionary reorganization adopted by the National Council the women have been asked no longer to work only for special objectives adopted by women's organizations but to undertake the support of the entire denominational program. It has been requested that all organizations and committees receive into their number at least one-third women and that the strictly women's organizations, continued necessarily because of their greater available time, undertake to co-ordinate their work with the main organizations in achieving all denominational objectives. The Congregational Woman's Missionary Society of Massachusetts has been formed, taking over not only the work of the former branches of the Women's Board and the Home Missionary Union but undertaking to co-ordinate work of all women's organizations in our churches in every line of Christian work.

Reverend Asa Merrick Parker has been chosen as the agent and field representative of this committee. Mr. Parker was elected by the Conference at its last session on nomination of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society concurred in by this committee. Mr. Parker is quartered with the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society and acts as one of their staff receiving the co-operation of that office. His salary and expenses are carried by that society and we are recommending an increase of its apportionment percentage to cover this budget. A similar arrangement has been made with the women's organization. Mr. Parker, formerly pastor of the church at Bridgewater and for several years a member of this committee, has entered upon this work with thorough preparation, great energy and spiritual power. He also is emphasizing educational preparation. We feel that in him the state has a most desirable and effective agent in this work. He is co-operating most happily with Dr. Page and the other officers of the Home Missionary Society as well as with the officers of the new women's organization.

The following table shows the giving under the apportionment by associations for the years 1923 to 1926, inclusive. Undesignated gifts not applying to individual associations amounting to $57,625 in 1925 and $43,565 in 1926 have been prorated between the associations.

| Association | Old Apportionment Quotas | Gifts 1923 | Gifts 1924 | Gifts 1925 | Gifts 1926 | Self-assumed Quotas for 1926 |

| Suffolk West | 250,000 | 126,630 | 125,087 | 142,418 | 144,354 | 154,375 |
| Taunton | 41,575 | 28,144 | 22,259 | 29,096 | 25,986 | 31,177 |
| Woburn | 57,500 | 41,856 | 42,225 | 43,155 | 44,181 | 47,820 |
| Worcester Central | 67,500 | 48,461 | 49,668 | 52,634 | 52,135 | 54,595 |
| Worcester North | 16,250 | 9,831 | 8,866 | 9,743 | 9,230 | 10,400 |
| Worcester South | 41,250 | 24,072 | 21,634 | 22,757 | 23,099 | 27,185 |
| Totals | $1,081,250 | $688,903 | $676,633 | $693,634 | $679,072 | $821,239 |

The total gifts for the year amounted to $679,072, a decline of $14,562. The amount was slightly larger than the total in 1924 but less than the total in 1923. The rate of giving during these years has been practically stationary with slight fluctuations. Upon examining the associations individually it is found that gains have been made in Essex North, Hampden, Middlesex South, Suffolk West, Woburn and Worcester South. The giving was practically stationary in Berkshire North, Brookfield, Pilgrim, Middlesex South, Suffolk North and Woburn. Only three associations are up to or over their assumed quotas, namely, Berkshire North, Berkshire South and Essex North. The Berkshires have the distinction of having been at or above their assumed quotas for two years or more. Essex North made a rapid gain during the past year, passing its quota. The record as a whole is encouraging in showing sustained giving power in our churches. On the other hand, it does not indicate that the efforts of the past few years toward greater interest in missions have been effective.

The matter of collecting and remitting apportionment contributions is still in a process of transition. The American Board and the three women's boards have already been united. The matter of uniting the several home boards into the one Congregational Home Board is necessarily a slower matter, but these boards have already elected a joint treasurer so that it is possible to operate with a single percentage for all home work. The state work includes the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society which, as already explained, is carrying the budget of this committee for the Conference and the budgets of the women's organization. It also includes 1% for the Boston Seaman's Friend Society. Under an arrangement which is being brought before the Conference at this session, it is expected that Rev. Oliver D. Sewall, treasurer of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, will be appointed by the Conference as its distributing treasurer for missionary funds, representing the Conference in acting for the American Board as well as the Home Board and the state organization. In making the following recommendations we are in practical conformity with the recommendations of the Commission on Missions for distribution of funds in 1928.

We make the following recommendations for the year 1928:

I. That the assignment of $1,087,500 by the Commission on Missions be recognized as Massachusetts's fair share of the $5,000,000 goal and that a determined effort be made to raise the amount assumed by the churches.

II. That the gifts collected and not designated by the donors for specific objects be divided between the societies on the following basis: American Board 42%; Congregational Home Board 42¾%; state work 15¼%; total, 100%, and that church treasurers be requested to remit quarterly to Oliver D. Sewall, treasurer, 14 Beacon Street, Boston, for such division.

III. We ask for an appropriation of $500 for expenses of the committee to be used if needed.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON FEDERATION OF CHURCHES AND CO-OPERATION WITH OTHER DENOMINATIONS

As in recent years, the developments in American church life have continued to be generally favorable to the federation of churches, in some one of the various forms commonly practiced, where conditions have seemed to call for such action. Where denominational differences are deep and where century old theological controversies are kept alive the opportunity for any kind of union is as unpromising as ever, but the tide of sentiment is running the other way. It becomes increasingly apparent that the greatest obstacle to effective church life is found in the spirit of modern paganism, which is frankly careless of obligation to any kind of church service. It is against such disregard of Christian worship that an increasing tendency manifests itself in favor of such federations as vitally increase the religious forces in those communities where trial of union effort is made.

There has been a notable and growing increase in the discussion of the strong and weak points of American Protestantism during the last year, and this inevitably makes prominent the weakness which has resulted from too many churches in small places merely for the sake of denominational loyalty. The larger loyalty to the one head of the church is being dwelt upon as one of the great constructive policies of twentieth century Protestantism. Although a good deal has been said, and more or less has been written, about the necessity of drawing theological lines with the purpose to force churches of certain tendencies outside of their present denominational connections, nothing has resulted from this sort of agitation to impair the general alignment of Protestant churches. The religious atmosphere is unfavorable to separations. In particular, the voice of young people's religious gatherings, wherever it is heard, is very strongly for church unity, and this is an important factor in making church federation relatively easy where it is generally desired by churches considering it. At the same time, there is no tendency on any hand to force federations. Experience shows that they thrive only in good soil and where the feeling is not superficial. The chief arguments in favor of federation are so well known that they need only be stated in outline; small communities are enabled to have one strong effective Protestant church while at the same time preserving denominational loyalties; the federated church is able to put on a good program, under leadership which commands respect for its ability and efficiency; pastors are given salary and living conditions which appeal to younger as well as to older men of ability and good training; a better Christian spirit runs through the community.

In a recent bulletin of the Massachusetts Federation of Churches the conditions of success, in the light of experience, appear to be

1. A purpose to serve rather than to save effort or money.
2. Practical unanimity on the part of the membership of all the churches.
3. Consultation of denominational officials and their hearty approval.
4. A definite agreement, with co-operation at as many "points" as possible.
5. A representative and faithful "joint-committee."
6. The right pastoral leader, approved by all the denominational officials.
7. The adoption of a definite and aggressive program.

The annual meeting at Sterling was well attended and its program was greatly enjoyed. The attendance reflected an increasing interest in the move of federation in Massachusetts. Secretary E. Tallmadge Root, of the State Federation, has carried on his wide work with great fidelity. His wise and helpful services have been manifest in many fields.

Your committee present the following recommendations:

I. That a committee on federation of churches and co-operation with other denominations be appointed to serve for the next Conference year, that this committee consist of five members, and that it be empowered to appoint the representatives of this Conference in the voting membership of the Massachusetts Federation of Churches for the year.

II. That the sum of $1,809 be appropriated for the support of the Federation for the next Conference year.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

In connection with the 1926 meeting of the Massachusetts Congregational Conference at the Pilgrim Church, Dorchester, a Young People's Banquet was held under the auspices of the State Committee on Religious Education. Maurice B. James acted as toastmaster. The banquet hall which accommodated approximately 300 was overcrowded and an overflow supper was held at the Stoughton Street Baptist Church. Following the banquet discussion groups were held as follows:

"Is the Open Forum of More Use than a Speaker?" led by Rev. E. E. Aiken, Dorchester.

"Is It Possible for Societies Organized on a Different Basis from Christian Endeavor to have a Medium of Exchange?" led by Mrs. M. F. Allbright, Allston.

"How Shall We Get Together,—The Relation of the Young People to the General Church Body?", led by Rev. E. G. Bewkes of Norwood.

"Church Work as a Life Investment," led by Rev. Douglas Horton, Brookline.

"What Can We Do as Young Christians to Outlaw War?" led by Prof. Herbert C. Mayer of Boston.

"How Can We Break Down Religious Prejudices by the Use of Facts?" led by Rev. L. S. Beardslee of Westboro.

At 8.35 P.M., the young people and those from the regular conference banquet all assembled in Pilgrim Church. Findings of the different conferences were given followed by an address upon "God, the Eternal Youth," by Pres. B. T. Marshall of New London, Conn., the Rev. Vaughan Dabney of Dorchester presiding.

Five definite lines of work have been undertaken by the Committee on Religious Education during the year, and each one has been in charge of a sub-committee. The different activities have been as follows:

I. The promotion of young people's rallies under a sub-committee composed of Rev. Lyndon S. Beardslee, Mrs. Manley F. Allbright, Dr. Sidney A. Weston.

II. The promotion of Regional Conferences of pastors and religious educators under the leadership of Rev. George E. Brown, Rev. Henry E. Oxnard and Miss Lorna G. Townsend.

III. The study and promotion of Week Day Religious Education by a sub-committee composed of Rev. Geo. W. Owen, Miss Ruth Richards, Rev. Asa M. Parker.

IV. The arrangement of a Young People's Rally at the State Conference by a sub-committee consisting of Rev. Eugene G. Bewkes, Miss Lorna G. Townsend, Clifford O. Simpson, Miss Laura M. Pearl.

V. The organization of a Young People's Committee for the state which which was inaugurated under the leadership of the committee of Young People's Rallies.

The activities and recommendations of the committee will be treated under these five heads.

I. Numerous young people's rallies have been held in connection with the local associations. Each association in the state has been requested to hold such a rally for the stimulation of interest and loyalty on the part of the young people, and also in order that the young people might appoint a delegate to the Young People's Committee. Generally a supper is held followed by speaking and conference. In some cases where the association meeting would naturally end with the afternoon session, it has been extended over the supper hour, and during the evening for the purpose of adding the young people's rally. In some cases the boys and girls have been taken in separate groups for the conferences. These rallies have been addressed by members of the state committee and others.

II. The first regional conference of the year was held at the First Congregational Church in Middleboro of which Rev. John P. Garfield is pastor. This was a morning and afternoon conference for pastors and other leaders in religious education, and was very well attended from southeastern Massachusetts. At this conference Rev. Vaughan Dabney, pastor of the Second Congregational Church, Dorchester, spoke upon "The Organization of Young People in the Local Church," Rev. John L. Lobingier, secretary of Missionary Education, spoke upon "World Friendship," and Rev. E. L. Shaver, secretary of Leadership Training, spoke on "Leadership Training." The discussions which followed these addresses were live, interesting and very helpful. A similar regional conference is planned to be held in the city of Lawrence, Mass., on May 3d, but the report has to go to press before this meeting.

It is hoped that next year similar conferences may be held in the middle and western parts of Massachusetts.

III. Careful correspondence during the year with the pastors of many churches shows that very little religious education is being conducted in our churches apart from the Sunday school. Many churches have splendid young people's organizations where along with social, recreational and craft work, considerable religious instruction is given. The Hyde Park Church, Boston, has for twelve years conducted a week-day session of its church school one hour a week on a strictly educational basis, and other churches have conducted certain classes for a limited time, but our churches generally have hardly made a beginning in this exceedingly vital and important work. Many feel that it is necessary to secure co-operation with the public school committee or with all of the religious forces of the community before starting a week-day session of the church school. The committee on Week Day Religious Education believes on the contrary that it is desirable that many churches should add week-day classes in religious education to their regular church program. Experience shows that teachers can be secured more easily than for the Sunday session. The maintaining of such classes will not only give the children needed instruction and training while we are waiting for a larger program, but it will train the church itself in the ideals and practice of week-day religious education so that we shall be ready when a larger opportunity comes for a week-day school, or for co-operation with the public school authorities. A special report of the committee on Week-Day Religious Education containing results of correspondence and suggestions as to methods and materials is in preparation.

IV. The program for the Young People's Rally at the State Conference has been arranged by a committee consisting of Rev. Eugene G. Bewkes, Miss Lorna G. Townsend, from the State Committee, and Clifford O. Simpson and Miss Laura M. Pearl from the Young People's Committee. On Tuesday afternoon, May 17, there will be a Young People's Rally. After an explanation by the chairman of the need and purpose of the Young People's Committee, Rev. D. Brewer Eddy will speak upon "Our Overseas Task" and Rev. George L. Cady upon "The Covered Wagon" dealing with the work in America. Following this there will be three simultaneous conferences as follows:

"How to Organize a Young People's Department in the Church School," led by Prof. Herbert Mayer.

"How to Make and Conduct a Worship Program," led by Rev. E. L. Shaver.

"Recreation for Young People," by Hobart Hill.

A separate banquet for young people will be held in the Presbyterian Church at six o'clock. The evening service in the Old South Church will bring together the constituency of the conference, and the young people in attendance at the rally for an inspirational address by Rev. Sidney Lovett of Boston.

V. The committee on Young People's Rallies under the leadership of Rev. Lyndon S. Beardslee worked during the fall to have delegates elected or appointed by the associations of the state to a young people's meeting for the purpose of discussing the relation of our young people to our denominational work, and with a view to the formation of a state-wide Young People's Committee. Resulting from this the committee on Religious Education met on December 11, 1926, in Boston, with thirteen young people, each one representing a different association, and after a thorough discussion the thirteen delegates met by themselves and formed a tentative state committee for their first year's work.

Further conference between sub-committees of the two groups and very careful consideration by the State Committee on Religious Education has resulted in the recommendation to the State Conference of the following plan for the organization of a State Young People's Committee:

Whereas there is need of definite co-operation with the young people of the state in planning and conducting the rally for young people at the State Conference and other rallies during the year;

And whereas the interest and co-operation of the Congregational young people of Massachusetts is desired and needed in connection with the following organizations:

a. The State Committee on Religious Education,

b. The Congregational Education Society both in its regional work and its national outreach,

c. The various district associations,

And whereas there is need in our state not simply of fellowship among Congregational young people, but of a means for the exchange of progressive ideas and experiments in carrying on some of our young people's work in its various forms; therefore we make the following recommendations:

1. The present group of young people representing the district associations shall be known as the State Committee of Congregational Young People. (This name seems best because it does not imply elaborate organization.)

2. The State Committee of Congregational Young People shall be composed of representatives from the district associations, chosen in one of the following ways:

a. Delegates shall be nominated by the young people at a young people's rally in connection with a district association and the election shall be made by the regular association meeting of the churches. For the first year two delegates shall be appointed, one for a term of two years, and one for a term of one year. Thereafter one delegate shall be elected each year for a term of two years.

Or b. Delegates shall be appointed by the district association officers or by the Religious Education Committee of an association.

Or c. Delegates shall be appointed by the State Committee of Religious Education in case of failure of methods a and b.

It is understood that these three ways are enumerated in the order of preference.

3. The State Committee of Congregational Young People shall be recognized by the Massachusetts Congregational Conference as the Congregational agency for young people.

4. The State Committee of Congregational Young People shall be under the supervision of the Religious Education Committee of the conference, and this supervision shall be effected in the two following ways:

a. Two members of the Religious Education Committee shall serve

ex officiis as members of the State Committee of Congregational Young People.

b. All action of the State Committee of Congregational Young People shall be subject to review and approval by the Religious Education Committee.

5. The Massachusetts Congregational Conference shall authorize the Religious Education Committee to subsidize the State Committee of Congregational Young People by paying such a portion of the expenses of that committee as may seem to be necessary for carrying on its work.

6. Further details of organization and relationship of the State Committee of Congregational Young People may be worked out by that committee in consultation with the committee on Religious Education.

The State Committee of Religious Education recommends that the foregoing be adopted by the State Conference.

It also recommends that an appropriation of $300 be made for the work of the two committees during the ensuing year.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON MORAL AND SOCIAL WELFARE

Last Year's Recommendations

Last year your Committee on Moral and Social Welfare made two recommendations which were adopted by the State Conference. The first of these recommendations authorized your Committee, in behalf of the Conference, to express our appreciation of the efforts which men and corporations within the Commonwealth were making to solve industrial difficulties in the spirit of the Golden Rule, and to write to these men in the name of the State Conference. Your Committee announced this fact to the Boston Ministers' Meeting and also published a letter in The Congregationalist calling to the attention of the minsters and laymen of the State this action. Your Committee suggested that it would be pleased to receive suggestions as to men to whom such commendation might be sent. There has been no response to this effort of your Committee to obtain names for this purpose. Apparently there is not enough interest in our Churches to carry this recommendation into action. Therefore, your Committee suggests that this recommendation be placed in the discard as one of the efforts to promote the common good which has proved ineffective.

The second recommendation was that your Committee, in co-operation with the Social Relations Commission of the National Council arrange for a social and industrial conference in Boston, and an appropriation of One Hundred Fifty Dollars ($150) was made by the State Conference for this purpose. In co-operation with the Social Relations Commission letters regarding such a conference were sent to a selected list of men in the Commonwealth. There was a hearty response and more than one hundred expressed their desire for such a conference, and their purpose to attend it. Therefore Mr. Herring, in behalf of the Social Relations Commission, went ahead and planned a program for a two-days' meeting. But when further letters were sent out asking for definite information in regard to attendance, less than fifteen of the hundred said that they could come. Therefore, it has seemed advisable to postpone the conference for this year. However, the response was so widespread and hearty that it seems to your Committee it would be advisable to attempt such a conference next year. Possibly if different dates are selected a greater response may be obtained. Therefore,

We recommend, That your Committee be authorized to arrange for such a conference the coming year, and that an appropriation of One Hundred Fifty Dollars ($150) for this purpose be made.

Commercialized Sports on the Lord's Day

Your Committee believes that any effort to commercialize sports on the Lord's Day should be defeated for the following reasons:

During the past twenty years the demand for the repeal of our Sunday laws has been yielded to and we see that the results of this policy are unsatisfactory. On every side we hear people complaining that the younger generation is not morally strong. The dishonesty of trusted employees distresses business men and bankers. The daring and reckless conduct of very young people is alarming to all parents.

There is a weakened moral sense due to a variety of causes, including the war, but an indubitable cause is found in the continued assaults upon the Lord's Day which have changed it from a day of quiet and of worship to a period of excitement with no time for quiet thought or paternal instruction.

And now at a time when the people need moral teaching and strengthening as never before, a group of short-sighted, commercial-minded men come and demand that instead of the Lord's Day being re-established for the public good, it be utterly broken down and given over to men whose one thought is how they can make some easy money on this sacred day.

The phrase "short-sighted" is used advisedly. The men who are demanding that they be given a wide open opportunity to make money on the Lord's Day are really asking the members of the legislature to abolish the Lord's Day as a sacred day and establish it as a day of sport and money-making. And if the Commonwealth repudiates the day as one of religious significance and by legislation makes it a day of sporting events, it is safe to say that there will be a further decline in morals and a deterioration in citizenship. There can be no doubt that the children and the grandchildren of the men who are now so gaily setting out to wipe out the laws which guaranteed this day to all will find themselves among the thousands who have lost their weekly day of rest. A program which includes working, eating, sleeping and watching a ball game by way of diversion is not an adequate program of life.

This issue is more momentous than appears on the surface. It is not merely whether men shall have the privilege of batting a ball across a field, nor of whether thousands of them shall assemble to watch skilled players compete on a diamond or a gridiron, but it is whether Massachusetts intends to guarantee that a sacred inheritance shall be safeguarded or dissipated.

The Lord's Day comes down to us as an inheritance which has been of incalculable value in the training of the young and in the building of the Commonwealth. The fame and honor of Massachusetts were not won by men of the genus "sport promoter"; the fame of the old Bay State rests upon the men of the past who feared God and who trained their children to know and to obey His laws. Therefore,

We recommend, That the State Conference adopt a resolution which declares very clearly its attitude toward commercialized sports on the Lord's Day.

Our Emancipation from the Saloon and the Curse of Drink

Prohibition is an outstanding moral and social issue which should arouse the churches to the most aggressive action. Two lines of activity, in particular, demand the attention of the Christian forces.

First, the laws against the sale of alcoholic liquors as beverages should be vigorously enforced. These laws are as sacred, as binding, and as possible of reasonable enforcement as any other laws. Individual churches and federations of churches should be as alert in urging, supporting and instigating officials to the enforcement of these laws as these organizations were before prohibition. These forces should assume moral leadership in their respective communities. The amount and thoroughness of enforcement in any community will depend very considerably upon the alertness and activity of these forces.

In this connection we would also urge the hearty support of the Anti-Saloon League in our State by all of our churches. It is the worthy and indispensable agent of the churches in this warfare.

More fundamental than law enforcement, however, is education along these lines. The long and persistent educational campaign carried on by the Woman's Christian Temperance Union and other organizations was a large factor in the adoption of prohibition. Relaxation in these efforts since prohibition came into force is partially responsible for the present weakening in some quarters of prohibition sentiment. The misleading propaganda of the wet forces, so subtly and persistently put forth, has insidiously undermined the convictions of some people.

Education as to the real nature of alcohol and its effects; the dangers attending even its moderate use in any form; and the real results of prohibition as seen in decreasing drunkenness, poverty and other social ills, and in the increase in prosperity on the part of the people, as recognized by financial and industrial leaders, should be carried on as vigorously as before this great experiment was adopted. The young especially need to know the facts of the past, which they have never seen, and the real conditions of to-day which they cannot rightly evaluate because of that lack of knowledge. Every church might well procure one or more copies of Prof. Irving Fisher's book, "Prohibition at Its Worst" and circulate these among its people. Persistent education along these lines is vital for the creation of that public sentiment absolutely essential for the enforcement of any law. Therefore,

We recommend, That the State Conference endorse the work of the Massachusetts Anti-Saloon League and that it also urge upon the churches the necessity of an enlarged program of temperance education.

The Church in our Chaotic Day

Your Committee has observed with regret the many notes of pessimism regarding the condition and prospects of the Church that are sounded, not only in books, magazines and newspapers, but also in our religious periodicals. Perhaps all of these sad notes may be summarized in one with which we are all familiar, namely, "The Protestant Church has a fighting chance."

With the seriously disturbed conditions that are noted in business, educational, governmental and international realms of life, not to mention many other aspects of upheaval in this world that is radically changing just at present, should the Church expect to maintain itself without a similar disturbance?

Considering that these other interests of life in their present chaotic state are absolutely indispensable, and that the Church is not a compelling necessity in the opinion of many people, this Committee believes that the Church is gloriously triumphant under the prevailing conditions and the prospects for the future were never better. We urge that our constituency in the Church of Christ will not succumb to this pessimistic propaganda which is broadcast in these days from questionable sources. Therefore,

We recommend, That this State Conference adopt a resolution reaffirming its confidence in the Christian Church as a vital and enduring element in our common life.

The Transfer of Church Membership as a Social Asset

This Committee realizes that it may not be within its province to comment on the matter of the transfer of membership. It is commonly recognized, however, that when people move from one community to another they are very often reluctant to transfer their membership, the result being that churches have many names of absentee members on their books, and frequently sitting in the pews of our churches are people who permit months to lengthen into years without uniting with the local fellowship. Many others move away and are apparently lost.

It is embarrassing for individual churches to deal with these people because there is no definite standard established by the denomination, and people are sensitive about being reminded of their negligence of so important a matter.

Would it not help if the State Conference advised the transfer of membership within six months after members have moved to another community? Would it not help if ministers or clerks of local churches could write to State headquarters and ask that form letters to the above effect, wisely and tactfully worded, be sent from the denominational headquarters to those whose names are at the same time submitted?

Whether or not these suggestions conform with the opinions of our constituency, this Committee feels that something along this line would greatly benefit the denomination in general and the local churches in particular. Therefore,

We recommend, That this matter be referred to some committee of the State Conference for study, to report at the meeting one year from this time.

The Church and the Activities for Youth

Your Committee is convinced that there is one startling trend of the times which our churches cannot ignore. Are not the time and strength of our youth in danger of being exploited by the various agencies which have been organized in their behalf? Educational standards are advancing and the burden of work placed upon our youth outside of school hours is increasing. In most of our high schools, especially, extra-curricula activities take more and more time: dances, clubs, plays, pageants, sports, — all under school auspices. In many of our towns and cities also, the Young Men's Christian Associations and the Young Women's Christian Associations are working upon enlarged programs which add to the demands upon our boys and girls. Beyond all this is the rapidly developing movement of junior orders among our fraternal organizations. The "Order of DeMolay" and the "Rainbow Girls" are the first waves of what is likely to be an inundation. When to all these are added the natural duties of the home, and the esthetic calls of dancing and of music, is it not fair to say that the strength and time of our youth is in danger of being exploited by the organizations formed to help them? Under such conditions there is certain to be a division of loyalties. It cannot be expected to-day that all loyalty shall be concentrated in one organization, but it is very likely that if loyalty is scattered over too many organizations it will not be strong in any. These fractional loyalties are apt to result in frictional loyalties, and the virtue of loyalty, which is recognized to be one of the greatest in character, is apt to be broken down, if not entirely lost. There are already signs that these various activities for our youth are not satisfied with the time which they may have during the week days but are seeking to make use of Sunday, and if this continues it will mean the Church will have even less hold upon our youth than it does to-day. Our high schools, with their demands for study hours outside of school, in many instances almost compel the scholars to study on Sunday, and this becomes an easy excuse for absence from Sunday school and church. The leaders of education in Massachusetts are not in favor of week-day Christian education, believing that it is an encroachment on the part of the Church upon the time which belongs to the schools. If this argument is good, in all fairness we ought to say to the schools of the State that they should not encroach upon the time of the Church, and the Church should have Sunday free so far as possible for its influence upon our youth. Therefore our schools ought not to give out any lessons which necessitate Sunday studying. There are other organizations working among youth which are also beginning to use Sunday for their own purposes, — for rehearsals, for meetings, for hikes, and other activities. If religious education holds that preëminent place in moral training which our national leaders say that it does, the Church ought to have its one day of the week for this end.

Yet in fairness to all the facts it should be added that the report of the New York Commission on the cause of crime and the investigations of the moral conditions in our rural sections reveal that much of the delinquency of youth in our great cities and in our country districts is due to the lack of wholesome opportunities for play and intelligent directed organization.

The activities for modern youth now so intensely concentrated in the suburbs and in the small cities should be extended more and more into the tenement districts of our centers of population and into the sparsely populated towns of the countryside.

The danger is therefore twofold: an overabundance of activities for youth in certain sections of our land, and a very marked lack of these same activities in certain other sections. If these conclusions meet the approval of the State Conference,

We recommend, That the churches be urged to publish the substance of these conclusions in church calendars and in local papers, emphasizing the right of the Church to the care of the children and youth upon the Lord's Day.

The Social Gospel

The social gospel thrives on injustice. When it could be said that one out of ten in America were "edging the border line of poverty": when men and women and children were working long hours for less than living wages: when slums with their sunless rooms filled blocks in our great cities: then it was easy to feel the need of a social gospel. But to-day this country is extremely rich. Poverty seems almost to have disappeared. The real wages have risen greatly and men and women and children are not working long hours that once they did, and therefore the need of a social gospel is no longer evident. Radicalism has almost disappeared, and liberalism is in the discard. The multitude are conservative because most men now have something at stake in the social system under which they live. They are not much concerned in the faint injustices of this modern day. Why should they be, for they are off to the country in their own automobiles! All they ask is for just a little better chance to get a little more for themselves. Our ministers also are so much concerned with the upbuilding of their own parishes and church organizations and are so pushed by the many demands upon their people and their churches that they too are largely indifferent to any social needs. There are doubtless many injustices in industrial life to-day, and possibly there is an essential injustice in our present social system, but all these are so remote from most of us and so little apparent to us that we give them brief concern. The social teaching of Jesus does not impinge heavily upon our present thinking. Your Committee is prompted to write these words that the State Conference may recognize the difficulties under which it labors.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON THE RELATION OF THE COLLEGES AND THE CHURCHES

In recent issues of The Welcome, the weekly publication of The First Church in Newton, there were published the names of sixty-four young people of the parish at school and college outside of Newton, and opposite each name was printed the name of the institution which is being attended. These institutions are as follows:

> Amherst, The Baldwin School, Bentley School of Finance, Boston School of Physical Education, Boston University, Bowdoin, Brown, Colby Academy, Colgate, Connecticut, Cushing, Dana Hall, Dartmouth, Emerson College, Exeter, Miss Garland's, Harvard, Harvard Medical, Harvard Law School, Knox, Mitchell School, Museum Art School, Mt. Holyoke, New Hampton School, Northeastern, Miss Pierce's, Pine Manor, Radcliffe, Sacker School of Design, Simmons, Smith, Skidmore, School of Fine Arts and Crafts, Tabor, Technology, University of Richmond, Vassar, Wellesley, Western Reserve, Westover, Wheaton, Miss Wheelock's, Williams, and Yale.

Forty-six institutions are to some extent under the influence of this historic church. Presumably sixty-four streams of academic influence are trickling in to refresh the life of this old parish. Vastly different types of students are being developed to render their diversified service more efficiently for the Kingdom of God, IF all is working out in an ideal way.

That all does not always work out in the ideal way in all of these institutions is suggested by the following article clipped from a conservative newspaper:

"ANTI CHURCH DRIVE"

"The . . . campus was adorned with red posters, yesterday. 'We want freedom of the Sabbath—compulsion and religion are incompatible.' They brought renewed agitation among the students to abolish compulsory church attendance.

The source of these posters was a mystery, but a mass meeting of the students in (Johnson) Chapel followed their appearance, and it was announced by . . . , '27, of . . . that a meeting of the executive council of the college board of trustees would act Sunday to call a special meeting of the whole board to consider the demands of the students. . . . , '27, of . . . , varsity quarterback, urged that compulsory church attendance be abolished and suggested that the entire student body boycott religious attendance of all kinds."

However, at about the same time as that of the appearance of the red posters, students of this same college sent $100 as an absolutely unsolicited and unsuggested gift to the pastor of a church in the vicinity asking that it be used in his work in any way that he saw fit and promising $300 more to defray the expenses of a student summer worker in the Vacation School at that church. At about the same time a Clerical Club of thirty members was formed to study the claims of the Christian ministry.

The literature of our subject continues to be plentiful. Professor Robert Seneca Smith of Yale has thus reviewed two recent books:

The Religion of Undergraduates. — By Cyril Harris, sometime University Pastor for the Episcopal Church in Cornell University. New York: Charles Scribner's Sons, 1925. Pp. 87.

The Church in the Universities. — By David R. Porter, Executive Secretary of the Student Department of the National Council Y. M. C. A. New York: Association Press, 1925. Pp. 68.

Mr. Harris has drawn a concrete picture of moral and spiritual conditions upon the campus. He has made use of conversations with students, themes written by students and his observations of student comment and behavior. He has skillfully woven these together in a vivid portrayal of undergraduate ideas concerning God, Christ, the Church, sectarianism, and leaders of religion. He maintains that the undergraduate needs and wants a religion that is disentangled from the complexity and dreariness that have got attached to so much that passes for religion: that he wants a "gospel in plain terms" which will bring him into touch with spiritual reality.

Mr. Porter recognizes the situation which Mr. Harris describes, but in his book discusses certain programs that are attempting to meet the needs of college life. He reviews the work done on the campus by various denominational and interdenominational agencies and points out their values and defects. His material was largely gathered in discussion groups in which students and secretaries reported their experiences. His book is therefore a constructive study of existing programs.

The Reverend Professor Ralph Harlow recommends "New Challenges to Faith," by Sherwood Eddy, as a good book to give to college students.

The Reverend Harry T. Stock mentions:

Religion on the Campus, edited by F. P. Miller. A report of the Milwaukee Student Conference.

Securing Christian Leaders for Tomorrow, by S. M. Cavert. A careful study of the methods which should be used in securing an adequate ministry for the church.

Youth and Christian Unity, by W. W. Van Kirk. (Ready May 1.) To indicate some of the attempts of the churches to work co-operatively at student centers, and to emphasize also the desire of students for a non-sectarian approach to great religious enterprises.

The Association Press advertises as follows:

"WHITHER BOUND? The Modern Student with Ideals — If you'd like to know 'him' better — Here is your OPPORTUNITY" —

1. Religion on the Campus — the résumé of the National Student Conference, Milwaukee. Thought provoking, catholic, realistic, a true picture of the mind of students as they face life issues in the light of 1927 Science, Religion and Society. (Cloth $1.50.)
2. The Intercollegian — the magazine of the Student Christian Movement. Articles, reviews, news, Student Opinion at its best. (The year, $1.25.)

Conference at the First Church, Amherst

A conference was held at the First Church, Amherst, on December 3, 1926, at which Rev. A. P. Pratt, D.D., of Greenfield kindly acted as reporter. Rev. Edwin B. Robinson presided at the afternoon session, and Rev. John A. Hawley presided at the evening session. Over fifty attended, half of whom represented academic institutions, and the other half represented churches. The program was as follows:

4:30 Building the Faith of Our Youth in Pre-College Days
The Reverend Kenneth B. Welles,
Edwards Church, Northampton
The Reverend Professor Laura H. Wild,
Mount Holyoke College
5:15 Discussion
6:00 Supper and Social Hour
7:00 Conserving the Faith of College Students
Professor S. R. Williams, Amherst College
The Reverend Professor S. Ralph Harlow, Smith College
7:40 Discussion

President George D. Olds, President Edward M. Lewis, and Principal A. V. Galbraith were among those that took an active part in the discussion. The following quotation from Rev. Dr. Charles W. Gilkey in "Jesus and Our Generation" is in the spirit of the mental background of this conference:

> "President Burton of the University of Chicago remarked to his students and friends that probably no generation in human history has ever had to readjust its thinking to so many facts from so many different quarters in so short a space of time as have the men and women who have been alive during the last half-century, and have tried to keep in touch with what mankind is finding out. Not simply the natural sciences which have so vastly extended and so rapidly altered our conception of the physical universe about us and of the history of life upon this planet, — but hardly less the social sciences, with their new knowledge of human origins, history, literature, and interactions, have carried the intellectual life of mankind to a new level within our own lifetime. On that new level the best thinking of our own generation must be done; for whether we like it or not, we cannot go back above the falls to the tight little earth-centered universe, the brief and brightly lighted historical background, the uncritical conceptions and assumptions of an earlier day. The new physics, the new historical method, the new sociology, the new comparative religion, and now, not least, the new psychology, have poured upon us a mingled flood of facts, probabilities and possibilities that have swept us inexorably into one of the most rapid and confused periods of intellectual transition in all human experience. Just where, when or how we shall come out no thoughful man can foresee. Now there is no group or class among us on whom these influences and perplexities fall with such sudden and tremendous force as upon serious-minded students of college age and grade."

Speakers reported finding in college students, (a) a great difference, due to differing home and church training; (b) on the whole a lack of knowledge of Bible; of a clear idea of Christianity; of Jesus; or of worship. A general idea of good will and service is present. What may be done for students? Pastor may talk with individual students before the time for their leaving home; parents may "keep up" with sons and daughters in reading and thinking, and carry on with them intelligently. The value of Student Conferences was noted.

A vital religious experience is essential in the life of the student, and it is probable that one with such experience will "stand" throughout the college course.

Professor Wild placed responsibility on the church: There is a lack of interest on part of many churches, and therefore on the part of the young people in many churches. It is evident, in the college world, that young people are interested in the organization program of Christianity and are especially interested in the "Jesus way" of living.

At this conference it was constantly emphasized that a pastor needs to know the students of his parish as individuals, needs to gain and maintain a confidence which will lead these students to converse in a natural way of their intellectual and spiritual adventures. It was stressed that the pastor must see to it that each student before faring forth has every reasonable opportunity to become conscious of the Christian God as his personal leader. The importance of religious preparation for college life is emphasized. High school and preparatory school pupils must be given the opportunity for profitable discussion of social and intellectual problems which will be forced upon their attention in college, with a capable person stating the Christian viewpoint in an illuminating and attractive way. The "shocks" of college teaching should be prepared for as much as possible and the influence against religion of any spiritual morons that chance to be on the faculty should be discounted as much as possible. The eloquence of Christian experience; and of Christian accomplishment; and of Christian antecedents should be brought to the favorable attention of those about to be exposed to college life. Young people should be helped to realize that merely because a young college teacher is clever along his own particular line, he is not of necessity final authority along other lines. It is absolutely essential that the modern Christian viewpoint as to the Bible, as to theology, as to science, as to sociology, as to ethics be set forth as definitely as possible by leaders enthusiastically loyal to Jesus Christ.

It is most important that Christian professors and Christian alumni take as definite steps as possible, saying by deed and by word, "O Timothy, that good thing which was committed unto thee, keep through the Holy Ghost which dwelleth in us." At the conference it was emphasized that it is high time for Christian professors and Christian alumni to become much more positive, constructive, and aggressive in their loyalty to Christ and to His Church. While the "young intellectuals" are casting about carelessly butts of frivolous destructive criticism it is alarm time for alumni and professors that know God. They must help young men to value the pure water of life and must help young people to open wells of their own to be filled from the deeper flowing sources of strength and joy. Every Christian alumnus is in debt to aid at least one student toward the victorious Christian life. Young men must be taught how to use modern science for the enrichment of their Christian life. Christian alumni must throw their open influence toward a profitable use of the Bible and of public worship. They must assume the big share which is properly theirs in aiding the churches to provide proper religious preparation for college life. At the evening session a fiery warning was uttered that our churches must recognize that there is a "Jesus Way" for society as well as for individuals, and that they will fall into the contempt of college students if they are indifferent to learning that "Way."

Recent Tendencies in Student Religious Interest

Several tendencies have been apparent during the year, tendencies which are not new, but which have been accentuated during the last few months.

First, we notice an awakened interest on the part of students in the opinions and judgments of adults in whom they have confidence. Youth is not less sure of itself; it is not willing to adopt the viewpoints of its elders without serious scrutiny. But it wants to know what the older generation believes to be true. There is a reaction from that type of loquacious and cock-sure discussion which so often fails to take account of the experience of the centuries or of facts which are easily available, but which have not been sought. There is a new insistence that the function of a teacher is not simply that of acting as a referee in debate. The following excerpts from an editorial in a Massachusetts college paper represents this tendency:

"WANTED — A POINT OF VIEW

"At present the pendulum has swung too far in the direction of free-thinking, not as a principle, for it could never go too far in its basic idea, but in application to the very rudiments of thought and philosophy. In other words, we have been given our freedom indiscriminately, and we have fallen into a slough of negation that is worse than simple slavery of thought, because it is harder to get out of. Our teachers are too much inclined to give us the mere facts and assume that we shall be able to work out our own conclusions unaided. Too many of them are kindly afraid of exerting undue pressure to make us believe as they do. This fear is, I think, quite unwarranted. If we have minds of our own we shall not agree with an opinion merely because it is given us. Discussion is stimulating and helps one to know and define one's own opinion, thus being more provocative of free-thinking than the mere uncritical statement of problems. This second attitude is, indeed, more likely to lead to false thinking, or in many cases, to no thinking at all. We rebel and quite rightly, when to the statement of a credo is added, 'Now you must believe as I do,' but we rebel with as much justice to the attitude that we are not strong enough to hear the credos of those whose judgments we respect even in withholding concurrence. It is highly demoralizing to receive mental food in the form of two opposites of which the feeder says, 'There may be as much reason on this side as on that, and I cannot help you to decide which is right.' That sort of thing leaves us in a wavering fog. Sometimes we can work out the solution and make up our own minds, but more often we lack the experience of the world to find examples for argument and proof, and we give up in despair.

"The result is that we have no standards of right and wrong. We are even fairly well convinced there are no such standards ultimately, and that past ones are merely artificial inventions for immediate social convenience. In our search for truth we are led into the still pools of indecision. We have no point of view from which to act, so of course we drift to the nearest shore, and sometimes we find ourselves dubbed moral and more often immoral by an older generation who whether right or wrong, have had standards to guide them. Perhaps they have lost theirs now, or allowed them to harden and become meaningless in the pressure of life, and then our case must be helpless, defeated before it has even been pled. But if they still know for what they have been fighting, may they take courage to give us conviction too! It cannot be by hurling epithets of sloth and low-hedonism at our heads. Neither can it be by talking to us in pure abstraction. It must be by frankly showing us their standards, their beliefs and their ideals, and then being willing to let us argue with them until we have straightened ourselves out, either to go their way or, far better, a new way of our own that has our purpose behind it. We may disagree with them, but to disagree, one has to have conviction within one's self, and to have conviction is to have a definite point of view from which to approach life."

This editorial points to a second tendency, namely, that of an emphasis on the philosophical. Psychology and science are much to the fore-front. There is still a great interest in social problems. The method of study is still that of going from the concrete to the abstract. But students are more and more anxious to find the fundamental meanings of life. They are seeking a philosophical integrity. At conferences and conventions there has been a greater interest in addresses and dicussions which have had to do with the bases of faith. Young people come to the colleges without any intelligent idea of religion, with no basis of religious belief or of moral action. What the home church has not done for them they are increasingly eager to have the college do.

Along with this interest in metaphysics and philosophy and theology there goes a genuine desire for worship. Never in recent years have student gatherings made more of this opportunity. Students may not know how to explain the meaning of prayer; there may be widespread skepticism regarding the value of petition; but there is a mystical strain in the modern student which will not be denied. An increasing emphasis upon intelligent and aesthetic forms of worship is apparent in gatherings.

A fourth fact which is worth noting regards the interest of young people in the full-time ministry of the church. It is becoming apparent that much of the criticism of the church has grown not so much out of indifference as out of high expectation which has not been fulfilled. The first reaction of disappointed students was that they were through with the church. A more sober judgment convinces some of them that a better course is to devote themselves energetically to the causes for which the church should work. There seems to be an increased interest in the ministry as a life-work. Among the women there is a notable enthusiasm along this line; the once popular trend toward social service is now toward religious education.

Late in 1926, Newell F. Townsend, Bates '26, gave his life for Christ in the year during which he had pledged himself to work in four small scattered Congregational churches in Alabama. The connection of Massachusetts with this giving of self is that this college man spent the summer of 1925 as a C. S. S. E. S. worker here in a Massachusetts industrial church and much more fully than ever before found himself in God, and in God's children, so that he was eager to go out under Dr. Bloom's direction upon an adventure which became for him "the great adventure." Massachusetts Congregationalists will note with interest that at the close of their summer's work, this same Dr. Bloom will assemble as many of his summer student workers as possible for a week of conference at the Isles-of-Shoals under the leadership of two former summer workers, one of whom, a Massachusetts girl, went out twice as a summer worker and is now an ordained Congregational minister of this Massachusetts conference working here in Massachusetts with college students to help them to know in their own lives what it means to be "more than conquerers through Him that loved us," and tempting them toward Christian teaching as a life profession.

When the banners seem to droop one has but to turn his thought to the army of college student summer workers from whose ranks as earnest and as capable young men and women are coming forward as the church has ever been privileged to welcome. Out of one field of student summer opportunity, in a few short years, the following men have advanced: Professor Julius Seelye Bixler, PH.D., of Smith, author of that book which brings into light the religious interest of William James; Rev. Wallace Anderson, pastor at North Brookfield; Rev. Daniel Bliss of Monson; and Allen Lorimer of Union Seminary, licensed only the other day by Hampden Association to tell the good news of Jesus and the "Jesus Way." One Massachusetts church had four college students on its summer staff in 1926. Ideal aims, businesslike methods and sportmanslike principles will win the loyalty of college men and women; where allegiance to "cheapness" is often much more apparent than real.

We appreciate keenly that the Wednesday morning College and Church program of the Dorchester Conference so commended itself to the Executive Committee that it was suggested to this Committee that a program for Worcester would be welcome.

We recommend that the Committee be continued for another year; and that the State Conference authorize the same budget as in the past years.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON CONFERENCE ORGANIZATION

The committee appointed by the meeting of the Massachusetts Congregational Conference at Dorchester, for the purpose of considering changes in the organization of the State Conference, makes the following report.

The Committee was constituted under this vote:

> "Voted, that a representative committee be appointed to consider and report to the 1927 meeting what changes if any are necessary in the organization of the State Conference to meet new conditions that have arisen in recent years."

The recent changes in the organization of the national Congregational societies have an important relation to the subject which has been referred to your Committee. These changes were described in considerable detail in the report submitted to the last Conference at Dorchester, which is printed at pages 69–80 of the Minutes of that Conference. Without repeating those details, we will refer to certain features of the new plan which have a special relation to the subject before this Committee.

Under this new plan:

1. The national women's missionary organizations are now merged with the American Board and the Homeland societies.

2. Special appeals to the churches from the national societies are to cease and the direct responsibility for raising funds from the churches for the entire missionary program of the denomination, foreign as well as home, is placed largely upon the State Conferences. Also the State Conferences, in co-operation with the National Promotional Council, are to do the educational and promotional work necessary in order to keep our members informed and to enlist their interest in and support for the whole denominational program.

3. It is a part of the plan that the home boards shall, whenever it seems to them advisable, commit to the State Conferences the execution of the local work now carried on by the national Home Missionary Society, the Sunday School Extension Society, the Church Building Society, the Education Society and the American Missionary Association. This part of the new program is stated in general terms and is intended to be carried into effect gradually. It may be subject to some revision at the meeting of the National Council at Omaha in 1927.

It will be seen at a glance that the national plan is based on the state organizations and depends for its success upon the efficiency of the work in the states. In considering the national plan, it must be recognized that Congregational activities are organized in most states. The national plan contemplates the existence in each self-supporting state of an organized executive body representing that state. Except in Massachusetts and Connecticut, the state conferences of the self-supporting states are organized bodies with an executive staff adapted to carrying on such work. In Massachusetts the State Conference is not incorporated. It has a Committee on Missions and Apportionment which has gradually developed a program of missionary promotional work with an executive Field Secretary elected by the Conference. The State Conference makes a small appropriation for the expenses of this Committee; but the salary and other expenses of the Field Secretary are paid from that part of the money raised by the State under the apportionment plan which is allocated to State work. The members of the Massachusetts Conference also act as voting members of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, which is declared by the Conference rules to be the instrument of the Conference in the practical administration of its home missionary work. The Conference also elects members to the Board of Ministerial Aid, the Boston Seaman's Friend Society and the Board of Pastoral Supply, all of which are regarded as agencies of the Conference. The Board of Pastoral Supply also has an appropriation from this Conference, together with the other New England Conferences.

Notwithstanding these activities, the Conference is apparently not at the present time equipped as well as it should be to do the work contemplated by the new national program. The Committee believes that the Conference should squarely recognize this fact and be ready to make needed changes. The Committee also believes that such changes should be made deliberately and after careful study.

Your Committee is ready, however, to make certain recommendations which it feels should be considered now. These have to do with the following subjects:

I. The relation of the women's missionary organization in Massachusetts to the State Conference.

II. The relations of the State Conference to the promotion of the missionary program and the raising and distribution of funds for it.

III. Such changes in the Conference as may be desirable in order to make it more suitable for carrying on executive work in the state, and the possible consolidation of the organized Conference with the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society and other agencies of the Conference.

The Committee has definite measures to propose on the first two subjects, and presents general recommendations as to the third.

I. The Relation of the Women's Missionary Organization in Massachusetts to the State Conference

No one can adequately appraise the value, both to missions and to the churches, of the devoted and intelligent service of the women's missionary organizations. The new national plan is intended to conserve this great asset. The Women's Boards, it is true, cease to operate as independent executive agencies and instead our women have seats in the governing body of the American Board. Similarly the Massachusetts Woman's Home Missionary Union ceases to be an active agency. This change leaves the local agencies, the "Branches" of the Woman's Board, and the "Alliances" of the Home Missionary Union, without parent organizations. These "Branches" and "Alliances" are now being consolidated into "Districts" of the newly organized "Congregational Woman's Missionary Society of Massachusetts" (hereinafter called the Woman's Missionary Society). This state-wide society has been formed as a part of the general plan for the purpose of promoting the missionary program of the denomination through the district agencies and the organizations of women in the separate churches. The Woman's Missionary Society will not raise money; and will not disburse it except for incidental expenses. It is expected to play a part of primary importance in interesting us all in the missionary work of the denomination. The general plan contemplates that such state societies shall have a direct relation to the State Conferences. This is necessary if these societies are to fit into the general plan under which the national missionary societies have their contacts with the State Conferences rather than with the churches directly. The national Commission on Missions recommends that the State Conferences support such women's societies. Also it is advisable that the Woman's Missionary Society, which is expected to do team work with the missionary Field Secretary of the Conference, should itself be closely affiliated with the Conference.

The national plan also contemplates that women shall have a larger representation in the management of all our denominational affairs. Under this plan at least one-third of the American Board and one-third of the Home Board are to be women. It would seem to be an appropriate time to enlarge the proportion of women delegates to the State Conference. With these considerations in mind the Committee recommends:

1. That the Conference recognize the Congregational Woman's Missionary Society of Massachusetts as an agency of the Conference for promoting the missionary program of the denomination; that a place be made in the annual Conference program for this society and that an addition be made to the rules of the Conference as follows:

"ARTICLE XII. Congregational Woman's Missionary Society

The Congregational Woman's Missionary Society of Massachusetts shall be the agent of the Conference for promoting the missionary program of the denomination among women in the Commonwealth and a place for the society shall be made in the program of the annual meeting."

If this change is adopted, the present Article XII of the Rules of the Conference should be renumbered XIII and the succeeding articles renumbered in their present order.

2. That the Conference authorize the payment of the salaries of the secretaries and the other expenses of the Congregational Woman's Missionary Society of Massachusetts from that part of the money raised in the State under the apportionment plan which is allocated to state work as is now done with respect to the salary and expenses of the Field Secretary of the Committee on Missions and Apportionment; and that the budget of the Woman's Missionary Society be subject to the approval of the Committee on Missions and Apportionment.

(Note. The national Commission on Missions has recommended such an increase in the proportion of funds allotted to work in Massachusetts as will provide for these expenses.)

3. That the Conference, without making any rule on the subject, adopt the practice of placing upon its several committees, including the Program Committee, one or more women selected with a view to representing the Congregational Woman's Missionary Society of Massachusetts, and that in general, but without making any arbitrary rule, at least one-third of the membership of the committees should be women.

4. That the Conference change its rules so as to permit the election by each church of two delegates (in addition to the pastor or pastors) of whom, it is suggested, one shall be a woman.

5. That the Conference adopt an arrangement already approved by the Congregational Woman's Missionary Society of Massachusetts by which the officers and directors of the Woman's Missionary Society shall be elected by the women members of the Conference together with such delegates, not exceeding five, from each district of the Woman's Missionary Society, as that Society shall by its by-laws provide.

These changes would increase the number of women who participate in the Conference. In view of the extent to which the women have turned over their successful enterprises to the national societies, upon whose boards they have only a one-third representation, the Committee believes that this is fair and wise.

The proposed plan by which all women delegates would be at the same time members of the Conference and voting members of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society and voting members of the Woman's Missionary Society would emphasize the essential unity of the whole program of the churches.

The proposed enlargement in membership of the Conference, if deemed advisable, will require an amendment to Article V of the rules. As this article can be amended only after notice given at a previous annual meeting, we recommend that the Conference at Worcester consider these proposed changes and, if it approves them, cause the amendment to the rules to be submitted which is printed below, and notice to be given in accordance with Article XVII of the rules; and that it appoint its representatives to confer with the representatives of the Congregational Woman's Missionary Society of Massachusetts for the purpose of preparing a working plan along the lines which have been suggested.

The proposed amendment to the rules is as follows:

That Article V of the Rules of the Conference be amended by striking out the word "Conference" and the words "one delegate" in the first paragraph of the article and by inserting in place of the words "one delegate" the words, "two delegates, of whom, it is suggested, one shall be a woman," so that said paragraph shall read:

> "1. Each evangelical Congregational Church and Association in this Commonwealth may choose two delegates, of whom, it is suggested, one shall be a woman, and these delegates, together with the pastor or pastors of each church (who shall be members ex officio), the officers and committee members of this body, two delegates from the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, one from the Board of Ministerial Aid, one from the Boston Seaman's Friend Society, one from Andover Theological Seminary, and one from the Board of Pastoral Supply, shall constitute the Conference."

II. The Relations of the State Conference to the Promotion of the Missionary Program and the Raising and Distribution of Funds for it

As has already been stated, the new plan for national work places upon each constituent state the principal responsibility for promotional work within the state and for raising and distributing the money to be contributed by the churches. The proportions in which such contributions are to be divided among the foreign and home boards and the state agencies are to be agreed upon by the representatives of the State Conference and the national societies; but the actual raising and distribution is done by agencies of the State Conference.

The Massachusetts State Conference, having no executive officers or headquarters for the purpose, has met the emergency by electing a Field Secretary for promotional work, Rev. A. M. Parker, who acts under the general supervision of the Committee on Missions and Apportionment of the Conference, but has his office with the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society and co-operates with that Society; by authorizing the Committee on Missions and Apportionment and the President of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society to represent the Conference in various ways in connection with the national work; and by designating the treasurer of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society as its collecting and distributing agent.

This method of meeting the problem is frankly a makeshift. It has so far worked well, not because of any inherent merit, but because of the tact and zeal of those who have been acting under it and the confidence of all interested parties which they have enjoyed. Apprehension has been voiced by some of those who are primarily interested in the foreign work that in the long run such an arrangement will result in emphasizing the home work at the expense of the foreign. The Committee feels that while the present persons are acting, this fear will prove groundless. The present officers of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society have no tendency to seek special favors, but, on the contrary, are supporting missions as a whole. The Committee recommends the continuance of the present arrangement as the best which is available so long as the State Conference is not itself organized to do the work directly. The possibility of the organization of the Conference is considered later in this report.

So long as the present arrangement continues, it should be generally understood that the treasurer of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society in receiving and distributing contributions made under the apportionment plan is not representing home missions, but is acting in effect as missionary treasurer of the Conference.

Since it seems that there is danger of misunderstanding on this subject, this Committee recommends that the Conference create the office of Treasurer of Benevolences and elect to it the person who is at the time treasurer of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society. As a result, his receipts and disbursements would be made in the name of the Conference.

We therefore suggest the following amendment to the rules of the Conference:

1. That paragraph 1 of Article VI of the Rules of the Conference be amended by inserting at the end of the first sentence the words "and a Treasurer of Benevolences" and by striking out the word "and" after the words "Assistant Registrar"; also by inserting the words "and Treasurer of Benevolences" after the words "Vice-Moderator" in the third sentence of said paragraph, so that the said paragraph shall read:

"1. The officers shall be a Moderator, a Vice-Moderator, a Secretary, a Registrar, an Assistant Registrar, a Treasurer and a Treasurer of Benevolences. All members of Congregational churches in this Commonwealth shall be eligible to any of these offices. The officers shall be elected by ballot, the Moderator and Vice-Moderator and Treasurer of Benevolences each to serve one year, the other officers each to serve three years and until the election of their successors. The terms of all officers, save when chosen to fill vacancies, shall begin at the close of the meeting at which they are elected."

2. That said Article VI of the Rules of the Conference be amended by renumbering paragraphs 8 and 9 as 9 and 10 respectively, and by inserting the following as paragraph 8:

"8. The Treasurer of Benevolences shall receive all contributions for benevolences sent to him by the churches of the Commonwealth and shall disburse the same in accordance with the instructions of the respective contributing churches. He shall give such bonds as the Executive Committee may require."

III. Such Changes in the Conference as may be Desirable in Order to Make it More Suitable for Carrying on Executive Work in the State

The Committee is of the opinion that if the organization of the national work is carried out in accordance with the present plans and if Massachusetts is to do its part as it should, the State Conference must be developed into an incorporated body with a board of directors and executive officers who will act throughout the year in matters having to do with common enterprises of the Congregational churches of Massachusetts. The Committee submits for the consideration of the Conference its views as to the general scope and purposes of such organization:

(1) It should be made plain beyond question that the Conference will not claim or exercise ecclesiastical authority over churches or individuals.

(2) The Conference should furnish a body through which the churches of the state may unite for fellowship, counsel and co-operation in all matters of common concern both among themselves and between them and the National Council and the national Congregational societies.

(3) The voting members of the Conference should consist of the representatives of the churches and other organizations meeting annually as at present and the Conference should retain the functions which it now performs through its secretary and other committees.

(4) The Conference at its annual meeting and through its directors and officers acting between meetings should form a representative body which can act for the churches of the state,

(a) In promoting the entire missionary program of the denomination.

(b) In making arrangements with the national societies for taking over such local work as is to be turned over to the states in accordance with the national plan.

(c) In representing the Congregational churches of the state in other ways which may become necessary in connection with the national plan.

(d) In making available a common agency through which the churches may be served. The need for such an agency in connection with pastoral supply compelled the creation of the Board of Pastoral Supply. The advantages which the churches have derived from this Board are apparent. The Committee believes that the creation of a common agency to which the churches would have the right to turn for information or assistance in meeting other needs would be of great help to many churches.

The Committee is also of the opinion that in case of such a reorganization of the Conference, other state agencies should be consolidated with it, so far as is practicable. In particular, the work of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society and that of the Conference should be united, either by the election of identical officers (as was the practice until recently in New York and Vermont), or by merger of the organizations. Otherwise, duplication of salaries and unnecessary overhead expense would result and there would be a possibility of conflict in the policies of the two organizations.

If the Conference should desire to merge the two organizations, it would be necessary to change the charter of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society so as to make it more suitable for the work carried on by the Conference, and the name of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society should be changed to some such name as "Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society." If, on the other hand, the Conference prefers to have separate corporations, the Conference should be incorporated and such interlocking officers and directors should be chosen as will prevent unnecessary expense, duplication of effort and inconsistency in policy.

The Committee suggests that the following question be voted upon by the Conference:

Should the Conference become an incorporated body with directors and executive officers acting throughout the year?

If the Conference votes in the affirmative on this question, the Committee suggests that the Conference vote either:

(1) That a committee of five be named by the Nominating Committee and elected at this meeting of the Conference, and that this committee be instructed to proceed to effect the organization under the General Laws of Massachusetts of a corporation to be called the Massachusetts Congregational Conference; that the purposes of this new corporation shall be substantially those of the existing Massachusetts Congregational

Conference; and that its by-laws shall be framed with a view to bring it about that the several offices of the corporation and of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society respectively shall eventually be held, so far as practicable, by the same persons; or

(2) That a committee of five be named by the Nominating Committee and elected at this meeting of the Conference, and that this Committee be instructed to devise a plan for the use of the charter of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society for the joint purposes of the Conference and the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, and to take the necessary steps to carry this plan into effect.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS RESPECTING THE REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON CONFERENCE ORGANIZATION

What gave rise to the appointment of the Committee?

The discussion which took place at the Conference at Dorchester in 1926 concerning the steps which the churches in Massachusetts should take in order to co-operate in carrying out the new plans for the work of the National Congregational Societies which were adopted at the meeting of the National Council at Washington in October, 1925.

What is being done in Massachusetts to promote the general program of missions and the raising of funds under the apportionment plan?

The State Conference Committee on Missions and Apportionment employs a Field Secretary, whose salary is paid out of that part of the apportionment funds which are allotted to state work.

What is being done in Massachusetts to provide a representative for Massachusetts where the new methods put into effect by the National Council call for such a representative from this state?

The President of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society is acting as such a representative under the authority given at the last meeting of the Conference at Dorchester.

How are these new methods adopted at Washington put into effect in the other states?

All states other than Massachusetts and Connecticut were already sufficiently organized so that the officers of the state Conferences were able to do the work which was called for by the new plans.

In what respect do these new methods adopted at Washington place additional responsibility upon state organizations?

In putting upon the state organizations of Congregational churches the task of promoting the entire Home and Foreign missionary program in the several states in direct and intimate relationship with the Commission on Missions and its Promotional Council.

What was the recommendation of the Committee of Twelve adopted at Washington which covers this matter?

There are various recommendations in their report all to the same general effect, but the main statement is as follows:

"There is growing recognition of the responsibility of the churches of a conference for missionary and extension work within their borders. This obligation is not necessarily exclusive but it rests primarily on the churches of the state. This has long been recognized by the older states and is being vigorously asserted by the newer states. With this position we are in full accord and believe that this responsibility makes the state organization the logical representative within its borders for the national missionary societies and their regional agencies."

Does the need of a better organization of the State Conference arise solely because of the new plans for Home and Foreign work?

No. The benefits arising from a more complete organization of the Congregational work in the various states have led nearly all the states to do what is recommended in the report now before the Conference.

Did any missionary society, foreign, home or state, take steps to have this Committee on Conference Organization appointed at Dorchester?

No. There was general agreement in the discussion that the whole subject matter should be carefully investigated. The Nominating Committee reported a list of members for the committee intended to represent all national and state, home and foreign missions. No instructions were given the Committee. The Committee elected its own officers and subcommittees.

What has been the procedure followed by the Committee on Organization?

They have held repeated sessions of the full committee, and also of the sub-committees. The report as finally submitted has been subjected to several revisions and is the result of much discussion and earnest endeavor to think the situation through at all points.

What are the principal subjects included in the Committee's report?

a. The relation of the newly organized Congregational Woman's Missionary Society of Massachusetts to the State Conference.

b. The relation of the State Conference to the promotional work of missions in Massachusetts.

c. The incorporation of the State Conference.

What, in substance, does the report recommend as to the Congregational Woman's Missionary Society of Massachusetts?

1. That such changes be made in the Conference organization as shall, in effect, make the newly organized Congregational Woman's Missionary Society of Massachusetts an agency of the Conference, with a place for its annual meeting at the annual meeting of the State Conference similar to that now given to the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society for its annual meeting. The women delegates to the Conference would be voting members of the Congregational Woman's Missionary Society of Massachusetts.

2. That each church be permitted to chose two delegates to the Conference in addition to the pastor, one of whom it is hoped will be a woman and that, without establishing any rigid rule on the subject, the Conference make it a practice to choose committees consisting of at least one-third women.

What does the Committee recommend as to the relation of the State Conference to the promotional work of missions in Massachusetts?

1. That unless, and until, the State Conference sees fit to make such changes as may make it more suitable for carrying on executive work in the state, the "makeshift" method adopted last year at Dorchester be continued respecting the arrangement by which the Field Secretary of Missions and Apportionment is in part related to the Conference and in part to the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, and respecting the authority given to the President of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society to act as the representative of the state in matters coming from the National Council and Commission on Missions.

2. That so long, also, as the present arrangement continues, the Conference make such amendment to its rules as shall add to its list of officers a "Treasurer of Benevolences"; and elect to that office the person who is at the time the treasurer of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society.

Are the above mentioned recommendations agreeable to the Congregational Woman's Missionary Society of Massachusetts and the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society?

Yes. The Congregational Woman's Missionary Society effected its organization last October with the end in view now sought by the recommendations affecting that Society. The Massachusetts Home Missionary Society has had no difficulty working under the arrangements, so far as they go, that were made last year at Dorchester. It is not asking that its treasurer be made Treasurer of Benevolences of the Conference, but will assent to his assuming this function if it is desired. Its treasurer is already acting for the receipt and distribution of missionary gifts, home and foreign, for a large number of the churches of the state, at the desire of, and for the convenience of, church treasurers.

What has the Committee's Report to say on the subject of incorporating the State Conference?

The Committee reports that it is possible to carry on the work under the present arrangement, but that it is desirable that the Conference be incorporated. The Committee says:

"The Committee is of the opinion that if the organization of the national work is carried out in accordance with the present plans, and if Massachusetts is to do its part as it should, the State Conference must be developed into an incorporated body with a board of directors and executive officers who will act throughout the year in matters having to do with common enterprises of the Congregational Churches of Massachusetts."

What changes would incorporation make in the present functions of the Conference?

Instead of being for the most part merely an annual meeting the Conference would be able to act during the year, through its directors and officers, in matters of common concern among the churches and between them and the National Council and the National Congregational Societies. The incorporated Conference, like the present Conference, would have no ecclesiastical authority or any other kind of authority over churches, pastors or individuals.

Has any line of difference been manifested between home and foreign missionary agencies which seems to call for incorporation of the Conference?

No. At the Dorchester meeting last year, several speakers urged that such changes be made as would give foreign missions a place of equal interest in the Conference with home and state interests. The Committee's report is consistent with such a plan.

In case the State Conference became incorporated, what should be its relation to the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society?

The Committee is of the opinion that there should be a practical union of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society with the Conference, either by the election of identical officers or by the merger of both organizations.

Why unite the two organizations?

To save duplication of salaries, overhead expenses, and conflict of policies, since both the Conference and the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society would in many cases be exercising the same functions and without any practicable line of separation.

Would not the merger hurt the efficiency of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society in its service to needy churches?

No. The Massachusetts Home Missionary Society is the oldest of all Congregational organizations in Massachusetts and has been giving the double service of financial aid and general helpfulness for a great many years. In recent years its general service to the churches along many lines has very greatly enlarged; while at the same time its missionary aid to English-speaking and foreign-speaking churches of the state has as greatly increased. It was for this reason that the President of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society was two years ago made a full-time official, upon recommendation of the State Conference.

Has the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society taken any action to promote the union with the Conference?

No. But they are believed to favor it, if the churches of the state desire it.

Would not the foreign missionary interests be at a disadvantage if the Conference united with the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society?

No. In the Conference there would be all the various departments of service for all the churches of the state, including Home Missions, the Congregational Woman's Missionary Society, Missions and Apportionment, Field Service, and such other departments as might be necessary. The whole missionary program, foreign, home and state, would be administered by the Conference in the same spirit that it is administered by the Commission on Missions at one end and by the local church at the other.

Would there not be required a larger board of trustees than the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society now has if the union with the Conference were effected?

Yes, probably. There would naturally be some added who were especially well acquainted with the work of the foreign board. Several of the additional members might well be women. The Massachusetts Home Missionary Society began a year ago the policy of putting women on its board of trustees.

What are the present administrative offices of the Conference?

The Conference is not incorporated, and has no general board of trustees or directors. It has an executive committee whose duties are limited; a majority of whose members are elected at each annual meeting. It has a board of trustees whose duties are limited to the holding and management of trust funds, or such property, real and personal, as may be given to the Conference. The Conference has been a deliberative assembly rather than an administrative body. In recent years its administrative agents have been the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, the Boston Seaman's Friend Society, the Board of Pastoral Supply, and the Board of Ministerial Aid.

Would the union of the Conference and the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society do away with any of the offices which the Conference now has, or change the character of the annual meeting?

No. Nothing in the union of the two organizations would require it. It would simply mean that the deliberative body holding one annual session of three days would take to itself also the administrative functions which are now exercised through its agents.

What salaried officers has the Conference?

Only one, the secretary.

Would this office be continued if the Conference and the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society were united?

Yes, in all probability. It is of much service to the churches.

The title of the office might be changed.

How could the union be effected if the churches desired it?

In either of two ways,—Plan One: By incorporating the Conference under its own charter, and then adopting the procedure by informal agreement through which both the Conference and the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society choose identical, or interlocking boards of trustees. Or, Plan Two: By securing such changes in the already broad charter of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society as would enable the Conference, working under this charter, to administer all the work which the churches may desire to undertake.

How much time would be required to bring about the union?

If Plan One submitted by the Committee on Conference Organization were adopted, it could be put into effect in a short time. Plan Two, if adopted, might require a year or two.

What have other states done?

Most of the states have one corporation which performs the duties of both the Conference and the Home Missionary Society. Several states, like New York, New Hampshire and Vermont, have first adopted the method of interlocking trustees (plan one of the Committee) and then followed it after an interval of a few years by a complete union (plan two of the Committee).

Does the Committee suggest that our state follow the course of any other state in particular?

No. The experience of several of the states is valuable, but Massachusetts has its own problems, and will doubtless proceed, if at all, along the line of its own devising for our particular needs.

Is it suggested by the Committee to create under either plan, one or two, any office of actual or quasi superintendence over the churches, or give any such authority to a board of trustees?

No; neither direct nor implied authority. The single aim is to help promote the whole missionary undertaking of the churches; and whenever asked to do so by the churches, to serve them in any way that a better organization of the Conference might permit.

REPORT OF THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

The Committee has held but one formal meeting, early in the conference year. Routine matters of business included the appointment of Mr. Packard and Mr. Allbright as Finance Committee, the renewal of the Treasurer's bond of $5,000 and the ordering of the usual number of copies of the Minutes. The Treasurer was authorized to cancel such deficits charged against Association treasurers as are caused by their inability to collect from individual churches.

The question of greater publicity for the annual meetings was discussed, and the Secretary was authorized to act in co-operation with a projected committee from the Congregational House in the appointment of a Committee on Publicity.

The Secretary was authorized to fill all vacancies occurring during the year. This task was light until the National Council drew near, when many causes co-operated in preventing Delegates from going to Omaha. The Secretary, at the time this report goes to press, has exhausted the full list of alternates named by the Conference.

The Conference voted last May, in view of the National Council date of May 3–10, 1927, to postpone its 1927 session to May 23. Since then the Council has changed its date to May 25; and to avoid conflict the Executive Committee by a postal vote in November, restored the constitutional date for the forthcoming meeting in Worcester.

STATISTICAL TABLES

EXPLANATORY

The tables which follow comprise:

1. The statistics of the churches, giving the ministers, church membership, additions, removals, baptisms, Sunday schools and families; the statistics of the Young People's Societies; the amount of benevolences and expenses. These tables, in accordance with the vote of the Conference, in 1887, are made to conform to those in the Year-Book; but names in the pastoral column are changed according to the latest information before going to press.

2. The Associations of the churches, with the names of officers and the times of meeting.

3. The Ministerial Standing, giving the date of ordination of each minister, the date of membership, the residence and his "employment." "P. C." means pastor by council; "P.," pastor otherwise; "W. C." means without church; "Prof." means professor; "C. M.," city missionary; "T.," teacher; other abbreviations are self-evident. "W. C.," however, includes many who have retired from active service, and some who are in business.

4. The Ministerial Record, containing lists of ordinations, installations, dismissals, and deaths.

The tables of the first part contain the names of all the Congregational churches in Massachusetts, the towns and cities being arranged alphabetically; churches in each town according to age. If the post office name of the church and the town name differ, a footnote on the page where the post office name would naturally be found will direct the reader to the town name.

Church members and families are reported as numbered January 1, 1927. Admissions, removals and baptisms cover the year 1926. "Absent" are not additional to "males," "females" and "total," but included in them. "Sunday school" includes total membership of officers, teachers and scholars, January 1, 1927, or when the school is in operation (if not at that date), covering "branch schools," "mission schools" and "home departments," so far as maintained by the reporting church.

The months and days in the dates of the organization of churches are omitted. They will be found in the publications of 1873, those of churches since organized being given in the "Minutes" of each year. Also the months and days in the dates of ordination and installation of ministers are omitted. The former may be found in the lists of the local Associations which follow the tables.

"Ordained" denotes the date on which the person was originally set apart to the ministry by the "laying-on of hands." "Commenced" denotes the date of the beginning of his present pastorate.

In accordance with the recommendation of the National Council, in the Statistical Tables pastors installed are marked "i."; pastors recognized by a council called for that purpose are marked "r."; pastors duly called by their churches, but not installed or recognized by council, are not marked.

Blanks in any column of figures are never equivalent to "none," but mean "no report"; but blanks in the column of ministers do mean that the church has no pastor or acting pastor, and the blank is left for the convenience of those who note changes.

Under Sunday Schools, "c" denotes cradle roll, "h" home department, "e" both cradle roll and home department, and "m" a mission or branch school.

ALPHABETICAL LIST OF MINISTERS

This list gives the names of pastors, or acting pastors, and of all Congregational ministers who are members of the Associations or Conferences that guard ministerial standing.

Ministers who are not reported as having ministerial standing in this state, and who have not been installed by council, are designated by a star (*). This does NOT mean that the man has no ministerial standing.

The first column of figures gives the page on which names may be found of all in pastoral service. A blank in the first column signifies that the person is not reported as being in pastoral service in this state.

The second column of figures gives the page on which ministerial standing is recorded.

The post-office addresses as given below often differ from the places named in the tables, and are supposed to be correct in this list.

An alphabetical list of licentiates follows this list.

SPECIAL NOTICE.—IF your name is not correctly printed in the preceding tables, IF one Christian name is not given in full, IF your ordination is not correct or is not in its proper place, IF your post-office is wrong, or IF before you receive the next Year-Book your post-office is changed, or IF your name is omitted from this list, the needed change or correction should be reported at once to the Rev. Henry Lincoln Bailey, Longmeadow, Mass., Secretary of the Massachusetts Congregational Conference.

NOTICES

All communications should be addressed to the Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society, Room 611, 14 Beacon Street, Boston; except communications for the Registrar, Reverend Henry Lincoln Bailey, which should be addressed to 169 Crescent Road, Longmeadow, Massachusetts.

All missionary contributions should be sent to Oliver D. Sewall, Treasurer, 14 Beacon Street, Boston.

According to the vote of the Conference, contributions for the year 1928 are divided as follows:

|---|---|
| Foreign Missions (A. B. C. F. M.) . . . . . | 42% |
| National Home Missions . . . . . | 42¾% |
| State Work (M. C. C. & M. S.) . . . . . | 14¼% |
| Boston Seaman's Friend Society . . . . . | 1% |

Checks should be made payable to Oliver D. Sewall, Treasurer.

Frederick A. Gaskins, Treasurer, 14 Beacon St., Boston,

and its national home boards contributions to

William T. Boult, Treasurer, 287 Fourth Ave., New York City.

It is recommended and earnestly requested that church treasurers remit quarterly in January, April, July and October such funds as are in hand, and that the final remittance for each calendar year be sent before January 10, if credit is desired in the next Year-Book.

Honorary Life Membership in the Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society may be secured by a gift of thirty dollars, by a church or individual. Gifts made at different dates within the limits of any one fiscal year may be applied to Honorary Life Memberships, if the wish for such application is expressed when the gifts are made.

Copies of the Act of Incorporation may be had on application to 14 Beacon Street, Boston.

The expenses of the former "Conference" go on practically the same as heretofore, but with only one treasurer for all state finances. The churches are requested to contribute through the treasurers of their associations for the expenses of the Conference a sum equivalent to thirteen cents for each member, based upon the total membership of January 1, 1928, and the treasurers of the associations are requested to forward the amounts as soon as possible to Rev. Oliver D. Sewall, Treasurer, 14 Beacon St., Boston.

BY-LAWS OF THE MASSACHUSETTS CONGREGATIONAL CONFERENCE AND MISSIONARY SOCIETY

ARTICLE I

Terminology

Whenever in these by-laws the word "Conference" is used it shall be held to refer to the Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society.

ARTICLE II

Denominational Basis

Following Congregational principles, this Conference shall under no circumstances exercise authority over churches or individuals or interfere with the government or discipline of the churches. It shall advise and counsel the churches when requested, but it is recognized that each church has the power of self-determination in all matters.

ARTICLE III

Doctrinal Basis

This Conference declares its steadfast allegiance to the faith which our fathers confessed, which, from age to age, has found its expression in the historic creeds of the Church Universal and of this Communion.

ARTICLE IV

Membership

1. Each evangelical Congregational church in this Commonwealth may annually choose two delegates (of whom, it is suggested, one shall be a layman and the other a lay-woman) and these delegates, together with the pastor or pastors of each church (who shall be members ex officio), the officers of the Conference (including the members of the Board of Trustees), the committee members of the Conference, and those persons who prior to May 22, 1923, became life members of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, shall constitute the voting membership of the Conference.

2. Delegates from corresponding bodies and persons appointed to speak before the Conference, together with all persons heretofore constituted honorary members of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society such persons as may be made honorary members by a vote of the Board of Trustees, and such other persons as the Conference may from time to time vote to admit, shall be honorary members of the Conference, with the privilege of speaking, but without vote.

He shall receive all contributions for benevolences sent to him by the churches and by individuals and shall disburse the same in accordance with the instructions of the donors. He shall give such bonds for the faithful performance of his duties as may from time to time be required by the Board of Trustees.

10. The auditor shall cause the accounts of the treasurer to be carefully audited at least once each year and shall make a report at each annual meeting of the Conference. He shall at such times as directed by the Board of Trustees examine the securities in the keeping of the treasurer.

2. Special meetings of the Conference shall be convened at such times and places as may be determined by the Board of Trustees, provided, however, that notice of any special meeting so convened shall, at least one week before the date of the meeting, be sent by mail to each of the churches connected with the Conference, posted in the general office of the Conference and published in newspapers in Boston, Worcester and Springfield respectively.

3. The moderator or, in his absence, one of the vice-moderators or, in the absence of all of them, some member of the Board of Trustees shall call the Conference to order.

(a) A Committee on Credentials, to which all credentials shall be referred.

(b) A Business Committee, the duty of which shall be to prepare and present at each session all matters of business not presented through some other committee of the Conference.

2. The following standing committees shall be elected by viva voce vote:

(a) A Program Committee, of which the registrar of the Conference and the pastor of the church which is to entertain the next annual meeting shall be members ex officio. At the annual meeting of 1928, two members of this committee shall be elected to serve for one year, two to serve for two years and two to serve for three years. At each annual meeting thereafter two members shall be elected to serve for three years. This committee shall prepare the program for the next annual meeting and shall select the preacher of the annual sermon and the various speakers at each session.

(b) A Nominating Committee of seven, consisting of the retiring moderator of each annual meeting together with six other members, at least two of whom shall be women. This committee shall make all nominations required by these by-laws or by vote of the Conference. At each annual meeting thereafter three members shall be elected to serve for two years. The retiring members shall not be eligible for re-election for at least one year. The names of women proposed as provided in Article VII by the nominating committee of the Department of Woman's Work as candidates for election to the Board of Trustees and as chairman and vice-chairman of the department shall, if approved by the nominating committee of the Conference, be included in its report to the Conference.

(c) A Committee on Missions and Apportionment of which the members of the Committee on Missions and Apportionment of the Massachusetts Congregational Conference as heretofore constituted shall be members for the terms for which they were respectively chosen. At the annual meeting of 1928 the Conference shall elect from the Board of Trustees one member to serve for one year and from the churches at large two members to serve for three years. At the annual meeting of 1929 the Conference shall elect from the Board of Trustees two members to serve for one year and from the churches at large two members to serve for three years. At each annual meeting thereafter the Conference shall elect from the Board of Trustees three members to serve for one year and from the churches at large two members to serve for three years. The Committee shall represent the Conference in its relations with the national Commission on Missions, particularly in the following respects:

3. Such other committees as the Conference may vote to constitute shall be elected by viva voce vote at each annual meeting for such terms as the Conference shall determine. The Board of Trustees shall present at each annual meeting a list of the committees the appointment of which it recommends.

4. It shall be the general practice of the Conference, without making it an arbitrary rule, that at least one-third of its Committee members be women.

5. ## TUESDAY MORNING

The session opened at 9 o'clock, Dr. E. H. Bigelow, the moderator, in the chair.

Worship was conducted by Chaplain Hannum.

The minutes of Monday's sessions were read and accepted.

Mr. Samuel Usher, Cambridge, presented a report from the Congregational Church Union of Boston concerning its great necessities. The request from that Union that a larger percentage of the contributions to the Church Building Society be appropriated for Massachusetts was referred to the Business Committee.

The Business Committee presented the following recommendations which were adopted:

1. That a committee of five be nominated by the nominating committee to take up the matter of ecclesiastical procedure with regard to ministerial standing in councils, ordinations and installations, especially as regards men of other denominations, serving Congregational pulpits and federated churches.

2. That at the discretion of the moderator representatives of the following causes be given five minutes each, if time in the business sessions allows, viz.: The Chinese Relief, The Near East Relief, The Massachusetts Anti-Saloon League.

3. That the report of the Moral and Social Welfare Committee be a special order at this time.

The report of the Committee on Moral and Social Welfare was then presented by its chairman, Rev. H. W. Kimball.

The following resolutions were adopted:

1. We earnestly endorse the efforts which are being made by our State Department in Washington to bring about a multilateral treaty among the leading nations of the world to outlaw war, and in view of these advances on the part of our American Government, we deprecate and deplore military and naval gestures which, in the eyes of the world, give the lie to our best efforts for peace and international good-will. We are thoroughly opposed to the proposals for huge naval appropriations which have been recently offered by some naval officials, and are heartily in sympathy with the disposition already shown by our American Congress to vastly curtail these designs as unreasonable, unwarranted, and dangerous, both to our own national safety, and the peace of the world.

2. Whereas there exists a strongly organized and highly paid propaganda against the Volstead Act and the 18th Amendment, we strongly affirm the conviction that the Volstead Act and the 18th Amendment can be as reasonably enforced as other laws, and that the churches should bring all possible legitimate influence to bear upon the local authorities in their respective communities to this end. We strongly commend the Massachusetts Anti-Saloon League to the moral and financial support of the churches, suggesting that it be included in their benevolence budgets as an indispensable and effective agency of the churches in maintaining prohibition. We urge upon the churches the vital importance of carrying on educational efforts regarding the evils of the alcoholic traffic and of alcoholic drinking and the benefits of prohibition in their own programs and in those of the public schools.

The resolution on absentee church membership was referred back to the committee to report at a later session.

Mr. H. D. Wilson, Boston, spoke for the S. O. S. committee regarding the danger from the proposed referendum on commercialized Sunday Sports.

Rev. S. H. Woodrow, Newton Highlands, then told of the proposed British Pilgrimage and asked the hearty cooperation of the Massachusetts churches in the entertainment of these pilgrims.

An address was then given by Prof. Karl R. Stolz, Dean of Hartford School of Religious Education, on the subject: "Worship in the Church School."

The meeting was then taken over by the Woman's Missionary Society, Mrs. E. A. Harvey, presiding. Devotions were conducted by Mrs. Harvey. An address, "The Romance of Fact," was given by Miss Margaret Slattery, Malden. The Conference took a recess till after the meeting of the Home Missionary Society.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON

The session was called to order by the moderator at 4.20.

The Business Committee made the following recommendations which were adopted:

1. Resolved, that the Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society hereby expresses its approval of the proposed merger between the Christian and Congregational churches as proposed by the Commission on Church Unity of the General Conference of the Christian Church, and the Commission on Inter-church Relations of the National Council of Congregational Churches.
2. Resolved, that the Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society hereby authorizes and instructs its Board of Trustees to negotiate a working agreement with the Congregational Church Building Society whereby a certain percentage of the money given by Massachusetts Congregational Churches for Church Building purposes shall be retained and used for Massachusetts Churches whose applications for grants and loans have the endorsement of the Trustees. As to the percentage to be retained we would recommend that the Trustees give due consideration to the 65% and 35% suggested by Mr. Samuel Usher of the Congregational Church Union.
3. That Rev. E. I. Lindh, Rev. C. W. Dunham, and Rev. W. R. Campbell be appointed a committee on the status of the Swedish Churches, to report to the Trustees of this body their findings, and that we authorize the Trustees to take such further actions as may seem wise to them.

Under the first of these resolutions Rev. F. K. Sanders chairman of the National Council Commission on Inter-Church Relations, and Rev. H. M. Hainer, of New Bedford, representing the Christian Church, made brief addresses.

The Nominating Committee made the following report which was accepted and adopted:

The Committee on Moral and Social Welfare made the following recommendations which were adopted:

1. Believing that the development of an intelligent and virtuous type of life and character is the chief glory of a commonwealth, and realizing that the right use of the Lord's Day is an important factor in this development; Resolved: that we call upon the citizens of Massachusetts to refuse the demands of those who aim to substitute sport, work and profit for the religious influences and practices which have made our commonwealth strong in the past, and that we call upon thoughtful people of every walk in life to perpetuate the sacred nature of the day of rest and worship.

2. In view of the amazing movement in the direction of the suppression of opinions upon many questions of grave importance for the public welfare, especially those concerning general disarmament among the nations, and efforts to establish peace and good will among all peoples,

And whereas such a movement is not only un-American and dangerous to the general good, but its success would seriously curtail the work of the Christian Church and destroy any prophetic ministry;

Be it resolved

That we the Massachusetts Congregational Conference assembled in Second Church, Greenfield, register our firm disapproval of all efforts on the part of individuals or organizations to secure the suppression of honest opinion and discredit those whose wisdom and self-sacrificing labors for the common weal entitle them to a fair hearing at the bar of public opinion.

3. Our denomination has no definite standard regarding a reasonable limit of time within which members moving from one community to another should transfer their membership to the Church in the new locality where they have taken up their residence, and a definite standard is necessary to which reference may be made, even if it contains no compelling authority. Congregational principles and practices as usually expressed in the By-Laws of the churches expect the membership of our churches to transfer their membership to the local church in the community of their new residence. This should be done within two years unless unusual circumstances make it inadvisable to do so, in which case members shall be expected to indicate their interest in the church where their membership is retained by a communication each year with that church, or by at least a nominal contribution.

If, however, members of Congregational Churches fail to conform to this standard, when a period of more than two years has elapsed, either the Church where their membership is retained, or the Church in the locality where they have taken up their residence, with the consent of the church of their membership, may inform the Registrar of the Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society at the same time forwarding the names and addresses of such members. The Registrar shall then send a printed copy of this standard of membership transfer and also the following form letter, properly filled in, to such members, thus avoiding offense or embarrassment to the local churches and members:

Mr. (or Mrs.) . . .

The Church of Christ cherishes her children. You are a child of the Church in the communion at . . . Having committed yourself in a solemn and sacred pledge to the upbuilding and usefulness of the church, to help in maintaining its worship, activities and charities, and to live with its members in Christian love you are in the spirit of Christ urged and entreated, according to our Congregational standard, to meet your obligations in the Church of which you are now a member, or to transfer your membership to the Church in the Community where you now reside. This is the least that Christian love can reasonably ask and the least that you as a professed member of the Church of Christ can reasonably give.

Faithfully yours in the service of Christ,

The report of the Committee on Federation of Churches was presented by Rev. F. H. Page, Boston. The request for an appropriation of $1,815 was referred to the Budget Committee. The following recommendation was adopted:

That a committee on federation of churches and cooperation with other denominations be appointed to serve for the next Conference year, that this committee consist of five members, and that it be empowered to appoint the representatives of this Conference in the voting membership of the Massachusetts Federation of Churches for the year.

Rev. K. C. MacArthur, Sterling, Rural Secretary of the Massachusetts Federation of Churches, was introduced and spoke briefly.

The report of the Committee on Worship was presented by Rev. H. O. Hannum, Newburyport. The following recommendations were adopted:

1. That the hour for worship be at some other time than the opening of the business sessions.
2. That quiet and freedom from interruption be insisted upon during the service of worship.
3. That this committee be empowered to ask the National Council Commission on Evangelism and the Devotional Life to furnish us with a brief series of Services for Congregational Worship to be used in our services in the Massachusetts Conference.
4. That the Committee on Worship be continued for three years in order to secure continuity in the development of our worship and with power to appoint the Chaplain who shall be an ex officio member of the Worship Committee; and that the Chairman of the Committee on Worship be an ex officio member of the Program Committee.
5. That the first evening service of the Conference be devoted entirely to worship with the Sermon and the Communion; and that the Chaplain shall preside; that there shall be no business or notices at this service; and that the Communion Service be administered by a single person.
6. That the Worship Committee provide some opportunity for Conferences upon Worship for those especially interested.

The report of the Committee on the Relation between Colleges and Churches was presented by Rev. J. A. Hawley, Amherst, It was voted that the recommendation that the committee be continued be adopted, and that the request for the same appropriation be referred to the Budget Committee.

Recess was then taken till 8.30.

During the afternoon, at the First Congregational Church, a Young People's Conference was held. An address was given by Rev. Vaughan Dabney, Boston, followed by discussion and conferences.

At 6.30 the Conference Banquet was held at the Weldon Hotel with Rev. C. N. Thorp, Holyoke, toastmaster.

The Budget Committee made the following report which was adopted:

1. That the report of the treasurer and auditors be approved.
2. That the following appropriations be made on the basis of 164,499 members.

|---|---|
| National Council (8 cents) | $13,159.92 |
| Board of Pastoral Supply (1⅞ cents) | 3,011.32 |
| Mass. Federation of Churches | 1,815.00 |
| Registrar's Salary | 1,200.00 |
| Registrar's Expenses | 250.00 |
| Committee on Missions and Apportionment | 500.00 |
| Committee on Religious Education | 350.00 |
| Committee on Moral and Social Welfare | 150.00 |
| Committee on Churches and Colleges | 100.00 |
| Expenses of Home Missionary Delegates | 300.00 |
| Printing | 1,000.00 |
| Contingencies | 250.00 |
| Total | $22,086.24 |

3. That a levy of 13 cents per member be made, the balance required, if any, be taken from the treasury.
4. That the hearty thanks of the Conference be extended to Mr. Ernest L. Miller, who has not only rendered gratuitous service for nineteen years, but has even refused to receive his expenses. His sister, also, who has been his unofficial assistant, deserves our gratitude.

The report of the Committee on Missions and Apportionment was made by Mr. C. E. Burbank, West Boylston, who introduced Rev. A. M. Parker, Boston, Promotion Secretary.

The following recommendations of the committee were adopted, and the request for an appropriation of $500 was referred to the Budget Committee.

1. That the assignment of $1,087,500 to the state of Massachusetts by the Commission on Missions be recognized as the state's fair share of the $5,000,000 goal, and that a determined effort be made to raise the amount assumed by the churches.
2. That the gifts collected and not designated by the donors for specific objects be divided among the societies on the following basis: American Board 42%; Congregational Home Boards 43½%; state of Massachusetts 14½%.

3. That the Conference recommend to the consideration of the churches the "so called step-up plan in the local church." The plan is:

> "that in connection with the Every Member Canvass a study should be made of the individual subscriptions for the purpose of finding as many subscribers as possible to whom it would be appropriate to go with a definite challenge substantially to advance the subscriptions which such members have been in the habit of making."

In explanation the Commission on Missions states that "this is being done by community chests throughout the country and by some of our churches. This is important inasmuch as standards of giving have a way of becoming fixed, while resources may be rapidly increasing."

4. That the Conference give its endorsement to the manual entitled "Missionary Education in the Local Church," and furthermore that it ask the churches that have not adopted better plans to consider seriously the plans suggested in the manual.

5. That the statement adopted by the Commission on Missions and entitled, "The Christian's Use of His Money" be stressed in our churches.

The Business Committee offered the following recommendation which was adopted:

That the attention of the Program Committee for 1929 be called to the advisability of giving each of our six standing committees a definite place on the printed program with a specified assignment of time, say fifteen minutes.

At 10.45 Worship was conducted by Chaplain Hannum followed by three addresses: Rev. J. X. Miller, India, on "India's Problems and Desires"; Prof. James Muilenburg, South Hadley, on "Recent Trends in College Departments of Religious Education," and Prof. S. Ralph Harlow, Northampton, on "Opportunities of College Presidents and Faculty Members for Religious and Moral Leadership."

The Business Committee offered the following recommendations which were adopted:

1. As we come to the final session of the Massachusetts Congregational Conference we are glad to offer a resolution of gratitude to all who have done so much for our comfort and pleasure during these days. A meeting which runs as smoothly as this has done, shows an infinite amount of thought spent in its preparation, and we sincerely appreciate this preliminary work.

Our definite thanks are most cordially expressed to Rev. Arthur Peabody Pratt and all the people of this Second Church who have assisted him. We thank the various committees on hospitality, information, etc. We are grateful for the entertainment offered us in Greenfield homes and to Mr. J. T. Sellers of the Hotel Weldon. We appreciate the service unstintingly given by the Parent Teacher Association, the ladies of the First Church, and the Methodist Church in providing meals for such a large gathering. We acknowledge and appreciate the courtesy of Chief Manning of the Greenfield Police for his adequate provision for automobile parking; and to all others too numerous to mention who have had a part on the program, or who, in one way or another, have helped to make this Conference one of our best, we would give our hearty thanks.

We hope that the inspiration received by those of us who have come from a distance to attend this meeting has been felt also by those who have entertained us so hospitably and that they will feel that it has made all the work worth while.

REPORT OF THE SECRETARY

Under the new By-Laws adopted today the executive committee of the Conference is abolished, and four men who have served on it for 94 years retire from office or may continue under other titles. In 1889 Rev. Francis J. Marsh was elected assistant registrar and eight years later became registrar, serving a total of 39 years. Statistics are not available for comparison, but it is doubtful if any conference official past or present in any state has a record of longer service. Sixteen years ago Rev. Harrison L. Packard became assistant registrar. In 1909 Ernest L. Miller became our treasurer. In 19 years he has handled approximately $300,000 of Conference money without cost to us of even a postage stamp. To Mr. Miller and his sister, Miss Bertha E. Miller, the Conference owes a heavy debt of appreciation. The present secretary began his work in 1908, and presents herewith his twentieth annual report. Henceforth, to conform to denominational usage, this official will be called registrar.

We have not often met in Franklin county. In ancient days Conway, Ashfield and Sunderland played host, and in 1867 and 1898 Greenfield was the place of meeting. At the 1898 meeting 211 pastors and delegates were enrolled, and the lapse of 30 years makes that roster read like ancient history.

Statistics mean little except by comparison. The secretary has chosen this year to review the 20 years of his statistical service for the Conference, as well as this past year. In the year we have added two churches, the Free Evangelical of Concord and Grove Chapel of Lakeville, and have lost none. Our roll carries thus 605 names, but in 1908 we had 606. In 20 years we have added 39 churches and lost 40, but our membership has increased 45,601, so that the average church today has 272 members as compared with 196 in 1908, an increase of 38 per cent. The men have increased 58 per cent, just double the 29 per cent increase of women members. The past year's gain was 2,785, while the average of 20 years has been 2,280.

The year just past has not set any new high marks except in total membership and home finances. Some of the figures are second best, most of them are higher than the five-year average from 1923. The membership stands at 164,499, of whom 58,820 are men. There were 6,347 additions on confession, and 4,237 by letter, 10,584 in all. Deaths numbered 2,006, removals by letter 2,944, and roll revision took off 2,849 more, a total of 7,799. Sunday school and young people's statistics depend on who reports them. In two prominent churches pastors have complained of the figures as published, and others might. The new Year Book reports only three columns of apportionment benevolence instead of ten as hitherto. The total, $660,929, is $20,336 less than last year. The foreign board gained almost $9,000, and the state and home boards lost a bit over $29,000.

We are spending more money in our own parishes, something over $4,000,000 the past year, $277,000 more than the year before, and that year also showed a gain of $200,000. Building projects figure in this increase, and so do salaries. There is still modesty at both the top and bottom of the salary list, but so far as reported the average minister gets $99 more than the year before, $2,272. This is $1,025 more than the average in 1908. The value of our property has just doubled in 20 years from less than seventeen to almost $34,000,000; our invested funds are five million instead of two, and our home expenses are two and one third times as large.

There are 23 pastors in the same location as in 1908. In that year there were 28 pastorates of 20 years' standing, and in 1888 there were 27. We are not slipping too fast toward itineracy. There are also 80 church clerks with whom the secretary has been corresponding all these 20 years. In 1908 we had but three churches with 1,000 members; now there are 21. In the former year 197 was not an unusual number of churches reporting no additions on confession; the last two years the numbers have been 155 and 161. The ratio of adult baptisms to church membership is practically stationary, but infant baptisms are twice as many as in 1908.

Twenty years ago there were 25 conferences of churches in the state; today there are 23, Norfolk and Pilgrim having merged in 1923, and Hampshire and Hampshire East completing their merger a few days ago. For national uniformity our General Association became the Massachusetts Conference in 1910, and all the district conferences have become associations. Ministerial standing was held in 20 ministerial associations and in only five church bodies; today the associations of churches, with only three exceptions, hold themselves responsible for ministerial standing.

NECROLOGY

Death has removed 22 names from the ministerial roll the past year, including one of the previous year. In addition the Year Book lists 14 others dying in 1927 who had held pastorates here, and four more born in the state but never in our local ministry. These 19 will be listed in the Minutes. Of the first group of pastors and association members, seven were born in Massachusetts, seven elsewhere in the United States, seven in other lands, and one other, origin unknown behind his Methodist ordination, may have come "trailing clouds of glory from Heaven which is our home." Seven were in active service with our churches, two of them in the early months of a new pastorate. The entire group averaged only 68 years of age, ranging from 32 to 92, and their average date of ordination was 40 years ago. Three names stand out without prejudice before the others: Edward Young Hincks, 83, professor in Andover Seminary since 1883; Francis Edward Clark, 75, "Father Endeavor" of world-wide fame; and John Jairus Walker, 59, brother beloved of us all in his 16 years in the Home Missionary office. I will not try to gild refined gold.

Hubert Edwin Beckwith, 32, had been assistant pastor at Phillips Church, South Boston, and Eliot, Newton, and pastor at Groveland and Pilgrim, Cambridge. Russell W. Bosworth, 37, had just come from Methodist service to Wendell Avenue, Brockton, and his pastorate was ended in six months. Charles Henry Cook, 57, once a Baptist, had been seven years with New Bedford First, and his new work at Westport was ended in less than four months. Francis Joel Fairbanks, 92, pastor emeritus at South Royalston, spent 37 years with six of our churches. John Olaf Haarvig, a Norseman trained in Illinois, came east 35 years ago, and with one brief New Hampshire interlude was a Bay State pastor thereafter, 20 years at Allston. He dropped suddenly in his Fall River ministry in March. Rollo Albert Hamilton, 46, associate pastor at the Old South in Worcester, had been also at the North church in Winchendon. Dow Lee Hilliard, 69, after 30 years in the West and in Northern New England, came to Erving for three years and then to Belchertown for five, dying there on New Year's day. Gustavus Warren Jones, 83, ordained in 1869, was the dean of our active pastors, and his pastorate at the First Church in Winchendon was the longest but one in the state at the time of his sudden death in February. Five days previously he wrote me of his intention to retire soon.

Besides these men on the pastoral roll were nearly a dozen others who had at some time ministered to one or more of our churches. Warren Franklin Bickford, 85, was for 13 years over the West Dedham, now the Islington, church, and part of the same time pastor at East Walpole. His later years were in missionary service in Oklahoma. Henry H. French, 70, was one of our many Methodist accessions, ministering 21 years to the First Church of Malden. Everett S. Stackpole was another, serving 12 years at Bradford. Robert Walter Haskins, 87, had served at Baldwinville, Abington 12 years, West Peabody, North Woburn and Montvale, and 10 years at Lynnfield. Karl Frederick Henrikson, 64, organized our Finnish Church in Quincy and led it 12 years. He also organized the Finnish Ministers' Training School and was at its head in Revere and Chicago 14 years. Emerson Lincoln Hunt, 59, had but one brief pastorate with us, at Scotland, but did missionary work in greater Boston for a score of years. John Walter Lees, 91, spent 15 years in Westminster and Marshfield Hills before 1910. John King Moore, 53, was four years at Orange, and for nine years did editorial work for our Publishing Society. He died in 1926. George Thomas Smart, 64, was pastor 19 years at Newton Highlands and two years acting president of Wheaton College. Ole O. Thorpe, 69, was twice the pastor of the Norwegian branch of our Concord church, which has this year joined us as an independent church. Thomas H. Vincent, 62, spent 32 of his 38 years of ministerial life in our parishes at Marshfield Hills, Orleans, Southampton, North Weymouth, Webster and Turners Falls.

These men with varying talents rendered faithful and conspicuous service. Some were brilliant. I would that time permitted more than this brief recital of their names. But in this roll call your memory has thrilled with sudden recollection of friendship, of devoted service, of humanity linked with divinity in these comrades who have preceded us to the ultimate glory. And remembering them, we also thank God and take courage.

REPORT OF THE PRESIDENT

By the concurrent action of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society and the Massachusetts Congregational Conference, voted unanimously at the respective annual meetings of both societies, at Greenfield, May 21, 1928, these two ancient and honorable organizations effected a consolidation to take effect at once. This becomes therefore the great outstanding event, as it is also the closing act of the One Hundred and Twenty-Ninth Year of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society. It was in May 1799, the year that George Washington died, that this Society began its great career of service under the name of the Massachusetts Missionary Society. Three years later the Massachusetts Congregational churches were associated together in a State Conference. Now the two state-wide organizations of Congregationalists are become one, using for the purpose of incorporation the charter of Massachusetts Home Missionary Society as amended by act of the Legislature of 1928.

Before speaking of the future outlook for the new organization it is in order to put on record the events of the past year.

Financially considered the year has been a good one. The gifts from the churches for state work were $66,803, and the income from invested funds $79,278, — a total of $146,081. All payments to the English-speaking churches, foreign-language churches and other state work, together with general and administrative expenses, we had to draw on our Contingent Fund for only $101.81 in order to balance accounts. A careful computation of what may properly be called overhead expense account was made toward the close of the financial year showing it to be about ten per cent. The policy of the Society is not niggardly but also it is not without continuous and careful consideration of all appropriations not forgetting that the large majority of our church givers make their weekly offerings from relatively small incomes, and their contributions represent stewardship and devotion.

The legacies received during the year total $57,000, which is somewhat above the average. One-third of such legacies, if unrestricted, are available for current expenses, and of the balance one-third is carried to the permanent legacy fund, and one-third to the Contingent Fund. All through the years there have been the steady evidences of the faith which people who make charitable bequests for the religious welfare of our Commonwealth have had in this Society. It is in good measure due to such legacies that we are able to exert so great and helpful an influence where the Christian civilization of our fathers would sadly decline were it not for the steadfastness of their children's children. Massachusetts is a frontier state with tens of thousands of people in its hills and valleys who could not, or would not, of themselves maintain the Gospel Ministry in purity and power. The missionary burden laid upon this generation to keep up the standard of Massachusetts may not always be as heavy as it is now, but we must do our best, for to-day and for the future, both in city and in village, among our old stock and the fifteen different language groups numbered in our missionary churches. The effort is arduous but it is rewarding. With all the other activities of the Society, this time-honored work must not be permitted to slip. We shall be glad to correspond with any individuals who feel moved to invest in this Christianizing of Massachusetts, through bequests or conditional gifts. The rate of income allowed on the latter has been carefully reviewed during the year and has as a result been somewhat increased.

We have had 168 ministers and religious workers under the commission of the Society during the year. The number of Sunday Schools assisted has increased from 135 to 174.

Among the achievements of the year have been the consolidation of two churches at Hough's Neck, Quincy, into one effective, incorporated body, which has good prospects of soon erecting a commodious church edifice in the midst of a rapidly growing community.

There has been a careful canvass of church life in East Boston, revealing clearly for the first time the Protestant elements with which missionary effort must hereafter concern itself in a district which is becoming one of the largest centres of Italian-American life in our country.

There have been a number of instances this year where the necessity for church building has outrun the financial strength of the community and help has been extended by denominational agencies. Notable among such building plans now in progress are those of the church at Arlington Heights, and at East Springfield.

Our churches were deeply touched by the calamity which came upon their brethren in Vermont and in response to our appeal for a fund for temporary relief over $4,000 was contributed by sixty-six Massachusetts churches, and $1,000 was given directly from the treasury of our Society. These gifts with similar contributions from the other New England states have been of great and immediate help in Vermont.

On the personal side we have to record the great loss of Secretary John Jairus Walker, a devoted man of God, a brother beloved among hundreds of the churches, a friend and counsellor in the office and on the field. His sudden death from cerebral hemorrhage, Sunday, December 4, has been a great bereavement. Thank God for the clear shining of his life, for the fine fruitfulness of his work! He leaves a blessed memory. His associates thank God upon every remembrance of him.

A severe loss to the Board of Trustees came later in December in the death of Walter B. Mossman. For years he has been devoted to the work of our Society, and also to the Boston City Missionary Society. He had an earnest and forward-looking part in the plans which have now culminated in the consolidation at Greenfield. Loyalty to Christ and the church was of the very fiber of his character. Helpfulness was the ornament of his spirit.

A successor to Secretary Walker was sought with great care and found in the Rev. Alfred V. Bliss, Secretary of the Maine Congregational Conference and Missionary Society. He will begin his duties in Massachusetts in September.

The Secretary Emeritus, Reverend Frederick E. Emrich, has been blessed with health and strength permitting him to increase his activities so to fulfill as far as possible the many duties which we have all shared since Secretary Walker's decease. In this connection special mention is made of the fine service rendered by Treasurer Sewall.

And now we face the new year wherein the work is hereafter to be carried on under the new corporate name of "The Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society." While holding fast to the missionary service to the churches and people of Massachusetts which has so deep a place in the hearts of Congregationalists, we shall also continue those lines of service to all the six hundred Congregational churches of the State, whether they are aided churches or financially independent, which have recently been developed at the desire of all the churches. The promotion of the great missionary program for home and foreign as well as state work will be our earnest endeavor. Every aspect of the welfare of our churches, whether of the Gospel ministry, missionary study and promotion, religious education, evangelism, church building, federation, incorporation, every member canvass — all the vital interests of our church life are the immediate concern of the consolidated organization. And one of the chief evidences of the whole-heartedness with which the tasks of the future are confronted is seen in the fact that the Congregational women have brought their work into the new organization as an integral part of it, and not as an outside department. One-third of the new board of Trustees are women, chosen for their special fitness for leadership and every effort will be made to conserve and increase the splendid work which has characterized the women's missionary organizations, foreign and home. "Men and women together for Christ and the Church, at home and abroad, and in the Old Bay State!" This is the motto of Massachusetts Congregationalists as never before. May the coming year see high fulfillment!

GRANTS FROM THE MASSACHUSETTS CONGREGATIONAL CONFERENCE AND MISSIONARY SOCIETY

1. Wherever a community is too distant from a church to benefit from its privileges, the Conference encourages the establishment of regular religious services, and, if possible, the organization of a church, or a branch of a neighboring church.

2. Applications by any church for financial aid should be made by the vote of the church, and upon forms furnished by the Conference, and should have the approval of the Advisory or Missionary Committee of the local Association of Churches.

3. Churches applying for aid must show that they have met in full all financial obligations to their ministers and are doing their utmost toward self-support.

4. In granting aid the Conference will appropriate different amounts according to the necessity, importance, and prospects of each field.

5. Every church aided by the Conference must consult the President or Secretary before making arrangements for pastoral service.

6. Whenever the service of the minister or other worker, for whose support an appropriation is made, shall terminate, the appropriation shall lapse, except for special reasons satisfactory to the President.

7. The Conference advocates adequate compensation for every minister and worker.

8. The Conference favors hearty cooperation with other denominations, the avoidance of overlapping and competing work, and the consolidation or federation of churches of different denominations in over-churched communities.

REPORT OF THE AUDITOR

14 Beacon Street, Boston, Mass.,

May 17, 1928.

Frederick Harlan Page, D.D., President,
Massachusetts Home Missionary Society,
Boston, Mass.

Dear Sir:

I have caused the books and records of the Treasurer of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society for the year ending March 31, 1928, to be examined by Messrs. Patterson, Teele and Dennis, Certified Public Accountants, for the purpose of verifying the transactions of that period involving both the general funds of the Society and the funds held by it in trust.

Said accountants, in their reports rendered to me state that they have found: 1st. That all funds shown to have been received during that period have been properly accounted for, and that all disbursements have been properly vouched; and that the cash at banks on March 31, 1928, was $10,922.06 in the general account, and $285.91 in the Trustee Account, as entered in the books of the Treasurer. 2nd. That all income receivable during the period under review, with the exception of certain interest accrued on savings accounts in the Trustee Account, has been duly received and accounted for. These findings I submit to the Society without personal verification.

I have also compared the figures entered in the schedules presented in the Treasurer's Statement with those appearing in the corresponding schedules accompanying said reports of the Accountants, and I find them to be in accord.

I have received from said Accountants schedules compiled by them from the books of the Treasurer, wherein are listed the investments to be accounted for by the Treasurer as of March 31, 1928; these aggregating, in book value, $1,620,636.41 in the general account, and $75,451.36 in the Trustee Account. Securities in accordance with the said schedules have been exhibited to me by the Treasurer, or have been otherwise satisfactorily accounted for.

Very respectfully yours,

(Signed) NATHAN B. DAY, Auditor.

BEQUESTS

Bequests to the Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society are used to aid weak churches and to promote religious work and the interests of the Conference in the State. The practice of the Conference is to divide unrestricted legacies into three equal parts. One part is used for current work; one part is added to the Permanent Legacy Fund, the income only of which is used for general purposes; and the third part is added to a Contingent Fund, which may be drawn upon to care for special undertakings or to avoid a deficit. Bequests may be made permanent funds by the donor and the Conference restricted to use only of income.

Bequests to the Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society pay no Massachusetts inheritance tax.

FORM OF BEQUEST

I give to the Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society incorporated under the laws of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, the sum of.....Dollars.

TRUST FUNDS

The Conference is glad to receive bequests to be held in trust, either for general purposes or for special beneficiaries. No charge is made for administering such trusts.

Legacies are frequently made by large-hearted men and women to the weaker churches. It is not an easy matter for parish committees, some of which have had no experience in handling trust funds, to make wise and safe investments. The Conference feels, by reason of the aid for a considerable time given these churches, that it has a legitimate concern in seeing that the principal and income of these funds are properly safe-guarded. It therefore strongly urges churches to place such funds in its care. The Conference has exceptional facilities for keeping funds safely and investing them profitably and wisely. The Board of Trustees of the Conference, which has charge of all its funds, contains men of large ability and experience in such matters. The churches may avail themselves of the service of this ability and experience without expense.

CONDITIONAL GIFTS

The Conference receives conditional gifts, subject to annuity agreements with the donors, and encourages this method for those who wish any part of their property to be applied to our work after their death, and desire an assured income from this property for themselves, or for others whom they may designate as beneficiaries so long as they live. Correspondence with the Treasurer concerning such annuity agreements is invited.

THE CONGREGATIONAL UNION OF SPRINGFIELD

PRESIDENT, REV. ORVILLE T. FLETCHER

CLERK, REV. JOHN B. LEWIS TREASURER, W. L. RICHARDS

In cooperation with the Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society, the Congregational Union of Springfield supervises the home missionary work in Springfield.

All contributions for home missionary work in Massachusetts by the churches of Springfield should be made to the Congregational Union, and will be credited on the apportionment. In accordance with the mutual agreement between the two organizations, ten per cent. of the contributions for current work received by the Union is paid over to the Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society.

The Congregational Union of Springfield is incorporated under the laws of Massachusetts and may receive bequests and hold property.

THE WORCESTER CITY MISSIONARY SOCIETY

PRESIDENT, AND SUPERINTENDENT, REV. RAY EVAN BUTTERFIELD

RECORDING SECRETARY, REV. ELLSWORTH W. PHILLIPS

TREASURER, E. G. SEAL

The Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society, by agreement with the Worcester City Missionary Society, is responsible for the financial assistance and the supervision of home missionary churches in Worcester in their current work, while the Worcester City Missionary Society represents the fellowship of the Congregational churches of the city in aid to churches in the matter of their property, contributing toward the purchase and maintenance of property and the payment of building debts.

Contributions for home missions from the churches in Worcester, to be credited on the apportionment, should be sent to the Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society. Contributions for the local work, given in addition to the apportionment and not to be credited as a part of it, should be sent to the Worcester City Missionary Society.

REPORT OF THE CONGREGATIONAL BOARD OF PASTORAL SUPPLY

REV. ARTHUR J. COVELL, SECRETARY

BOSTON, MASS., March 31, 1928.

The thirteenth Annual Report of the Congregational Board of Pastoral Supply to the Congregational Conferences of New England is herewith respectfully submitted.

It is not easy to characterize the past year in contrast with other years. Perhaps some suggestions of specific types of churches which we have served may be illuminating as to the variety and kind of work which we are called upon to do.

A New England church, with an assured past, and admirable equipment and a future opportunity along different lines from the past, has been aided in finding a man rarely fitted for the situation but with the handicap of birth outside this country. The church has been helped to forget the trivial hindrance and to realize the real opportunity. One of our cathedral churches of the Denomination has relied very fully upon the records and advice of the Board in working out its difficult task in a happy and hopeful way. Another conspicuous church has been led to see the wisdom of considering the best interest of another church, and of the fellowship of the churches, and of not pressing its own claims above those of the common good. The exceptional choice of the pastor secured has led the church to realize that "all things work together for good to those that love God" in ways of ecclesiastical fraternity. An important colored church has found the man for pastor through our aid. We have not heretofore been in a position to aid colored churches. One of the most conspicuous churches of another denomination has found through us the man needed for a certain type of efficiency work. A college church of first rank has found a leader peculiarly qualified for their work in view of the special conditions now existing. Members of theological faculties on church committees have been in close conference with the Board and followed its advice about their own graduates seeking settlement. A pastor and leader of highest quality, but lacking in ability to capture a congregation at first appearance, has been settled in one of our substantial fields. A metropolitan pulpit has found a capable man, but not until after learning that one minister desired is not ready for a salary of $10,000 until the needs of his present parish, as he sees them, are cared for. A suburban church, with unsettled elements and with marked danger of choosing some untested and little known man of another denomination, has been led to the unanimous choice of a mature, well trained man of judgment and power of leadership, who promises to give more stability to this work than it has known in the past. A rural community, with two non-coöperative Congregational churches, has been led to unite for the first time in a half century upon one minister to serve the whole town as pastor. But time forbids further detail. These are but samples selected almost at random from the nearly one hundred settlements made in the year through the initiative or active coöperation of the Board.

We mourn to-day the passing of Sylvanus G. Morse, a Massachusetts Director for seventeen years. Only one other Director has had so long a period of service. When the Present Board was organized in 1916, Mr. Morse became its first Treasurer, and served in this capacity for seven years until impaired health required the relinquishment of this office. He continued, however, as Director and served as the Massachusetts member of the Executive Committee. He was generous in money advances when the Board's income was delayed, and equally generous in his confidence in and enthusiasm for our work. At Pentecost conversions came both because of Peter's preaching and because every man heard the message in his own language. Mr. Morse stands eminent among those devoted laymen who preached the Gospel in the language of their own calling.

We have during the year suffered an unspeakable loss in the passing of the Rev. John J. Walker, Secretary of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society. He was more than a coöperator in a kindred work; rather we thought of his work and ours as identical. Distinctions of organization disappeared in the common task. The Directors of our Board voiced their estimation of him in these words: "He was the ideal of a Christian gentleman in his attitude toward all and of a self-sacrificing burden bearer in his attitude toward his work. He had rare sympathy and insight, and an unusual number of men counted him as their best friend. His unfailing coöperation in all good works has been a constant inspiration."

We have not been permitted to know in personal fellowship and cooperative service one who better exemplified the ideal Christian as described by the Apostle Paul in the thirteenth chapter of First Corinthians: "Love suffereth long, and is kind; love envieth not; love vaunteth not itself, is not puffed up, . . . seeketh not its own; . . . beareth all things, hopeth all things, endureth all things. Love never faileth. . . . Now abideth faith, hope, love, these three; and the greatest of these is love."

In response to requests, from definitely authorized representatives, for aid in securing pastors, we have rendered service this past year to 311 churches, 10 fewer than for the preceding year but more than for each of the five years before that. The majority of these churches are from New England, but a goodly number are from elsewhere, and the churches served are found in 21 different states. Of these churches there were in Maine, 23; in New Hampshire, 40; in Vermont, 17; in Massachusetts, 137; in Rhode Island, 6; in Connecticut, 25; in New York, 16; in Montana, 8; in New Jersey, 7; in Florida, 5; in Michigan, 5; in Illinois, 4; in Wisconsin, 4; in Ohio, 3; in Washington, 3; in California, 2; in Oregon, 2; and one each in Colorado, Iowa, Nebraska and Texas.

We have not included in this statement of service rendered the furnishing of occasional and temporary supplies nor commendations for positions outside the pastorate.

In accordance with our custom we are again reporting the numerical and financial strength of the churches with which we have dealt during the year. Of these churches 45 had less than 100 members; 146 had from 100 to 300 members; while 120 had more than 300 members. Of these same churches 100 paid less than $1,200 and parsonage; 113 paid from $1,200 to $2,000 and parsonage; while 98 paid more than $2,000 and parsonage.

So far as reports have come to us the number of pastoral settlements in which the Board had an important part was 98. This is a larger number than for the two preceding years. We have not included in this statement arrangements with ministers for less than six months nor taken account of commendations for teaching or executive positions.

Opportunities for preaching were furnished during the year to 234 men, of whom 126 were candidates for settlement. In most cases repeated opportunities were given. This includes only a portion of the service rendered, since often churches ask for commendations of men and make their own direct arrangements with them. The number of candidates sent out is fewer than for the previous year but larger than for the two preceding years.

The total number of appointments for the year was more than for the previous year but the number of occasional supplies was less, indicating that a larger portion of our appointments this year were for the purpose of candidating.

The Secretary has travelled on Board business for the year approximately 8,200 miles.

The number of letters sent out from the office this past year was 6,182, several hundred more than for the previous year.

The Treasurer's account, with the Auditor's statement, will be found in the appendix.

The amount received for the Secretary's preaching is less than for the previous three years, but more than for the three years preceding these last three and more than the average for the last six years. The office fees were less than for the two years before, but more than for the two years preceding these and more than the average for the last four years.

The Treasurer's report from the constituent New England states indicates the following:

Maine: Paid in full to March 31, 1928.

New Hampshire: Paid in full to March 31, 1928.

Vermont: Paid in full for 1927.

Massachusetts: Paid in full to April 30, 1928.

Rhode Island: Paid in full to March 31, 1928.

Connecticut: Paid in full for 1927 and $850 for 1928.

Since there are variations in the times and methods of payment of the different states it may save confusion to report specifically. Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, and Connecticut begin their year January 1, and compute the $1^5/_6$c. per member from the Year Book at hand at the beginning of the calendar year. Massachusetts begins her year January 1, but changes her basis of computation May 1, taking the figures of the new Year Book for the balance of the year. Rhode Island's year begins April 1, and the figures of the Year Book issued January 1 are used by this state.

During the year the attention of the different New England Associations has been called to the desirability of a five year term for the Advisor to our Board. The function of the Advisor has never been defined in any hard and fast way. The position was established in order to make our work more vital and more responsive to the needs of the different sections of our field. On the one hand the Secretary may feel free to call upon the Advisor more frequently and specifically for information about men and conditions in a given section than he would call upon others. In a broad sense all our ministers and churches are Advisors. The Advisor on his part is free to suggest how the Board might make more effective its work in his section. The Directors are bound to heed the word of the Advisor. Many Advisors have rendered invaluable service to our Board. Very great stimulus to our work in its methods of working and in the realization of its importance to all our church life has come from the yearly meeting together of the Directors and Advisors of each state in connection with the State Conference meeting. More than once enthusiastic members have urged that longer time be given to the discussion of the vital subjects considered.

Each New England Association is urged to appoint an Advisor to the Board. The Associations have generally appointed wise and trusted men. The five year term has been suggested because, on the one hand, there needs to be some continuity in the service and changes in the position should not be too frequent. On the other hand it is well to have new men coming from time to time into helpful contacts with, and sympathetic understanding of our work. The Associations are free to fix the term as they desire. In certain cases, where for example the Advisor is a professor in a theological seminary and in helpful touch with a large number of ministers and churches, he should be Advisor for an indefinite period, several times five years.

At a recent Advisors' meeting one of the topics for discussion was, "How can the minister best do justice both to his pulpit and to the activities of church life?" Exceptionally valuable suggestions were made. It was felt that a minister must so shape his work that first things come first. He must so organize his schedules that sufficient time be given to do justice to the church services. He must also have a vital interest in life and realize that the troubles and difficulties in the parish are his concern and that there comes a time when there may be some neglect even of the sermon. He must train up leaders among the people and increasingly force back upon them the necessity of assuming responsibility.

The questions raised in this conference are wide reaching and concern laymen as well as ministers; individual Christians in their conceptions of church life as well as church committees in their search for pastors.

Herbert Spencer said wisely: "The suppression of every error is usually followed by the temporary ascendancy of the contrary one." Elderly men in the active pastorate to-day recall the emphasis upon the pulpit in the days of their early ministry. Our church buildings erected fifty or sixty years ago, with their spacious audience rooms and very limited accommodations for any meetings except those for preaching, bear mute testimony to a bygone time. However great the gains, have we not lost something of peculiar value to the best and most enduring church life? One of our witty ministers wrote an article for The Congregationalist on the exhortation and warning, "Do not leave any articles in the car." When we come to junction points in life and take another train it is important that we take our baggage with us. Our needs on the new course are likely to be very much the same as on the old. In the transition from the time when the minister's sermon was the central feature of the church life to the time when the minister is a leader of a multitude of agencies, there is danger that the inspirational give place to the mechanical, and that the vision faculty be supplanted by the ability to engage in lower-lying activities. And yet the prophetic statement, "Where there is no open vision the people perish," is as true to-day as ever, and the need to realize that truth was never more imperative. Raphael's picture of the Transfiguration, where the revelation to the chosen three is shown to be the power that enables them to cast out the evil spirits in the dwellers in the valley below, is forever true to life. Worship, utilizing mind and heart to the full, is dynamic in service. The lessened emphasis upon the pulpit needs correction if the future church is to keep her place of leadership.

Our church committees, in their extreme reactions from fancied past limitations, make many mistakes. "New brooms sweep clean," but the millennium rarely appears in a parish through a mere change in the type of leadership. One of our discerning young ministers, who does not lack opportunities to go elsewhere, recently declared: "I don't intend to go to a church that is looking for a young minister, for such a church is lying down on the job of creating the kind of a church that attracts young people." It is but sensible for a church committee to seek a minister who will be able to call out some of the latent resources of a parish that the former minister could not enlist in the work of the church. This marginal residue is usually to be found, and it is a triumph to summon it into the real life of the church. But after all, churches as well as individuals have a continuous life, and it might be a grave disaster to sacrifice outstanding strength for a possible standard of perfection in quite minor matters. The Secretary of this Board has more than once had occasion to say something like this: "After the long service of your distinguished minister you are right to seek a minister who can do some things that your former pastor could not. Times have changed and new methods of work have been developed. Your retiring pastor was a gentleman, a scholar, and a strong preacher. The new minister may well be one more gifted in church management and in young people's activities. But you have been so long trained in able and spiritual preaching that you will greatly err if you swing to the opposite extreme. If your work continues to maintain strength over any length of time, you must preserve the assets built up in your parish by the preaching of your last minister." Churches do not always heed this advice, but if they do not they will in a short time appreciate its value. Experience proves an illuminating teacher.

Emphasis upon preaching and worship must not be secured by withdrawal from the vital experiences of men and from the intensely human needs of a parish. The words descriptive of Jesus, "In Him was life; and the life was the light of men," applies to present-day pastors. The most effective preaching is that which speaks through the whole life of the chosen leader of the church. And surely that close sympathy with men and that understanding mind of the genuine pastor are more eloquent than mere words. And yet even in pastoral activities first things come first. The real problem is how to keep in the foreground the vital ministry that builds up the spiritual life.

In the preparation of this Report our Chairman has been asked to interpret one phase of our work upon which he is peculiarly qualified to speak. He writes: "It may not be amiss to offer a suggestion to those ministers who are reported to be disappointed by the failure to obtain permanent pastorates immediately upon application to our office. We are regretfully aware that it has not always been possible to serve these brethren so promptly and happily as they had hoped and we have desired.

But it should always be remembered that the Board of Pastoral Supply is a Congregational organization. No one has given, or has any right to give, us authority to make settlements arbitrarily. The churches have their own ideas and preferences which, under our system, must be respected. We cannot say to one Come and to another Go. Our function is to advise, recommend, help, and our purpose is to be as useful as is Congregationally possible in bringing churches and ministers together. We play no favorites; we have no pet theories or conceit of superior wisdom. We seek to be helpful to all; we freely put the resources of our office at the disposal of any who seek our assistance, and it is not unseemly to say that the records and the general knowledge we have acquired through years of experience do give us an advantage over other agencies. Our records make it plain that, through the efforts of our Board, of our local Advisors, and especially of our Boston office, we have achieved results for which we do not need to apologize. We hope to continue to serve and to meet the approval of both ministers and churches."

Another Director, the President of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, who is in closest contact with our practical work, has also been invited by the Board to give the benefit of his experience. This he does in these words: "Beyond any measurement by tabulation is the large and highly important service rendered by the Board through the personal conferences which its Secretary has with the many clergymen who visit the office, who may not be seeking a change in pastorate but are greatly in need of friendly counsel. They are often renewed in spirit and strengthened in purpose by the Secretary's sympathetic insight and by the wisdom begotten of his long and wide experience. To get a new view of one's pastorate may be a more constructive accomplishment than a new pastorate. All this is but saying that both in the time expended and in the purpose of the office, it is much more than a mere clearing house for pastoral changes, important as this is to ministers and churches."

In our Annual Reports during the period from seven to eleven years ago emphasis was laid upon the scarcity of men for the pastorate. The supply of ministers is now normal judged by pre-war standards. As a denomination we have fared somewhat better in this respect than a number of the large denominations that have passed through a controversial period. We seem to have learned from experience the lesson of tolerance and to permit freedom of diversified types in our fellowship. Very choice men of certain other denominations are still turning toward us with the conviction that they can more surely attain the ideals they believe to be vital in religious work in our fellowship. The Board itself has never assumed the right to usurp the functions of councils and associations of churches and ministers and determine what men ought to be introduced into our ministry. The rather have we felt it to be our business to take the material in our ministry and aid in the best possible adjustments for the churches. But however the scarcity has been overcome, the fact is we do seem to be back to the pre-war standard.

In the matter of pulpit supply from Sunday to Sunday, men who are in transition between pastorates or men who chance to be for a limited time in this section and wish supplies to meet their expenses cannot always be given them through our agency. We have striven, so far as the demands of the churches permitted, to give such men preference over those who were receiving an income from work outside of the ministry. But even then, so far as we can test the matter, the number of men available on a normal Sunday for supply is somewhat more than nine times the number of supplies we can offer them. This refers to our regular Congregational men. If we include in such statement the men who are on our supplementary list who are looking toward fellowship with us, the number would be more than thirteen times the number of available supplies. Not all of these men could, of course, be immediately summoned for an emergency call, but this is the number of men available so far as information at hand could reveal.

For regular pastoral service we have not found a lack of men for any but the smaller fields. There is always difficulty at this point, since men may properly desire a living salary and an adequate field. The small fields can usually be served if they chance to be located near some educational center where part-time service can be obtained. Sometimes there appears to be difficulty in finding the right men for the largest fields requiring a certain special type of man. But aside from these exceptions we find no lack of men available for the pastorate.

Nevertheless, there is always demand for presentation to our choicest young men in colleges, schools, academies and in our churches of the claims of the Christian ministry as a life work. Improvement of the methods and spirit of our churches would make such presentation more effective. A finer devotion on the part of all our ministers to the ideal ends of the ministry would make the summons more alluring. To those bent on high adventure the call comes even as in the time of Isaiah: "Whom shall I send and who will go for us?" One of our own gifted and devoted ministers said not long ago: "The prophets of the church to-day are calling for reinforcements. Religion, science, and democracy must speak the same language. The paganism of our social order must be challenged by men of God, who know how we may so increase our stock of goodwill that the new hopes of a better world may bear fruit and the Kingdom of God may come."

During the year 1927, the Board of Ministerial Aid aided 94 persons, — 56 widows, 32 ministers, 1 minister's son, and 5 orphaned daughters. Of these, 2 beneficiaries, no longer needing aid, were withdrawn from the roll. The largest grant made to any minister is $500. The largest grant made to any widow is $500. The smallest grant to men is $100, and the smallest grant to women is $60. The total amount distributed in regular grants was $21,276.30. The Christmas Fund was distributed between 31 ministers, at the rate of $55 each, 51 widows, at the rate of $45 each, 4 single women at the rate of $45 each. Three ministers received extra on account of peculiar needs. Twenty-eight people were aided by emergency grants outside of the Christmas Fund.

The residences of the beneficiaries are in the following states: 55 in Massachusetts, 6 in Maine, 6 in California, 5 in Connecticut, 4 in New Hampshire, 2 in New Jersey, 2 in Florida, 2 in Washington, D. C., 2 in Ohio, 1 each in Pennsylvania, Oregon, New York, Georgia, Colorado and Michigan.

The Board has had the hearty coöperation of the executive officers of the Congregational Board of Ministerial Relief. By the agreement between the two Boards, all its receipts from contributions and income from invested funds (except so much as shall be required for expenses) are paid by the Massachusetts Board to the National Board. That Board remits to our treasurer the amount required for our grants, and our pro rata share in the distribution of the Christmas fund. The work done by Dr. Charles S. Mills, and his associate, the Reverend Harry R. Miles, cannot be too highly praised for efficiency and for heartfelt sympathy for the friends who are in need. The aim of the Board of Ministerial Aid is to lend our friends in need a brotherly, Christ-like hand, to steer clear of all bureaucracy and to make the work of the Board the helping hand of our blessed Lord.

REPORT OF THE BOSTON SEAMAN'S FRIEND SOCIETY, INC.

In December, 1927, this Society completed one hundred years of unbroken service to the men of the sea. The event was given proper recognition by services covering a three days' period. The Rev. A. Z. Conrad, D.D., preached the Anniversary Sermon at Park Street Church, Boston, Sunday, December 4. Among the speakers at the dinner at the Sailor's Rest, 287 Hanover St., on Monday evening and the service in the Old South Church on Tuesday evening were Rev. Nehemiah Boynton, D.D., Rev. Charles R. Brown, D.D., Rev. Willard L. Sperry, D. D., Rev. William E. Strong, D.D., Rev. Ashley Day Leavitt, D.D., and the Rev. George Sidney Webster, D.D., Secretary of the American Seamen's Friend Society of New York. The meetings were a source of much enjoyment and satisfaction to the many friends of the Society who were able to attend.

Under these most auspicious circumstances the Society begins its second century of service to the wayfarers of the sea with renewed courage, zeal and consecration.

The Society has rendered during the past year its usual varied and unstinted service to 35,000 seamen who have come to Boston or who have visited our Vineyard Haven Bethel. These men have attended our free concerts and entertainments Tuesday and Friday evenings and our religious services Sunday afternoon and evening. At the Sailor's Rest they received their mail and wrote letters home, played games, read books, papers and magazines, banked their earnings, ate, bathed and slept.

Shipping conditions the past season have been very bad. Thousands of unemployed seamen on the Atlantic seaboard have been compelled to seek aid from institutions such as our own to keep themselves from starving. Our Society, during the winter months, has provided food, lodging and clothing for a larger number of these men than for any season for several years. The Sailor's Rest has thus been a real home and haven of security in recent months to a large number of destitute seamen.

The annual cost of maintaining this work for 35,000 sailors is $38,000.00. Towards this amount, during the year 1927, the New England Congregational Churches contributed $11,374.41. Of this sum Massachusetts donated $6,546.30 from 497 churches. Gifts from individuals during the year amounted to $12,013.55. The balance required ($15,000) to meet the Society's financial obligations was received from the store rentals of the Hanover St. building and the income from invested funds.

The Library Committee recently sent a letter to the churches asking for books and magazines to be placed on shipboard for the sailors' use at sea. Whereas the response has been good, still there is need for more books and magazines. The Library Committee urges such churches and individuals as have not already responded to its appeal to do so as soon as possible. Parcel Post packages should be addressed to the Society at 287 Hanover St., Boston.

Last June the Rev. Alfred Shelley, our Chaplain for ten years, desiring a change resigned and has accepted the Chaplaincy of the Seamen's Bethel at Savannah, Georgia. The Rev. Albert J. Pitman of Granville, Illinois, after several years' experience as home missionary pastor in North Dakota and Illinois, began his work as Chaplain at the Sailor's Rest the middle of January. Mr. Pitman had, in his youth, several seasons' experience as a deep-sea fisherman off the coasts of Newfoundland and Labrador. He thereby knows the life of deprivation, hardship and peril that Jack Tar endures in serving the rest of mankind with products of sea and land. The labors and sacrifices of these men of the sea enable us all to enjoy a larger measure of comfort and prosperity than would otherwise be possible.

The Woman's Seaman's Friend Society, with a membership of 800, has been doing its usual good work during the year. At the Marine Hospital, Chelsea, this organization maintains a hut for seamen which is in charge of a very capable and sympathetic woman, who does many things for the sick and injured sailor lads. At Christmas time the ladies made and filled 550 comfort bags for distribution by the Boston Seaman's Friend Society, Inc., at the Sailor's Rest, Boston, and at our Bethel at Vineyard Haven, Martha's Vineyard. Monthly entertainments have been provided by the Woman's Society for the benefit of the sailors who come to our building at 287 Hanover St.

Our friends who were unable to attend the exercises connected with the Centennial Celebration of the Society may read the complete addresses made on that occasion in the One Hundredth Anniversary number of the Sea Breeze, which will be found on the literature table of this Conference. Additional copies may be had by request sent to the Society's office, 14 Beacon St., Boston.

REPORT OF THE CONGREGATIONAL WOMAN'S MISSIONARY SOCIETY OF MASSACHUSETTS

This report is the swan song of so young an organization that it is also its first annual report.

The Congregational Woman's Missionary Society of Massachusetts was organized at Plymouth Church, Worcester, November 12, 1926, and began to function January 1, 1927. Since then your Board of Directors has met regularly the third Monday of the month and has with genuine devotion endeavored to further the missionary work of the state.

The Committee on Apportionment and Projects has worked in co-operation with the corresponding committee of the Conference and reports that about 70% of the churches of the state have some contact with projects, though the larger number have not taken them as a whole. A very encouraging aspect of the work is the growing interest in Schools of Missions, some twenty of which have been held in the state.

The Box and Hand Work Committee has developed a systematic plan by which each District has its quota of hand work assigned. There has been a loyal response, one District being 100% perfect. The Christmas boxes brought joy to very many schools, hospitals and pastors' homes both in this country and across the sea. One woman wrote, "Your Christmas box changed a day we dreaded into one to be long and happily remembered."

Many boxes have been sent through the year to Home Missionary schools and hospitals in the south. These boxes are a genuine help, as their contents are sold for the small sums the people can afford to pay, in this way supplying much better articles than otherwise could be bought as well as adding appreciably to the income of the institutions.

With women's traditional interest in education, that committee has spent much time not only in the work of young people and children, but for adults as well. Its reading list, which was compiled for adults and young people of college age has been enthusiastically taken up in the state and has been copied by New Hampshire, Vermont and Wisconsin.

A Social Relations Department has been organized, which shows promise of helping to create friendly relations with our neighbors of other nationalities. A splendid young people's leaflet has been published and nine District rallies for young people have been held. There have been eleven May Festivals for children in the different Districts. Copies of "Missionary Education in the Local Church" have been sent to each District with letters urging that additional copies be secured and used in the local churches.

The Pilgrim Hall Meetings which have been held the first Friday of each month, from October to May inclusive, have given a wide outlook on the work being done and have developed an increased consecration in view of the devoted lives of the men and women who are doing the work.

In spite of the fact that the semi-annual meeting of October 18–19, which it had been planned to hold in Haverhill, had to be changed because of the epidemic in infantile paralysis which was so severe in the fall, a largely attended and enthusiastic meeting was held in the Leyden and Harvard Churches, Brookline. The program was well planned and the smoothness with which each detail worked out gave evidence of the thoughtful preparation made by the women of the two churches.

The Bulletin has had a growing value in disseminating office news and plans through the state. This is evidenced from the increasing size of the issues as the women of the State have become acquainted with it.

The Golden Anniversary gift which is to be an offering of thankfulness for fifty years of woman's home missionary service, is nearing completion. Of the $25,000 which will be divided equally between the Schauffler Missionary Training School and Northland College, $17,370.76 had been contributed up to May 14, 1928, and it is confidently expected that the full amount will be secured before 1930, the end of the fifty years.

Something over thirteen hundred speaking appointments have been made by the secretaries in response to requests from churches and missionary societies. This is a valuable way of bringing the men and women who actually are doing the work in vital contact with those who must support them.

The Organization Committee has been effective in helping the Branches and Alliances of the state to become united as Districts. In January 1927, three Districts had been formed; now of the fourteen Alliances and Branches all but one have become so organized.

It was felt that by forming the Congregational Woman's Missionary Society of Massachusetts, all the women working together could most efficiently promote the work of missions whether in this country or across the seas, and there was constantly in mind the fact that we were working in close cooperation with the committees and executive officers of the State Conference.

We feel this has proved to be true and with the re-organization of the State Conference and Missionary Society it seems the suitable time for us to merge our society in the new State Conference and Missionary Society and become a department of that organization. In accordance with such an opinion at the March meeting of the Board of Directors, on recommendation of the Organization Committee, it was voted: That this society become an integral part of the State Conference and Missionary Society.

As the Congregational Woman's Missionary Society of Massachusetts becomes merged in the State Conference and Missionary Society it loyally accepts the policy of the denomination and with courage and enthusiasm looks forward to increasing power for building the Kingdom of God on earth.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON MISSIONS AND APPORTIONMENT

A glance at the figures given later in this report shows that the total gifts for the year 1927 amount to $661,430.95, a falling off from the previous year's givings of $20,834. Owing, however, to belated returns, the actual decline is reduced to about $12,000. In view of the fact that the machinery of our system of benevolences has been so recently and so radically modified, and that in many cases the local church has not become sufficiently familiar with the replacement to use it efficiently, we have little cause for discouragement over the results. For three hundred years we have been growing the independent, self-initiative mind and now we are giving ourselves to the nurture of the coöperative soul. We expect the growth to be slow; "the full corn in the ear" will be somewhat late, but the life juices are healthy, the soil is rich, the nurture constant and loving. Truly the Merger is an accomplished fact, and we now have, so far as local church giving is concerned, only the three divisions of the apportionment to keep in mind: State, Home, and Foreign. As givers we have only three percentages to keep in mind. Our church treasurers have only one receiving treasurer to do business with, Rev. Oliver D. Sewall, Treasurer of Benevolences, 14 Beacon Street, Boston. So, in the words of Principal Jacks, if we are thinking merely in space and not in time, the Merger is accomplished, the almost superhuman efforts of the Committee of Twelve have effected the new organization, and all the necessary officers, directors, trustees, and committees are functioning more or less efficiently; but because we have placed the Merger on the map, let us not as Congregationalists feel that our major task is finished. We must not leave it a monumental affair, memorializing a once glorious effort, but we must make it live and thrive in time. The devoted band of "missionary-minded" — and why not all Congregationalists missionary-minded? — must, through continuing and faithful and skilful service, pour an ever increasing stream of life into the great merger plan. At just the test hour, when the initiative of the local church seemed fading and dissolving into a centralized system dominating from above, say from 14 Beacon Street or from 287 Fourth Avenue, there came to the rescue the project-contact method, whereby the local church givers could reach out into the State, Home, and Foreign fields, seize upon specific tasks, learn about them, weave their Christ-like affections into them, and give their money for them. Not all the District Associations succeeded last year in introducing the project method into every constituent church. Some did, however, and the results in many of the city churches and in almost all the country churches were increased missionary interest and giving. Very valuable service furthering the introduction and understanding of the projects has been given by the project-committees of the several districts of the Congregational Woman's Missionary Society of Massachusetts, and especially by the painstaking secretaries in our state office in Boston. It is imperatively necessary, however, if the project money is to be applied promptly and efficiently, that the local church send to our Field Secretary, Rev. Asa M. Parker, 14 Beacon Street, Boston, a list of the projects adopted by the church. This list should be sent just as early in the year as possible, certainly not later than the time of the first quarterly payment. The State Office will then see that the money is forwarded to the several Boards to be applied to the projects designated by the local church.

The summary of gifts by Associations shows that gains have been made by Andover, Essex South, Hampshire, Hampshire East, Mendon, and Woburn. The giving was practically stationary in Barnstable, Middlesex South, Middlesex Union, Suffolk North, and Worcester North. No Associations reached their assumed quotas.

Some churches have been fearful that project money did not count on the Apportionment. It does so count. The project is but a personalizing and humanizing of the Apportionment. If a church adopts projects as suggested either by the State office or by Association committees, it will in meeting these projects insure the distribution of its givings strictly according to the percentages allotted the three boards, State, Home, and Foreign.

May we call to the attention of the churches a quotation from the Plan of Promotion adopted by the Commission on Missions as follows:

"A further step . . . is suggested for consideration, as practised by several of the large churches in the East, where as a genuine help in The Every Member Canvass, the entire list of donors with the amounts subscribed and paid, is posted publicly for the knowledge of all supporters of the church."

We make the following recommendations for the year 1929:

I. That the assignment of $1,087,500 to the state of Massachusetts by the Commission on Missions be recognized as the state's fair share of the $5,000,000 goal, and that a determined effort be made to raise the amount assumed by the churches.

II. That the gifts collected and not designated by the donors for specific objects be divided among the societies on the following basis: American Board 42%; Congregational Home Boards 43½%; state of Massachusetts 14½%.

III. That the Conference recommend to the consideration of the churches the "so called step-up plan in the local church." The plan is:

> "that in connection with the Every Member Canvass a study should be made of the individual subscriptions for the purpose of finding as many subscribers as possible to whom it would be appropriate to go with a definite challenge substantially to advance the subscriptions which such members have been in the habit of making."

In explanation the Commission on Missions states that "this is being done by community chests throughout the country and by some of our churches. This is important inasmuch as standards of giving have a way of becoming fixed, while resources may be rapidly increasing."

IV. That the Conference give its endorsement to the manual entitled "Missionary Education in the Local Church," and furthermore that it ask the churches that have not adopted better plans to consider seriously the plans suggested in the manual.

V. That the statement adopted by the Commission on Missions and entitled, "The Christian's Use of His Money" be stressed in our churches.

VI. That the Conference appropriate the sum of $500 for the expenses of the committee to be used if needed.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON FEDERATION OF CHURCHES AND CO-OPERATION WITH OTHER DENOMINATIONS

The past year has been significant in some interesting developments. Several federations have been formed during the year, but it is apparent that there is more or less uneasiness manifested in the case of several federations which have been for some time in existence.

There is no such magic in merely federating two or three churches as to insure a strong, going, religious organization. The spirit in which the federation is begun is all important. The idea that two or three weak churches, comprising all the churches in a community, can come together and form one strong church simply by coming together, will have to be modified. The federation of weak churches will soon produce a weaker church than either of those uniting in it, unless there is a strong and positive purpose on the part of all to create and carry on a larger and better work than has heretofore been done in the community. The sense of general irresponsibility will sap the strength of the federation, unless there is something larger and finer to work for than merely keeping two church organizations alive.

It is beginning to be apparent, also, that churches too greatly separated in theological traditions have a difficult course before them when they federate, even though they make a fair start. It is a disturbing element in any church when people lose interest and fall away because they are dissatisfied with the minister's preaching, but in a federated church it is a more serious obstacle to success than in any single church; and when the objection is the theological background of the minister's preaching, a difficult situation is bound to arise. Not only does the church suffer from non-attendance or actual withdrawals of parishioners so disaffected, but the denominations concerned in the federation are apt to become critical of the federation. It is too much to say, doubtless, that certain combinations of churches cannot hope to succeed in a federation; but it is certainly true that there is at present less enthusiasm for federations involving churches wide apart theologically than there has been.

It should also be noted that the grace of consideration, and the willingness to see the other person's point of view, and the earnest desire to minister broadly to the religious condition of the community, are the essential factors wherever a federation is entered into.

It will not be surprising if in the near future there are more proposals for organic union of churches than there have been in the past. This is due partly to the influence of the Lausanne Conference and in part to the better working of a union as a community church, than of federation. A federated church can always be dissolved upon due notice, whereas a union church, though it may lack success, does not disintegrate into component parts. The chief difficulty in the way of a union church — and it is a very serious one — is the lack of any denominational connection, with its fostering care, its financial help in the earlier stages, and its direct relationship with great missionary interests. It is plain enough that missions are an asset to a church in the development of its life, and not a burden, as some people seem to think. For this reason most union churches have some unrelated missionary connections. But such union churches have a difficult road when it comes to raising money for the enlargement of the plant and for any building program.

It must not be overlooked, however, that the Christian young people of to-day are giving evidences that when they come into the control of the life of the churches, — perhaps in another generation, — the plan of union community churches will be in greater favor than now. The difficulty of going ahead with no denominational connection, and the further difficulty of handling endowments, which in many cases are left specifically for securing a church to a particular denomination, is a sufficient barrier to much union effort. Most of the union churches are new enterprises, and it is probable that this will continue to be the situation unless organic union takes place between denominations now nearest together in point of view of their polity and theological outlook. There are many conflicting interests. And there is the danger that the union church movement may give rise to a new denomination instead of decreasing denominationalism.

Attention is being quite widely called to the developments in Walpole, where the "United Church in Walpole" was organized in October, 1927. The essential facts in this unusual situation are that the Congregational, Methodist and Unitarian churches voted themselves out of existence, and the "United Church in Walpole" was formed to take the place of these three churches. These proceedings were from beginning to end the work of the townspeople. This action was taken without any promotion by outside Congregational influences. It was a town enterprise, and was carried through with enthusiasm. The church carried in the Congregational Year Book as the Congregational Church in Walpole, dating from 1826, ceased to exist when the United Church in Walpole was formed. It happens that the Congregational Church was the largest of the three, and it may be said that it did not need to unite with any other church since it was not dependent on outside aid in any way, but it entered heartily into the movement for what we may call a community church, though it did not take the actual initiative. We understand that the new union church is not planning to remain an independent union church, but that it will seek to become a Congregational Church and will apply for membership in the Suffolk South Association of Congregational Churches. It is perhaps not unnatural that there should be some feeling at this turn of affairs, but the whole procedure has been in the hands of the people of Walpole themselves, and they are said to be of one mind. That they should desire a connection with some denomination would seem to be due to the advantages which result. The same thing should be said and hold true if the people of Walpole had chosen to affiliate themselves with either one of the other two denominations which make up the United Church. In this instance it is decidedly manifest that no denomination has taken any unfair advantage.

The State Federation of Churches has been very efficiently conducted during the past year, and its influence in the religious life of the Commonwealth seems to be steadily growing. The expression of church federation in such large ways seems to be attained without those difficulties which are inevitable when it becomes a matter of two or three churches.

Several fine services are being rendered by the churches through the Massachusetts Federation, notably the ministering, through the institutions for consumptives at Rutland. The Massachusetts Federation has had, and is maintaining a decided influence in securing legislation and in the preventing the enactment of undesirable laws, by putting all their strength for or against measures where the undoubted moral influence of the people of the Commonwealth is behind the Federation. Much pressure comes upon the Federation to express itself with regard to a wide variety of legislation, but the wise policy of restraint continues in force. The Massachusetts Federation of Churches is a force for great good in the Commonwealth, when it is so exercised.

The annual meeting of the Massachusetts Federation at the First Congregational Church, Lynn, in October, was the most successful ever held by the Massachusetts Federation. It was not only well prepared and happily planned, with Dr. Cadman for the principal speaker, but there was large and genuine interest in the affairs of the Federation and in the function which it has for the promotion of the religious life of the Commonwealth. We note with deep regret the death of Secretary John J. Walker, who was a member of this Committee, and had for years been very influential in promoting the success of the Massachusetts Federation. His very wide knowledge of the history and condition of the churches of Massachusetts, his fine judgment, and his most gracious spirit, made him useful in the highest degree in the work promoted by this Committee. Successors of such men are not to be found for the asking. They must be developed through long years of devoted service. It is surely in point to say here what has been said in so many other quarters since his death last December, that Massachusetts has lost one of its finest servants in the ministry of the life of our churches.

Your Committee presents the two following recommendations, which are the same as in previous years:

I. That a committee on federation of churches and coöperation with other denominations be appointed to serve for the next Conference year, that this committee consist of five members, and that it be empowered to appoint the representatives of this Conference in the voting membership of the Massachusetts Federation of Churches for the year.

II. That the sum of $1,815 be appropriated for the support of the Federation for the next Conference year.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

The work of this committee for the past year has been carried on through these following divisions:

1. The Young People's State Rally.

The regular young people's conference, with banquet and evening meeting, was held in the afternoon and evening of Tuesday, May 17, in connection with the State Conference in Worcester. Discussion groups took up different topics of interest, while the afternoon addresses were delivered by Dr. D. Brewer Eddy and Dr. George L. Cady, — this part of the program proving to be such an attraction that many of the young people were unable to find seats. All of the plans for this conference were made by the executive committee of the State Committee of Young People, Mr. H. Eustis Bent, Chairman, with the coöperation of the Committee on Religious Education.

The Young People's rally for this spring is to be held at Greenfield on Tuesday afternoon and evening, May 22, — the program having been arranged by the young people with the help of our sub-committee, Miss Lorna Townsend, Professor Mayer and Mrs. Asa Parker. The principal addresses will be delivered by Dr. Timothy T. Lew and Rev. Vaughan Dabney, while discussion groups and the banquet will take up the rest of the time.

2. Week Day Religious Education.

The sub-committee on Week Day Religious Education has made a study based on 80 letters from pastors representative of different types of churches in the state, who replied to inquiries about their interest in week day work.

Only 4 reported such work, but 26 were heartily in favor of it, and 14 wished further information. The replies showed woeful ignorance of what is meant by week day work in contrast to the D.V.B.S., the club, the organized department and the Community Training School. Some regard it a rival of the church school! Help has been given those desiring it, a bibliography has been and is constantly being prepared, and will be sent to anyone asking for it. The Committee feels that while caution should be used in starting week day work prematurely, nevertheless lack of ideal conditions or of community coöperation should not prevent the local church from facing and attempting to solve its own particular problem by starting week day work.

3. Worship in the Sunday School.

A new task has been undertaken this past year in our work, in that of studying the problem of worship as it relates particularly to the different departments of the Sunday School. We feel that an important and hopeful start has been made in this matter and results can be seen in the inclusion of this subject on our State Program in the address of Dr. Stolz of Hartford, as well as in the effort to arouse interest in the subject by means of open discussion following this address. In addition a small leaflet has been prepared and has been sent out to the churches for the purpose of helping the local Pastor and Superintendent.

It is our hope that this work will be taken up again for another year and that more can be done on this vital problem. The sub-committee on Worship in the Sunday School is Rev. E. E. Aiken, Jr., and Miss Townsend.

4. Week-End Conferences of Young People.

Rallies of the young people of the associations or of districts have been held during the year, — some in connection with the Association Conferences and others separate from them. A sub-committee has been working on this matter, trying to keep in touch with the situation in the districts and sponsoring young people's rallies and meetings. Copies of a pamphlet secured from the New York State Conference on "The Week-End Conference" have been obtained and may be had by writing to the secretary of our Committee on Religious Education, Miss Ruth Richards.

5. Regional Conferences.

One regional conference was held during the year, similar to the ones the year before at Middleboro and Lawrence. The meeting was held in the South Church of Springfield on the afternoon and evening of December 8, the general theme being, "Problems of Religious Education within the Local Church." Addresses were given by Rev. Erwin L. Shaver, Mr. G. H. Roehrig, Dr. Sidney A. Weston, and Rev. F. W. Adams. In spite of certain difficulties and handicaps, this conference proved to be much worth while to those who were present.

Our committee has used this method of trying to reach the local church through its representatives, and thus to extend the influence and effect of our work. Whatever have been the results of this line of endeavor, we believe that it must be our aim to bring this subject forcefully to the individual churches and leaders.

The sub-committee on Regional Conferences is Rev. George E. Brown and Mrs. Manley F. Allbright.

In addition to these activities carried on during the year our committee has planned for two conferences to be held in connection with the State meetings in Greenfield. One is to be a meeting of the Religious Education committees of the local associations, for the purpose of discussing plans, suggestions or methods of procedure that will advance the cause of Religious Education in the local church, and to work out a proposed plan of unified action for our State during the year ahead. The tentative time set for this meeting is 5.00 o'clock, Monday P.M., May 21, for one hour, the place to be announced at the general afternoon Conference session. This group will be under the leadership of Rev. Charles C. Keith.

The other conference is to be a Round Table Luncheon for all those interested in the general subject of Religious Education, with a speaker and an opportunity for discussion. Further details will be planned later and announced at the general meeting in Greenfield. Rev. George E. Brown will be in charge of this group.

The State Committee of Religious Education recommends an appropriation of $300 for the work of the committee for the ensuing year.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON MORAL AND SOCIAL WELFARE

Your committee recognizes that there are many aspects of social ethics which it might well call to the attention of the State Conference and that at many points this world is out of step with those Christian ideals which to us are sacred and compelling.

But believing that certain definite moral and social problems should be brought to the Conference for its consideration, your committee, in this year 1928, would stress the following:

The Corruption of Our Political Life

There are many indications that much of our political life is corrupt and abundant proof that many of the men active in our national affairs are dull of conscience and weak of will, proving themselves to be but poor leaders of a great people, and of this, the revelations regarding contributions to the campaign funds of the Republican party is a finely sad example.

It is very plain that our need in state and nation is for a finer leadership by men of unselfishness and integrity, and by men with honest purposes and high ideals.

> Tall men, sun-crowned who live above the fog,
> In public duty and in private thinking.

With a renewed devotion and with a deeper searching of our own hearts we must seek to give ourselves more fully to the task of creating the spirit in which such leadership will be demanded and by which such leadership will be produced.

On this we recommend a resolution which will make clear our convictions — and that the secretary of the Conference be instructed to send copies to all national Senators and Representatives from this Commonwealth.

The Outlawing of War

We earnestly endorse the efforts which are being made by our State Department in Washington to bring about a multilateral treaty among the leading nations of the world to outlaw war.

We are not able to see that these efforts necessarily or essentially are opposed to the main objects of the League of Nations, but we believe if successful, are destined to give the League of Nations an immeasurably increased influence for international coöperation.

In view of these advances on the part of our American Government, we deprecate and deplore military and naval gestures which, in the eyes of the world, give the lie to our best efforts for peace and international goodwill. We are thoroughly opposed to the proposals for huge naval appropriations which have been recently offered by some naval officials, and are heartily in sympathy with the disposition already shown by our American Congress to vastly curtail these designs as unreasonable, unwarranted, and dangerous, both to our own national safety, and the peace of the world.

Your committee hopes that the Conference will adopt resolutions which will place it unmistakably on the side of peace.

The Lord's Day and Proposed Legislation

Much of the greatness and glory of Massachusetts can be traced back to the godly men who founded the Commonwealth. From the beginning they turned aside from labor on the Lord's Day, not to engage in the pursuit of pleasure, but to engage in worship and to instruct their children in ways of virtue. As a result of such ideals and such convictions exercised and cherished, the blessing of God has been enjoyed by the people of this region.

With the coming in of aliens and with the gradual weakening of Christian sentiment, business and pleasure have pushed their way more and more into the day which was originally devoted to rest and worship and Christian nurture. The results of this changed attitude toward the Lord's Day are already apparent in the growing lawlessness which prevails and in the demand that the churches increase their efforts to increase honesty, sobriety and virtue among the people. Golf-playing business men want the church to supply them with honest, faithful, reliable boys on Mondays after they have decoyed boys away from Sunday School to serve them as caddies at country clubs on Sundays.

And now come the promoters of professional sports demanding that the laws be changed for their benefit, so that they can assemble great crowds of men and boys on the Lord's Day for the sake of making large profits on their sporting investments. The editor of the Boston Post in a strong editorial has described these men as caring nothing for sport and nothing for Sunday, but as caring very much for money and putting out strenuous efforts to turn Sunday into "a sporting hippodrome" for their own profit. When the editor of a great daily thus describes the men who would push religion out of the way by pushing their own commercial interests into the day, the people of the churches should be roused to condemn this selfish effort.

We recommend that the resolution which was passed a year ago at our annual conference be renewed and sent out to the churches of Massachusetts and to the press.

The Ending of the Cursed Drink

It now seems probable that the people of this state will be spared the necessity of voting on a futile prohibition referendum. Nevertheless we urge the members of our churches to sustained interest in this great question; steadfast opposition to violations of the law; the encouragement of all officials in efforts to enforce it; acquaintance with the favorable, as well as unfavorable, facts in the situation and the unremitting teaching of the injurious effects of the use of alcohol in any form or amounts as a beverage. Let us be on our guard against the subtle wet propaganda. The law is being enforced, as well, probably, as many other laws. It can and will be better enforced if public sentiment demands it. Every one of us can help to make this sentiment. We should not seem to admit either that the prohibition laws are bad laws or that these laws cannot be reasonably enforced.

On this appropriate resolutions are recommended.

Absentee Church Membership

Our denomination has no definite standard regarding a reasonable limit of time within which members moving from one community to another should transfer their membership to the Church in the new locality where they have taken up their residence, and a definite standard is necessary to which reference may be made, even if it contains no compelling authority.

Your committee suggests that the following standards be adopted:

1. The Massachusetts Congregational Conference expects its members moving from one community to another to transfer their membership to the local Church in the community of their new residence within one year, unless unusual circumstances make it inadvisable to do so, in which case members shall be expected to indicate their interest in the Church where their membership is retained by a communication each year with that Church or by at least a nominal contribution.

2. If, however, members of Congregational Churches fail to conform to this standard, when a period of more than two years has elapsed, either the Church where their membership is retained, or the Church in the locality where they have taken up their residence, or both, may inform the Secretary of the Massachusetts Congregational Conference, at the same time forwarding the names and addresses of such members. The Secretary shall then send a printed copy of this standard of membership transfer and also the following form letter, properly filled in, to such members, thus avoiding offense or embarrassment to the local churches and members:

Mr. (or Mrs.) . . .

The Church of Christ cherishes her children. You are a child of the Church in the communion at . . . . Having committed yourself in a solemn and sacred pledge to the upbuilding and usefulness of the church, to help in maintaining its worship, activities and charities, and to live with its members in Christian love, we now in the spirit of Christ urge and entreat you, according to our Congregational standard, to meet your obligations in the Church of which you are now a member, or to transfer your membership to the Church in the Community where you now reside. This is the least that Christian love can reasonably ask and the least that you as a professed member of the Church of Christ can reasonably give.

Faithfully yours in the service of Christ,

Stoning the Prophets

We believe that sound measures for general betterment and for increased happiness of all the people can only come out of frank and open discussion and criticism of every institution in our social order, and that any curtailment of freedom of speech and of the press (except for libelous matter already sufficiently provided against by law) is a direct menace to the continued enjoyment of our present liberties and a dangerous barrier in the way of further progress toward a more general enjoyment of the fruits of our common endeavors. By a strange confusion of class welfare for the general welfare, self-appointed censors of public utterances are striking from the dark at our religious and social leaders, seeking, in the name of a false patriotism, to silence the voices of experienced and able men and women whose only desire is to extend the blessings of our civilization to all classes and conditions of men and thus to make our government more secure as well as more Christian.

We therefore register our firm disapproval of these efforts on the part of individuals and organizations to secure the suppression of honest opinion through the circulation of so-called "black lists," and other vicious and un-American interference with free speech. We urge upon the Churches that they guard zealously the freedom of speech won for us by the Fathers of the American Revolution and written by them into the Constitution of our beloved country. We would remind these misguided people that they are forging a weapon which may be wielded as easily against them as for them, that eventually both security and prosperity will only be found along the road that leads to the common good. As Churches of Christ we are determined to defend our heritage of Christian liberty, for upon it rests the very existence of a prophetic Church and ministry.

Your committee hopes that these paragraphs are pertinent enough to arouse earnest and friendly discussion, and to result in the adoption of resolutions which will set forth plainly the judgment and the conscience of this body of Christian men and women.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON THE RELATION BETWEEN THE COLLEGES AND THE CHURCHES

For the fifth successive year, a Committee on Relations between Colleges and the Churches offers its report to the Massachusetts Conference. For the third successive year, the major portion of the Wednesday morning session has been assigned to this committee, as far as providing a program goes; and for the second successive year it was the Program Committee which took the initiative, rather than this committee.

The first report, that of May, 1924, filled twenty-five pages with matter of such importance that were it available to-day it would be in use all over our country. That report might well be revised and then be reprinted. President Kenyon L. Butterfield was chairman in that year, when heavy virgin soil was to be plowed. Each year since then the committee of that year has worked hard at its task, realizing that our college students simply must be given an adequate presentation of real Christianity, and that our churches must present a life and a teaching which college leaders shall come to feel is indispensable.

This year's special task has been the preparation of a pamphlet, with the title, "Why I Believe in the Christian Church," a compilation of statements of convictions of Massachusetts educators. This pamphlet is patterned after that one in which leading scientists voiced their tribute to the everlasting reality and value of our Christian religion. The Congregational Education Society will make this pamphlet available for use throughout the United States. Its spirit is reflected in the following selections.

"Why I Attend and Support the Church"

Because in union there is strength.
Because communion brings health of the spirit.
Because I like to worship in a worshipful atmosphere.
Because it offers a welcome opportunity to take account of spiritual stock.
Because a reinvigorated Church of God is the chief means of helping man satisfy his inherent desire to live as the Divine Will originally ordered.

R. B. FARNUM,
Massachusetts School of Art, Boston

The Christian Church, in spite of former and present failures to realize the ideals of its Founder, yet offers within its varied groupings the most effective opportunity for men of diverse beliefs, tastes, and emotions to replenish at frequent intervals the spiritual elements in their natures, and to strengthen in one another, by a common devotion to essentially common principles, that sense of the reality of the unseen, which is otherwise so hard to maintain in an age nearsightedly intent upon material things. And, despite the coldness of heart of single churches or their members, the outstanding fact remains that from within the communities organized for the love and worship of God have sprung, directly or indirectly, nearly all the successful agencies in which man has expressed his love for his fellow men and striven to make their lives nobler.

Amherst College, ARTHUR STANLEY PEASE
Amherst, Massachusetts.

"Why I Attend and Support the Church"

The Christian Church fosters the spirit of worship and the ideals of unselfish service without which life is meaningless and incomplete. I find immense satisfaction in scientific study. But just as one appreciates better a work of art if he knows and understands the motive of the artist, so do I find keener satisfaction in studying the laws of nature and their manifestations in the physical world about us if I recognize and reverence their Author and Creator.

Further, in thirty years of experience in choosing men to fill important positions as college teachers, I have invariably found that, with other qualifications equal, the consistent church member with an instinctive motive of unselfish service, is by far the most satisfactory man to accept. There can be no doubt that the Christian Church exerts a potent influence for good upon its adherents.

R. W. THATCHER, M. A. C.

"Why I Believe in the Christian Church"

I believe that men are made in such a way that they can know what is true and do what is right only by sharing in the life of the living purpose which is creating and directing the world of which they are part.

Such sharing in the life of God is to some degree unescapable by any man, good, bad, wise or stupid. But through certain human institutions man has made and found a way to increase his share in God's life. The college and the church are two such institutions I believe, especially the Christian Church.

Therefore I believe in them both but especially in the church.

RICHARD C. CABOT

There is no doubt in my mind that "the Christian Church, in spite of its defects and mistakes, is nevertheless a necessary and most worth-while institution sincere in purpose and worthy of the continued confidence and support of intelligent people."

Elimination is often a forceful way of pressing home a truth. The experience of a community in which there is no church is an indication of what the life of the nation would be without it.

MARY E. WOOLLEY

The boy or girl who grows up without any association with the church misses something very interesting. The group of men and women vitally interested in church life is a group very well worth knowing. The more one comes into contact with various associations of people united in the interest of trade or public institutions the more one feels that the church has attracted somehow much of the best of human nature into its fellowship. There is more unselfishness and cleanness of imagination and devotion to ideal causes in the church than in any other group of people one is likely to find.

When a real love of beauty is added to these fine qualities church becomes a thrilling matter entwined with the past memories of youth. My advice to young people is that they should find a church that speaks to them, interests them, and inspires them, and that they should connect themselves with it and find in that relationship one of the most real experiences of life.

J. EDGAR PARK, President
Wheaton College, Norton, Massachusetts

The Franklin County Ministers Club spent a day at Greenfield discussing the relation of the colleges and the churches, the chairman of this committee serving as leader of the discussion.

During the past five years The Congregationalist has published an amazing number of articles dealing in one aspect or another with the subject which this committee has at heart. The number of such articles in the best magazines is highly significant. In the March number of the "Atlantic," President Bernard Iddings Bell, D.D., has an article entitled "The Church and the Undergraduate." The chairman has made a collection of articles under similar, or under related titles and their number is legion. Certainly there is a growing conviction that Rev. Gail Cleland, PH.D., pastor of our church in Concord, is justified in the use of his daring title "The Supreme Task of the Church To-day," his article asserting in its sub-title that the "supreme task" is "Meeting the Varied Needs of the College Communities." (The Congregationalist, October 20, 1927).

We have encouraged the holding of meetings at which speakers representing colleges speak on the same platform with speakers representing churches that the ideal relationship which ought to exist between these institutions shall be more adequately and generally sensed.

Congregational University Workers

The Congregational university workers, meeting in Chicago in January, expressed judgment that religious work among students is more difficult than it has been in five or six years. While this represented the experience of leaders in institutions having no denominational affiliation, it is probable that their statement is true to the general student situation in America. The following are some of the reasons for this disturbing condition.

1. Student life is coming to be more and more crowded, both curricular and extra-curricular activities. The days are just so long; a week's program cannot include everything. Unless young people come to college with a firm conviction that religion is something that must not be sidetracked, that the church is an interest which must be adhered to under all circumstances, the chances are that they will drop religious activities for some more thrilling and popular form of campus activity. The time to solve many of our campus problems is when the young people are still children or high school students. It takes a great appreciation of religion and a firm loyalty to the church to withstand the allurements of the social whirl.

2. Comparatively few students do go to college with such convictions and enthusiasms. The group in Chicago agreed that nominal allegiance to the church and some experience in singing in the choir constituted the extent of the student's sense of "belonging," the degree of his dependence upon the church and the church's dependence upon him. One hopeful note was struck, however. It was that, in spite of the general difficulty of student work, each year a small nucleus of young people were coming from the home churches with more understanding and training than was the case half a dozen years ago. This was taken to be evidence of the fact that some of the churches are carrying on more vital types of high school programs and that the summer conferences for high school young people are already showing tangible results at the college age.

3. Perhaps the most serious factor is the cynicism and indifference of a minority of the faculty members upon almost every college campus. Most of the older professors are consistent Christians; their loyalty to the church is pronounced. It does not take many of the other type, however, to influence students negatively. Students, speaking generally, do not think clearly or deeply for themselves; spectacular statements by brilliant young professors who have "a way with students" win a cock-sure following. It is not a conflict between dogmatic theology and open-minded rationalism; it is as likely to be an ignoring of open-minded theological thinking in favor of cynical dogmatism. The Christian faculty member is the greatest asset which any institution has; freedom of thinking and speech should be assured to professors; but the college which believes in Christian ideals wants to be careful of the disposition, temper, and life habits of those who are invited to join the faculty. One outspoken destructionist often outweighs, for the time being, in the superficial thinking and living of the majority of students, the unostentatious living of several Christian scholars.

4. It must be admitted that students often find ground for the unsparing criticism that they make of the program of the college church. Usually it is undermanned, under-financed, and its vision and outreach are consequently limited. The able minister finds the regular duties of his large local parish so demanding that he cannot make a major interest of the student population. It is difficult to secure volunteer workers, both trained and genuinely interested in helping students "find themselves and God" through study, worship and work. Increasingly we must assist these college churches to give specialized service of the highest type to the students who are temporarily a part of their parish.

Young people want real help in arriving at standards. They want to "discover God" and to build their own codes. But they are constantly following adult leadership without realizing it. Unless the church provides competent and attractive leaders they will follow the campus iconoclasts. The home church must help by assisting the young people of high school age to win a sound world view, and to establish intelligent loyalties to the fundamental verities. The college and the college church should assist in strengthening this loyalty and in leading the student into a fuller understanding of the truths of life. This involves the selection of the best possible personnel for faculty members, the development of a curriculum which makes religion an essential and integral part of cultural development, and the creation of a campus atmosphere which is frankly and courageously Christian.

On the side of religious beliefs, we must have a Christian apologetic which takes account of the truths which science and psychology have discovered and which denies the untruths which certain scientists and psychologists have announced. We have no quarrel with the physical sciences and psychology. But a physicist or a psychologist who speaks dogmatically regarding religion has wandered into a realm where he cannot speak authoritatively — at least no more authoritatively than the theologian, unless he has a keener understanding and a more genuine appreciation and experience of religion than the theologian has. When a scientist leaves analysis and description and moves into the realm of cosmic interpretation and general prediction he has gone into the world of philosophy and theology, even though he scoffs at philosophers and theologians. Certain modern schools of psychology, for instance, are new religions. Christianity is not in conflict with psychology as such, but it must be ready to give a keen account of itself when a new psychology has become a competing religion. For example, Christianity must be able to understand the grounds upon which some scientists espouse materialism and the reason why behaviorism makes such a wide appeal. And, understanding these, it must be ready to aid students to build a faith and theology of their own which does not ignore the facts for which Christianity stands and which are so often misunderstood or left out of account in modern discussions.

Most students know something about behaviorism. It seems quite plausible; there is much in it that is sound, its method is not all bad, but as a religion the cult of Dr. Watson is dangerous and arid. All leaders of young people should be equipped in these days to discuss intelligently with students the values and limitations of behaviorism. A brief examination of Dr. Watson's viewpoint, by Professor A. C. McGiffert, Jr., in the January issue of "The Chicago Theological Seminary Register" should be at hand for perplexed students interested in making an impartial study of the question. This article points out the fact that behaviorism is more deterministic than Calvinism ever was, that it leaves out of account a wide range of facts usually called spiritual, that its mechanistic doctrine fails to take account of any purposiveness in the universe, that behaviorism scoffs at philosophy as it does at theology and at the same time offers a new one which ignores the best and newest in both science and philosophy.

A little pamphlet, "Why I Do Not Believe in Materialism," by William Adams Brown (American Institute of Sacred Literature, Chicago, 3 cents, two dollars for a hundred) will be of great assistance to the busy pastor. It is the kind of leaflet which students will read and respect; it may also be used as the basis of study and discussion. Such major points as these are at the very heart of Christianity's answer to the materialist, an answer which too few students have had an opportunity to hear or consider: materialism cannot account for personality, it cannot account for moral sympathies, it does not account for the materialist himself, it does not help in the problem of evil, it cannot be practiced.

A brief bibliography is here suggested, all of these materials being somewhat popular in their character and therefore useful for general work among students who need to understand general principles and tendencies rather than detailed treatises: "Religion and Modern Life" (a series of lectures given to Harvard students); "What May I Believe?" Soper; "Christianity for Today," Hill; "The Bearing of Psychology Upon Religion," Elliott; the January, February and April issues of "Religious Education"; and the entire pamphlet series of the American Institute of Sacred Literature.

Rev. Dr. Wicks and Princeton

Our Massachusetts churches are keenly interested in the innovation made by Princeton University in appointing a Dean of Religion, and they feel highly honored that Princeton came to Holyoke, Massachusetts, to find a leader for this educational adventure. The movement is of such importance to all of the colleges that we quote Dr. Wicks' own statement of this opportunity as he views it.

"Something over two months ago a committee representing the board of trustees of Princeton University approached me with the offer of a newly created position in that university to help meet the religious situation which is so much a matter of concern in all our colleges today. The offer was declined. The committee however renewed the invitation and weeks of discussion ensued.

"In conferences with members of the board of trustees, with the president and deans and a large number of the faculty, it became plain that there was a growing conviction among these officials of the institution that the time had come for a thorough reconsideration of the place of religion in college life. The increase of administrative duties with the growth of the colleges more and more prevents the president from making those personal contacts with students which were in former days such a power for good. Voluntary student organizations with a lay secretary have been of service in directing student activities but they fall short of the help that is most needed. More and more it is realized that religion is one of the major interests which cannot be left as a separate and detached activity, but which must be recognized as an integral part of the college program as a whole.

"To meet this problem Princeton University has decided to create a new office in its administration. Already there is a dean of the faculty who has charge of academic matters, a dean of the college who handles questions of discipline and a dean of freshmen who oversees the admission of students. Now there is to be in addition a dean of religion who will also be minister of the college chapel. It is this position which has been offered to me. So far as I know, this particular plan is unique in the college world and has therefore greatly appealed to me as an outstanding religious adventure.

The appeal has been strengthened by the fact that the students themselves have expressed a desire for a development of this kind.

"The work will involve some teaching and a course on the method of working out one's own religious convictions will be offered to underclassmen. At the same time there will be a chance for the kind of work which was done at Mount Holyoke College in the informal conversations with groups of students. To facilitate these informal contacts a home for the minister is to be provided in the country just on the edge of the town where students can come for fireside conversations. In addition to this will be the main task of organizing the work of the college chapel. A remarkable Gothic building is just being finished. It is one of Ralph Adams Cram's masterpieces and is considered one of the finest chapels in the country. It seats two thousand people. Its great chancel affords an opportunity for developing the kind of choirs that are becoming famous in Harvard and Yale. The minister of this chapel will do considerable preaching and will call in a board of preachers chosen from among the leading clergymen of the country. Once a month he will be free to go out in other colleges and churches. Just how the religious work of the college will be organized around this chapel will depend on the coöperation of the students. If their interest can be enlisted the possibilities are open for working toward a college church untrammeled by denominational limitations and free to experiment in building up the kind of institution which the younger generation would like to see duplicated in the communities to which they go after graduation. The entire scheme is one which cannot be prescribed in advance but which must be worked out through close coöperation with the students themselves."

This committee is deeply thankful that the interest in securing more ideal relationships between our colleges and our churches is deepening steadily. We are grateful for the words of appreciation and of encouragement which reveal earnest belief in this effort. We ask that the election of a Committee on Relations between the Colleges and the Churches be authorized, said committee to serve for the coming conference year, and that for the use of such a committee the same sum be appropriated as was granted for our use during this conference year.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON EVANGELISM

The Committee on Evangelism, at its one meeting, organized for action, and endorsed a letter to be sent, first to each Association scribe, and later to those churches reporting successful Evangelistic effort. The committee is aware of widely differing views on this subject among our churches. We desire such material derived from the experience of our churches as will offer practical plans for both rural and city work. We ask the pastors to use this committee as a clearing house.

Meantime we would endorse the Campaigns of Personal Evangelism as recommended by the Massachusetts Federation of Churches, as successfully carried out by a group of Worcester churches in January.

We shall appreciate the coöperation of all churches whose effort resulted in stronger faith and clearer vision to the present membership and in an intelligent acceptance of Jesus Christ as Lord on the part of prospective members.

AN APPEAL FROM THE SPECIAL COMMITTEE ON CONFERENCE WORSHIP

The present desire for reality in Worship is so pronounced that this special committee appointed last Spring "to suggest ways and means of magnifying and improving the devotional spirit" at the State Conferences, "in coöperation with the Program Committee," realizes that its task will be a very simple one.

The question seems to be, — How shall the representatives of 605 Congregational Churches, assembled in Annual Conference, make the most of their opportunities for Worship? How may a company of free and independent souls, who think of themselves as a priesthood of believers, help one another to so practice the Presence of God in their annual gathering, that each delegate will return to his home with a renewed sense of the significance of his own church and task in the Eternal Plan, a fresh faith in the redemptive power of the Christian Religion, and a more vital appreciation of the enriching fellowship of kindred minds, knit together by a noble adventure?

A few suggestions will doubtless commend themselves generally: —

1. There must be a Common Desire. If Committees and Business, Addresses and Sociability, are more to be desired than Meditation, Communion, and Worship, then the Assembly for Prayer will be neglected.

2. A United Determination of the part on Delegates, Ushers, the Program Committee, Moderator, Entertaining Church, Sexton, and Chaplain, to give Worship the place of honor and the right of way and to safeguard the hour and place against all intrusions and hostile happenings.

3. An Adequate Form of Congregational Expression with special emphasis upon the singing of appropriate hymns by the entire congregation.

4. A Note of Worthy Purpose and Definite Aim which tends to blend the several devotional periods into a harmonious whole.

Perhaps the hour should be changed as in the National Council program so that worship becomes a finale and a climax rather than a prelude. The time might be lengthened from 15 minutes to 20 or 30.

The program committee have shown an excellent spirit of coöperation in endeavoring to carry out some of our main suggestions, and have asked a member of the special committee to act as chaplain at Greenfield. The worship committee urge upon every delegate the need, not only of faithful and prompt attendance upon the devotional periods, especially the Communion service on Monday evening, but of prayerful and sympathetic coöperation in making these Quiet Hours memorable for the strength and help which they supply.

"Why, therefore, should we do ourselves this wrong
Or others, that we are not always strong:
. . . . . When with us is prayer
And joy and strength and courage are with Thee?"

REPORT OF THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

The Executive Committee has held but one formal meeting during the year, and the business transacted was chiefly of a routine nature. It happens for this conference year that a majority of the committee attends the monthly meetings of the trustees of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, Moderator Bigelow, Assistant Registrar Packard and Treasurer Miller as trustees, Secretary Bailey and Mrs. Harvey as president of the Woman's Missionary Society ex officiis but without voting privilege. The committee therefore has been in constant touch with matters affecting the denominational interests in the state.

Mr. Packard and Mr. Bacon were appointed Finance Committee. The treasurer's bond for $5,000 was ordered renewed; and it was voted that a bond for $10,000 be written for the Treasurer of Benevolences if after investigation Mrs. Harvey shall find that the present bond does not cover or cannot be made to cover the situation. Voted further that in case of need Mrs. Harvey have authority to change the amount of the bond to a suitable figure.

Charles P. Frail of Newtonville was elected to membership on the Auditing Committee. The resignation of Rev. Vaughan Dabney from the Program Committee was accepted and Rev. Benjamin A. Willmott of Athol was elected in his stead. The secretary was authorized to fill committee vacancies occurring during the year. Under this authority he has appointed Rev. Edwin E. Aiken, Jr., of Dorchester and Rev. Charles C. Keith of Roxbury to the Committee on Religious Education in place of Rev. E. G. Bewkes, removed from the state, and Rev. G. W. Owen, resigned.

A letter from Rev. Eric I. Lindh of Quincy was presented, touching the fellowship relations of our Swedish churches. After discussion Mr. Packard was delegated to take up the matter with the Home Missionary trustees.

For the Committee,
FRANCIS J. MARSH, Registrar

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON REORGANIZATION

At the annual meeting of the Massachusetts Congregational Conference May, 1926, held at Dorchester, the outstanding action of the session was the unanimous vote appointing a special representative committee of thirteen

> "to consider and report to the 1927 meeting what changes, if any, are necessary in the organization of the State Conference to meet new conditions that have arisen in recent years."

This Committee, after thorough consideration, reported at the 1927 meeting in Worcester unanimously recommending certain important changes, all of which were put into effect by the unanimous vote of the Conference.

Upon the question of the incorporation of the Conference this Committee made no recommendation, but outlined the situation fully and submitted it for the consideration of the Conference, at the same time stating that:

> "The Committee is of the opinion that if the organization of the national work is carried out in accordance with the present plans, and if Massachusetts is to do its part as it should, the State Conference must be developed into an incorporated body with a board of directors and executive officers who will act throughout the year in matters having to do with common enterprises of the Congregational Churches of Massachusetts."

The State Conference, after thorough discussion of this suggestion of the Committee voted unanimously to become an incorporated body, and appointed a Committee of Five with instructions "to devise a plan for the use of the charter of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society for the joint purposes of the Conference and the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, and to take the necessary steps to carry this plan into effect."

The Committee so authorized consists of Rev. Raymond Calkins, of Cambridge, Chairman; Rev. Horace F. Holton, Brockton; Harold Stearns Davis, Esq., Boston; Mrs. Elbert A. Harvey, Brookline; and Mrs. F. C. Brigham, Springfield.

This Committee has given great care to the fulfillment of its duties, the main question under consideration at its repeated sessions being the character and scope of the amendments required to the charter of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society to make it thoroughly serviceable for both the State Conference and the Home Missionary Society when legally united as one incorporated body. This involved also the new by-laws required by such corporation, the status of the women's work and the relationship of the Missionary and Apportionment Committee to the corporation, and the preservation unimpaired of the services rendered the churches by both the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society and the Conference.

The first proceeding of the Committee was the drafting of the amended charter and securing its adoption by act of the Legislature. The new charter was enacted in March with the provision that to become effective it must be accepted before December 31, 1928.

Since the new charter is in form an amended charter of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, it must first come before that Society at its annual meeting in connection with this year's annual session of the State Conference at Greenfield, May 21–23. Since, also, the whole matter would fail if the Home Missionary Society did not accept the amendments to its charter, the question of its acceptance will come first in order at the annual business meeting of the Home Missionary Society, and that meeting is to be called for Monday afternoon, immediately after the opening of the State Conference, instead of Tuesday afternoon as in other years. The trustees of the Home Missionary Society have already voted to recommend the adoption of the charter, as amended, and the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society at its annual meeting will vote to accept the charter, in all probability, since there has been no opposition from any quarter. The new by-laws by which the combined functions of the State Conference and Home Missionary Society are exercised in one united organization will also come before the Home Missionary Society for acceptance upon the recommendation of its Board of Trustees.

Should favorable action result, the only remaining action required to give full effect to joint incorporation of both the State Conference and Massachusetts Home Missionary Society will be a vote by the Conference to accept the charter on its own behalf, and thereby becoming under the act of the Legislature "The Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society."

For the Committee,
RAYMOND CALKINS, Chairman

EXPLANATORY

The tables which follow comprise:

1. The statistics of the churches, giving the ministers, church membership, additions, removals, Sunday schools, and the amount of benevolences and expenses. These tables, in accordance with the vote of the Conference, in 1887, are made to conform to those in the Year Book; but names in the pastoral column are changed according to the latest information before going to press.

2. The Associations of the churches, with the names of officers and the times of meeting.

3. The Ministerial Standing, giving the date of ordination of each minister, the date of membership, the residence and his "employment." "P. C." means pastor by council; "P.," pastor otherwise; "W. C." means without church; other abbreviations are self-evident. "W. C.," however, includes many who have retired from active service, and some who are in business.

4. The Ministerial Record containing lists of ordinations, installations, dismissals, and deaths.

The tables of the first part contain the names of all the Congregational churches in Massachusetts, the towns and cities being arranged alphabetically; churches in each town according to age. If the post office name of the church and the town name differ, a foot-note on the page where the post office name would naturally be found will direct the reader to the town name.

Church members and families are reported as numbered January 1, 1928. Admissions and removals cover the year 1927. "Absent" are not additional to "males," "females" and "total," but included in them. "Sunday school" includes total membership of officers, teachers and scholars, January 1, 1928, or when the school is in operation (if not at that date), covering "branch schools," "mission schools" and "home departments," so far as maintained by the reporting church.

The months and days in the dates of the organization of churches are omitted. They will be found in the publications of 1873, those of churches since organized being given in the "Minutes" of each year. Also the months and days in the dates of ordination and installation of ministers are omitted. The former may be found in the lists of the local Associations which follow the tables.

"Ordained" denotes the date on which the person was originally set apart to the ministry by the "laying-on of hands." "Commenced" denotes the date of the beginning of his present pastorate.

In accordance with the recommendation of the National Council, in the Statistical Tables pastors installed are marked "i."; pastors recognized by a council called for that purpose are marked "r."; pastors duly called by their churches, but not installed or recognized by council, are not marked.

Blanks in any column of figures are never equivalent to "none," but mean "no report"; but blanks in the column of ministers do mean that the church has no pastor or acting pastor, and the blank is left for the convenience of those who note changes.

Under Sunday Schools, "c" denotes cradle roll, "h" home department, "e" both cradle roll and home department, and "m" a mission or branch school.

The condensed form in which the Year Book tables are published this year offers the reader an opportunity for personal computation, as, for example, to find the number of female members, subtract the number of male members from the total.

ALPHABETICAL LIST OF MINISTERS

This list gives the names of pastors, or acting pastors, and of all Congregational ministers who are members of the Associations or Conferences that guard ministerial standing.

Ministers who are not reported as having ministerial standing in this state, and who have not been installed by council, are designated by a star (*). This does NOT mean that the man has no ministerial standing.

The first column of figures gives the page on which names may be found of all in pastoral service. A blank in the first column signifies that the person is not reported as being in pastoral service in this state.

The second column of figures gives the page on which ministerial standing is recorded.

The post-office addresses as given below often differ from the places named in the tables, and are supposed to be correct in this list.

An alphabetical list of licentiates follows this list.

SPECIAL NOTICE.—IF your name is not correctly printed in the preceding tables, IF one Christian name is not given in full, IF your ordination is not correct or is not in its proper place, IF your post-office is wrong, or IF before you receive the next Year-Book your post-office is changed, or IF your name is omitted from this list, the needed change or correction should be reported at once to the Rev. Henry Lincoln Bailey, Longmeadow, Mass., Registrar of the Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society.

MINUTES OF THE 130th ANNUAL MEETING

---

RECEIVED

FRAMINGHAM, MAY 20, 21, 22

THE JORDAN & MORE PRESS

NOTICES

All communications should be addressed to the Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society, Room 611, 14 Beacon Street, Boston; except communications for the Registrar, Reverend Henry Lincoln Bailey, which should be addressed to 169 Crescent Road, Longmeadow.

All missionary contributions should be sent to Oliver D. Sewall, Treasurer, 14 Beacon Street, Boston.

According to the vote of the Conference, contributions for the year 1929 are divided as follows:

|---|---|
| Foreign Missions (A. B. C. F. M.) . . . . . | 42½% |
| National Home Missions . . . . . | 43½% |
| State Work (M. C. C. & M. S.) . . . . . | 13 % |
| Boston Seaman's Friend Society . . . . . | 1 % |

Checks should be made payable to Oliver D. Sewall, Treasurer.

Frederick A. Gaskins, Treasurer, 14 Beacon St., Boston,

and its national home boards contributions to

William T. Boult, Treasurer, 287 Fourth Ave., New York City.

It is recommended and earnestly requested that church treasurers remit quarterly in January, April, July and October such funds as are in hand, and that the final remittance for each calendar year be sent before January 10, if credit is desired in the next Year-Book.

Honorary Life Membership in the Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society may be secured by a gift of thirty dollars, by a church or individual. Gifts made at different dates within the limits of any one fiscal year may be applied to Honorary Life Memberships, if the wish for such application is expressed when the gifts are made.

Copies of the Act of Incorporation may be had on application to 14 Beacon Street, Boston.

The expenses of the former "Conference" go on practically the same as heretofore, but with only one treasurer for all state finances. The churches are requested to contribute through the treasurers of their associations for the expenses of the Conference a sum equivalent to thirteen cents for each member, based upon the total membership of January 1, 1929, and the treasurers of the associations are requested to forward the amounts as soon as possible to Rev. Oliver D. Sewall, Treasurer, 14 Beacon St., Boston.

MONDAY AFTERNOON

The Conference was called to order at 2.00 by the Moderator, Rev. B. A. Willmott, Athol. Worship was conducted by the Chaplain, Rev. E. M. Noyes, Newton Centre. Rev. T. B. Lathrop, pastor of the entertaining church, gave the address of welcome, response to which was made by the Moderator. The Moderator appointed the following on the Business Committee: W. H. Brock, Athol; E. T. Merrell, Framingham; Rev. C. S. Holton, Newburyport; Rev. C. E. Clark, Auburndale; Mrs. R. H. Magwood, Dorchester; Mrs. E. S. Tead, Atlantic. He appointed the following as Credentials Committee: Rev. Sherman Goodwin, Townsend; Mrs. J. C. Wightman, Northampton; Rev. H. L. Bailey, Longmeadow.

Secretary A. V. Bliss presented the recommendations of the Trustees with regard to the relation of the Conference to the Congregational Church Building Society:

That the Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society seeks the cooperation of the Congregational Church Building Society in carrying out an adequate program of building for Congregational churches in Massachusetts; that it is entitled to receive from the officers of the Building Society sympathetic and interested attention to the opportunities and problems of Massachusetts churches; and that it holds itself ready to accept with respect the opinions of the officers of the Building Society.

That this Conference expresses its belief that the methods of the Congregational Church Building Society should be made more flexible; that a greater consideration should be shown to the needs of churches receiving aid; and a greater respect shown to local organizations partaking in the same undertakings; that in Boston and vicinity the Building Society should act in close association with the Congregational Church Union; that there should be maintained in the governing boards of the Congregational Church Building Society an effective and substantial representation of the Massachusetts churches fairly commensurate with the support given to the Society by those churches.

That no further action be taken in pursuance of the plan contemplated by the resolution on this subject passed by the Conference at Greenfield in 1928.

It was Voted: That the report on the relation of the corporation, Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society, and the corporation, Congregational Church Building Society, be accepted and printed with the minutes.

This report was referred to the Business Commiteee.

The following resolutions were presented by Mr. E. V. Grabill, Boston:

Whereas the needs of the Massachusetts Congregational field with respect to the building and repair of edifices for church uses, and the agencies in this Commonwealth engaged in procuring and furnishing that aid require unified effort and unified methods; and

Whereas it is highly important that the Congregational field in this Commonwealth, which is by far the greatest giver to the Congregational Church Building Society and to other Congregational agencies, be nurtured, extended and strengthened; and

Whereas it is desirable that the full coöperation and assistance of the Congregational Church Building Society be exerted for such purposes in harmony and under unified methods and without additional expense; now therefore, be it

Resolved: That the Congregational Church Building Society be requested and urged, for the growth and progress of this important field of Congregationalism, to transfer to a committee of five volunteer workers in Massachusetts sixty-five (65%) per cent of the funds received by it from Massachusetts churches during the current fiscal year for administration by such committee in its discretion, on behalf of the Congregational Church Building Society, for church building purposes in Massachusetts for one year so far as needed; one of such committee to be chosen by that Society, one by the Congregational Church Union of Springfield, one by the Congregational Church Union of Worcester, and two by the Congregational Church Union of Boston and vicinity; all of the members of the committee to serve without pay; and the committee to make full report, both to the corporation, the Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society, at its next annual meeting, and to the Congregational Church Building Society at its meeting in 1930; and be it further

Resolved: That the Trustees of this corporation be, and they hereby are, directed to use their best endeavors forthwith to consummate an arrangement of the character outlined in general terms in the preceding resolution.

These resolutions were referred to the Business Committee.

The report of the Board of Pastoral Supply was presented by Secretary A. J. Covell, Boston. The report was accepted.

The report of the Boston Seaman's Friend Society was presented by Dr. E. H. Bigelow, Framingham, who introduced Mr. G. E. Thorpe, Superintendent of the Boston Bethel, who spoke on the work of the Society. The report was accepted.

The report of the Committee on Religious Education was presented by its Chairman, Rev. E. E. Aiken, Jr., Dorchester. This report was followed by general discussion. The following recommendation was then adopted by the Conference: That this Conference nominate sixteen persons for membership in the Massachusetts Council of Religious Education.

The committee recommended the appropriation of $350 for the work of the committee next year. This recommendation was referred to the Budget Committee.

The report of the Committee on Worship was then presented by its Chairman, Rev. H. O. Hannum, Newburyport. The report was accepted.

The report of the Committee on Ministerial Standing was then presented by its Chairman, Rev. E. M. Noyes, Newton Centre. This report was accepted, and the following recommendations were adopted:

1st: That every minister after ordination, apply for membership in the District Association.

2nd: That membership be conferred only by definite vote of the Association. (If the Association acts as a Council, the application can be made at that time, provided that delegates of the churches are present in sufficient numbers to make the Council representative.)

3rd: That Scribes of Associations instruct candidates as to the importance of membership in the Association and the necessary procedure.

4th: That Federated Churches be invited to participate in Councils and to be members of District Associations; that their ministers, if not Congregationalists, be honorary members of such bodies; and that the delegates preferably be chosen from the Congregational membership of such churches.

It was then voted that the Business Committee provide further time for the Conference to discuss the remainder of this report.

The report of the Committee on Relations of Churches and Colleges was made by Rev. A. P. Pratt, Greenfield. The report was accepted. The recommendation that the committee be continued was referred to the trustees, and the recommendation regarding an appropriation of $100 for the use of the committee was referred to the Budget Committee.

The report of the Committee on Missions and Apportionment was made by Mr. C. E. Burbank, West Boylston. The report was accepted.

The following recommendations were adopted:

I. That the "Plan of Advance" unanimously adopted by the Commission on Missions at the recent meeting at Cleveland, and endorsed by the Trustees of the State Conference, be heartily accepted by the Congregationalists of Massachusetts, and that as associations and churches we endeavor to bring about its consummation.

II. That in accord with the "Plan of Advance" which asks a 20% increase over the 1928 givings we accept as our fair share the goal of $770,000 for our state contributions for the year 1930.

III. That gifts not designated by the donors for specific objects be divided on the following basis:

American Board . . . . . 42½%
Congregational Home Boards . . . . 43½%
State of Massachusetts . . . . . 14%, of which 1% is for the Boston Seaman's Friend Society.

IV. That inasmuch as the proper and efficient financial administration of the missionary and benevolent offerings of the churches requires that church treasurers should make remittances to State Treasurer Oliver D. Sewall, 14 Beacon Street, as often as every quarter, i. e., January 1, April 1, July 1, and October 1, we urge the adoption of this practice in all our churches.

The resolution that an appropriation of $500 be made for the expenses of the Committee was referred to the Budget Committee.

The report of the Committee on Moral and Social Welfare was made by Rev. H. W. Kimball, Needham. The following resolutions regarding prohibition were adopted:

Whereas, There is a highly organized and financed movement aggressively seeking to break down not only the enforcement but also the observance of the prohibition amendment; and

Whereas, This movement is seeking to repeal the enforcement law of this state, commonly known as "The Baby Volstead Act," and similar laws in other states with the deliberate intention of so weakening the enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment as practically to nullify prohibition: and

Whereas, This movement also seeks to replace dry congressmen with wet congressmen; and

Whereas, the leaders of this movement are publicly denying both the legal and moral obligation of the states to share in the enforcement of the prohibition amendment concurrently with the Federal government;

Therefore, be it Resolved:

1. That we renew our expression of unqualified approval of the Eighteenth Amendment and of the enforcement act of our state; and of the duty, both legal and moral, of the state to share in the enforcement of this amendment:

2. That we whole-heartedly commend President Hoover for his outspoken and courageous stand for both law-enforcement and law-observance and for his efforts for the better enforcement of the law; and also the strong stand taken by Attorney General Warner and Federal District Attorney Tarr in this matter and pledge these and all other officials our hearty support in all lawful efforts to this end:

3. That we urge upon our people the imperative necessity of supporting candidates for office, and especially for Congress, who are sincerely and strongly in favor of the observance and enforcement of the prohibitory amendment, particularly at the primaries:

4. That we call upon pastors and teachers and the members of our churches generally to renew their efforts for the education of both adults and youth as to the evils of the indulgence and traffic in alcoholic liquors, individually and socially, and of the fundamental social reasons underlying prohibition:

5. That we urge all, who are able, to contribute liberally to organized efforts to meet the attack on prohibition and we especially commend the Anti-Saloon League of America and Massachusetts as the effective organizations through which this great moral and social advance was largely won.

It was Voted: That copies of the above be sent to the President, Attorney General Warner, Federal District Attorney Tarr and to the ministers of the churches of the state with the request that the latter read the resolutions to their churches or, at least, call attention to the substance of them.

Rev. W. M. Macnair, Cambridge, presented the resolutions for the committee in regard to Sunday observance. These resolutions were adopted:

Whereas the chief glory of New England has been found in the intelligence and character of its people, and the intelligence and character of its people have been an outgrowth of the religious convictions of the founders of this Commonwealth, and

Whereas, serious changes are taking place which are weakening the influence of religion in the lives of the people of our Commonwealth, and these changes reached a climax in the scandalous campaign for the legalizing of professional sports on the Lord's Day, a campaign conducted by a group of men whose mutual recriminations nauseated decent citizens and moved the Boston Finance Commission and the office of the Attorney General to action, and

Whereas, the lure of pleasure, the powerful attraction of sporting contests and the demands of business on the Lord's Day constitute a danger to the true well-being of the people of Massachusetts, now therefore be it

Resolved: That we, the members of the Massachusetts Conference of Congregational Churches in annual meeting assembled hereby express our conviction that the Lord's Day should be kept as a day of worship and religious instruction. To this end we strongly recommend to all the members of our Congregational churches and to the members of other religious bodies as well, increased emphasis upon habits of worship and the religious training of the young, to the end that the tide of conscienceless conduct may be turned and that a higher level of conduct and character be attained.

And be it further Resolved: That we commend the Lord's Day League of New England in opposing the efforts to change the Lord's Day from one of religious observance to one of sport: and we urge our churches to cooperate with the new Executive Secretary of the League, the Rev. Robert Watson, in the great work of perpetuating the influences which promote conscience and character.

It was Voted: That the report of the Committee on Moral and Social Welfare, in regard to Peace as a Christian Objective, be endorsed as the sober judgment of the conference, and that the Secretary of the Conference be directed to see that a copy of it is printed in The Congregationalist and sent to the Senators and Congressmen of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and to the President of the United States.

The Conference then considered again the matter of Ministerial Standing.

It was

Voted: To adopt the recommendation suggested by the Committee on Ministerial Standing, viz.: That acting pastors of Congregational churches who hold Ministerial Standing in other denominations but represent their churches in Congregational Councils and Associations, be counted as honorary members, having the privilege of the floor, but without power of vote.

It was Voted: That a person not a member of a Congregational Church does not properly have a vote in a Congregational Council to which he has been invited as an individual.

It was Voted: That this Conference recommends that the churches invite Associations to sit as Ordaining and Installing Councils.

Two resolutions pertaining to Ministerial Standing were then presented by Rev. A. V. House, Danvers, which were referred to the Business Committee.

A recess was then taken until 7.30 in the evening.

Resolved: That the Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society seeks the coöperation of the Congregational Church Building Society in carrying out an adequate program of building for Congregational Churches in Massachusetts; that it is entitled to receive from the officers of the Building Society sympathetic and interested attention to the opportunities and problems of Massachusetts churches; and that it holds itself ready to accept with respect the opinions of the officers of the Building Society.

Resolved: That this Conference expresses its belief that the methods of the Congregational Church Building Society should be made more flexible; that a greater consideration should be shown to the needs of churches receiving aid; and a greater respect shown to local organizations partaking in the same undertakings; that in Boston and vicinity the Building Society should act in close association with the Congregational Church Union; that there should be maintained in the governing boards of the Congregational Church Building Society an effective and substantial representation of the Massachusetts churches fairly commensurate with the support given to the Society by those churches.

Resolved: That no further action be taken at present in pursuance of the plan contemplated by the resolution on this subject passed by the Conference at Greenfield in 1928; but that, in view of a statement by Rev. E. M. Halliday, general secretary of the Congregational Church Building Society, of a conviction on his part that that corporation was disposed to accord with all suggestions, looking toward true coöperation as set out in the trustees' report to the conference, and by corporate action of its governing officers, probably would take action permanently to correct methods stated in paragraph 6 in that report and to remove other elements of misunderstanding; the subject of that report be deferred until the next annual meeting of this conference, and the Trustees be directed to report to the Conference of 1930 upon the subject of the relations between the Conference and the Congregational Church Building Society.

This report was adopted by the Conference.

The Tercentenary of the Massachusetts Bay Colony, which was established in 1630, occurs next year. The event is of far-reaching significance to the Commonwealth and Nation. In a peculiar way it is the 300th anniversary of Massachusetts Congregationalism and, as such, this Conference should note the occasion and plan an adequate commemoration.

Therefore be it resolved:

1. That the Program Committee of this Conference take into consideration the facts above outlined in formulating plans for 1930.

2. That representatives of other New England Associations or Conferences influenced by this event in their settlement and growth, be invited to attend the sessions of this Conference in 1930.

3. That the National Council, shortly meeting in Detroit, be requested to appoint a distinguished delegation which will represent not only that body but the Transplanted New Englanders who have through these centuries helped to shape the destiny of other Commonwealths.

4. That place for these delegates be provided upon the program of our Conference. That their churches be advised that information concerning this Anniversary may be secured by applying to the Massachusetts Bay Tercentenary, Incorporated, 44 School Street, Boston.

Whereas the American Tract Society, organized by Congregationalists in Massachusetts one hundred and fourteen years ago, engaged in the publication and distribution of good citizenship and Christian literature in some fifty languages, meeting an imperative need of the churches in work for the foreign speaking American; and in withstanding the assaults of atheism, Be it resolved: That we commend the American Tract Society as worthy of the prayers and financial help of the churches of the state.

Resolved: That the Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society reaffirms its approval of the proposed merger between the Congregational and Christian churches.

An invitation presented by Rev. J. B. Parry, Hope Church, Springfield, to entertain the Conference at its annual meeting in 1930 was referred to the Business Committee.

Brookline; "The Spirit of Adventure and Worship," by Rev. Boynton Merrill, West Newton; "Problems and Possibilities of Worship in the Average New England Church," by Rev. John Moore, Amesbury; "Our Traditional Worship, Its Strength and Weakness," Rev. A. D. Leavitt, Brookline. An open forum followed.

2. On Religious Education, under the leadership of Dr. S. A. Weston, Boston, subject "New Lessons for Old."

3. On Moral and Social Welfare, under the leadership of Rev. H. W. Kimball, Needham. Addresses were made by Rev. E. T. Root, Boston; Rev. R. M. Timberlake, Dalton; and Rev. E. C. Herrick, Newton, on the subject: "The Christian Attitude toward Certain Modern Aspects of Family Life."

At 11 o'clock the Conference reassembled. The Business Committee made the following recommendations, which were adopted by the Conference:

1. That we refer to the Board of Trustees the communication from the Hampden Association: "That we ask the Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society to consider the placing of Dr. Pattison of Northfield at the disposal of our Hampden Association of churches for a month to quicken the church life."

2. That the Congregational churches of Massachusetts assembled in annual meeting at Framingham, express to the Secretary of the Commonwealth Mr. Frederick W. Cook, their appreciation of his fine courtesy and able assistance in securing the amendment to the marriage law, passed by the General Court in the current session.

3. Voted: That a Committee of Three be appointed by the Moderator to study the relationship of chairmen of our committees to our Board of Trustees and that this committee be asked to report at the next annual meeting of the Massachusetts Conference. The following were appointed: Rev. Harry W. Kimball, Needham; Rev. Warren P. Landers, Dorchester; Dr. Enos H. Bigelow, Framingham.

4. The Massachusetts Conference hopes that the National Council will request its Committee on Standards for the Ministry to suggest a method whereby examination for ordination can be held in advance of the calling of an Ordination Council, and that they do what they can to encourage churches to remember the interest of Christian fellowship in their actions relating to ordination, and also as to the calling of pastors.

5. Resolved: That the local associations of the churches take such steps as they may deem wisest and most effectual to bring about a closer relationship between the Associations and the fourteen Districts of the Woman's Department of the Conference, and commend to them particularly the appointment of Missionary Committees which shall be joint committees or have several members who belong to each committee.

6. As we come to the close of this one hundred and thirtieth annual meeting which should be noted as the first meeting of the combined Conference and Missionary Society, we are deeply sensible of the manifest blessing of God upon us. The Committee on Program prepared the way and the Committee on Worship supplied the inspiration under the leadership of the Chaplain, Rev. E. M. Noyes, the worship of the conference has been given its real dignity and importance.

We deeply appreciate the ministry of music as rendered by the choirs of this church and the Wellesley church.

We are grateful for the messages which the speakers of the Conference have brought to us. They have given us a broad vision of our missionary work at home and abroad; a fresh sense of our responsibility as citizens, and renewed faith in the future of the Christian church in relationship to its young people.

We extend our greetings to Governor Allen of Massachusetts, with thanks for his helpful address and with assurance of our warm support of the aims which he expressed toward making the Government of the Commonwealth efficient for the social uplift of the needy classes among our citizens.

In parting from our generous hosts, the Conference most heartily puts on record its grateful appreciation of the abounding hospitality with which we have been welcomed. We cannot express all that we feel concerning the thoughtful anticipation with which our every want has been blessed; the courtesy and ever-present helpfulness of the pastor of the church, Rev. T. B. Lathrop; the comfort, convenience and beauty of this church building, so well adapted to such a gathering as ours as well as to the every-day needs of the church; the delightful manner in which the women of the church have provided for our physical needs; the constant and most helpful services of the other members and officers of the church; the beautiful hospitality with which we have been welcomed into the homes of the members of this church and congregation and of the surrounding churches.

The Conference also appreciates sincerely the brotherly coöperation of the churches of other denominations in Framingham, and especially the kindness of the Wesley Methodist and the Park Street Baptist churches in opening their buildings to different services of the Conference.

To the community in general for its interest and assistance, to the Framingham News for its full reports of the meetings, to the Police Department of Framingham for its efficient supervision of the extra traffic in the neighborhood of the church, we express our cordial appreciation.

7. That the next meeting of the Conference be held with Hope Church, Springfield.

8. That another Ministers' Retreat be held.

9. That the Treasurer of the Conference be authorized to pay the necessary traveling expenses each year to the State Conference meeting and return of one representative from each Home Missionary Church, either pastor or delegate, and of all other home missionary workers in the state.

10. That the Trustees of the Conference and Missionary Society be asked to make a careful investigation of the relations of the Swedish Congregational churches to the Conference, looking to the welfare of those churches and their larger sharing in the general concerns of the Conference.

11. That we commend to our churches due loyalty to ministers of our own fellowship in the filling of their pulpits. We hope that all our churches will take pains to see that men of Congregational homes and seminaries are given proper consideration. We recommend that in the choice of pastors they seek help from the available sources of Congregationally trained ministers.

The report of the Budget Committee was made by Treasurer Sewall. The recommendation of the trustees, amended by the Conference, was adopted as follows:

|---|---|
| That the following appropriations be made on the basis of 166,990 members: | |
| National Council (8 cents per member) | $13,359.20 |
| Congregational Board of Pastoral Supply (1½ cents per member) | 3,061.48 |
| Massachusetts Federation of Churches | 1,815.00 |
| Committee on Missions and Apportionment | 500.00 |
| Committee on Religious Education | 350.00 |
| Committee on Moral and Social Welfare | 100.00 |
| Committee on Churches and Colleges | 150.00 |
| Travel of Missionary Pastors and Workers to Conference | 300.00 |
| Office Expenses | 2,123.02 |

That an allotment of 13c. per member be made upon the churches to provide for these expenditures.

That the year for which allotments and grants are voted, be that closing with the next annual meeting of the Conference.

The Committee on Credentials made the following report, which was adopted:

|---|---|
| Number of churches represented | 283 |
| By pastors only | 105 |
| By pastor and one delegate | 61 |

| Total representatives of churches | 528 |
| Officers and committee members | 23 |
| Speakers | 12 |
| | 563 |
| Deducting duplicates | 7 |
| Net enrollment | 556 |

The following recommendations from the Committee on Ministerial Standing were adopted:

1. That the Conference endorse the comment of the Committee on Ministerial Standing in reference to item 4, page 29, of the Advance Reports, having to do with the matter of installing as Congregational pastors men who have not established their ministerial standing in our denomination. It reads as follows:

"Our polity does not contemplate that a Congregational minister shall be a member of more than one denomination at the same time. Men have been installed, in one or two instances, while retaining their membership in another denomination, but such a practice is not in accord with our polity. If a minister of another denomination, seeking installation as a Congregational pastor, presents to the Council proper credentials from the communion from which he comes, and assurance of his intention to present them to the District Association, the Council may deem this sufficient. But the ideal procedure anticipates that the transfer of ministerial standing shall be completed before a minister of another denomination is installed as pastor of a Congregational church.

It is to be remembered that ministerial standing is in the hands of the District Association and not in those of an ordaining or installing Council, and that an Association has always the right and often the duty of reviewing the action of a Council, in receiving men into its membership, since Councils are sometimes negligent in regard to the credentials of men before them."

2. In view of conditions which sometimes arrive we wish to reassert the Congregational principle that Councils do not have power to increase their voting membership by the addition of churches or individuals whose names do not appear in the letter missive or change their membership by substitution for those so appearing.

It was voted to adopt the report of the Committee on Ministerial Standing and refer to the trustees with power the matter in regard to printing the recommendations of that report.

A vote of thanks was given the Moderator for his efficient conduct of the meetings of the Conference.

The secretary was empowered to complete the minutes and after worship conducted by the chaplain, the Conference adjourned.

ALFRED V. BLISS, Secretary.

REPORT OF THE PRESIDENT

The By-laws of the Conference provide that the President shall make an annual report.

It is a great pleasure to state that the first year of combined organizations functioning as the Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society has been a prosperous one. The hopes in which the consolidation was effected at Greenfield after two years of discussion and preparation have been realized. All the Congregational Churches of Massachusetts have been working together in harmony and effectiveness. The by-laws of the new organization have proved workable. But one amendment is to be asked for this year, and that is for the better constitution of one of the Standing Committees.

The plans, with which the new organization started, have been heartily accepted by the churches. Best of all, the spirit in which the new Conference was organized has been maintained as easily and naturally as could be wished. Nothing has been done, or sought to be done, in any other spirit than that of helpfulness. The good offices of the Conference have been eagerly sought now that its powers to serve the churches in many important ways are increasingly realized. The conference was organized for service and that is, and will be, its mission.

First of all are the aided churches. They are the recipients of affectionate care and financial assistance. Some are old and some are new, but all need the wise solicitude of the whole fellowship. Since the coming of Secretary Bliss to the office, made vacant by the death of Secretary Walker, this department has again become fully effective. The appointment of Rev. Joseph B. Lyman to be minister-at-large for Southeastern Massachusetts has also aided materially in the promotion of this department.

Then there has been the service to all the churches, whether financially dependent or independent, in numerous ways of counsel and assistance as problems have been brought to the Conference headquarters, or its officers have gone out to the churches. The church building program has required much attention. Parish house problems, parsonage plans, general repairing necessities have been constantly before the Conference, so that an important new department is growing up, conducting its efforts in closest coöperation with the National Church Building Society, and the three or four local church building organizations in Boston and other large cities.

Then there is the very rapidly growing department of Missionary Promotion. Here as perhaps nowhere else all the churches feel the support and encouragement of the Conference.

The Woman's Department keeps a fine and helpful care for this feature of the life of Massachusetts Congregational Churches which has been carried on for years with conspicuous success. Were it not for this department, there would have been serious loss in more ways than one.

The Young People's interests have been notably advanced in the last year.

We are happy to report that the Secretary Emeritus, Dr. Emrich, has continued to render a large measure of service throughout the year: in the conduct of Ministerial Relief, in the churches often, in counsel with the brethren continually, in the affection of all our hearts unabated. The observance of his 80th birthday last August was a notable and happy event. May the Heavenly Father, who has bestowed upon him such rare grace in stewardship, continue to him this high trust!

The Board of Trustees has met the new situation created by the merger with great interest, bestowing abundant care and time in the many and varied decisions now required of them. In several instances during the year special committees of the Trustees have dealt with matters of great importance. The joint combination of the Board of two-thirds men and one-third women has proved successful, if there were any doubts about it. The attendance at Board meetings has been excellent, the interest keen and the decisions where debate occurred generally unanimous.

The office force in clerical and stenographic assistance is deserving of much commendation.

One may fairly say it has been a great first year.

The office quarters have been considerably enlarged and are, we think, admirably adapted to the quick and convenient despatch of a great amount of work involving a very large number of personal interviews, in marked contrast to those offices where most of the inquiries are by correspondence.

We think it must be increasingly evident to every one that our churches are growing naturally and voluntarily into a closer fellowship for service than has heretofore existed, and that those who planned for the new order of things, and the representatives of the churches who entered into it so unanimously, are being justified by the outlook.

The great new and constructive enterprise of the year was the convocation of ministers of the Commonwealth held at Worcester in February, at which some three hundred were enrolled. Do you wish such a Convocation to continue for another year? It is for you to say. We took the initiative. It is for you to suggest how you feel about it.

We have 607 churches at present. We are not seeking great numbers of new churches. It may be true of to-day that he who makes one strong church grow where two weak ones were before is doing the largest service. We are doing well with our Federated Churches. One thing I am bound to mention to you as seen from the point of general outlook. Our Baptist brethren around Boston, and to a lesser degree in the wider area, are developing a situation which is of utmost interest and deserving appreciation on our part. They are beginning to take into the membership of the Baptist Church Congregationalist and other Protestant church members by letter, without requiring baptism by immersion. This means a great deal. It means that two great Protestant bodies, without any effort on the part of either one to force things, are coming much more closely in fellowship.

There are two or three weak points in our own general situation which should in all fairness be pointed out. We need to review with care the relation of our Swedish Congregational churches to the general body. They are more loosely associated with us than could be wished. There should be appointed a Committee to look into this matter with all care and friendliness and helpfulness. Both we and they need to be in more intimate relations. It will be well for us to appreciate more thoroughly than we commonly do the particular problems of the Swedish speaking churches.

There are in this state fifty churches which did not give one penny to missions in the past year. It is a weak spot for them. It requires attention sympathetically. We deplore it on our part. A church is not a whole church which spends all the money it has upon itself, however small or weak financially it may be.

For another thing, we are not fair as a whole to our Congregational ministers. It not infrequently develops that Congregational churches in Massachusetts are not living up to the fair standards of denominational life. We give them no status that all members of our churches do not equally have. They come out from the ranks of the laymen and as a rule equip themselves by a long course of study to pass the requirements of our ordaining councils. We should give them first consideration in the filling of vacant pastorates. Yet our churches often take ministers from other denominations without so much as carefully inquring if there are not ministers of our own ordination and body who might just as fittingly be considered. This is done chiefly for economical reasons. It is also done because of the technique very well learned by some student pastors, who, when their own service ends make all arrangements to put a fellow student in the same church. Congregationalists as a denomination have no way to prevent this but we can and should say the word of protest. We have sympathy for the young students of other denominations who come largely from the middle West and go about from church to church seeking an opportunity by personal solicitation. They go by auto, they go by train, to get ahead of somebody else. It may deserve our sympathy in view of the extremities in which young married theological students find themselves. But it is not a good procedure.

The Conference has adopted certain rules, one of which is that in any church, aided by the fellowship of our churches, ministers of our own ordination shall have a first chance to be heard. We must be fair to our Congregational ministers.

A matter for still greater concern is that our churches are in danger of serious trouble by neglecting to assure themselves of the ministerial standing of men whom they call. A list of our churches might be given where there has been trouble by ministers not of our own denomination who have been employed by committees for various reasons. Several of them had no ministerial standing anywhere. Increasingly leading Congregational churches are taking pains to assure themselves of the standing beyond all question of every man whom they are considering for the minister of the church. If they are so solicitous our smaller churches might well do the same. We are also suggesting that it is not good policy to employ ministers upon letters of recommendation of more or less ancient date which they have in their pockets, without consulting our Ministerial Bureau, and I lay upon it upon your hearts to have respect and regard for our own, sons of our homes, men of our colleges and seminaries, —ready to do their work.

The final word is this: We are inheritors of a great tradition. We rejoice in the long and honorable history of our churches. We love them. We mean to live up to the past, to hand on to the future what we have received, without loss, and with all the gain possible in our generation. Congregationalists ought not to think more highly of themselves than they ought to think, but they may well do a bit more thinking on some lines of their denominational welfare than they do.

REPORT OF THE REGISTRAR

It is 38 years since our annual meeting was last held within the bounds of Middlesex South Association, and 94 years since Framingham entertained us. That was in 1835, at Plymouth Church at the Center, another 38 years before Grace Church was born. Then two or three dozen ministers, two delegates from each association, drove leisurely hither, stayed three days, and drove home again. I wonder which would amaze them more today, the way in which we got here or the size of this Conference, potentially a body of 1,900 pastors, delegates and officials, representing a constituency of 166,990 members in 606 churches, 22 of them having more than 1,000 members each. On January 1, we had lost one church and gained two. Since then Hampden Association has received the Wachogue Church of Springfield so that the roll today numbers 607 churches. The church at Prescott dissolved voluntarily before the breaking waves dash high on the future Boston reservoir in the Swift River valley. That loss is offset by a church of new Pilgrims of Finnish speech in West Barnstable and by a new community church at Pinehurst in Billerica.

There is not a great deal of publicity value in the statistics for 1928. It was an average year. After reports from the first 81 churches had been tabulated, the balance showed a net gain of one in membership. Ten churches did not report, but when returns were in from 596, the total membership showed a gain of 2,491, smaller than in recent years but going over the mark of the major fraction whereby the Conference is entitled to 34 instead of 32 delegates to the National Council. Of these 34, one half must be women, and at this writing 21 women have regretfully declined election to their 17 seats. Credentials for the 59 delegates of the district associations are issued by the Conference registrar, and his correspondence the past month has been voluminous in the effort to fill our quota of 93 with people who are really going to Detroit.

Whatever striking features cropped out in individual church reports are exhibited in the statistical charts appended to this report. Totals in almost every column are less than the five-year average. Additions to membership were 5,740 on confession and 3,880 by letter, a total of 9,620. Removals included 2,130 deaths, 2,628 letters of transfer, and 2,371 names dropped by roll revision, a total of 7,129. Baptisms of adults number 1,991, and of infants 3,728. The Sunday-school enrollment drops 2,505 to 118,159, while the membership of young people's organizations of whatever character shows an increase of 17 and is, at 26,267, the largest total in thirteen years.

Our apportionment giving troubles the Committee on Missions and several other people. Last year we fell off $20,000; this year we have dropped another $20,000. We can do this 32 years more before we become recipients instead of givers, but right now is a good time to stop tobogganing. In round numbers we gave $8,000 more to state work, $2,000 more to the home boards, and $30,000 less to foreign missions. While we have thus cut our mission boards three per cent, let it be recorded also that so far as reported our churches have cut their local budgets six and a half per cent. They are $145,000 below the four million mark instead of $125,000 above it. Meanwhile more churches report debts and bigger ones, one seventh larger than last year. Property valuation has jumped more than a million dollars and stands at $35,026,788; but ministers' salaries drop $17 from an average of $2,272 to $2,255. All these figures of local finance are partial reports. More than 50 churches did not report their home expenses, and 20 did not report on valuation, while a blank in the salary column may indicate reticence on the part of giver or receiver, or it may mean that a pastorless church isn't paying at present or doesn't know how much it will have to pay to get the man it wants for pastor.

From the registrar's point of view our new ecclesiastical machine, 1928 model, is functioning satisfactorily. There are manifest both efficiency and coöperation; and while our tendency to centralization finds occasionally that the autonomy of the local church is still a vital and assertive principle of Congregationalism, there are evidences along the way that our other principle of fellowship is equally operative and is receiving increasing emphasis.

NECROLOGY

I bring to your remembrance tonight the names of twenty members of the Conference, and two others whom I have been carrying on the roll. More briefly also I name eighteen former pastors and one native son whose records are presented in the forthcoming Year Book as having died in 1928. The list of Conference members conforms as closely as may be to the Conference year.

The list of former pastors begins with Fritz W. Baldwin, assistant at Harvard Church, Brookline, dying at 44, the only one under 60. Merle A. Breed had been pastor at Westboro and assistant at Campello. Charles F. Carter was at Newburyport and Lexington. Edwin G. Crowdis was at Cotuit, Kingston, Rowley and Southampton. Edward C. Fellowes began his ministry at Acushnet, now New Bedford First. Milton N. Frantz was for a year at Hampden. Addison F. Gifford was at Prescott and twice at Peru. William Elliot Griffis was one of the stars in the former halo of Shawmut Church in Boston. Henry H. Hamilton was at Westford. Edwin C. Holman numbered the Centre Church of Haverhill as one of his pastorates. James H. McLaren paused at Attleboro Falls in his pastoral trek from Maine to the Middle West. Daniel M. Moore was born in Athol and lived in Orange since 1895, but his ministry was in Connecticut. James W. Moulton served our churches at Northbridge Center, Buckland, Greenwich and Worthington. Ezra B. Pike among his thirteen New England pastorates was four years at West Newbury. Charles R. Seymour began his career in Newburyport at the North Church. William Sherman Thompson was at Marshfield Hills, Quincy Point, Cliftondale, and First and Prospect Hill in Somerville. William M. Weeks spent three years on Chester Hill. James C. Young was the first pastor of Baker Church in East Boston, and later came again from Maine for a year in the Norwich district of Huntington. These nineteen men, except Baldwin, lived from 62 to 95 years, and the average of all was over 72. Dr. Griffis was ordained in the Reformed Church, Mr. Weeks began as a Baptist, and all the others were Congregationalists first and last.

Almost the same ratio holds among the twenty members of the Conference. Frank Crane and William F. Warren began as Methodists and John H. Lockwood had a Reformed ordination, but the rest began and died in our fellowship. Before I call the roll, let me mention two other men. In 1917 A. J. Freedlund became pastor of our Swedish church in North Easton. In 1921, he became a member of Pilgrim Association and left his pulpit the same year. He died in 1924, but his soul went marching on in the printed roll until a new scribe of Pilgrim discovered his absence the other day and notified the registrar. Guy C. Lamson was a Baptist who for two years ministered to our church in Hudson in its Baptist federation. He was of my own college and fraternity and was only 52 when death claimed him.

Of our twenty members Robert W. Drawbridge lacked a few days of 60 years, the youngest of the group, while George G. Phipps passed 90 and Joseph Kyte was 93, the group average being more than 78. Five held the title of pastor emeritus, while only two, Drawbridge and Fisher, were pastors at death. Owing to their advanced ages, nearly all the others were on the retired list. So far as I know their college and seminary antecedents, Amherst claimed three alumni and eight other colleges one each. Andover, Bangor, Yale lead in the seminary list. Massachusetts claims six as native sons, New York four, eight other states the other ten, including one from Nova Scotia; while fourteen breathed their last in our state, three in New York, one each in New Jersey, Connecticut and France.

John Justin Blair, 83, was pastor of Andover South nine years, in between two pastorates in his native Maine and two in his later Connecticut domicile. Howard Allen Bridgman by reason of his editorial position over The Congregationalist was probably the best known man on this memorial list. Frank Crane's name greeted us more frequently by his daily widespread syndicated editorial paragraphs, but aside from his seven years with Union Church, Worcester, he was not in personal touch with us. Bridgman was out of the state long enough for a seminary training at Hartford and Yale, but he traveled and cultivated human contacts broadly, and was with a great host of friends a brotherly hail fellow, well met. It required courage and genius to make a new venture after turning 60, and we saw less of him after that, but loved him none the less for his gallant fight against principalities and powers and ill health withal.

George Henry Burrill was trained at Harvard and Union, ordained a Congregationalist, and had two Reformed pastorates of eight and thirteen years in New York before coming to Easthampton for another thirteen. In 1918, his church and Payson united, both pastors assuming the emeritus title. Mr. Burrill then moved to New Jersey and the Board of Ministerial Relief kept him busy thenceforth. Frank Crane began life in Illinois and was on the French Riviera when his call came at 67. Nice is so heavenly in some respects that few of us would yearn for a better country, and Dr. Crane cannot come back to tell us how much better is the country where he has gone. Zenas Crowell was the only one in this list who had to acquire American citizenship. Born in Nova Scotia, he was educated first at McGill and then at Bangor, and all but 20 of his 79 years were spent in Maine and Massachusetts. In 1886, he came to Kingston, thence to Attleboro Falls, and then to East Taunton, 38 years in three pastorates. He was pastor emeritus of the church at Attleboro Falls, and lived there the last five years.

Barring a brief pastorate in New Hampshire at the start, Robert William Drawbridge gave his ministry to his native state. He was six years at Medway, eight at Pepperell, five as first pastor of Payson Park in Belmont, and then Pepperell called him back to lead the newly merged churches for a decade till his death. Oren Dennis Fisher was an Ohio boy, bred at Olivet and Yale, whose ministry began in Cleveland and included Toledo and Indianapolis before he came to Maverick in East Boston. Briefly in New Hampshire, he gave a score of years to four Connecticut parishes, and then at 76, scorning the thought of retiring, he led our church in Sutton four years more, bearing fruit in old age. Edward Herrick Griffin was only four years a pastor, but he lived 61 years after his ordination, and was 56 years a member of the Berkshire North Association. Williams College called him in 1872 from his pulpit in Burlington, Vt., and in 1889, Johns Hopkins called him to Baltimore where he became dean and later dean emeritus of the university. Richard Baxter Grover, a Rhode Island boy, had one parish in Vermont, and came to us for the rest of his life. Curiously, two churches he served have vanished from the map, Hope of Cambridge and Bethany of Gloucester; but Roslindale, which he organized, is very much in evidence. He was Dr. Gordon's assistant in Boston, 40 years ago, and his latest pastorates were at West Newbury and Petersham. Very briefly he enjoyed his emeritus honor ere he was called away, at the age of 77.

George Benjamin Hurd was a teacher for some part of his life and was 62 when he was ordained. His ministry with us covered but one seven-year pastorate at Holland, yoked with Union, Conn. He had been in A. M. A. work in the South, and taught and preached in Florida. His years were 79. Frank Hatch Kasson was on our roll for half a century. He held seven brief pastorates ranging geographically from Templeton to Wellfleet. He was also an editor and a writer. He has been eulogized since his death in April as one "whose character had been disciplined under circumstances of almost life-long tragedy, but who had preserved, under the most disheartening circumstances the strength and beauty of a life enriched by Christian fortitude and grace." Joseph Kyte was born in the days when Andrew Jackson was in the White House. Born in New York state, he went to Bangor for theology, and in Maine he stayed a score of years. Slowly pilgrimaging across New England, he halted at Brimfield for four years and moved on southward. But he came back to Massachusetts for the evening of his life, an evening so long as to be chargeable to daylight saving.

If John Hoyt Lockwood could have lived a few months longer he could have celebrated the 50th anniversary of his Westfield pastorate and the 250th of his church. Since 1906, he had been pastor emeritus, growing old gracefully but very slowly, and publishing a voluminous history of the town, his literary monument. His later residence was in Springfield, and thither came also Edward Allen Reed for more than a dozen years of emeritus comfort after 28 years of building up the Second Church of Holyoke. Dr. Reed began his ministry at the First Church in Springfield in 1871, serving seven years and going to New York for eight before he came to Holyoke. For 42 years Lockwood and Reed were nearby friends, and their younger brethren loved them both. George Gardner Phipps was an artist, professionally so after he left the pastorate at the age of 55. He was trained by Amherst and Andover, and after a two-year probation at Ashland he moved nearer Boston, pastor ten years at Wellesley, and nearer yet for a 15-year service at Newton Highlands. After that he was still a minister of souls, unofficially but genuinely for the rest of his 90 years. Even so, his going was the break between a couple who for 63 years had traveled life's highway together.

Ezra Jackson Riggs of Boston got into the 28th Mass. regiment before he was 15, and fought through the war from '61 to '65 as a non-commissioned officer. Then Andover trained him for a commission in the Lord's army which he held almost 50 years, the service taking him to various stations from Provincetown to California. He was on the Cape four years in the gay '90's, and at North Carver more recently and more briefly. Arthur Norman Ward, Dartmouth and Andover, had one pastorate in Maine, two in New Hampshire, and one in our state, at Wenham, in the score of years between '78 and '98. Perhaps because he was so obedient to Paul's injunction to look not at one's own things but at the things of others, he was made an inspector of customs at the port of Boston. And perhaps his influence there accounts for the courtesy of his comrades as I have passed their scrutiny. He lacked a little of 80 when he, too, crossed the frontier into another land.

William Frank Warren was 82 when he gave up his last pastorate, and almost 88 when he died a year ago. Nine years in the Methodist ministry were followed by ten Congregational pastorates. His six in this state began with his organizing Courtland Street in Everett. Saugus, Assonet, Peabody, Lanesville, Dighton, followed at intervals, punctuated by adventures into New Hampshire. Charles Foster Weeden came from Providence to Amherst and Hartford. His regular pastorates were four, the three in our state being Norwood, Lynn Central, and Dorchester Harvard over a period of 21 years. Then came a dozen years of congenial and efficient service as interim pastor, often for a year at a time, in such churches as Lee, Piedmont and Old South in Worcester, Newtonville, Somerville, Athol. I had known him longer than any other in this list, and it was hard to realize that he was a year and a half past 70 when "God's finger touched him and he slept." Last on the list is Benson Newell Wyman, whom we knew until recently as pastor at Lenox for nine years. Born in Ohio, educated at Oberlin and Yale, his ministry began in Wisconsin but soon shifted to western New York, where three churches had his leadership for a quarter of a century. He retired from Lenox to Canandaigua, N. Y., and died within a year.

Sketchily, inadequately, I have but called the roll of our departed friends. The occasion demands brevity, the subjects call for more than is in my power to give when more than half the names I have called are only names to me. Yet the mere cataloging of these names year after year has somehow made them real to me; how much more to you who knew the men as your pastors or classmates or neighbors. Of some it has been said, and perhaps it is true of them all, that they lived in Sam Walter Foss's house by the side of the road. I passed some of their dwellings, so have you, and you knew that because they were a friend to man they were a friend of God.

REPORT OF THE AUDITOR

14 Beacon Street, Boston, Mass.,
May 16, 1929.

Frederick Harlan Page, D.D., President,
Massachusetts Congregational Conference,
and Missionary Society,
Boston, Massachusetts.

Dear Sir:

I have caused the books and records of the Treasurer of the Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society for the year ending March 31, 1929, to be examined by Messrs. Patterson, Teele and Dennis, Certified Public Accountants, for the purpose of verifying the transactions of that period involving both the general funds of the Conference and Society and the funds held by it in trust.

Said accountants, in their reports rendered to me, state that they have found: 1st. That all funds shown to have been received during that period have been properly accounted for, and that all disbursements have been properly vouched; and that the cash at banks on March 31, 1929, was $120.02 in the general account, and $722.02 in the Trustee account, as entered in the books of the Treasurer. 2nd. That all income receivable during the period under review, with the exception of certain interest accrued on savings accounts in the Trustee account, has been duly received and accounted for. These findings I submit to the Conference and Society without personal verification.

I have also compared the figures entered in the schedules presented in the Treasurer's Statement with those appearing in the corresponding schedules accompanying said reports of the Accountants, and I find them to be in accord.

I have received from said Accountants schedules complied by them from the books of the Treasurer, wherein are listed the investments to be accounted for by the Treasurer as of March 31, 1929; these aggregating, in book value, $1,733,158.55 in the general account, and $86,002.44 in the Trustee account. Securities in accordance with the said schedules have been exhibited to me by the Treasurer, or have been otherwise satisfactorily accounted for.

Very respectfully yours,
(Signed) NATHAN B. DAY, Auditor.

BEQUESTS

Bequests to the Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society are used to aid weak churches and to promote the work and interests of the Conference in the State. The practice of the Conference is to divide unrestricted legacies into three equal parts. One part is used for current work; one part is added to the Permanent Legacy Fund, the income only of which is used for general purposes; and the third part is added to a Contingent Fund, the principal of which may be drawn upon to care for special undertakings or to avoid a deficit. Bequests may be made permanent funds by the donor, and the Conference restricted to use only of income.

Bequests to the Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society pay no Massachusetts inheritance tax.

FORM OF BEQUEST

I give to the Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society incorporated under the laws of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, the sum of.....Dollars.

TRUST FUNDS

The Conference is glad to receive bequests to be held in trust for the benefit of churches. No charge is made for administering such trusts.

Legacies are frequently made by large-hearted men and women to churches. It is not an easy matter for parish committees, some of which have had no experience in handling trust funds, to make wise and safe investments. The Conference feels that it has a legitimate concern in seeing that the principal and income of these funds are properly safeguarded. It therefore strongly urges churches to place such funds in its care. The Conference has exceptional facilities for keeping funds safely and investing them profitably and wisely. The Board of Trustees of the Conference, which has charge of all its funds, contains men of large ability and experience in such matters. The churches may avail themselves of the service of this ability and experience without expense.

CONDITIONAL GIFTS

The Conference receives conditional gifts, subject to annuity agreements with the donors, and encourages this method for those who wish any part of their property to be applied to our work after their death, and desire an assured income from this property for themselves, or for others whom they may designate as beneficiaries, so long as they live. Correspondence with the Treasurer concerning such annuity agreements is invited.

THE CONGREGATIONAL UNION OF SPRINGFIELD

PRESIDENT, REV. ORVILLE T. FLETCHER

CLERK, REV. JOHN B. LEWIS TREASURER, W. L. RICHARDS

In cooperation with the Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society, the Congregational Union of Springfield supervises the home missionary work in Springfield.

All contributions for home missionary work in Massachusetts by the churches of Springfield should be made to the Congregational Union, and will be credited on the apportionment. In accordance with the mutual agreement between the two organizations, ten per cent. of the contributions for current work received by the Union is paid over to the Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society.

The Congregational Union of Springfield is incorporated under the laws of Massachusetts and may receive bequests and hold property.

THE WORCESTER CITY MISSIONARY SOCIETY

PRESIDENT, AND SUPERINTENDENT, REV. RAY EVAN BUTTERFIELD

TREASURER, E. G. SEAL

The Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society, by agreement with the Worcester City Missionary Society, is responsible for the financial assistance and the supervision of home missionary churches in Worcester in their current work, while the Worcester City Missionary Society represents the fellowship of the Congregational churches of the city in aid to churches in the matter of their property, contributing toward the purchase and maintenance of property and the payment of building debts.

Contributions for home missions from the churches in Worcester, to be credited on the apportionment, should be sent to the Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society. Contributions for the local work, given in addition to the apportionment and not to be credited as a part of it, should be sent to the treasurer of the Worcester City Missionary Society.

GRANTS FROM THE MASSACHUSETTS CONGREGATIONAL CONFERENCE AND MISSIONARY SOCIETY

1. Wherever a community is too distant from a church to benefit from its privileges, the Conference encourages the establishment of regular religious services, and, if possible, the organization of a church, or a branch of a neighboring church.

2. Applications by any church for financial aid should be made by the vote of the church, and upon forms furnished by the Conference, and should have the approval of the Advisory or Missionary Committee of the local Association of Churches.

3. Churches applying for aid must show that they have met in full all financial obligations to their ministers and are doing their utmost toward self-support.

4. In granting aid the Conference will appropriate different amounts according to the necessity, importance, and prospects of each field.

5. Every church aided by the Conference must consult the President or Secretary before making arrangements for pastoral service.

6. Whenever the service of the minister or other worker, for whose support an appropriation is made, shall terminate, the appropriation shall lapse, except for special reasons satisfactory to the President.

7. The Conference advocates adequate compensation for every minister and worker.

8. The Conference favors hearty coöperation with other denominations, the avoidance of overlapping and competing work, and the consolidation or federation of churches of different denominations in over-churched communities.

It has been voted to omit from this volume the Reports of Boards and Committees which were printed in the Advance Reports and distributed before the meeting in Framingham. # REPORT TO TRUSTEES OF ITS COMMITTEE ON RELATION OF MASSACHUSETTS CONGREGATIONAL CONFERENCE AND CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH BUILDING SOCIETY

Accepted by the Trustees

This committee exists by virtue of a vote passed on June 25, 1928, by the Trustees of the Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society in the following terms:

"Voted: That a committee of three be appointed by the chairman of the Board to investigate the church building situation in Massachusetts as affected by grants and loans made by the Congregational Church Building Society and to report to the Board what action should be taken in view of the passage by the Conference at Greenfield of the following resolution":

Vote of the Conference, May, 1928

"Resolved: That the Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society hereby authorizes and instructs its Board of Trustees to negotiate a working agreement with the Congregational Church Building Society whereby a certain percentage of the money given by Massachusetts Congregational churches for church building purposes shall be retained and used for Massachusetts churches whose applications for grants and loans have the endorsement of the Trustees. As to the percentage to be retained, we would recommend that the Trustees give due consideration to the 65% and 35% suggested by Mr. Samuel Usher of the Congregational Church Union."

Two other members were afterward added to the present committee.

In view of the terms of the resolution passed by the Conference at Greenfield giving positive instruction to its officers, it is the part of the Trustees either to carry out the instructions, or to come back to the Conference with cogent reasons for not doing so. It is plain to this committee that as events have developed no action which would amount to a performance of the instructions given by the Conference is possible before the next meeting of the Conference in May, 1929; furthermore, these instructions, as will be explained later, are inconsistent with the percentages established by the Conference for use in the apportionment plan. It is the opinion of the committee that the subject should again receive the consideration of the Conference before final action shall be taken.

This committee caused the action of the Conference to be communicated to the Congregational Church Building Society; and in September a reply was received expressing the hope and belief "that it would be better to continue the present relationships with the confident expectation that the peculiar problem in Massachusetts may be met in a satisfactory way by conference from time to time between the officers of the State Conference and the Church Building Society, looking towards increased appropriations for special cases where unusual needs and opportunities appear."

The committee asked for a conference with the Congregational Church Union and such a conference was held. It may be necessary to inform members of the Conference who live in other parts of the state that the Congregational Church Union is an incorporated society which has in the past and does at present receive from the Metropolitan area offerings of Congregational churches to be used in the promotion of Congregational churches within the Boston district and in particular in the erection of buildings for churches and parsonages. At a later time a conference was held in Boston by this committee with Secretary James Robert Smith and Mr. Alling of the Building Society and officers of the Congregational Church Union.

Statistics of the operation of the Building Society in Massachusetts have been collected to aid the committee in reaching its conclusions.

After the meeting of this committee with the directors of the Congregational Church Union, but before the meeting with representatives of the Building Society, the Congregational Church Union adopted resolutions and transmitted them to this committee. These resolutions set forth the opposite of the opinions held by this committee and look toward action from which this committee seeks to dissuade the Trustees and the Conference. It appeals to the committee that in fairness the resolutions of the Congregational Church Union should accompany this report and they are annexed hereto as an appendix.

With this preparation the committee will attempt to state the problem as it exists at present, and to advise the Trustees as to what recommendations should be made to the Conference.

1. There is no doubt that the contributions of Massachusetts churches to the Building Society have been very much greater than the grants to churches in Massachusetts. For many years in the near past the contributions exceeded the grants by more than ten to one; within the last four years the proportion of grants has increased; nevertheless, in no year has the national Building Society appropriated to churches in Massachusetts, in grants, a sum equal to one-fourth of the contributions of the Massachusetts Churches for the same year.

Another pertinent fact is that Massachusetts is by far the largest contributor to the income of the Building Society. In the last separate report of the Building Society (presumably the figures of 1926) the gifts from Massachusetts were more than double those of the next state, Connecticut.

It may well be said that Massachusetts is a source of missionary aid; and there are two propositions that may be deduced from that fact: first, that Massachusetts should be fairly represented in the councils of the Building Society; and second, that the real needs of Massachusetts, as they appear clear to thoughtful and spiritually minded men, should not be neglected.

At the present time Massachusetts is inadequately represented on the governing boards of the Building Society.

The national Society, without probably any conscious intent to do so, has cut itself off from contact with its chief supporter; as a matter of economy it discontinued its Boston office; there is no resident of Massachusetts on its administrative committee, which may be assumed to be the active governing body. On its board of forty directors there are four from Massachusetts.

The reason why there should be adequate representation of the Massachusetts churches in the national Society is not that we may take pride in seeing the names of our neighbors in lists of officers; but, on the one hand, that expression of the needs, opinions and desires of Massachusetts people may be heard in the discussions of the national Society and be influential in its decisions; and on the other hand, that the action of the national Society may be received here as something in which we have had a part and for which we have a responsibility. With proper efforts on the part of the national Society to keep in touch with what was being thought and said in Massachusetts the present estrangement ought not to have arisen.

As far as concerns supplying the needs of Massachusetts churches, within the last four years appropriations for Massachusetts objects have been increased. The President of our Conference assures the committee that in no recent instance have his recommendations been disregarded; nor have the grants suggested by him been reduced in amount.

It should be clearly understood that wide inquiry has brought before this committee no case whatever occurring within the last three years which furnished cause of complaint against the Building Society. As far as concrete cases of neglect or failure go, the present distrust of the Building Society is based wholly on events which took place from five to ten years ago, or even longer. It is open to question whether this change in practice is due to a more sympathetic understanding of our needs, or to other reasons.

2. The resolution of the Conference uses the expression that the money for church building should be "retained" and used for Massachusetts churches. The process could not be as simple as that. The money while collected by the Conference, does not pass through the hands of the officers of the Conference with power to apply it in their discretion. It is a part of the comprehensive apportionment plan adopted by the Massachusetts Conference and the National Commission on Missions. The only way in which the purpose of the resolution to "retain" the money could be effected would be to have the apportionment for Church Extension Boards reduced and a corresponding addition made to the apportionment for the Massachusetts Conference. Presumably in such case the Church Extension Boards would charge the reduction to the Building Society. It would be only after a reconstruction of the proportions used in the apportionment plan that the Conference could with propriety obtain any money for church building purposes; and that it would receive it by virtue of the apportionment, not retain it from funds of which it had the disposal. Enough has been said, probably, to show that the analogy of the former Massachusetts Home Missionary Society and the National Congregational Home Missionary Society does not apply. The Massachusetts Society was long in the field before the national Society was formed. Contributions were made to the Massachusetts Society and it sent forward to the National Society such part of its receipts as seemed wise. There was no apportionment plan.

A further reason why independent state action is less well adapted to church building projects than to general missionary activity is found in the fact that the latter is continuous and fairly uniform; whereas the need of a church for a building is not of annual recurrence. It may well happen that in one year there may be no need, no promising opportunity for church building throughout a rather large community; and the next year there may be three or four churches in the same community which come to a crisis where building is necessary. A society with one large field can more easily meet emergencies and at the same time maintain a fairly uniform scale of expenditure.

3. The resources of the Building Society are two; and its methods for giving aid are two. It receives under the apportionment plan annual contributions; these are the product of current gifts and constitute a recurring income. They amount to about $160,000 per year. Its second source of income is an endowment of about $1,200,000.

The Society makes grants for the building of churches; it also makes loans for building churches and parsonages. The grants are made from the annual contributions, and they result in a final disposal of that money. The loans are ordinarily repaid; they come from a fund made up of income from endowment and repayment of past loans. The distinction between grants and loans should be carefully held in mind; loans should not be compared with, or used to account for annual contributions; nor should the repayment of loans be considered as derogating from the value of grants which are not to be repaid. In the discussions before the committee this distinction has not always been observed.

4. The resolution of the Conference when carried out can have no other effect than the withdrawal of Massachusetts from its proper part in the national Building Society. The Society is told that it cannot be trusted with the Massachusetts building program. It may have a little of the apportionment money, presumably to be used in other parts of the country but we will take care of ourselves and keep our money to do it with.

It is not in human nature that so deep and practical an expression of distrust should leave the other party in a mood to coöperate in the part of the work that is left.

The plan contemplated by the resolution inevitably involves setting up an independent church building agency in Massachusetts.

What would then be the relation between the Massachusetts Congregational Conference and the national Building Society? It is easy to conclude that Massachusetts would not expect any grants from the annual contributions administered by the national Society. There remains the endowment of the Society, four-fifths of which came from one Massachusetts legacy. In any event the Massachusetts churches ought to share in the benefit of that endowment.

Still more we ought not to turn our backs upon the national Building Society. It is our Society. Earlier in this report it has been stated how much in origin and support it is our Society. Our true policy is to make this Society responsive to the needs of Massachusetts. More than that we ought not to wish.

The Congregational Church Union itself offers a most excellent opportunity for its supporting churches to promote the growth and supply the needs of new churches in the metropolitan district. It is a local organization designed to supply local needs. It ought to afford sufficient opportunity for churches and individuals who wish to devote gifts to purely local objects.

There are, however, throughout the state churches and individuals who wish to have a part in the larger work of the national Society, including the aid it renders to newer communities. There are those who do not wish to have Massachusetts practically excluded from the field of the national Society.

There are those who would think it selfish and highly inconsistent with the missionary spirit to keep Massachusetts gifts for Massachusetts purposes. Finally there are many who would grieve at a parting in virtual distrust between the Massachusetts Conference and the Church Building Society.

The ideal relationship between the Massachusetts churches and the Church Building Society would be where there should be sympathetic understanding on the part of the Society of the needs and opportunities of our churches and a desire to do all that can be done; and on the part of our churches and people a disposition to value, if not to defer to, the judgment of the officers of the Society as representing the opinion of men equally well disposed with the advantage of a more detached viewpoint. The committee is unwilling to believe that this relationship cannot be attained.

If it ever should come to a point where the Massachusetts constituency could no longer respect or trust the Building Society, the remedy ought not to be secession, but reformation within the Society. The committee reiterates that the Congregational Church Building Society is our Society.

5. The committee wishes to record its belief that Massachusetts is proper territory for the activities of the Congregational Church Building Society. We think it appropriate to raise the question whether extension of Congregationalism into new fields is quite as important as sustaining it in the home of its origins. We are not quite so much concerned whether the church in the next new Dakota town is Congregational, Baptist, Methodist or something else. We would like the inhabitants to be Christians. But here is our own Commonwealth in which the Congregational Church is the historic church, the natural home of our religious life, where faith founded on reason and enjoyed in freedom is so well expressed and nourished in the Congregational churches, it is the part of the Massachusetts Conference, the Church Building Society, and the Congregational Church Union, all alike, to see that no effort is omitted to sustain amid changing conditions the Congregational churches.

6. The committee thinks it proper to suggest ways in which the methods of the Building Society might be improved.

The attitude of its officers is not as yet that of sympathetic understanding. As before intimated, the Building Society is not refusing applications from Massachusetts churches for reasonable aid; but it has not as yet been able to divest itself of habits of action and expression which imply a feeling of superiority to those with whom it deals. It lays down arbitrary rules which it says cannot be modified.

To be specific, the Building Society should not refuse to coöperate with the Congregational Church Union on terms of equality. It should not insist that the mortgages accompanying its grants and loans should have priority over those of the Union. It should include in its mortgages only its own contributions and those of other donors who expressly desire such inclusion. It should not refuse to assist during the construction of a church and insist that its contribution should be only the final payment. It should pride itself upon flexibility and adaptation to varying needs, rather than upon standardized procedure. In every Massachusetts case there ought to be personal contact between the officers of the Society and one or more of the responsible men of the church which is to receive aid. If any enterprise is important enough to receive the Society's money, it is important enough to warrant somebody in making the journey between

New York and Massachusetts; when the people concerned have met each other, both sides ought to know that they are dealing with men, equals not servants, not dependents, not masters; they might even consider that both parties are trying to bring in the Kingdom of God.

It is the opinion of the committee that the Building Society should give careful consideration to the question whether the time has not arrived when some part of the income of endowment should be disposed of in grants, rather than accumulated as a loan fund.

7. It seems to this committee so unlikely that the Massachusetts Conference really intends to withdraw from coöperation with the Church Building Society, that but little need be said on two subjects that would be important if that should really occur. First, what would become of national Congregational enterprises if our example, presumably good example, should be pretty generally followed? Second, how much secretarial and clerical work would be imposed upon our executive staff? How much additional expense would inevitably be incurred in doing the work?

The committee recommends to the Trustees:

1. That the Trustees report to the Conference that they have found it impracticable during the present year fully to comply with the instructions contained in the resolve adopted at Greenfield in 1928, and can only transmit to the Conference these results of its efforts in the hope that they may contribute to a final and righteous settlement.

2. That they advise the Conference, with all the deference due from officers to their constituent body, that they hope that the plan of independent action in the matter of church building may not be insisted upon and that the additional duties which that plan would involve may not be imposed upon the Trustees.

3. That the Conference adopt a policy of coöperation with the Congregational Church Building Society, and that as a part of such coöperation it seek to have a larger representation and greater influence in the councils of that Society.

4. That as a means of dealing with unusual cases and with matters in which a difference of judgment persists after patient negotiation, an Advisory Board be constituted by the appointment of one representative of the Congregational Church Building Society, one representative of the Massachusetts Congregational Conference and the appointment by these two of a third member; and that this Advisory Board shall give its decision upon all questions respecting the amounts and condition of loans and grants.

The Trustees advise that the Conference pass the following resolves:

Resolved: That the Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society seeks the coöperation of the Congregational Church Building Society in carrying out an adequate program of building for Congregational Churches in Massachusetts; that it is entitled to receive from the officers of the Building Society sympathetic and interested attention to the opportunities and problems of Massachusetts Churches; and that it holds itself ready to accept with respect the opinions of the officers of the Building Society.

Resolved: That this Conference expresses its belief that the methods of the Congregational Church Building Society should be made more flexible; that a greater consideration should be shown to the needs of churches receiving aid; and a greater respect shown to local organizations partaking in the same undertakings; that in Boston and vicinity the Building Society should act in close association with the Congregational Church Union; that there should be maintained in the governing boards of the Congregational Church Building Society an effective and substantial representation of the Massachusetts churches fairly commensurate with the support given to the Society by those churches.

Resolved: That no further action be taken in pursuance of the plan contemplated by the resolution on this subject passed by the Conference at Greenfield in 1928.

APPENDIX

Action of the Congregational Church Union of Boston

At the meeting of the Board of Directors of the Congregational Church Union of Boston and vicinity, held at 14 Beacon Street, Boston, on January 24, 1929, the following resolutions and statements were adopted:—

Whereas, at a meeting of the corporation, Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society, held at Greenfield, May 22, 1928, the following resolution was adopted:—

"Resolved:—That the Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society hereby authorizes and instructs its Board of Trustees to negotiate a working agreement with the Congregational Church Building Society whereby a certain percentage of the money given by Massachusetts Congregational Churches for church building purposes shall be retained and used for Massachusetts churches whose applications for grants and loans have the endorsement of the Trustees. As to the percentage to be retained we would recommend that the Trustees give due consideration to the 65% and 35% suggested by Mr. Samuel Usher of the Congregational Church Union."

Whereas, the said Board of Trustees of the corporation, Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society at a subsequent meeting passed the following vote:—

"Voted:—That a committee of three be appointed by the Chairman of the Board to investigate the church building situation in Massachusetts as affected by grants and loans made by the Congregational Church Building Society and to report to the Board what action should be taken in view of the passage by the Conference at Greenfield of the following resolution." (See resolution quoted above.)

Whereas, the Committee appointed in accordance with said vote, Messrs. Rowell and Burbank and Mrs. Mix, have sought our advice, counsel and position with respect to the issue here involved:—

Now Therefore be it Resolved, that the following is a statement of our understanding of the principles involved and of the policies which we recommend in the premises:—

1. The resolution adopted by the corporation, Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society at Greenfield, on May 22, 1928, above quoted was the result:—

(a) of consideration of the subject matter for a number of years;

(b) of abundant proof of the fact that, until 1923, an unwarranted percentage of funds supplied by Massachusetts churches and donors to the Congregational Church Building Society was being spent in districts outside of Massachusetts while there was need of these funds in Massachusetts;

(c) of obvious acknowledgment of that fact by a prompt change of policy by the Congregational Church Building Society by reason of the action taken at Great Barrington in 1923;

(d) of realization that such new policy on the part of the Building Society was subject to further change or amendment following a possible change of officers or a change of policy in the present officers;

(e) of a desire that a new policy, making certain a continued recognition of the needs of the Massachusetts field should be made permanent;

(f) of a conviction that such new policy should be placed in written and binding form.

2. The working agreement which in our opinion should be negotiated, should contain the following features:

(a) Sixty-five (65%) per cent of funds received from Massachusetts churches for church building purposes should be retained in the treasury of the corporation, Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society, in a special fund for those purposes; and no part of it should be sent to the Congregational Church Building Society to contribute to its overhead expenses or for any other purpose;

(b) That thirty-five (35%) per cent of such funds should be sent to the Congregational Church Building Society for its general uses;

(c) That the sixty-five (65%) per cent above described should be disbursed in the entire discretion of the Board of Trustees of the Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society; and if it is disbursed on loans, the avails of the loans, when received, should likewise be in the control of and disbursed by the Board of Trustees of that corporation;

(d) The Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society should, from such funds, pay all necessary expenses of its administration.

3. The vote of the Massachusetts Conference and Missionary Society at Greenfield on May 22, 1928, was a mandate of the corporation directing its officers to carry out its will, substantially in accordance with the above declaration of principles.

From numerous documents and copies of documents placed in our hands by Dr. Page, Mr. Usher and other officials of the Congregational Church Building Society and of the Massachusetts State Conference, the following facts appear:—

1. For many years the Congregational Church Building Society has been receiving very large contributions from Massachusetts churches, which it has used for its general uses.
2. Up to 1923 the Congregational Church Building Society did not make loans or grants within the territory of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts anywhere near commensurate with the needs here existing, although urged to do so.
3. Such grants and loans as were made up to 1923 by the Congregational Church Building Society were not available until the structure being built was completed, that is, installment payments for use of a contractor as the work was proceeding were not permitted under the methods of business adopted by the Congregational Church Building Society.
4. Owing to the action of the Massachusetts State Conference at Great Barrington in 1923, which has been repeatedly quoted to us, the Congregational Church Building Society began to make larger contributions towards satisfying the needs of the struggling churches in the territory of Massachusetts, and this policy has continued to the present time.
5. The Congregational Church Building Society has not changed its method of refusing to advance moneys until the entire completion of structures being built on the basis of the loan.
6. The Congregational Church Building Society receives back practically all of the loans made in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, and then uses these funds for the general uses of the Society.
7. It seems clear that the following things should be accomplished:—

(a) A permanent arrangement not subject to change of officers of the Congregational Church Building Society, or change of policy of its officers, whereby funds in an adequate amount should never leave the territory of Massachusetts but should be applied to continuous uses here.

(b) Control of the funds by the Massachusetts authorities so that if they deem best they can advance funds during the process of construction and on terms that may vary from one case to another as is now done by the Congregational Church Union of Boston and vicinity.

(c) Provision whereby loans returned on such Massachusetts advances shall remain in the control of the Massachusetts body; by this provision the amount to be retained of the annual gifts of the Massachusetts churches as years go by might possibly be lessened in the first instance, as experience might show that the revolving fund's increase took care of a larger proportion of Massachusetts' needs.

(d) A definite personnel in Massachusetts, if necessary to handle this situation independently.

The foregoing resolutions and their supporting facts as alleged were first adopted by the Business Committee of the Union and later by the Board of Directors as hereinabove stated with direction to the Clerk that he submit the said resolutions and facts to the consideration of the special committee of the Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society.

OREN C. BOOTHBY,
Clerk.

The report of the Trustees was accepted by the Conference and ordered to be printed in its records. The report was also referred to the Business Committee.

The following resolutions as recommended by the Business Committee were unanimously adopted by the Conference, May, 1929.

Resolved: That the Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society seeks the coöperation of the Congregational Church Building Society in carrying out an adequate program of building for Congregational Churches in Massachusetts; that it is entitled to receive from the officers of the Building Society sympathetic and interested attention to the opportunities and problems of Massachusetts Churches; and that it holds itself ready to accept with respect the opinions of the officers of the Building Society.

Resolved: That this Conference expresses its belief that the methods of the Congregational Church Building Society should be made more flexible: that a greater consideration should be shown to the needs of churches receiving aid; and a greater respect shown to local organizations partaking in the same undertakings; that in Boston and vicinity the Building Society should act in close association with the Congregational Church Union; that there should be maintained in the governing boards of the Congregational Church Building Society an effective and substantial representation of the Massachusetts churches fairly commensurate with the support given to the Society by those churches.

Resolved: That no further action be taken at present in pursuance of the plan contemplated by the resolution on this subject passed by the Conference at Greenfield in 1928; that, in view of a statement by Rev. E. M. Halliday, general secretary of the Congregational Church Building Society, of a conviction on his part that that corporation was disposed to accord with all suggestions, looking toward true coöperation as set out in the trustees' report to the conference, and, by corporate action and action of its governing officers probably would take action permanently to correct methods stated in paragraph 6 in that report and to remove other elements of misunderstanding, the subject matter of that report be deferred until the next annual meeting of this conference, and the Trustees be directed to report to the Conference of 1930 upon the subject of the relations between the Conference and the Congregational Church Building Society.

STATISTICAL TABLES

EXPLANATORY

The tables which follow comprise:

1. The statistics of the churches, giving the ministers, church membership, additions, removals, Sunday schools, and the amount of benevolences and expenses. These tables, in accordance with the vote of the Conference, in 1887, are made to conform to those in the Year Book; but names in the pastoral column are changed according to the latest information before going to press.

2. The Associations of the churches, with the names of officers and the times of meeting.

3. The Ministerial Standing, giving the date of ordination of each minister, the date of membership, the residence and his "employment." "P. C." means pastor by council; "P.," pastor otherwise; "W. C." means without church; other abbreviations are self-evident. "W. C.," however, includes many who have retired from active service, and some who are in business.

4. The Ministerial Record containing lists of ordinations, installations, dismissals, and deaths.

The tables of the first part contain the names of all the Congregational churches in Massachusetts, the towns and cities being arranged alphabetically; churches in each town according to age. If the post office name of the church and the town name differ, a foot-note on the page where the post office name would naturally be found will direct the reader to the town name.

Church members and families are reported as numbered January 1, 1929. Admissions and removals cover the year 1928. "Absent" are not additional to "males," "females" and "total," but included in them. "Sunday school" includes total membership of officers, teachers and scholars, January 1, 1929, or when the school is in operation (if not at that date), covering "branch schools," "mission schools" and "home departments," so far as maintained by the reporting church.

The months and days in the dates of the organization of churches are omitted. They will be found in the publications of 1873, those of churches since organized being given in the "Minutes" of each year. Also the months and days in the dates of ordination and installation of ministers are omitted. The former may be found in the lists of the local Associations which follow the tables.

"Ordained" denotes the date on which the person was originally set apart to the ministry by the "laying-on of hands." "Commenced" denotes the date of the beginning of his present pastorate.

In accordance with the recommendation of the National Council, in the Statistical Tables pastors installed are marked "i."; pastors recognized by a council called for that purpose are marked "r."; pastors duly called by their churches, but not installed or recognized by council, are not marked.

Blanks in any column of figures are never equivalent to "none," but mean "no report"; but blanks in the column of ministers do mean that the church has no pastor or acting pastor, and the blank is left for the convenience of those who note changes.

Under Sunday Schools, "c" denotes cradle roll, "h" home department, "e" both cradle roll and home department, and "m" a mission or branch school.

In the final column, under valuation of church property, an asterisk * indicates that the church has a parsonage (value included), or in a very few cases that house rent for the minister is paid in addition to the stated salary.

The condensed form in which the Year Book tables are published this year offers the reader an opportunity for personal computation, as, for example, to find the number of female members, subtract the number of male members from the total.

Ordinations, Installations and Recognitions

In this list "o." denotes ordination without installation; "i.," installation; "o. i.," ordained and installed; "r.," recognition as pastor; "o. f. m.," ordained as foreign missionary. But owing to the indefinite reports, "o." may sometimes be an error for "o. i."

ALPHABETICAL LIST OF MINISTERS

This list gives the names of pastors, or acting pastors, and of all Congregational ministers who are members of the Associations or Conferences that guard ministerial standing.

Ministers who are not reported as having ministerial standing in this state, and who have not been installed by council, are designated by a star (*). This does NOT mean that the man has no ministerial standing.

The first column of figures gives the page on which names may be found of all in pastoral service. A blank in the first column signifies that the person is not reported as being in pastoral service in this state.

The second column of figures gives the page on which ministerial standing is recorded.

The post-office addresses as given below often differ from the places named in the tables, and are supposed to be correct in this list.

An alphabetical list of licentiates follows this list.

SPECIAL NOTICE.—IF your name is not correctly printed in the preceding tables, IF one Christian name is not given in full, IF your ordination is not correct or is not in its proper place, IF your post-office is wrong, or IF before you receive the next Year-Book your post-office is changed, or IF your name is omitted from this list, the needed change or correction should be reported at once to the Rev. Henry Lincoln Bailey, Longmeadow, Mass., Registrar of the Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society.

ARTICLE I

Terminology

Whenever in these by-laws the word "Conference" is used it shall be held to refer to the Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society.

ARTICLE II

Denominational Basis

Following Congregational principles, this Conference shall under no circumstances exercise authority over churches or individuals or interfere with the government or discipline of the churches. It shall advise and counsel the churches when requested, but it is recognized that each church has the power of self-determination in all matters.

ARTICLE III

Doctrinal Basis

This Conference declares its steadfast allegiance to the faith which our fathers confessed, which, from age to age, has found its expression in the historic creeds of the Church Universal and of this Communion.

ARTICLE IV

Membership

1. Each evangelical Congregational church in this Commonwealth may annually choose two delegates (of whom, it is suggested, one shall be a layman and the other a lay-woman) and these delegates, together with the pastor or pastors of each church (who shall be members ex officio), the officers of the Conference (including the members of the Board of Trustees), the committee members of the Conference, and those persons who prior to May 22, 1923, became life members of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, shall constitute the voting membership of the Conference.

2. Delegates from corresponding bodies and persons appointed to speak before the Conference, together with all persons heretofore constituted honorary members of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, such persons as may be made honorary members by a vote of the Board of Trustees, and such other persons as the Conference may from time to time vote to admit, shall be honorary members of the Conference, with the privilege of speaking, but without vote.

ARTICLE V

Officers

1. There shall be a moderator, one or more vice-moderators, a president, a secretary, a recording secretary, a secretary of Missionary Promotion, a project secretary, a secretary of the Department of Woman's Work, a registrar, a treasurer, and an auditor, all of whom shall be elected by ballot at the annual meeting of the Conference and shall hold office for one year and until their respective successors are chosen and qualified. The chairman and vice-chairman of the Department of Woman's Work shall also be elected by ballot at the annual meeting of the Conference from among the women members of the Board of Trustees and shall in like manner hold office for one year and until their respective successors are chosen and qualified.

2. There shall be a Board of Trustees consisting of twenty-four members (at least one third of whom shall be women) together with the moderator of the Conference ex officio. The trustees in office at the date of the adoption of these by-laws shall serve for the full terms for which they were respectively elected. At the annual meeting of 1928, two trustees to serve for one year, two to serve for two years, two to serve for three years, and two to serve for four years, shall be elected by ballot. At the annual meeting of 1929 and at each annual meeting thereafter six trustees, each to serve for four years, shall be so elected. No trustee after serving a full term of four years shall be eligible for re-election until after one year. Eight members of the board shall constitute a quorum. At its first meeting after each annual meeting of the Conference the Board shall choose one of its members to serve as chairman for the ensuing year. Except as otherwise provided in the charter of the Conference or in these by-laws, the Board shall administer and dispose of the property of the Conference and shall manage all its business and affairs and all officers and agents of the Conference shall act under its direction. Without restricting the generality of the foregoing, the Board shall in particular have the following powers: —

(a) To choose a clerk, to appoint its own meetings and form its own rules of business, to appoint sub-committees and to delegate any of its powers to such committees.

(b) To appoint and, at pleasure, remove all agents of the Conference and to define their duties.

(c) To fill any vacancy in any office of the Conference (including vacancies in the membership of the Board) until the vacancy shall be filled at a succeeding meeting of the Conference.

(d) To remove any officer of the Conference (other than members of the Board) who may be guilty of disregard of his duties or of such conduct as shall be seriously prejudicial to the interests of the Conference.

(e) To direct efforts to promote missionary interest and giving among the Congregational churches of the Commonwealth.

(f) To report before the close of each annual meeting on the amount of money needed for the ensuing year from the churches connected with this Conference on a per capita basis of membership to meet such percentages of the expenses of the National Council, the Board of Pastoral Supply and the Massachusetts Federation of Churches as may be allocable to these churches and miscellaneous expenses and ways and means for meeting the need.

3. The terms of all officers, save when chosen to fill vacancies, shall begin at the close of the meeting at which they are elected.

ARTICLE VI

Duties of Officers

1. The moderator, or in his absence, one of the vice-moderators, shall preside over all meetings of the Conference.

2. The president shall be the chief executive officer of the Conference and shall, subject to the direction of the Conference and of its Board of Trustees, have general charge of its missionary and benevolent work and of its other activities. He shall be a member ex officio of all standing committees named in the by-laws with the exception of the nominating committee. He shall be the representative of the Conference and of its Board of Trustees among all the churches (both those financially independent and those aided by the funds of the Conference) and in all denominational and interdenominational gatherings (including meetings of state superintendents) unless representation is otherwise provided. He shall, when requested, assist a pastor or church with fraternal counsel. He shall keep informed as to opportunities for extension work through founding new churches or strengthening old ones and shall recommend to the Conference and to the Board of Trustees measures for meeting such opportunities.

3. The secretary shall keep the records of the Conference and shall assist in its general work under the direction of the president. He shall devote himself, in particular, to the care and oversight of churches financially aided by the Conference and shall perform such other duties as may be assigned to him by the Board of Trustees. He shall have the custody of the records and of all bonds given by the treasurer as hereinafter provided.

He shall furnish copies of the record certified under the seal of the Conference (which shall be in his keeping) to such persons as may be entitled thereto.

4. The recording secretary shall assist the secretary in keeping the records of the Conference and shall take his place at meetings of the Conference in his absence. The Board of Trustees may, in their discretion, appoint a deputy to assist in the keeping of the records under the direction of the recording secretary.

5. The secretary of missionary promotion, with the help and advice of the Committee on Missions and Apportionment hereinafter provided, shall have the duty of advancing the interest of the churches in the work of missions at home and abroad. He shall, under the direction of the president, assist, so far as he may be able, in the general work of the Conference.

6. The project secretary shall be concerned with the assignment of missionary projects, both home and foreign, and shall perform such other duties as may be assigned to her by the Board of Trustees. She shall, under the direction of the president, assist, so far as she may be able, in the general work of the Conference.

7. The secretary of the Department of Woman's Work shall have special charge of promoting missionary interests and all other activities among the women of the Congregational churches of the Commonwealth. She shall, under the direction of the president, assist, so far as she may be able, in the general work of the Conference.

8. The registrar shall collect and publish in connection with the annual Report of the Conference the statistics of ministers and churches and make up the official roll of the ministers and churches in accordance with the usages of the denomination. He shall present to the Conference at its annual meeting a general statistical statement of the progress of religion in the churches for the past calendar year. He shall give suitable notice to the churches of the time and place of each annual meeting, notify officers and committees of their election or appointment and fulfill such other functions as the Conference or the Board of Trustees may from time to time direct.

9. The treasurer shall receive and hold the property of the Conference subject to the direction of the Board of Trustees and shall keep particular accounts of the Conference's funds and of the disposal thereof. He shall, under the direction of the president, assist, so far as he may be able, in the general work of the Conference and shall perform such other duties as may be assigned to him by the Board of Trustees. He shall make a report at each annual meeting of the Conference and shall make such other reports as the Conference or the Board of Trustees may from time to time require. 2. The department shall provide by its rules for the appointment of a nominating committee, which shall propose to the nominating committee of the Conference the names of women members of the Board of Trustees and shall propose to the department the additional members of its executive committees. This nominating committee shall annually propose to the nominating committee of the Conference from among the women members of the Board of Trustees a chairman and a vice-chairman of the department.

ARTICLE VIII

Meetings

1. The Conference shall hold its regular annual meeting for the choice of officers, the hearing of reports, the discussion of matters of general interest and the transaction of other business at the appointed place on the third Monday of May at 2 P.M., or at such other time in the month of May as the Board of Trustees may deem expedient.

2. Special meetings of the Conference shall be convened at such times and places as may be determined by the Board of Trustees, provided, however, that notice of any special meeting so convened shall, at least one week before the date of the meeting, be sent by mail to each of the churches connected with the Conference, posted in the general office of the Conference and published in newspapers in Boston, Worcester and Springfield respectively.

3. The moderator or, in his absence, one of the vice-moderators or, in the absence of all of them, some member of the Board of Trustees shall call the Conference to order.

ARTICLE IX

Committees

1. Immediately after the opening of the annual meeting the moderator shall appoint:—

(a) A Committee on Credentials, to which all credentials shall be referred.

(b) A Business Committee, the duty of which shall be to prepare and present at each session all matters of business not presented through some other committee of the Conference.

2. The following standing committees shall be elected by viva voce vote:

(a) A Program Committee, of which the registrar of the Conference and the pastor of the church which is to entertain the next annual meeting shall be members ex officio. At the annual meeting of 1928, two members of this committee shall be elected to serve for one year, two to serve for two years and two to serve for three years. At each annual meeting thereafter two members shall be elected to serve for three years. This committee shall prepare the program for the next annual meeting and shall select the preacher of the annual sermon and the various speakers at each session.

(b) A Nominating Committee of seven, consisting of the retiring moderator of each annual meeting together with six other members, at least two of whom shall be women. This committee shall make all nominations required by these by-laws or by vote of the Conference. At the annual meeting of 1928, three members shall be elected to serve for one year and three to serve for two years. At each annual meeting thereafter three members shall be elected to serve for two years. The retiring members shall not be eligible for re-election for at least one year. The names of women proposed as provided in Article VII by the nominating committee of the Department of Woman's Work as candidates for election to the Board of Trustees and as chairman and vice-chairman of the department shall, if approved by the nominating committee of the Conference, be included in its report to the Conference.

(c) A Committee on Missions and Apportionment of which the members of the Committee on Missions and Apportionment of the Massachusetts Congregational Conference as heretofore constituted shall be members for the terms for which they were respectively chosen. At the annual meeting of 1928 the Conference shall elect from the Board of Trustees one member to serve for one year and from the churches at large two members to serve for three years. At the annual meeting of 1929 the Conference shall elect from the Board of Trustees two members to serve for one year and from the churches at large two members to serve for three years. At each annual meeting thereafter the Conference shall elect from the Board of Trustees three members to serve for one year and from the churches at large two members to serve for three years. The Committee shall represent the Conference in its relations with the national Commission on Missions, particularly in the following respects:

(i) In bringing before the Conference the amount proposed by the Commission on Missions as the total objective under the apportionment plan with a recommendation as to the fair share to be assumed by the Massachusetts churches.

(ii) In approving percentages for the distribution of Massachusetts contributions among the national societies and for work within the state.

(iii) In subdividing the total amounts recommended by the Massachusetts State Conference to be raised for the designated purposes and referring the amounts to the local associations and the individual churches for their acceptance.

(d) A committee on Religious Education, of which the members of the Committee on Religious Education of the Massachusetts Congregational Conference as heretofore constituted shall be members for the terms for which they were respectively chosen and of which those persons who are members of that committee ex officio shall in like manner be members ex officio. At each annual meeting four members shall be elected to serve for three years. The duty of the committee shall be to foster in all the churches religious education, including education in matters concerning missions. This committee (or such other committee as the Conference may designate) shall supervise the State Committee of Congregational Young People (provision for which was made by vote of the Massachusetts Congregational Conference in 1927 and which shall be continued as contemplated by that vote until otherwise determined) such supervision to be exercised in the following ways:—

(i) The character and representative basis of membership of the State Committee of Congregational Young People to be subject to the approval of the supervising committee of the Conference;

(ii) Two members of the supervising committee of the Conference to serve ex officio as members of the State Committee of Congregational Young People;

(iii) Any action taken by the State Committee of Congregational Young People to be subject to the review and approval of the supervising committee of the Conference, which committee shall be authorized to pay out of the amount voted to it by the Conference such a sum as it may deem advisable toward the necessary expenses of the State Committee of Congregational Young People.

3. Such other committees as the Conference may vote to constitute shall be elected by viva voce vote at each annual meeting for such terms as the Conference shall determine. The Board of Trustees shall present at each annual meeting a list of the committees the appointment of which it recommends.

4. It shall be the general practice of the Conference, without making it an arbitrary rule, that at least one-third of its Committee members be women.

5. The reports of all committees that are to be presented to the Conference shall be furnished to the registrar on or before April 1, of each year and shall be printed and distributed to the churches not less than two weeks before the annual meeting. These reports shall not be read to the Conference save by special order, but the Program Committee may arrange for the adequate discussion of any or all of the topics presented in the reports.

MONDAY AFTERNOON

The Conference was called to order at 2.03 by the Moderator, Mr. Sheridan R. Cate, Pittsfield. Worship was conducted by the Chaplain, Rev. Shepherd Knapp, Worcester.

Rev. J. B. Parry, pastor of the entertaining church, welcomed the Conference. Response was made by the Moderator.

The Moderator made the following committee appointments:

Business Committee: Rev. O. T. Fletcher, Springfield; Rev. Daniel Bliss, Boston; Mrs. James A. Lobban, Webster; Miss Emma O. Nichols, Lexington; Joseph M. Smith, West Springfield; Victor H. Morse, Spencer.
Committee on Credentials: Rev. Henry L. Bailey, Longmeadow; Rev. Edward U. Cowles, Westfield; William S. Shaw, Springfield.

The report of the Board of Pastoral Supply was given by Rev. A. J. Covell, Boston. It was voted to accept the report and place it on file.

The Seaman's Friend Society's report was presented by Rev. A. P. Pratt, Greenfield. The report was accepted and placed on file.

The report of the Committee on Missions and Apportionment was presented by C. E. Burbank, West Boylston. The report was accepted.

The following recommendations were adopted:

I. That the churches be urged to enter heartily into the matter of realizing the Plan of Advance by subscribing to their proportionate number of the Tercentenary Offering shares at $5 each. The task of subscribing to 20,000 of these shares among a membership of 140,000 would not seem too difficult.

II. That we accept as our fair share the goal of $770,000 for our state contributions for the year 1931.

III. That gifts not designated by the donors for specific objects be divided on the following basis:

American Board, 42½%.
Congregational Home Boards, 43½%.
State of Massachusetts, 14%.
The state's 14% includes 1% for the Boston Seaman's Friend Society.

IV. That inasmuch as the proper and efficient financial administration of the missionary and benevolent offerings of the churches requires that church treasurers should make remittances to Oliver D. Sewall, Treasurer, 14 Beacon Street, as often as once a quarter, i.e., January 1, April 1, July 1, and October 1, we urge the adoption of this practice in all our churches.

The recommendation that the sum of $300 be appropriated for the expenses of the committee was referred to the Budget Committee.

The recommendation of the Conference that an amount equivalent to $\frac{1}{5}$ of the local expenses of the churches be raised for benevolences was referred to the Business Committee.

The report of the Committee on Religious Education was presented by Rev. E. E. Aiken, Dorchester. The recommendation that $800 be appropriated for the use of the committee was referred to the Budget Committee. The report was accepted.

The report of the Committee on Worship was presented by Rev. B. D. Hall, Florence. The report was accepted.

The report of the Committee on Ministerial Standing was presented by Rev. A. V. House, Somerset.

The following recommendations were adopted:

I. That the standards of procedure set forth by this Conference in 1929 be recommended to the District Associations for adoption.

II. That ministers of other denominations should secure regular standing as Congregational ministers before being accorded voting power as pastoral delegates in our Councils and Associations.

III. That regular standing in the Congregational ministry means: a. Ordination. b. Present membership in a Congregational church. c. Present membership in a Congregational Association regularly holding ministerial standing.

IV. That this Conference place itself on record as holding that all churches sitting as voting members in Congregational Councils shall be Congregational churches, themselves recognized by regularly constituted Associations of Congregational churches.

V. The recommendation that the rule governing the voting membership in an Association Council should govern also in a Vicinage Council, was referred to the committee for further study.

It was voted that the Business Committee be asked to give time for further discussion of this report.

It was voted that the pastors and delegates from Christian churches be made honorary members of this Conference meeting.

The report of the Committee on Personnel was presented by Rev. H. W. Kimball, Needham. The following recommendations were adopted:

I. That the State Conference request the Trustees to appoint from their membership one person for each of the standing committees of the Conference to act as a connecting link between the Trustees and the committees, this person to be invited to be present at all meetings of the committee, without voting power, but to report and interpret to the Trustees the work of the committee and to the committee the desires of the Trustees.

II. In order that the personnel of the Conference may be as representative as possible, unless it be for some exceptional reason, no person be nominated to hold more than one office in the Conference.

III. That there may be the largest possible recognition of ministers and laymen in the Commonwealth, the Nominating Committee should give special thought to men and women who have not recently held any office within the gift of the Conference.

It was voted that the Registrar be requested to send a copy of this vote to the Nominating Committee every year.

The Conference then took a recess to 7.30 in the evening.

MONDAY EVENING

Business Session

The Committee on Relations with Swedish-speaking Churches made its report through Rev. Clarence W. Dunham, Dorchester.

The following recommendations of the committee were adopted:

1. That a committee be constituted to develop fraternal relations with our Swedish churches.
2. That Associations of churches cultivate fellowship with the Swedish churches on their rolls, laying emphasis not on the per capita tax principally, nor on apportionment giving to our Board, but on Christian fellowship and common service.
3. That a page or requisite space be set aside in our annual Conference report for the printing of the record of missionary contributions made by our Swedish churches through their own work.
4. That we recommend to the National Council that appropriate space be set aside similarly in the Year Book for the recording of the missionary contributions of our Swedish Congregational churches throughout the country.

The following greeting from the Eastern Missionary Association of Swedish-American Churches was received:

The annual meeting of the Eastern Missionary Association of Swedish-American Churches in New England, New York and New Jersey, held in Providence, Rhode Island, today, sends brotherly greetings. Accept our heartiest gratitude for the spiritual inspiration and financial aid you so generously have given our Swedish-American Churches from earliest years of our work. Especially do we appreciate the labors of Dr. F. E. Emrich and his associate in our behalf. May the presence of God be manifest in your gathering and the Spirit of Christ lead you in your deliberations.

It was voted that the Business Committee make suitable reply to these greetings.

The Business Committee presented the following resolution which was adopted:

In view of the persistent and misleading campaign of propaganda carried on by selfishly interested people who directly and indirectly assail the 18th amendment to the Constitution, — we hereby call upon the ministers and people of the Congregational churches to stand firm in defense of the 18th amendment. We call upon all citizens (wet and dry) to work and vote for the retention of the so-called Baby Volstead Act as a valuable weapon in the hands of the state and local police. We further heartily commend the allied Temperance organizations which are carrying on the campaign against nullification of law in Massachusetts.

It was voted that the Registrar transmit the foregoing resolution to the pastors, press and Governor.

Rev. Oliver D. Sewall, for the Trustees, recommended the following budget which was adopted:

|---|---|
| National Council (8 cents per church member) | $13,359.20 |
| Cong'l Board of Pastoral Supply (1⅝ cts. per member) | 3,112.40 |
| Massachusetts Federation of Churches | 1,818.00 |
| Committee on Missions and Apportionment | 300.00 |
| Committee on Religious Education | 800.00 |
| Committee on Moral and Social Welfare | 100.00 |
| Committee on Churches and Colleges | 150.00 |
| Nominating Committee | 50.00 |
| Travel of Missionary pastors and workers to Conference | 300.00 |
| Office and Miscellaneous Expenses | 2,079.07 |
| | $22,068.67 |

That an allotment of 13 cents per member be made on the churches to provide for these expenditures.

That the traveling expenses, incurred in attending committee meetings, be paid all members of committees appointed by the Conference or Board of Trustees.

The Business Committee made the following recommendations which were adopted:

1. That the invitations of the United Church, New Bedford, and the Bethany Cong'l Church, Quincy, to hold the sessions of the Conference at these churches in 1931 and 1932 respectively be accepted.

2. That the President, Rev. Frederick Harlan Page, be instructed to reply to the greetings and felicitations of the Cong'l Union of England and Wales, which were read before the Conference.

3. That the recommendation of the Board of Trustees regarding the relationship of the Mass. Conference and the Church Building Society, in which they advise that no further action be taken in pursuance of the plan contemplated by the resolution on this subject passed by the Conference at Greenfield in 1928, be adopted.

4. That the following recommendation from the Board of Trustees be adopted: That Article IX, section 2, paragraph d, of the By-Laws, be amended by striking out the words "and of which those persons who are members of that committee ex officio shall in like manner be members ex officio" and substitute "together with such members of the executive staff of the Mass. Cong'l Conference, not to exceed three members, as are related to educational activities and as may be designated as ex officio members."

5. That the following amendment to Article IV, section 1, be referred for action to the next annual Conference: "Each lay delegate shall present to the Registrar of the Conference a certificate of his or her election as delegate by his or her church signed by the clerk or pastor of the church in order to qualify as a voting member of the Conference.

6. We recommend that the torturing of wild creatures in steel traps should be speedily abolished, and that the Massachusetts Congregational Conference endorse the program mapped out by the Anti-Steel-Trap League, Massachusetts Division, in the proposed law to be submitted in a referendum at the election on Nov. 4, 1930.

The Nominating Committee presented the name of Rev. Lucius H. Thayer, Brookline, as a member of the Board of Ministerial Relief, and he was elected.

The Committee on Ministerial Standing made the following recommendation which was adopted:

That the committee be continued and that the name be changed to the "Committee on Polity and Standards for the Ministry." That to this committee be entrusted the task of bringing the standards adopted by this Conference, 1929 and 1930, to the attention of the Associations and of the churches. That the sum of $100 be appropriated for the work of the committee during the coming year.

It was voted that the thanks of the Conference be given to Rev. W. M. Macnair, Cambridge, author of the Pageant, and to Mrs. G. H. Payne, Springfield, the director, for their services in behalf of the Pageant.

After benediction by President Frederick Harlan Page, the Conference took a recess until 8 o'clock in the evening.

Coincident with the Conference, and a part of it, a Young People's Conference was held at the First Baptist Church with the following program of addresses:

"Progress toward World Peace" — Prof. S. R. Harlow, Northampton.
"The Fight for Prohibition in 1930" — Rev. F. B. Fagerburg, Springfield.
"Religion and Life" — Rev. J. B. Parry, Springfield.

Conferences on these topics were led by the speakers after which a Young People's banquet was held.

The Conference banquet was held in Hope Church at six o'clock with Rev. A. P. Pratt, Greenfield, acting as toastmaster.

TUESDAY EVENING

The session opened at 8.15 o'clock with worship led by the Chaplain, Rev. Shepherd Knapp.

Mr. Arthur J. Davis, Secretary of the Mass. Anti-Saloon

League, gave an address, "Massachusetts Loyal to the Constitution." This was followed by an address by President Paul D. Moody of Middlebury College, Vermont, on "The Most Dangerous Ignorance."

Following the benediction by President Moody the Conference took a recess until nine o'clock Wednesday morning.

WEDNESDAY MORNING

At nine o'clock simultaneous conferences were held.

1. On Worship — Rev. John Moore, Amesbury, leader.

Addresses were given by Rev. O. E. Maurer, New Haven, on "The Deeper Aspects of Worship"; by Rev. Hugh MacCallum, Everett, on "Our Traditional Attitude in Worship"; and by Rev. John Moore, Amesbury, on "Some Needed Notes in Modern Worship." A discussion and open forum followed.

2. On Religious Education. Addresses were given by Rev. H. W. Gates, Boston, on "What should be the Aims of Christian Education?" and by Rev. C. C. Keith, Boston, on "What Do We Lack?"

Business Session

At 11.05 the Conference was called to order for a business session. The reading of the minutes was waived.

Rev. E. B. Robinson, Holyoke, presented the following resolution which was adopted:

That the President of the Massachusetts Conference be instructed to send to the West Central African Mission now celebrating its Centennial our sincere greetings in deep gratitude for the inspiration and illumination given to us by Dr. Mary Cushman of that mission.

The Business Committee presented the following resolution which was adopted:

In behalf of the delegates, the officials and guests of the Massachusetts Conference, the Business Committee desires to express to the pastor of this church, Rev. J. Burford Parry, to the officials of the church, to the women of the church, to the choir and the organist, and to all others who have helped to make this session of our State Conference so delightful, profitable and enjoyable, our sincere appreciation of the privileges we have enjoyed and the help we have received, making our conference in this church one long to be remembered. We express our appreciation of the hospitality enjoyed in the homes of this parish and pray for the continued peace and prosperity of this church, its pastor and its people.

It was voted that the Secretary and Recording Secretary be authorized to complete the minutes.

The Credentials Committee made the following report:

|---|---|
| Number of churches represented: | |
| By pastors only | 109 |
| By pastor and one delegate | 58 |
| By pastor and two delegates | 50 |
| By one delegate only | 16 |
| By two delegates only | 11 |
| | 244 |
| Individuals (deducting duplicates) | 435 |

It was voted that the thanks of the Conference be extended to Mr. Sheridan R. Cate, who so ably has presided over this Conference.

Following the business a period of worship was conducted by the Chaplain, Rev. Shepherd Knapp. The benediction was pronounced by Rev. H. G. Parsons, Pittsfield, after which the Conference adjourned.

ALFRED V. BLISS, Secretary.

REPORT OF THE PRESIDENT

Not long ago, the President of the Conference was called upon to participate with others in the rededication of a church edifice to which a beautiful chancel had been added. That which most impressed all the people who were rejoicing in the occasion was that the addition to the edifice looked as if it had always been there, so fitting was its design and so harmonious with the architecture of the church. So it may also be said of the great change which was made by the Congregational churches of Massachusetts two years ago by which they were united for the first time in their history into one great incorporated body. It seems as if it had always been so. While there was careful planning extending over a prolonged period, when the merger of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society and the Massachusetts State Conference was finally accomplished at Greenfield in 1928, the new organic structure came into being, as it were, without sound of chisel or hammer. This was due, in a large measure, to the common opinion that the changes which had been going on in the National Council organization and in the National Home Missionary organizations and in the American Board made it altogether advisable that the churches of the several states should unite to do the particular work that was being assigned to them.

A new state consciousness was called for, and it has been steadily growing since 1925. An outside impetus was given to this movement in Massachusetts by the decision of the women not to conduct their work through an independent organization, but to become the Department of Woman's Work of the Massachusetts Congregational Conference.

We find, therefore, and so report it as a momentous fact, that our churches are joining in one accord in developing a new and great incorporated body wherein all the Congregational churches of Massachusetts are feeling a new sense of united relationship. There was such a sense of union among the home missionary churches, which embraced about one-quarter of all the Congregational churches, but now the other three-quarters join in this feeling and concert of action and the line of division between financially dependent and independent churches may be said to have vanished. We are one body, with one Executive Staff and one set of officers, having to do with all of the churches, all of the time, in a great variety of helpful services. Room No. 611, 14 Beacon St., may be properly referred to as "headquarters," but it is not, and is never likely to become, a seat of authority.

Your President is glad to report that all the difficulties of the past year have been of one sort, namely, how to give to the churches promptly the many new and varied kinds of assistance which they are seeking. It would seem as if a great flood of applications had been long accumulating for just such an opportunity to seek aid or counsel as soon as it should be afforded. The long record of the Home Missionary Society during many years of financial and pastoral care of the dependent churches reflects great credit on that organization. The surprising situation developed now is seen in the many needs that our independent churches had as well as those that are dependent, and which have been heard from immediately, now that all the churches are united.

Under our Congregational form of government, most of the problems arising in a church come inevitably upon the minister, and he gladly avails himself of the opportunity of consulting with the Executive Staff of the Conference. Also laymen and laywomen bearing church responsibilities have begun to visit the office in increasing numbers. The inquiries brought to us are along the entire line of the problems of a church. General information is sought, precedents asked, counsel as to ways and means, and particular advice in plans extending all the way from church building enterprises to details concerning the administration of devotional and educational organizations within the church.

The visitation of the churches by members of the Executive Staff has greatly increased both on Sunday and on special week-day occasions, and this is with reference to the state as a whole — from Newburyport to South Egremont, and from Provincetown to Williamstown.

There have been no changes in the Executive Staff during the year, and, happily, no cases of sickness. All the Staff have been exceedingly busy, both men and women, week days and Sundays. It is a great pleasure to report that the Secretary Emeritus, Dr. Emrich, is constantly concerned in the tasks which he continues to carry, including, first of all, the conduct of ministerial relief. He has visited many churches during the year and continues to meet the many who come to the office for those personal consultations which are valued so highly in the great circle who look to him as to a father in God.

The Board of Trustees has been a faithful and hard-working body. It is becoming apparent that the duties increasingly coming upon them cannot be discharged in the overwrought limits of a half a day a month. In addition to the duties of the Standing Committee of the Board, the Trustees have had special tasks of research and investigation laid upon them like planning for the Tercentenary, the investigation of the relationship of the Swedish-speaking churches and the other churches of the Conference, and arranging for the Convocation of Ministers. Such special duties are bound to increase under the new order of things. The Trustees who retire at this time by reason of the expiration of their terms of service are as follows: Rev. Horace F. Holton, Rev. C. W. Collier, Enos H. Bigelow, M.D., Charles E. Burbank, Mrs. Charles N. Thorp, and Mrs. John V. Holt. We shall be fortunate, indeed, if by the sytem of rotation in office which is wisely embodied in the constitution of the Conference, the new directors serve the churches with such fidelity and ability as those who now retire. It may be said in particular regard to the services of Rev. Dr. Holton, Chairman of the Board for the past year, and of Dr. Bigelow, that they have borne an important part in the prolonged considerations resulting in the inauguration and development of the new order under which our Massachusetts churches are now incorporated.

The Treasurer's report exhibits the financial situation so clearly and fully that it is unnecessary to go into details. It may be pointed out, however, that the total receipts were $184,847, and the total expenditures, $186,655. It was necessary to draw out $1,808 from the Contingent Fund to balance the account. The expenditures were very slightly less than for the preceding year when they were $191,000, which was the largest expenditure on record. It is of interest to note that of the receipts for missionary work, $68,000, or practically forty per cent, came from the churches under the apportionment giving, and $101,000, or sixty per cent, came from the invested funds of the Conference. Constant pains have been taken to keep the overhead expenses at a minimum, and we estimate that this percentage is between ten and eleven cents on the dollar. The fact that our receipts under the apportionment are a little less than last year is entirely due to the reduction of the askings by Massachusetts from the Survey Committee by three-quarters of one per cent for nine months of the fiscal year and one and one-quarter per cent for the last three months of the year. It is the purpose of the Conference to keep its expenditures within its income, and this has been done during the past year within less than one per cent.

The President speaks not only for himself but for all his associates on the Staff in saying that the work committed to us has real urgency and is happily and heartily administered to the very best of our ability. That it should meet with such general and kindly appreciation is gratefully acknowledged.

Two observations of a general character may be made:

First and foremost, our Massachusetts churches need to make a special effort toward maintaining the great missionary and benevolent enterprises through which they minister the gospel of Christ at home and abroad. In recent years there has been a falling off in missionary income. A generous check recently received toward the Plan of Advance was accompanied by a note to the effect that the falling off in missionary income was due to the kind of preaching heard in most of our churches. The problem is not nearly so simple as that; it is indeed a complex one. There are more reasons than there are fingers upon our hands, which need to be taken into account. When the Panama Canal was dug, the engineers knew that at some places along the Canal, like the Culebra Cut, there would be some big slides of earth before the work was finished; and so it proved. The Canal had to be deepened and widened. It is owing to many traits of our general human nature that there have been some serious slides in the financial support of our great missionary enterprises. The only way to check this slipping is to deepen and widen our interest in ministering the gospel of Christ. We must check the decline by a positive resolve to advance. The great missionary enterprises of our denomination come to us as a heritage from earlier generations. In Massachusetts more than in any other of the states of the Union it is appropriate that we raise the $100,000, which is our fair share toward the Plan of Advance, by a Tercentenary Offering "In gratitude to God for the Christian founders of our Commonwealth and of our Congregational churches." It is good to report that this plan is being heartily received by our churches and that effective promotion is being carried out in nearly all of our twenty-three local associations.

The second general observation is that our churches are affected by the great confusion which is so marked a characteristic of modern life. Scientists, inventors, discoverers are pouring into modern life a fullness of material elements which fills our days to overflowing. It all comes about so suddenly that we know not how to take the new and superabounding situation. We are like those who walk with difficulty facing the high cross winds of March weather blowing us about and confusing us. We are tempted to think in this new day with all its new opportunities that life itself is different. It is not so. Life is always the same, whatever its variety and wealth of conditions. Life is spiritual. We are here for service. We must live by prayer. Our chief aim is to glorify God, be true friends, kind neighbors, honest and virtuous people, self-forgetting and self-sacrificing followers of Jesus. It is as true today as it ever was that for us "to live is Christ." Participation in the church of Christ is our noblest endeavor. Response to the spirit of Christ in meeting definite human need is the highest call we can ever hear. It is a wonderfully new material world and we know not what we may anticipate in the future, but the spiritual world we know, and we must not be driven off our course by the great and increasing confusion of our day. We need to hear the Master say to us, "Peace; be still." Also we need to remember that the fullness of life is not in its outer conditions, but in its inner spirit.

We of the official staff pledge ourselves to the utmost endeavor in behalf of our Massachusetts churches and through them for the extension of the kingdom of our Lord at home and abroad.

REPORT OF THE CHAIRMAN OF THE DEPARTMENT OF WOMEN'S WORK

Lucile S. Harvey

It is now two years since the women of this state gave up their distinct organization and became a department of the State Conference. They are eager and willing to bear their full share of responsibility for the carrying out of the whole program of the Church. It might be profitable to turn our attention for a few moments to a recapitulation of the situation, stating the goals to be reached and the methods for accomplishing them.

To this audience I need do no more than make a brief statement as to our goals. We are all well aware of the great needs in the world around us: human misery brought about by wrong economic conditions; poverty; lack of opportunity; want of knowledge and training along all lines, physical, mental, spiritual — causing warped and under-developed personalities — indeed a vicious circle.

We also are agreed that the only way by which personality can have a chance to expand and grow is by the way of Christ who said that He came that we might have life and have it more abundantly. If we are truly followers of Christ, we can not fail to realize the universality of his teachings. What applies to one, applies to all, no matter the color of skin or situation in life. It is then a truism to say that the chief function of the Christian Church to-day is the spread of the knowledge of Jesus Christ and His teachings, and the application of them to the problems of modern life.

The lay people of the Church, under the spiritual guidance of prophetic ministries, must take the lead in working out solutions to perplexing problems which confront us to-day: Problems of economic significance — such as the right use of money, the relationship between capital and labor, the causes of unemployment, the effect of purchases on production, etc.: Problems of education and family life, that our children may be so trained that they may find answers to the problems of their day: Problems of national and international import, that peace and universal brotherhood may come on earth. These problems the missionaries have been helping us to see the significance of, and have been working out solutions for them, in their own fields.

We, as followers of Christ, must be concerned with the betterment of the social order. Leadership should be assumed by the Church. The women compose two-thirds of the membership of the Church. If the Church is to accomplish this big task, the women of our churches must know about the problems, must be taught the Christian solution to them, and be organized to influence public opinion on their behalf. As a recent editorial in the Christian Century puts it: "Unless the womanhood of the Church can be given a mode of self-expression within the church on behalf of the social order, worthy to be called Christian, the Church itself cannot save the world."

How are the Congregational women of Massachusetts prepared and ready to help the Church in this great purpose?

First: as individuals.

Has not the time come when the distinction between layman and woman can be done away with in our church work? Can not the person be chosen for the particular task, because of personal fitness for undertaking it, irrespective of sex? Although it is conceded that men as a rule are better fitted for handling financial matters, the church property and investments, still women are more and more taking an active part in business, and caring for their own property. If responsibility for this part of church life rests with the men, surely the women should be represented on such church committees as boards of trustees, prudential committees, and budget committees.

When our churches are all as carefully planned as are our business concerns; and budgets are prepared for both home expenses and benevolences by men and women working together, the men might assume the responsibility for raising these budgets by whatever method is adopted by the church; the women would naturally expect to have a share in such support of the church, serving on every-member canvass committees, and pledging regular subscriptions for both church expenses and benevolences. The women could render great help in raising the benevolence budget especially, because of their long training in the cause of missions and their sacrificial enthusiasm for the work.

If the financial aspect of church work is left to the leadership of the men the women might be given the responsibility for the educational side of church life, under the direction and with the cooperation of the pastor. They might constitute the major part of the central committee of the church dealing with all phases of religious education, for men, for women, young people, and children — planning for mission institutes, discussion groups, round-table conferences, world-service Sunday schools, boys' clubs and girls' clubs, etc.

But it is with women as an organized group that I wish particularly to deal. The distinctive woman's organization in the local church has proved itself to be a powerful factor in the life of our churches. There is no doubt but that it will continue to be so. Women have leisure during the day, executive ability and an eagerness to be of service through the channels of the church. With financial obligations assumed by the men and women together for both church support and benevolences, these attributes and capabilities of the women of our churches could be released and they could assume an influence and leadership in the community as church women. Here lies a challenge to the womanhood of our churches calling for the best she has in her; that she might know the situation in the world to-day, study the problems confronting thinking people, and having determined what would seem to be a truly Christian answer or attitude, influence public opinion about them in order to obtain results.

It is for the purpose of aiding these local women's societies that the department of women's work of the State Conference exists. It aims to help the women in obtaining information concerning world conditions, and to pass on to them the findings of national and international boards and Commissions who have experts constantly at work formulating such Christian attitudes. Such recommendations, for instance, as come from the Federation of Woman's Boards of Foreign Missions of North America, as follows: "that all church organizations create an intelligent and widespread public opinion which knows what the Pact of Paris really means and is determined that our government shall never dishonor its signature; "that the Boards urge upon their constituencies a definite program of education to make the Peace Pact effective in its whole purpose, in order to develop a general and genuine will to Peace; "that there is a distinct need for a program of discussion to enlighten the Christian public as to the far-reaching social changes due to the impact of modern industrialism in the Orient and Africa."

Such studies as these called for, can be made in small discussion groups or classes by having debates on definite situations, and by addresses from experts in various fields; we keeping in mind, constantly, however, that it is impossible to find answers to our problems from the point of view of Christ's teachings, if we are not ourselves closely in touch with the mind of Christ. Hence we, of the department of women's work, are eager to help in the fostering of the spiritual life of the women of the churches in every way possible. We are urging upon them greater attention to the devotional part of all their meetings, the establishment of prayer groups, and classes in personal religion.

All this educational work heads up in the state's committee on Religious Education, with its sub-committees in each association. With the women's organizations represented on these association committees, both educational and missionary, we have an open way for close cooperation. Several of the associations are already finding such a method of work both possible and efficient. Take, for example, Essex South and Barnstable, where women with long training in the woman's organization, are proving most valuable as chairmen of the Missionary Committees of the associations. They have even gone so far, down on the Cape, as to give the woman there full ministerial standing.

There are other associations doing equally valuable work, the women being used on all committees.

And so, as time goes on, we hope and expect that the vigor, enthusiasm, and power of the women, combined with the ever deepening spiritual insight which they will find under the leadership of the ministers, will enable the Church to maintain its fundamental purpose of building the Kingdom of God.

REPORT OF THE REGISTRAR

An old lady, new to the radio, complained that the air was too full of statistics. Sometimes the same may be said about the Registrar's report, but I hope to be lenient. It is 20 years since we met last in Springfield, although the National Council brought many of you here in 1923. Now, as in 1910, there are 13 churches on the Springfield roll, but four old names are gone and four new ones have been added. Their membership has increased 70 per cent, a trifle better than the city's growth, while the Conference membership has grown 38 per cent in the 20 years. Then there were 45 men in church membership for every 100 women; now there are 56. Roll revision loomed so large in early reports this year that a loss in membership seemed possible for the first time since 1900. But the tide turned, and the report from New Bedford, where Trinitarian and the North Christian had formed the United Church, was a statistical boost of over 700. The final reckoning shows a gain of 2,777, and the total is 169,767.

The roll of churches remains at 606, the Swedish Church of Springfield resigning and the new Wachogue Church of Springfield being added. I may anticipate next year's report by announcing one loss by merger and three additions in the last few weeks. The sensational features of the year's statistics, such as large accessions, many baptisms, heavy pruning, generous giving, are embodied in the charts appended to this report. No records for the state have been broken except the steadily growing totals of church membership and property valuation which has reached nearly $36,000,000, an increase of some $800,000, in contrast to a total apportionment giving of $618,000, a decrease of $22,000 for the year.

For several years Massachusetts has been gaining in promptness in sending its completed schedule to the Year Book, although there is no reason to be proud of sending it on March 22, except the fact that it was six days earlier than last year. Five churches were absolutely unresponsive, and as many more might as well have been as far as concerns the value of the reports or apologies received. The Registrar derives inspiration, desperation, entertainment, information and various other by-products from his 600 annual contacts with the clerks and some pastors who are his statistical collaborators. Reports vary in truthfulness from painstaking accuracy to happy-go-lucky guesses, in neatness from perfection to penciled scrawls, and in completeness from fullness to almost nothing. Comment by one clerk as to seniority started a search which revealed five clerks dating back as far as 1888 when the Year Book began printing clerks' names. One,

Mrs. Hayward of Agawam, has just died after 55 years of service; an assistant serves for Mr. Prouty of North Hadley; but Johnson of Easthampton, Dummer of Byfield, and Woodbury of the Salem Tabernacle are still going strong.

One matter of ecclesiastical polity has agitated the Registrar recently to the point of public utterance today. The old custom of installing pastors for life has gone by the board, and only 27 per cent of our churches have pastors installed for a season. As an alternative to installation which demands a dismissing council if the pastor leaves, a perfunctory occasion usually or the occasional cause of unhappy publicity, there has arisen the recognition council which proceeds as for installation but evades the legal status which demands an ecclesiastical divorce. There are 25 of our pastors labeled this year as "recognized," but the Registrar has his doubts concerning some. A Sunday night service in which the local Methodist pastor and one or two Congregational pastors close by share in exchange of verbal bouquets and apostolic greetings is not a recognition council. Without going behind the returns, the Registrar has credited every minister claiming to be recognized; but he urges upon the scribes of district associations a review of such credits in their respective districts and a watchfulness that such credits in future be fairly earned.

NECROLOGY

Were I limited tonight, like Calvin Coolidge's rock-hewn history of the United States, to 500 words, it would not give me 13 words each for 40 men who have passed from our sight. I could not recite for each his name, age, place of birth and death, college and seminary and a list of his parishes. Sixteen former pastors were not on the conference roll. I knew but two of them, Edward Hays and my classmate, John Kilbon. They were born in 15 states, including England, Scotland, Norway, Prussia and Ontario, and their deaths occurred in nine widely separated states. Their average age was a trifle less than 70, ranging from 41 to 86.

Henry Augustus Blake was seven years at Athol, 11 at Webster, and acting pastor at Spencer. Edward Ernest Braithwaite was five years at West Somerville. Lewis Sherman Clark was at St. Mark's in Boston for a year. John Cowan spent 17 years at South Deerfield and Southampton. James Elvin was assistant at Maplewood in Malden, and pastor at South Ashburnham and the two Douglas churches. Edward Christopher Hays gave a dozen years to Uxbridge, Montague, New Braintree, Acton and Enfield. John Luther Kilbon, 11 years a Sunday School editor in the Congregational House, Boston, was there again for two years as treasurer of our Home Missionary Society after 16 years as pastor of Park Church here in Springfield. Fritz W. Martini was for seven years over our German church of Fitchburg. William Shaw Aiton Miller was at East Bridgewater seven years and shepherded the Scotland church three of those same years. Warren Morse, while a student at Williams College, cared for the White Oaks church four years and South Williamstown also for two. Morten Olsen was nine years over the Norwegian church of Boston. Sidney Kingman Perkins, ordained in Weymouth, returned to his native state for pastorates at West Springfield and South Ashburnham. Charles H. Pettibone was at Southbridge four years. Pearse Pinch began his ministry at South Natick and Dover. Lewis Van Etten Price was 20 years in the state, at Adams, South Boston, Somerville and Brockton. Frank L. Stacy was two years at Buckland.

Twenty-three members of the Conference are also on the list of our loved and lost awhile. They were born in 13 states, including India, Scotland, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and South Carolina; and while 16 died in this state, the other seven were as far apart as Maine, Florida and California. There were but two younger than 62, and the oldest was 84, the average being exactly 73. Yale, Amherst and Michigan were their leading college preferences, and Yale, Bangor and Andover were the chief seats of their theological education. The average man was ordained nine days before he was 29, and his ministerial career lasted 44 years, seven having passed the semicentennial of their ordination. Six were still in the pastorate and seven were emeritus pastors. How lovingly and appreciatively would I linger over these names, did time permit. But as I briefly call the roll, you may with fond recollection frame the eulogy for each that his service deserves for quality or quantity or diversity.

William Thomas Beale was 25 years in our pulpits at Campello, Harvard in Dorchester, and the two Dedham churches in succession. Edwin Victor Bigelow divided 36 years almost equally between Cohasset, Lowell Eliot and Andover South. Edgar Franklin Blanchard was four years at Warwick long ago and later four years at Centerville. Howard Appleton Munson Briggs was five years at Huntington. Collins Grant Burnham was 20 years at Chicopee First and four years my predecessor as Conference secretary, resigning both positions under doctor's orders. Samuel Clarke Bushnell, after 11 years at Acushnet, now New Bedford First, was for 30 years pastor at Arlington and emeritus since 1920. Wilson Riley Buxton was a dozen years at South Acton, Millis and South Ashburnham. Walter Webster Campbell was 17 years at Concord Junction and 22 at Rockport. Walter Wells Curtis was twice at the Village Church in West Stockbridge, for 26 and 7 years, and emeritus 9 more, caring also for the First Church two years. In the adjoining town of Stockbridge Charles Williams Fisher served 15 years. It seems almost the unpardonable sin merely to catalog the 45 years of George Angier Gordon at the Old South in Boston, and the 52 years of Robert Allen Hume at Ahmednagar, India. Charles Hezekiah Hamlin was three years at Chester and six at Pittsfield South before settling to his 28 years at Easthampton plus 16 as emeritus. Charles Lyon Hill gave seven years each to North Hadley and Goshen. Thomas Guy Langdale was 20 years in Salem, Haverhill and Lawrence. Stephen Allison Norton was eight years pastor emeritus at Woburn First after a 20-year pastorate. In 45 years Lewis Edward Perry ministered to a dozen churches, seven of them on our roll, Duxbury, South Dartmouth, South Sudbury, Paxton, Ayer, Scituate and Grove Chapel in Lakeville. Robert L. Rae began with five years at the East parish of Rochester and 13 at Waldo in Brockton, followed later by 16 in the North Church of Newton. Frank Ellsworth Ramsdell was five years in Gardner and four in Cambridge besides his 26-year service in the North Church of New Bedford. Ezra Allen Slack was a business man who had a New Hampshire pastorate and later held ministerial membership in Suffolk West Association 28 years. Lewis Jay Thomas had two pastorates in this state, nine years in Peabody and 13 in Duxbury where he was briefly pastor emeritus after retiring. Charles Burns Wathen was another pastor emeritus whose six pastorates included three in Massachusetts, covering 30 of his 45 years of active ministry, at Chelmsford, Rehoboth and South Dartmouth. Edward Clark Winslow was briefly pastor at Attleboro Falls. His ministry for nearly 40 years had been for Little Wanderers rather than to overfed sheep within the fold. Mention should also be made of Howard R. May, not ordained, who after service in West Deerfield and Bernardston was ministering at Harwich when death took him.

[To this list should be added, from later knowledge, Bernis S. Crosby, who ministered eight years in Monterey, Buckland and Greenwich.]

I have called the roll, almost perfunctorily, but not, I assure you, heartlessly. Through all the penning of this paper Henry Van Dyke's tribute to the poet Stedman has been echoing in my mind, and I voice it for these splendid men whose call anticipated ours.

Oh, quick to feel the lightest touch
  Of beauty or of truth,
Rich in the thoughtfulness of age,
  The hopefulness of youth,
The courage of the gentle heart,
  The wisdom of the pure,
The strength of finely tempered souls
  To labor and endure!

The blue of springtime in your eyes
  Was never quenched by pain;
And winter brought your head the crown
  Of snow without a stain.

The poet's mind, the prince's heart,
You kept until the end,
Nor ever faltered in your work,
Nor ever failed a friend.

You followed, through the quest of life,
The light that shines above
The tumult and the toil of men,
And shows us what to love.
Right loyal to the best you knew,
Reality or dream,
You ran the race, you fought the fight,
A follower of the Gleam.

We lay upon your folded hands
The wreath of asphodel;
We speak above your peaceful face
The tender word, Farewell!
For well you fare, in God's good care,
Somewhere within the blue,
And know, today, your dearest dreams
Are true — and true — and true!

REPORT OF THE AUDITOR

May 13, 1930.

Massachusetts Congregational Conference,
and Missionary Society,
Boston, Mass.

Dear Sir:

I have caused the books and records of the Treasurer of the Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society for the year ending March 31, 1930, to be examined by Messrs. Patterson, Teel & Dennis, Certified Public Accountants, for the purpose of verifying the transactions of that period involving both the general funds of the Conference and Society and the funds held by it in trust.

The accountants report that all income receivable during the year from the Society's investments, except certain interest accrued on savings accounts, had been duly received and accounted for. They report a book value of $1,754,923.22 in the general account and $127,269.51 in the Trustee account. To the best of my knowledge and belief this statement is correct.

The various securities held have been exhibited to me by the Treasurer or been otherwise satisfactorily accounted for. This corresponds to the total of such securities as given me by the auditors.

Very truly yours,

EDWARD B. MILES, Auditor.

BEQUESTS

Bequests to the Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society are used to aid weak churches and to promote the work and interests of the Conference in the State. The practice of the Conference is to divide unrestricted legacies into three equal parts. One part is used for current work; one part is added to the Permanent Legacy Fund, the income only of which is used for general purposes; and the third part is added to a Contingent Fund, the principal of which may be drawn upon to care for special undertakings or to avoid a deficit. Bequests may be made permanent funds by the donor, and the Conference restricted to use only of income.

Bequests to the Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society pay no Massachusetts inheritance tax.

FORM OF BEQUEST

I give to the Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society incorporated under the laws of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, the sum of.....Dollars.

TRUST FUNDS

The Conference is glad to receive bequests to be held in trust for the benefit of churches. No charge is made for administering such trusts.

Legacies are frequently made by large-hearted men and women to churches. It is not an easy matter for parish committees, some of which have had no experience in handling trust funds, to make wise and safe investments. The Conference feels that it has a legitimate concern in seeing that the principal and income of these funds are properly safeguarded. It therefore strongly urges churches to place such funds in its care. The Conference has exceptional facilities for keeping funds safely and investing them profitably and wisely. The Board of Trustees of the Conference, which has charge of all its funds, contains men of large ability and experience in such matters. The churches may avail themselves of the service of this ability and experience without expense.

CONDITIONAL GIFTS

The Conference receives conditional gifts, subject to annuity agreements with the donors, and encourages this method for those who wish any part of their property to be applied to our work after their death, and desire an assured income from this property for themselves, or for others whom they may designate as beneficiaries, so long as they live. Correspondence with the Treasurer concerning such annuity agreements is invited.

THE CONGREGATIONAL UNION OF SPRINGFIELD

PRESIDENT, REV. GARRETT V. STRYKER

CLERK, REV. JOHN B. LEWIS TREASURER, W. L. RICHARDS

In coöperation with the Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society, the Congregational Union of Springfield supervises the home missionary work in Springfield.

All contributions for home missionary work in Massachusetts by the churches of Springfield should be made to the Congregational Union, and will be credited on the apportionment. In accordance with the mutual agreement between the two organizations, ten per cent. of the contributions for current work received by the Union is paid over to the Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society.

The Congregational Union of Springfield is incorporated under the laws of Massachusetts and may receive bequests and hold property.

THE WORCESTER CITY MISSIONARY SOCIETY

PRESIDENT, REV. FRED A. MAC DONALD
TREASURER, E. G. SEAL

The Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society, by agreement with the Worcester City Missionary Society, is responsible for the financial assistance and the supervision of home missionary churches in Worcester in their current work, while the Worcester City Missionary Society represents the fellowship of the Congregational churches of the city in aid to churches in the matter of their property, contributing toward the purchase and maintenance of property and the payment of building debts.

Contributions for home missions from the churches in Worcester, to be credited on the apportionment, should be sent to the Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society. Contributions for the local work, given in addition to the apportionment and not to be credited as a part of it, should be sent to the treasurer of the Worcester City Missionary Society.

GRANTS FROM THE MASSACHUSETTS CONGREGATIONAL CONFERENCE AND MISSIONARY SOCIETY

1. Wherever a community is too distant from a church to benefit from its privileges, the Conference encourages the establishment of regular religious services, and, if possible, the organization of a church, or a branch of a neighboring church.

2. Applications by any church for financial aid should be made by the vote of the church, and upon forms furnished by the Conference, and should have the approval of the Advisory or Missionary Committee of the local Association of Churches.

3. Churches applying for aid must show that they have met in full all financial obligations to their ministers and are doing their utmost toward self-support.

4. In granting aid the Conference will appropriate different amounts according to the necessity, importance, and prospects of each field.

5. Every church aided by the Conference must consult the President or Secretary before making arrangements for pastoral service.

6. Whenever the service of the minister or other worker, for whose support an appropriation is made, shall terminate, the appropriation shall lapse, except for special reasons satisfactory to the President.

7. The Conference advocates adequate compensation for every minister and worker.

8. The Conference favors hearty coöperation with other denominations, the avoidance of overlapping and competing work, and the consolidation or federation of churches of different denominations in over-churched communities.

STATISTICAL TABLES

EXPLANATORY

The tables which follow comprise:

1. The statistics of the churches, giving the ministers, church membership, additions, removals, Sunday schools, and the amount of benevolences and expenses. These tables, in accordance with the vote of the Conference, in 1887, are made to conform to those in the Year Book; but names in the pastoral column are changed according to the latest information before going to press.

2. The Associations of the churches, with the names of officers and the times of meeting.

3. The Ministerial Standing, giving the date of ordination of each minister, the date of membership, the residence and his "employment." "P. C." means pastor by council; "P.," pastor otherwise; "W. C." means without church; other abbreviations are self-evident. "W. C.," however, includes many who have retired from active service, and some who are in business.

4. The Ministerial Record containing lists of ordinations, installations, dismissals, and deaths.

The tables of the first part contain the names of all the Congregational churches in Massachusetts, the towns and cities being arranged alphabetically; churches in each town according to age. If the post office name of the church and the town name differ, a foot-note on the page where the post office name would naturally be found will direct the reader to the town name.

Church members and families are reported as numbered January 1, 1930. Admissions and removals cover the year 1929. "Absent" are not additional to "males," "females" and "total," but included in them. "Sunday school" includes total membership of officers, teachers and scholars, January 1, 1930 or when the school is in operation (if not at that date), covering "branch schools," "mission schools" and "home departments," so far as maintained by the reporting church.

The months and days in the dates of the organization of churches are omitted. They will be found in the publications of 1873, those of churches since organized being given in the "Minutes" of each year. Also the months and days in the dates of ordination and installation of ministers are omitted. The former may be found in the lists of the local Associations which follow the tables.

"Ordained" denotes the date on which the person was originally set apart to the ministry by the "laying-on of hands." "Commenced" denotes the date of the beginning of his present pastorate.

In accordance with the recommendation of the National Council, in the Statistical Tables pastors installed are marked "i."; pastors recognized by a council called for that purpose are marked "r."; pastors duly called by their churches, but not installed or recognized by council, are not marked.

Blanks in any column of figures are never equivalent to "none," but mean "no report"; but blanks in the column of ministers do mean that the church has no pastor or acting pastor, and the blank is left for the convenience of those who note changes.

Under Sunday Schools, "c" denotes cradle roll, "h" home department, "e" both cradle roll and home department, and "b" a mission or branch school.

In the final column, under valuation of church property, an asterisk * indicates that the church has a parsonage (value included), or in a very few cases that house rent for the minister is paid in addition to the stated salary.

The condensed form in which the Year Book tables are published this year offers the reader an opportunity for personal computation, as, for example, to find the number of female members, subtract the number of male members from the total.

ALPHABETICAL LIST OF MINISTERS

This list gives the names of pastors, or acting pastors, and of all Congregational ministers who are members of the Associations or Conferences that guard ministerial standing.

Ministers who are not reported as having ministerial standing in this state, and who have not been installed by council, are designated by a star (*). This does NOT mean that the man has no ministerial standing.

The first column of figures gives the page on which names may be found of all in pastoral service. A blank in the first column signifies that the person is not reported as being in pastoral service in this state.

The second column of figures gives the page on which ministerial standing is recorded.

The post-office addresses as given below often differ from the places named in the tables, and are supposed to be correct in this list.

An alphabetical list of licentiates follows this list.

SPECIAL NOTICE.—IF your name is not correctly printed in the preceding tables, IF one Christian name is not given in full, IF your ordination is not correct or is not in its proper place, IF your post-office is wrong, or IF before you receive the next Year-Book your post-office is changed, or IF your name is omitted from this list, the needed change or correction should be reported at once to the Rev. Henry Lincoln Bailey, Longmeadow, Mass., Registrar of the Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society.

BY-LAWS OF THE MASSACHUSETTS CONGREGATIONAL CONFERENCE AND MISSIONARY SOCIETY

ARTICLE I

Terminology

Whenever in these by-laws the word "Conference" is used it shall be held to refer to the Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society.

ARTICLE II

Denominational Basis

Following Congregational principles, this Conference shall under no circumstances exercise authority over churches or individuals or interfere with the government or discipline of the churches. It shall advise and counsel the churches when requested, but it is recognized that each church has the power of self-determination in all matters.

ARTICLE III

Doctrinal Basis

This Conference declares its steadfast allegiance to the faith which our fathers confessed, which, from age to age, has found its expression in the historic creeds of the Church Universal and of this Communion.

ARTICLE IV

Membership

1. Each evangelical Congregational church in this Commonwealth may annually choose two delegates (of whom, it is suggested, one shall be a layman and the other a lay-woman) and these delegates, together with the pastor or pastors of each church (who shall be members ex officio), the officers of the Conference (including the members of the Board of Trustees), the committee members of the Conference, and those persons who prior to May 22, 1923, became life members of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, shall constitute the voting membership of the Conference.

2. Delegates from corresponding bodies and persons appointed to speak before the Conference, together with all persons heretofore constituted honorary members of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, such persons as may be made honorary members by a vote of the Board of Trustees, and such other persons as the Conference may from time to time vote to admit, shall be honorary members of the Conference, with the privilege of speaking, but without vote.

ARTICLE V

Officers

1. There shall be a moderator, one or more vice-moderators, a president, a secretary, a recording secretary, a secretary of Missionary Promotion, a project secretary, a secretary of the Department of Woman's Work, a registrar, a treasurer, and an auditor, all of whom shall be elected by ballot at the annual meeting of the Conference and shall hold office for one year and until their respective successors are chosen and qualified. The chairman and vice-chairman of the Department of Woman's Work shall also be elected by ballot at the annual meeting of the Conference from among the women members of the Board of Trustees and shall in like manner hold office for one year and until their respective successors are chosen and qualified.

2. There shall be a Board of Trustees consisting of twenty-four members (at least one third of whom shall be women) together with the moderator of the Conference ex officio. The trustees in office at the date of the adoption of these by-laws shall serve for the full terms for which they were respectively elected. At the annual meeting of 1928, two trustees to serve for one year, two to serve for two years, two to serve for three years, and two to serve for four years, shall be elected by ballot. At the annual meeting of 1929 and at each annual meeting thereafter six trustees, each to serve for four years, shall be so elected. No trustee after serving a full term of four years shall be eligible for re-election until after one year. Eight members of the board shall constitute a quorum. At its first meeting after each annual meeting of the Conference the Board shall choose one of its members to serve as chairman for the ensuing year. Except as otherwise provided in the charter of the Conference or in these by-laws, the Board shall administer and dispose of the property of the Conference and shall manage all its business and affairs, and all officers and agents of the Conference shall act under its direction. Without restricting the generality of the foregoing, the Board shall in particular have the following powers: —

(a) To choose a clerk, to appoint its own meetings and form its own rules of business, to appoint sub-committees and to delegate any of its powers to such committees.

(b) To appoint and, at pleasure, remove all agents of the Conference and to define their duties.

(c) To fill any vacancy in any office of the Conference (including vacancies in the membership of the Board) until the vacancy shall be filled at a succeeding meeting of the Conference.

(d) To remove any officer of the Conference (other than members of the Board) who may be guilty of disregard of his duties or of such conduct as shall be seriously prejudicial to the interests of the Conference.

(e) To direct efforts to promote missionary interest and giving among the Congregational churches of the Commonwealth.

(f) To report before the close of each annual meeting on the amount of money needed for the ensuing year from the churches connected with this Conference on a per capita basis of membership to meet such percentages of the expenses of the National Council, the Board of Pastoral Supply and the Massachusetts Federation of Churches as may be allocable to these churches and miscellaneous expenses and ways and means for meeting the need.

3. The terms of all officers, save when chosen to fill vacancies, shall begin at the close of the meeting at which they are elected.

ARTICLE VI

Duties of Officers

1. The moderator, or in his absence, one of the vice-moderators, shall preside over all meetings of the Conference.

2. The president shall be the chief executive officer of the Conference and shall, subject to the direction of the Conference and of its Board of Trustees, have general charge of its missionary and benevolent work and of its other activities. He shall be a member ex officio of all standing committees named in the by-laws with the exception of the nominating committee. He shall be the representative of the Conference and of its Board of Trustees among all the churches (both those financially independent and those aided by the funds of the Conference) and in all denominational and interdenominational gatherings (including meetings of state superintendents) unless representation is otherwise provided. He shall, when requested, assist a pastor or church with fraternal counsel. He shall keep informed as to opportunities for extension work through founding new churches or strengthening old ones and shall recommend to the Conference and to the Board of Trustees measures for meeting such opportunities.

3. The secretary shall keep the records of the Conference and shall assist in its general work under the direction of the president. He shall devote himself, in particular, to the care and oversight of churches financially aided by the Conference and shall perform such other duties as may be assigned to him by the Board of Trustees. He shall have the custody of the records and of all bonds given by the treasurer as hereinafter provided.

He shall furnish copies of the record certified under the seal of the Conference (which shall be in his keeping) to such persons as may be entitled thereto.

4. The recording secretary shall assist the secretary in keeping the records of the Conference and shall take his place at meetings of the Conference in his absence. The Board of Trustees may, in their discretion, appoint a deputy to assist in the keeping of the records under the direction of the recording secretary.

5. The secretary of missionary promotion, with the help and advice of the Committee on Missions and Apportionment hereinafter provided, shall have the duty of advancing the interest of the churches in the work of missions at home and abroad. He shall, under the direction of the president, assist, so far as he may be able, in the general work of the Conference.

6. The project secretary shall be concerned with the assignment of missionary projects, both home and foreign, and shall perform such other duties as may be assigned to her by the Board of Trustees. She shall, under the direction of the president, assist, so far as she may be able, in the general work of the Conference.

7. The secretary of the Department of Woman's Work shall have special charge of promoting missionary interests and all other activities among the women of the Congregational churches of the Commonwealth. She shall, under the direction of the president, assist, so far as she may be able, in the general work of the Conference.

8. The registrar shall collect and publish in connection with the annual Report of the Conference the statistics of ministers and churches and make up the official roll of the ministers and churches in accordance with the usages of the denomination. He shall present to the Conference at its annual meeting a general statistical statement of the progress of religion in the churches for the past calendar year. He shall give suitable notice to the churches of the time and place of each annual meeting, notify officers and committees of their election or appointment and fulfill such other functions as the Conference or the Board of Trustees may from time to time direct.

9. The treasurer shall receive and hold the property of the Conference subject to the direction of the Board of Trustees and shall keep particular accounts of the Conference's funds and of the disposal thereof. He shall, under the direction of the president, assist, so far as he may be able, in the general work of the Conference and shall perform such other duties as may be assigned to him by the Board of Trustees. He shall make a report at each annual meeting of the Conference and shall make such other reports as the Conference or the Board of Trustees may from time to time require. He shall receive all contributions for benevolences sent to him by the churches and by individuals and shall disburse the same in accordance with the instructions of the donors. He shall give such bonds for the faithful performance of his duties as may from time to time be required by the Board of Trustees.

10. The auditor shall cause the accounts of the treasurer to be carefully audited at least once each year and shall make a report at each annual meeting of the Conference. He shall at such times as directed by the Board of Trustees examine the securities in the keeping of the treasurer.

ARTICLE VII

Department of Woman's Work

1. There shall be a Department of Woman's Work of the Conference. The object of this department shall be to enlist the earnest and systematic coöperation of Christian women in the cause of missions, to support the special work committed by the national Home and Foreign Boards of the denomination to this Commonwealth, to help to promote the entire work of the local church and to further in every way possible the cause of Christ. The voting members of this department shall be the women members of the Conference, together with such other women as may be determined by the rules of the department. The women members of the Board of Trustees of the Conference, together with an equal number of members to be elected by the department, shall constitute the Executive Committee of the department. This Executive Committee shall organize the membership of the department in whatever manner it may deem needful for the effective carrying on of the department's work.

2. The department shall provide by its rules for the appointment of a nominating committee, which shall propose to the nominating committee of the Conference the names of women members of the Board of Trustees and shall propose to the department the additional members of its executive committees. This nominating committee shall annually propose to the nominating committee of the Conference from among the women members of the Board of Trustees a chairman and a vice-chairman of the department.

Meetings

1. The Conference shall hold its regular annual meeting for the choice of officers, the hearing of reports, the discussion of matters of general interest and the transaction of other business at the appointed place on the third Monday of May at 2 P.M., or at such other time in the month of May as the Board of Trustees may deem expedient.

2. Special meetings of the Conference shall be convened at such times and places as may be determined by the Board of Trustees, provided, however, that notice of any special meeting so convened shall, at least one week before the date of the meeting, be sent by mail to each of the churches connected with the Conference, posted in the general office of the Conference and published in newspapers in Boston, Worcester and Springfield respectively.

3. The moderator or, in his absence, one of the vice-moderators or, in the absence of all of them, some member of the Board of Trustees shall call the Conference to order.

ARTICLE IX

Committees

1. Immediately after the opening of the annual meeting the moderator shall appoint:—

(a) A Committee on Credentials, to which all credentials shall be referred.

(b) A Business Committee, the duty of which shall be to prepare and present at each session all matters of business not presented through some other committee of the Conference.

2. The following standing committees shall be elected by viva voce vote:

(a) A Program Committee, of which the registrar of the Conference and the pastor of the church which is to entertain the next annual meeting shall be members ex officio. At the annual meeting of 1928, two members of this committee shall be elected to serve for one year, two to serve for two years and two to serve for three years. At each annual meeting thereafter two members shall be elected to serve for three years. This committee shall prepare the program for the next annual meeting and shall select the preacher of the annual sermon and the various speakers at each session.

(b) A Nominating Committee of seven, consisting of the retiring moderator of each annual meeting together with six other members, at least two of whom shall be women. This committee shall make all nominations required by these by-laws or by vote of the Conference. At the annual meeting of 1928, three members shall be elected to serve for one year and three to serve for two years. At each annual meeting thereafter three members shall be elected to serve for two years. The retiring members shall not be eligible for re-election for at least one year. The names of women proposed as provided in Article VII by the nominating committee of the Department of Woman's Work as candidates for election to the Board of Trustees and as chairman and vice-chairman of the department shall, if approved by the nominating committee of the Conference, be included in its report to the Conference.

(c) A Committee on Missions and Apportionment of which the members of the Committee on Missions and Apportionment of the Massachusetts Congregational Conference as heretofore constituted shall be members for the terms for which they were respectively chosen. At the annual meeting of 1928 the Conference shall elect from the Board of Trustees one member to serve for one year and from the churches at large two members to serve for three years. At the annual meeting of 1929 the Conference shall elect from the Board of Trustees two members to serve for one year and from the churches at large two members to serve for three years. At each annual meeting thereafter the Conference shall elect from the Board of Trustees three members to serve for one year and from the churches at large two members to serve for three years. The Committee shall represent the Conference in its relations with the national Commission on Missions, particularly in the following respects:

(i) In bringing before the Conference the amount proposed by the Commission on Missions as the total objective under the apportionment plan with a recommendation as to the fair share to be assumed by the Massachusetts churches.

(ii) In approving percentages for the distribution of Massachusetts contributions among the national societies and for work within the state.

(iii) In subdividing the total amounts recommended by the Massachusetts State Conference to be raised for the designated purposes and referring the amounts to the local associations and the individual churches for their acceptance.

(d) A committee on Religious Education, of which the members of the Committee on Religious Education of the Massachusetts Congregational Conference as heretofore constituted shall be members for the terms for which they were respectively chosen, together with such members of the executive staff of the Massachusetts Congregational Conference, not to exceed three members, as are related to educational activities, and as may be designated as ex officio members. At each annual meeting four members shall be elected to serve for three years. The duty of the committee shall be to foster in all the churches religious education, including education in matters concerning missions. This committee (or such other committee as the Conference may designate) shall supervise the State Committee of Congregational Young People (provision for which was made by vote of the Massachusetts Congregational Conference in 1927 and which shall be continued as contemplated by that vote until otherwise determined) such supervision to be exercised in the following ways:—

(i) The character and representative basis of membership of the State Committee of Congregational Young People to be subject to the approval of the supervising committee of the Conference;

(ii) Two members of the supervising committee of the Conference to serve ex officio as members of the State Committee of Congregational Young People;

(iii) Any action taken by the State Committee of Congregational Young People to be subject to the review and approval of the supervising committee of the Conference, which committee shall be authorized to pay out of the amount voted to it by the Conference such a sum as it may deem advisable toward the necessary expenses of the State Committee of Congregational Young People.

3. Such other committees as the Conference may vote to constitute shall be elected by viva voce vote at each annual meeting for such terms as the Conference shall determine. The Board of Trustees shall present at each annual meeting a list of the committees the appointment of which it recommends.

4. It shall be the general practice of the Conference, without making it an arbitrary rule, that at least one-third of its Committee members be women.

5. The reports of all committees that are to be presented to the Conference shall be furnished to the registrar on or before April 1 of each year, and shall be printed and distributed to the churches not less than two weeks before the annual meeting. These reports shall not be read to the Conference save by special order, but the Program Committee may arrange for the adequate discussion of any or all of the topics presented in the reports.

ARTICLE X

Board of Ministerial Aid

2. Either of Articles II, III and IV may be amended by a two-thirds vote, but only after the proposed amendment has been submitted to the Conference in writing at the previous annual meeting and notice has been sent to the several churches connected with the Conference at least three months prior to the meeting at which action is to be taken.
